

DR. A. A. HOLTZ IS Y. M. HEAD

WAS CHAPLAIN IN ARMY WITH RANK OF CAPTAIN

SUCCEEDS WILLIS McLEAN

P. M. Roote Will Have Charge of The
Y. Building—Office Will Be
In Room off Old
Anderson Chapel

The new Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Dr. A. A. Holtz, arrived August 26 and has begun active work. Doctor Holtz has been for two years chaplain in the army with the rank of captain. Before coming here he was stationed at the base hospital at Camp Custer, Michigan. Previous to entering the army he had been engaged in Sunday

Dr. A. A. Holtz

School and church work in Wisconsin. Doctor Holtz is a graduate of Colgate and took his doctorate at the University of Chicago. While in college he took special interest in athletics, especially track and baseball.

Succeeds Willis McLean

Doctor Holtz succeeds Willis McLean who has been here for many years. Secretary McLean resigned in May 1918 to go over seas for Y. M. C. A. work among the Portuguese troops on the Western Front. Mr. McLean returned in July and is now resting on an orange ranch at Carcarteria, Calif.

Doctor Holtz will have an office in the small room off the northwest corner of the old chapel in Anderson Hall. This will make it easier to get into touch with him during the school day. He is a man's man, well trained and experienced, ambitious and willing. If the college men will get into the work with him this year will mark a big improvement in the work for men in the college.

P. M. Roote To Help

The Y. building will be in charge of Mr. P. M. Roote, a junior in college. Mr. Roote has had experience in taking charge of Y. buildings before coming here. This will insure proper management of the Y. building and at the same time leave Doctor Holtz free to attend to his duties as secretary. This new arrangement is altogether the most satisfactory the college has ever had.

Holtz Is Young Man

Captain Holtz is a through student, very careful worker, and a man with a generous outlook as is shown by his ability in leading young people and developing them in religious effectiveness. He is a man of strong athletic interests; was a member of the football team and track squads at Colgate, receiving a "C." He was a participant in college oratory and debate contests, winning first prize in debate in his senior year. Captain Holtz is a comparatively young man. He comes to this field in the prime of life and with a determination to serve. He was a live wire in college and has made good directing large and worthy undertakings. Beyond doubt he will have the hearty cooperation of college authorities, the student body, organizations interested in the welfare and progress of the college and the state.

COLLEGE OFFERS CHEAP ROOMS AND BOARD NOW

Old S. A. T. C. Barracks and Mess
Hall Utilized for School

The high cost of living problem of the young man of small means who desires to attend college has been met by the college authorities. The utilization of the army barracks and mess equipment left idle upon the discharge of the S. A. T. C. last fall has enabled the college to offer board and lodging for approximately $30 a month, the exact rate depending upon the cost of provisions from week to week. No profit is made by the college. During summer school, board cost $6 a week at the mess. A cot and space in one of the barracks was rented for $1 a week, the student furnished his own bed clothing. The same amount will be charged for lodging facilities next fall.

The barracks are conveniently situated for men who work in the engineering shops. Several hundred students annually take the work offered in auto mechanics, blacksmithing, carpentry, foundry work, tractor operation and machine work, spending 40 hours a week in their respective shops. Each of the courses is 8 weeks in length. Students are permitted to begin the work on the first of every month in the year except July and August. A study hall conveniently situated is provided by the college to all students.

Oh Boys, Get Your Ice Cream Sodas on the College Campus

Under the new regime of the community center for students plan, thirsty and hungry students will not be compelled to run half a mile for an ice cream soda or cherry phosphate, for canteen service left over from the S. A. T. C. will be continued.

All this is a part of President Jardine's plan to keep the students on the campus where they belong between class hours, or during chapel periods, and at noon. The canteen will be run by Elmer Kittell just as it was during the S. A. T. C., and the barber shop will be run by Joe Cooper, as it was formerly.

These men will pay for their concessions, and the money will be used for the welfare of the students. Heretofore, the students have grumbled because they had to go so far for little things they wanted, so the canteen and barber shop will fill a long felt want.

ENROLLMENT IS IN PROGRESS IN NICHOLS GYMNASIUM NOW

Large Number of Students Expected
Here this year

Enrollment for the first semester in the college started early yesterday morning in Nichols gymnasium. While no definite information will be given concerning the number of persons expected in school this year, prospects are that the enrollment will be large. With many of the older students returned from the army and navy and with many new students coming, it is a certainty that K. S. A. C. will have a large number of students this year. Miss Jessie M. Machir, registrar, has sent out 425 permits to persons who will be in K. S. A. C. this year. Miss Machir stated that this was a larger number than had ever been sent out before.

PROFESSOR BROWN TO TEACH IN KANSAS CITY

Has Been In Music Department For Twenty-One Years

Professor R. H. Brown has resigned his position as associate professor of music at the college, his resignation to take effect at once. He goes to Kansas City, Mo. to be director of Instrumental Music in the Kansas City high schools.

Mr. Brown has made his home in Manhattan for approximately twenty-five years and has been connected with the music department of the Kansas State Agricultural College for twenty-one years. He received his degree of B. M. from the Kansas Conservatory of Music in 1893, and degree of Bachelor of Science at K. S. A. C. in '98. Mr. Brown was associate professor of music from 1900 until the time of his resignation. Mr. Brown has also had charge of the college band for several years.

JARDINE LOOKS FOR BIG YEAR

COLLEGE PRESIDENT PERSONALLY WELCOMES STUDENTS

GREET'S ALL STUDENTS

College President Has Been Present
At Opening of K. S. A. C. For Past Fifteen Years—
Ready To Work

William M. Jardine, who has been present at the opening of school for the past fifteen years as instructor, professor, dean and now as president, says that the future has never held out greater promise to young men and young women who are educated to cope with the problems of the world.

In a personal welcome to the students of the Kansas State Agricultural College, President Jardine says:

"The opening of college is always looked forward to by students and faculty alike as one of the most pleasant occasions of the year. I can remember that when I was a student, for weeks in advance I would look forward eagerly to the time when I could rejoin my friends and classmates. For fifteen years now, I have been present at the opening of college as instructor, professor, dean and president, and now as president I experience the same thrill and eager anticipation that I did fifteen years ago.

"This year, even more than before, we should feel especially happy, because conditions were never more auspicious. The war is in the background instead of the foreground. We can plan for the future without thought of interruption.

Future Is Full of Promise

"The future never held out greater promise to young men and young women who are educated to cope with the problems of the world. The opportunities for college men and women never were brighter than now. It therefore gives me an unusual pleasure to welcome both the old and the new students. I hope that you feel as glad and as happy as I do over your presence here. We can build up an esprit de corps which will carry us through the year. The faculty is committed as never before to a program which will aid you in getting better acquainted as men to men and women to women—outside the classroom as well as inside. I ask you to go farther than you ever have before towards accomplishing this end: Try to develop this feeling while pursuing your serious work.

"The opportunities for real work are within your grasp from all angles. All things being equal, naturally he who works the hardest will gain the most. Work must, however, be directed intelligently and planned systematically. We must discipline ourselves to think logically and thoroughly.

Must Have Definite Program

"The real value of college work lies in the training which it gives you, in following a definite program and completing a definite piece of work, of working accurately and thoroughly, dynamically and not laggardly. Remember, too, that it is not the number of jobs nor the pieces of work you do or undertake to do which count for the most, either. The number of jobs or pieces of work which you complete with thoroughness are what count. Another factor which enters into your work is relationship. Information collected fragmentarily without thought of proper correlation will confuse the possessor.

Make Friends Outside of Class.

"Moreover, in getting information remember that it is not limited to the classroom. It is to be found everywhere—on the campus and among your associates, among the faculty and among the student body. Some of the most valuable information which you can obtain if you will go about it properly, will be outside the classroom. You might spend four years in college and go away without having really known a single professor or having made any lasting friendships. Some students find themselves in this state at the completion of their course.

"It is impossible to develop these friendships in the classroom but if we will exert ourselves a little more than we have in the past, it can be done outside the classrooms, as by spending an hour once a week in attending the student assembly, taking part in athletics, in debate, in the festival numbers and in the other activities which do so much towards rounding out an otherwise monotonous routine of work. While it may seem to some that this is not getting an education, yet it is of the greatest value to you in making friends, in acquiring poise, and in developing a broad, open mind, all of which are indispensable to a well trained and successful man or woman. We as a faculty are committed this year more than ever before to a program which will encourage and inspire a better understanding between students and faculty as men to men and women to women.

Athletics on The Boom

"As to our athletics, perhaps you know that other institutions have been trying to take Professor Clevenger away from us. However, we are not playing second fiddle to any one. We have a good coaching staff, in fact the best, so we are ready to go! We want 100 per cent support from the student body and do not want you to be satisfied with anything less than 100 per cent. We will need financial support, too. We also want some good yells, good songs, and plenty of rooting. In this connection, we always want to remember that we must conduct ourselves as true sportsmen that we may not bring any criticism to the institution. I am not afraid of this however,—I know too well the high standards that Kansas Aggies have always maintained.

"In other fields than athletics, you will find splendid prospects this year. In debate, oratory, dramatics, music, and other activities, the college looks forward to great success.

"Strong members of the faculty, absent during the war, have returned. Dean Holton, Professor Call, Professor Searson, Doctor Emerson, Doctor Hogan, and others are back.

"In charge of the Young Men's Christian association, we have Doctor Holtz, a fine red-blooded man just returned from service in the United States army.

Repairing Anderson Hall

"You will notice that the old chapel, in Anderson Hall, has been built over, and will be used as a community center for the college until a building for this purpose is obtained. Wholesome entertainment, worth-while association between faculty and students, are to be emphasized this year.

"I hope that students will feel free always to consult members of the faculty about their problems. I am ready at all times to talk with any student on any matter, and I hope you will come in and talk with me. Other members of the faculty, I know, feel the same way. The college wants to help you in any way it can.

"Every college year ought to be better than the preceding one. I hope this year will be the best that we have ever had. It will be, if you will all cooperate to make it the best."

OLD COLLEGE BUILDING IS BEING REMODELED AGAIN

History could scarcely tell of the many things that have happened in Anderson Hall. But the structure now is not the same as it was many years ago when it was built. Just now more additions are being put to this historic place. A social center room is being fitted up in Anderson Hall, where students may gather to chat, read, rest or hold committee meetings. The room will be furnished with easy chairs, study tables, and comfortable davenport where weary ones may rest. In the rear of this room, office rooms for the dean of women and the Y. M. C. A. secretary will be fitted up. In the basement will be practice rooms for music students.

A barber shop and a refreshment parlor also will be installed.

Rush Week In Progress.

All the college sororities and fraternities are busy this week, rush week. While most of the organizations will not take in as many new members this year as they have on former occasions, yet all the sorority and fraternity members are busy entertaining the rushees.

Robert Burns, former student of the college and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, is in town for a short visit. He is now a traveling salesman for a Kansas City firm.

SIX OF NINE GAMES TO BE PLAYED HERE

FIFTEEN LETTER MEN RETURN TO START THE SEASON

START TRAINING SOON

First Game of Season Will Be Played
With Baker on the Aggie Field
September 27—Meet K. U.
on October 11

Six of the nine scheduled games for the coming football season will be played on the Aggie grounds. This arrangement, which is one of the best ever made for the Aggie Terriers, should mean the heaviest sale of season tickets that the college has had in its history.

Fifteen Letter Men Back

It is expected that fifteen letter men will be back to try for the team this fall. Some of them have not been here for two years while others were on the S. A. T. C. team last fall. Placek and Fairman, two big back-field men, have been in the navy. The former is either a halfback or fullback while the latter plays full. Each will tip the scales at the 180-pound mark.

Enlow, who played end two years ago and who has been in the aviation service, will be out for his old position. Hinds, the speedy halfback, will be out streaking across the field for many long runs. Hinds is a champion forward on the basketball team and is also captain of the basketball team for the coming season. He was in an officers' training camp last fall.

Carl Rhoda, the big Missouri Valley guard, said to be one of the best in the country, has returned from France and will be tearing up the lines for the Aggies again this fall. Ginery, a tackle on the 1916 team and who has been in the army for the past two years, will again don the mole-skins to fight for the Wildcats.

Ike Gatz, captain of the 1918 S. A. T. C. team, will again be found at his position of guard. He is a most powerful man, weighing well over two hundred pounds. He will undoubtedly be one of the mainstays of the team this year. With Roda and Gatz playing this fall, no team in the valley will have a better pair of guards than the Aggies. These two men will make the middle of the line impregnable.

Bogue Is the Captain

Captain Bogue is a fighter for all he is worth, and from his position at end the opposing plays will be smashed hard and fast before they are under way. Bogue will make an excellent leader for he is full of pep and fight. Randels, a brother of the famous "Stiff" Randels, gives promise of being as great, if not a greater, player than his brother. He did some mighty fine work on the team last fall and will certainly be heard from this year.

Winter is a powerful man who will give an excellent account of himself this year. This makes four letter men back for the end positions: Captain Bogue, Enlow, Randels and Winter. Magrath, captain of the baseball team for next spring, is a line man who will be fighting for a place on the varsity this year.

Huston Is Some Kicker

In Huston the Wildcats have the best kicker in the Missouri Valley. The football fans will never forget that famous drop kick of fifty-two yards against the fast Ames team last November. His toe will prove a powerful factor for the Aggies. Burton, the speedy quarter, who is a faithful and hard worker, will again be found at his old goal driving the Aggie Terriers towards the enemy goal. Gallagher and Hixon, two speedy halves of last fall, will cause the opponents much trouble in all the games. The fleet-footed Gallagher will be one of the best halfbacks in the Missouri Valley this season.

Other Men Returning

In addition to these fifteen letter men other good football players are returning. Hoffines, a two hundred pound man who played on the Fort Riley team last fall; Wise, another two hundred pounder who was here two years ago; Vermette, who gave promise of a star lineman; Murphy, who played center one game last season before going to an officer's training camp; Johnson, who was on the squad last season; Billings, the big shot putter and a halfback in football; Meeker, who was on the freshman team two years ago; Jelden, a big man from the Kansas Veterinary College. All these men are good and will be trying for positions on the varsity. W. Cowell is a good quarterback and E. R. Cowell, the husky basketball guard on the championship team this past winter, will be one of the best backs of the season. Steiner, a big husky freshman of last season, will undoubtedly use his 185 pounds to a good advantage in making the other half backs work to hold their positions. He is a mighty strong man and hits hard and low all the time. Marshall and Sears are two more promising backs from last season. Bunker, Novak, Meeker and others will make strong charges for the line berth.

Aggie Coaches Ready For Work

With more than thirty men, fifteen of them letter men, the Aggie Coaches, Clevenger and Schulz, will have a good squad of players to start the season off in good style. It is a certainty that there will be a sufficient number of substitutes, men who can step right in without weakening the team materially in any way. There will be both heavy and fast light men for the back field jobs. There will be sufficient weight on the line. The hardest places to fill will be the tackle positions but with a number of good heavy men on the squad, the tackles will be developed all right.

In School This Week

Nearly all these men will be in school this week and will begin training immediately. The coaches, by Missouri Valley rulings, can not go on the field until the fifteenth of September. This is effective in all schools in the Valley. So the Aggies will have to work alone until that date. But the men will be out conditioning themselves for the regular hard grid that will start in earnest on the fifteenth.

First Game September 27

The first game of the season comes on the 27th of September with the strong Baker University team. Baker claims to have fifteen letter men back and press notices state that she will have one of the best teams in the history of that institution. There are nine games on the schedule, three away and six at home. The fans will have an excellent opportunity to see the team in action most of the season. It is hoped that the sale of season tickets will be the heaviest in the history of K. S. A. C.

The schedule is as follows:

- Sept. 27 Baker at Manhattan.
- Oct. 4 Army at Manhattan.
- Oct. 11 Missouri University at Manhattan.
- Oct. 18 Washington University at St. Louis.
- Oct. 25 Hays Normal at Manhattan.
- Nov. 1 University of Kansas at Lawrence.
- Nov. 8 Haskell Indians at Manhattan.
- Nov. 15 Ames at Ames.
- Nov. 22 University of Oklahoma at Manhattan.

The Kansas State Collegian, the students' own newspaper, can now boast of being an all home printed paper. Previous to this year the Collegian has been printed at one of the down town offices but this year it is being printed in the college printing department. This makes it an all college publication. Every student attending school at K. S. A. C. should be a subscriber to the Collegian.

Professor Grimes was seriously ill on occasions during the summer.

Remember the old college tradition and do not smoke on the campus.

Even tho Manhattan water does look like iced tea, experts say that the iron and other chemicals contained in the fluid are quite healthy.

Press notices make much over the fact that Jess Willard is importing Japanese labor to run his farm—well, Jess has nothing on the Chi Omegas.

PICK OUT YOUR JOB

In a small college, there are not very many student activities, and every student tries to take part in nearly all of them. In a college as big as this, however, there are scores of organized activities, and there is no student with time and energy enough to take part in them all. It is up to the student himself to pick out the ones in which he is interested.

Now is the time for him to pick them out. The student who starts now in athletics, in debate, in music, in dramatics, or in any other activity, has a big lead over the man or woman who waits four or five weeks and then says, "Well, I guess I'll take this thing up."

Besides, starting now strengthens the organizations. They know whom they can depend upon. They know what support—real, active support—they are going to have.

Every freshman—and for that matter every upper classman—should look over the field and then decide promptly what activities will interest him most. He ought not to pick out too many—just enough to occupy the time and energy that he can put upon them. If he chooses the right ones for him and then makes them his job—as much as if he were paid in cash for them—he is sure to make good in them.

NOW USE IT!

Now that the old chapel in Anderson Hall has been converted into a comfortable rest room and social center, let's all use it. For some time the college authorities have realized the need of such a social meeting place, but this is the first definite action ever taken.

The main auditorium of what was the old chapel is now the large social room while offices to the side are for the Y. W. and Y. M. secretaries. Below the main room is the large basement where games will be played. Every Aggie student should show his appreciation of this improvement by taking advantage of what it offers—that's why it is there.

MILLION VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

To bring into action the most thorough organization possible for its forthcoming campaign for members and funds, the American Red Cross has issued a call for one million volunteer workers to participate in the third Red Cross roll call, which will be held November 2 to 11. This will give Aggie students an excellent chance to prove their loyalty for merely because the war is over does not mean that the work of the Red Cross is completed.

In this campaign, by which it is expected to begin the big peace-time activities of the organization with as nearly universal membership as possible and to raise $15,000,000 with which to fulfill the relief obligations of the American Red Cross at home and abroad, efforts will be made to organize every college, town, city and community that can be reached. When the time comes, Aggies, let's do our share.

Prof. F. F. Frazier erected a new home this summer.

Professor Stratton spent the summer working on his new home which is almost completed now.

RURAL MINISTERS LEARN MODERN FARM METHODS

Agricultural College Experts Lectured at Pastor's School.

Convinced that the country preachers should have a general knowledge of scientific farming, the governing board of Baker university made arrangements for the agricultural college to lend members of the faculty to the Baker summer school for rural pastors at Baldwin, July 28 to August 16. Eighty members from the rural districts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska attended the school.

F. D. Farrell, dean of the agricultural division; Walter Burr, director of rural service; R. W. Kiser, specialist in horticulture; H. J. Bower, specialist in soils, and W. E. Peterson, specialist in dairy husbandry, lectured on various agricultural subjects, while women specialists of the college gave demonstrations of modern household methods. Dean Helen B. Thompson of the home economics department, Miss Gertrude Lynn and Miss L. Lane co-operated in the work.

Get a New Catalogue.

The catalogue of the Kansas State Agricultural College, shows that the institution is still offering practical, scientific training to high school graduates who wish to qualify themselves for the best and most patriotic service in agriculture, engineering, home economics, or applied science. Institutions in its class are now recognized as performing a great national service in training the brains and hands upon which we depend in war, and in rebuilding and extending the industries of this and other countries. A request addressed to The Vice President, K. S. A. C., Manhattan, Kansas, will bring a copy of the catalogue.

W. M. Jardine, president, spent his summer vacation in Estes Park.

Miss Bertha Anderson, graduate with the class of 1918, is now teaching home economics in the high school at Sioux Rapids, Iowa.

COLLEGE BOYS SEEK JOBS TO HELP PAY EXPENSES

Nearly thirty per cent of the boys who have started to college this year are doing some kind of work to help pay their expenses. This is an untold many have just returned from the army or navy and want work in usually large number, the reason being order that they may return to college at once.

The Y. M. C. A. office has been busy placing boys in different positions. Another difficult job for the Y. M. is finding a sufficient number of rooms to house the boys. The enrollment this year will undoubtedly pass all records of previous years and so many more rooms are needed.

K. S. A. C. MAN WILL BE COACH OF ATHLETICS IN HIGH SCHOOL

George Foltz, graduate of K. S. A. C. with the class of 1919, has accepted a position as athletic coach in the high school at Pittsfield, Ill. Mr. Foltz, who has been visiting with his parents at Galveston, Tex., since the close of summer school, is spending a few days with Manhattan friends this week.

Throughout his college course, Mr. Foltz was prominent in athletics at the college, and was a basketball star last year. He was prominent in track and all other forms of college athletics.

K. S. A. C. MAN CONDUCTS A MILK MARKETING SURVEY

The marketing of milk in Topeka, Wichita, Emporia, Salina, Concordia and Dodge City is the subject of a survey projected by F. L. Thomsen, of the department of agricultural economics. Mr. Thomsen has begun an extensive personal investigation among dairies in these cities. Questionnaires covering important phases of the work also will be sent out.

The survey will cover several problems of the dairy business never before attempted in Kansas. Mr. Thomsen was associated for more than a year with the dairy industry of Wisconsin, where greater progress has been made in the business than elsewhere in the country. His graduate work at the University of Wisconsin concerned itself with marketing and co-operation.

Among the more important questions that will be taken up in the survey will be the relation existing between the producers, distributor, and consumer of milk; the economic efficiency of the delivery system; prices; alternative markets and adequacy of supply and demand. The feasibility of co-operation or other untried methods of delivery and the influence of the wholesale milk business also will receive attention.

Conserve Your Sight

Immediate and careful attention should be given to the first indication of eye trouble. You are fortunate if you have found it unnecessary to wear glasses, but indeed unfortunate if you have neglected to do so when it is really urgent. By correcting a slight error in your sight today you will save a multitude of troubles later on in life.

IRENE DEAN IS NEW Y. W. C. A. SECRETARY

TAUGHT IN HIGH SCHOOLS FOR PAST FIVE YEARS

Miss Dean Attended Y. W. C. A. Training School in New York City
—Washburn Graduate

Miss Irene Dean, new secretary for the Young Women's Christian Association here, is peculiarly qualified for the work which she has started. Miss Dean, who is a Kansas girl, graduated with honors from Washburn college and since then has taught in different high schools in the state.

Last year, which was her fifth year in teaching, Miss Dean was located at Abilene. She has been most successful with girls in her teaching experience. At Abilene Miss Dean was instructor in foreign languages, mainly Latin.

Here at the college, Miss Dean has taken up the work which was started by Miss Mildred Inskeep and it is certain that she will carry it thru successfully. She attended the Y. W. C. A. conference at Hollister this summer so many of the K. S. A. C. girls have already had an opportunity of meeting her. Since the conference at Hollister, Miss Dean has been in attendance at the Y. W. C. A. training school in New York City.

At present the office for the Y. W. C. A. secretary is located in the Home Economics building but later it will be moved to Anderson Hall. There Miss Dean will have charge of all the games and other activities in connection with the girls of the college.

THE Y. W. GIRLS WISH YOU TO KNOW

That there will be an all-girls' party at the gymnasium Thursday evening, beginning at eight o'clock. The "girls' carnival" is given in honor of the new girl students in the college. Remember the time, place, and reason.

That everybody who does not subscribe for the Collegian will not be given a tag.

That there will be a vesper service in the rest room in the Domestic Science building at four o'clock Thursday afternoon.

That all girls should get their church class enrollment slips.

FIVE DAY TOUR OF KANSAS ORCHARDS BY K. S. A. C. MEN

Visited Orchards in All Parts of the State

The important orchard districts of the state were visited in a five day tour which was made under the auspices of the Kansas State Agricultural College. The inspection started on Monday, September 1 and was completed on September 5. Leading orchard men and agricultural experts of the west were members of the party and took part in the informal programs which were given at the orchards visited.

H. J. Waters, former president of the college, F. D. Farrell, dean of agriculture and H. Umberger, dean of the college extension division, in addition to forty or fifty orchard men made the trip. The affair was in charge of E. G. Kelly, extension specialist.

In regard to the trip Mr. Kelly said, "The purpose of the trip was primarily to learn from the experienced and practical orchard men what practices are best suited in the state. Few people realize that the greatest wheat sale is coming to the front in the production of fruit. In the last year of which we have any record, 1917, the state's crop brought $2,000,000. The secondary purpose of the trip was to advertise the possibilities in the state for fruit raising."

The assembly points for the five days were Newton on September 1; Wichita, September 2; Ottawa, September 3; Lawrence, September 4; and Atchison September 5. Forty orchards were visited and the schedule in detail was carried out as follows:

Monday September 1-- Assembly at Newton; visited the Owen, Stanley, Granfield, Hoover, Hanson, Smith and McComis orchards.

Tuesday September 2--Assembled at Wichita; visited Blood, Alters Smith, Glover, Bishopp, Young, Monerief, and Dixon orchards.

Wednesday September 3--Assembled at Wichita; visited the Biederman, Seymour, Pyle, Clark, Killarney, Jackson, Baker and the County Farm orchards.

Thursday, September 4--Assembled at Lawrence; visited Frelenmuth, Leak, Baxter, and Young orchards. son, and Young orchards.

Friday September 5--Assembled at Atchison; visited Wakeman, Groh, McClelland and Kinkaid orchards.

SUMMER SCHOOL WAS NOT SO LARGELY ATTENDED THIS YEAR

Only 413 Persons Were Enrolled in Summer Work

The summer session of the Kansas State Agricultural College ended

Friday, August 8. The attendance this year was lighter than last, the enrolment totalling 413 persons as compared with 500 in the 1918 summer term. As is usually the case, there were more women than men, the figures this year being 255 against 158 men.

It is estimated that about one-half of those who took summer work at the college are regular students and took the summer course in order to make up for studies that they missed during the regular year. It is peculiar that the summer session enrolment should have been so small this year, as the enrolment for the regular term this year is expected to be the largest in the history of the school.

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN STARTED EARLY MONDAY MORNING

Y. W. C. A. Will Have Tag Day for the Collegian Next Friday —Costs Only
$2.00

The Y. W. C. A. opened the subscription campaign for the Collegian Monday morning with the beginning of registration. Two girls sold the subscriptions at a desk at the north entrance of the gymnasium where all of the students passing in leaving the building.

Friday the Y. W. C. A. girls, under the direction of Miss Marcia Seeber, chairman of the finance committee, will give every person on the hill a chance to subscribe for the Collegian. Miss Seeber has made each of the dozen girls on her committee a captain over ten other girls to expedite the drive. The girls will designate each of the Collegian subscribers with a tag.

The Collegian is to be printed on white paper this year, and in the College print shop. The cost of the publishing of the paper has increased, due to the prevailing higher prices of printing materials, and especially the white book paper, still the paper is being offered at the same old price of $2.00.

The time of publication of the Collegian has been changed a few hours. Last year the paper went to press early in the morning of Tuesdays and Fridays and was distributed at the College postoffice during the first hour of the days mentioned. This year the paper will go to press late in the morning of Tuesdays and Fridays and will be distributed just before the noon hour at the postoffice.

ADD SPECIALISTS TO THE K. S. A. C. TEACHING STAFF

Four New Professors Come to the Kansas Aggies

The teaching staff of the Kansas State Agricultural College has been strengthened by the addition of several new professors.

The division of agriculture this year is taking up various problems of pasture management, a feature of an important Kansas industry heretofore neglected. R. L. Hensel, who comes to the college with the rank of associate professor, has charge of the work. At the present time he is engaged in making an investigation of the native pastures of the state for the purpose of working out a better system of management and more intensive use. He did similar work for six years in Texas and Arizona while connected with the United States Forest service.

Dr. Herman L. Ibsen, a Ph.D. in genetics from the University of Wisconsin, who is said to be one of the best trained young geneticists in America, is doing work in color heredity. He will have charge of the classes in genetics given by the animal husbandry department.

Recognizing the growing importance of economics in the business of farming, the college has strengthened this department of the division of agriculture by adding another man to the teaching staff. F. L. Thompson, recently appointed assistant professor of agricultural economics, took his master's degree from Wisconsin University in the subject this year. He will give special attention to marketing and co-operation.

Dr. William E. Muldoon, who resigned an associate professorship of comparative medicine in the State Veterinary College, Cornell University, to accept a like position at the Kansas State Agricultural College, was discharged from the army with the rank of a captain recently. He was instructor at an army service school in veterinary medicine while in the government service. He has the degree of Master of Science from Cornell.

The chair of pathology in the division of veterinary medicine will be taken by Dr. H. F. Lienhardt. He is said to be one of the best of the laboratorian investigators ever graduated from the University of Pennsylvania where he took his degree of veterinary medicine.

A Freshman's Composition on Pants
Pants are made for men and not for women. Women are made for men and not for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, that is a pair of pants. Such pants don't last. Pants are like molasses—they are thinner in summer and thicker in winter. Men are often mistaken in pants. Such mistakes are called Breeches of Promise. There has been much discussion as to whether pants is singular or plural. Seems to me that when a man wears pants, it is plural and when they don't wear pants it is singular. Men go on a tear in their pants and it is allright. When pants go on a tear it all wrong. If you want to make pants last, make the coat first.

GUINEA PIG COLONY IS NEWEST AGGIE ADDITION

A guinea pig colony is to be added to the department of animal husbandry this fall. Dr. Herman L. Ibsen, who has raised more than 6,000 pigs in his experiments in animal heredity at the Wisconsin university, will have charge of the animals. He is interested in color heredity and has found that guinea pigs adapt themselves most readily to the experiment on account of their prolific and domestic traits.

FILLED WITH NEWS OF WORLD WAR HETOLD OF EXPERIENCES

First Students' Assembly Filled With Pep and Enthusiasm—Allen Received Hearty Applause from Students

Governor Henry J. Allen, in speaking at the first student assembly for the year in the auditorium Wednesday, brought before the K. S. A. C. students the pictures of France as he saw them while working over there.

The first student assembly was filled with pep. The songs, "America," "Alma Mater" and then the college yell started the first chapel off in fine style. W. M. Jardine, president, announced that at noon Wednesday, the registration had passed all previous K. S. A. C. records.

Gov. Henry J. Allen

Governor Allen was received with hearty applause by the students. He said:

"It is a wonderful experience to come here this morning and just look at you. You know when I try to realize that you are all Kansans, I get some spiritual realization of what is in store for this great institution—of the opportunity that it has to operate on you—of the opportunity you have to operate for it.

"I never stand before an audience like this without realizing how glorious it is to be young. How magnificent to have only lived so long. I know of no happier hour than that which begins the school year. It is like hesitating a moment before opening a good book that you anticipate with great pleasure before reading—this opportunity that you will have here within the next few weeks, to find each other out and to know each other.

"I am not going to talk to you very long this morning. It's perfectly cruel for a man to come in and interrupt study. I can't help remembering the last time I was here and talked to you—previous to our entrance into the war. I went overseas early—in 1917. I wish we might reach from that period to this and see if we cannot get more realization of the spiritual value of that period to pour into this period. I am afraid we are becoming too much like we were before we decided to go into the war. The tendency is to think too much of material values and too little of the spiritual uplift which comes in a periodical uplift.

"I wish I could make you see France as it was when I arrived there in 1917.

"The French and British all agreed that we were the most potential nation on earth; they all agreed that we were the richest nation on earth; they all agreed that we made more machinery than any other nation. They thought that—we believed it. They did not think much of our army—they had never seen it; neither had we. We spoke fluently of a million men springing to arms over night the officers of France looked askance at this "springing to arms over night" business. One day I drove all day with a British colonel. We saw numerous fist fights between the Sammies and the Tommies, in which combats the Sammies were invariably victorious. We both refrained from commenting upon these fist fights during the day. Toward evening, after what we saw was the last exhibition of this sort we would see that day—when his friends led Tommy away, and our man was dancing up and down on his little service hat and yelling for him to come back, the British officer remarked "These men of ours ought to get very well acquainted with each other from the way they love each other."

"These victories were due to the youth, enthusiasm and good nature of our men. Their kicking power was the most remarkable thing about them. They kicked more about little things and less about big things than any men I ever knew.

Saw Battle in Flanders.

"I remember the first battle I saw in Flanders. We were in territory where you never got rid of the sound of guns, and I saw my first battalion of American troops as they marched along, toward the sound of the guns,—singing as they went. All of our battalions and all of our regiments didn't sing. It depended upon what kind of a cheer leader they had. You haven't heard the best music until you have heard a singing regiment.

"I didn't come out here to tell you about these soldiers, but I couldn't help telling you of some of the fine incidents that came to my notice.

"When you looked over a crowd at gatherings, you could always see Sammies with French kiddies on their shoulders, or with older French children. After speaking to the 137th Infantry at the French Fourth of July celebration, I followed some of our boys, as they were taking their French girls home. I saw that they were attempting to and really succeeding in translating my speech to these girls, and I decided that "Youth needs no French and English dictionary."

"I never heard a story about an American boy and a French woman that brought discredit. These lads don't talk about themselves. But, a French lady told me coming across on the boat that she and her husband had decided after observing the Americans that French men were more polite to each other than American men, but that American men were more polite to women than French men were.

"While in Alsace, an American Sergeant who spoke Chicago English, brought me a pile of French money and requested me to bring back a lot of trinkets the boys had been forced to pawn on account of a delayed payday, and leave behind them in the town they had just left. I visited 17 places and in every place the shopkeeper refused to take any money for usage. And the universal comment was "They were nice boys. We were sorry to have them go." Remember they were 3500 miles away from home—most of them for the first time in their lives. Not that they were angels—they were not that kind of persons.

"I am glad to be present at this opening assembly of your institution.

Tells of Military Training

"I know it would not be wise to express some of my views on the desirability of universal training. As a result of the war, there is a larger interest manifested by the people than ever before in the physical training of its men. Why shouldn't we get intelligent upon the idea of military training?

"Go to any lad just back from the war, and ask him about the value of military training. He will be heartily in favor of it. Then, ask him about the advisability of staying in the army and then—get out of the way. I asked this question of a lad just back from France who owns a six-cylinder Pierce car, and is a grad-

WILL VOTE ON S. S. G. A. AGAIN

CONSTITUTION TO BE RESUBMITTED TO THE STUDENTS

MANY CHANGES MADE NOW

Students Will Be in a Position to Accept or Reject the New Constitution—May Add New Features to It Also

The constitution for the Student Self-Governing Association is well on its way and will be resubmitted to the student body in the very near future. In spite of reports to the contrary, the Board of Administration did not turn the constitution down.

The Board of Administration gave the proposed constitution its careful consideration. There were a number of features in it which they felt should be modified. After going over the constitution carefully they submitted to President Jardine proposed changes which they felt should be embodied.

President Jardine has given to the constitution, together with the proposed changes, careful study and will, in a few days, get the advice of other persons and then the constitution will be resubmitted to the student body for consideration.

When the Student Council submitted the constitution to the student body last spring they realized that it was then an imperfect constitution, but because of lack of time it seemed important that action by the student body as a whole be taken immediately. With action taken by the Board of Administration and that to be taken soon by the president, the student body will be in a position to accept or reject or modify a fairly well worked out constitution. It is quite likely the students will want to add some new features of the constitution and, perhaps, modify others, before resubmitting it to the faculty for approval.

The matter of developing and finally accepting this constitution must go on slowly and carefully. The constitution is something more than a mere constitution for the student body. It is also, in a way a contract between the student body and the faculty of the college; therefore, both parties to the contract must have an opportunity to go over the instrument carefully.

The members of the Board expressed themselves as being heartily in sympathy with a well directed and sane Self-Governing Association. They felt that the people of the college must realize that a Governing Association is one which really governs and not one which intends to release members of the student body from any control whatever.

The fee system was heartily approved by at least one member of the Board. The amount of the fee he felt should be adjusted each year and the student body should be careful and not make it a financial burden.

The various classes should elect at once their representatives on the Student Council in order that the Student Council may act as a representative body to bring the constitution before the student body. Unless a Student Council is elected the student body, as a whole, has no recognized representative until the student Self-Governing Association has been finally approved by both the student body and the faculty and displaces the Student Council.

The Student Council is made up as follows: one member from the freshman class, two members from the sophomore class, three members from the junior class, and four members from the senior class. It is assumed that all classes above the freshman class will re-elect former members for the Council, because their experience will be so valuable to the conduct of affairs during the coming year.

The classes should report the names of their representatives on the Student Council to Mr. H. L. Kent, who is the faculty representative of the Council; as soon as the membership of the classes is complete he will call a meeting of the Council so that they may organize.

Y. M. PLANS TO WORK WITH THE STUDENTS

Secretary Gives General View of the College Y. M. C. A.

Dr. A. A. Holtz, secretary of the college Y. M. C. A., expresses himself concerning the relationship between the Y. M. and the college students as follows:

"The real way to build an organization is not to build up that organization. A proposition such as this may seem to be composed of contradictory terms, yet when viewed from the large, becomes almost an axiom. When an organization is simply a part of a larger organization, the policy that pays in the end is one which builds up the larger organization first and naturally the smaller organization will thrive as the larger organization grows.

"This is the view point of those who are connected with the Y. For the coming year, the policy of the Y. will be to promote, to co-operate with, and to foster all movements or activities that will help in making K. S. A. C. a better and a more prosperous institution. This coming year the Y. will conserve all its strength and influence to aid all movements which will help to build up college spirit and college loyalty.

"This year the Y. M. C. A. is conducting no study classes or Bible classes but will use its influence in urging the college men with the Bible classes conducted in the local churches. This same policy will hold for all other activities.

"We are here to serve and as the year goes by, people will find that it is not only our intention but will be our activity to be at the service of any and all agencies which are promoting or fostering activities for the expansion of K. S. A. C. or of building up the greater spirit or loyalty on the part of the student body to K. S. A. C. In one sentence our motto is 'Boost K. S. A. C. Now, Then and All the Time.'"

"Oh Where Is My Big Sister", Says The New Student

"Could you tell me where I can find my little sister?" and "Will you tell me if I have a Big Sister?" are the questions which have been asked by most of the girls who have made their way into the Y. W. C. A. office this week.

Sophomore, junior and senior girls are anxious to meet their little sisters and freshman girls who have moved since registration should notify the Y. W. C. A.

"I am going to love college, I like it here," was one freshman girl's announcement when her big sister called for the first time Wednesday evening. Another new girl said, "Oh, I'm so anxious to meet my big sister. I planned to come here last fall and we've been writing ever since."

Boys as well as girls have appreciated the Big Sister idea and during registration, wearers of Big Sister badges found themselves confronted by many boyish questions. With the assistance of landladies over town the Big Sisters have succeeded in finding rooming places for most of the strangers.

The Big Sister Committee is a "Society for the Prevention of Lumps in the Throat" and its special duty is to keep girls from getting homesick. Parties will be held throughout the year for the Big and Little Sisters. The first one, a carnival, was held Thursday evening in the gymnasium.

YEAR TO BE BANNER ONE FOR THE AGGIES

AT NOON FRIDAY 2,119 PERSONS HAD ENROLLED

TO BREAK RECORDS?

Highest Yearly Record Was Made in 1916-17 when 3,340 Students Were Enrolled—May Pass That This Year

At noon Friday the total number of persons enrolled in the different departments in the college was 2,119. More students are still enrolling and it is expected that by the end of the year the figures will reach between 3,400 and 3,500.

Equals Highest Record

Figures kept in the registrar's office show that the enrollment this year is running practically parallel with the 1916-17 figures, the record year in Aggie history. However, it is expected that the number registered this year will even pass the 1916-17 record as more men are being discharged from the army and are returning to school.

During the year 1917-18 the enrollment in K. S. A. C. made a big drop. This was caused by many of the students joining the army and by many others leaving school while conditions were so unsettled. It is surprising to notice, however, that during the year 1918-19 the enrollment reached 2,991. This was an increase of more than five hundred over the previous year. The difference was largely caused by the men who were in the S. A. T. C. and then left after they were discharged.

To be Banner Year

That K. S. A. C. is to have the biggest year it has ever had, is the prediction of the college president, and many others. The highest enrollment ever recorded, the big increase in the faculty, the installation of new courses and improvement of old ones, the excellent prospects for football, baseball, track and other sports and also the excellent spirit being shown by the students, all point to a mighty good year for the college.

Experience Room Shortage

The big enrollment this year has made an increased demand for rooms which can not be supplied. This difficulty is largely being overcome by the Y. M. C. A. which is doing all it can to find suitable rooming places for the students. Anyone who has a room to rent, should notify the Y. M. C. A. and it in turn will notify the students.

Former Enrollment Records

In order to show why it is expected that the enrollment this year will pass the highest number formerly recorded, the following tabulation is given, the year being the one in which the class graduated: 1864, 107; 1865, 113; 1867, 178; 1868, 168; 1869, 170; 1871, 194; 1872, 202; 1873, 217; 1874, 183; 1875, 143; 1876, 232; 1877, 234; 1878, 156; 1879, 207; 1880, 276; 1881, 267; 1882, 312; 1883, 347; 1884, 395; 1885, 401; 1886, 428; 1887, 481; 1888, 472; 1889, 445; 1890, 514; 1891, 593; 1892, 584; 1893, 587; 1894, 555; 1895, 572; 1896, 647; 1897, 734; 1898, 803; 1899, 870; 1900, 1,094; 1901, 1,321; 1902, 1,396; 1903, 1,574; 1904, 1,605; 1905, 1,462; 1906, 1,690; 1907, 1,937; 1908, 2,192; 1909, 2,308; 1910, 2,305; 1911, 2,497; 1912, 2,523; 1913, 2,928; 1914, 3,027; 1915, 3,089; 1916, 3,314; 1917, 3,340; 1918, 2,406; 1919, 2,971.

Pay for Your Own Wedding

Mr. Hill was foreman of a section, and he boarded at a "shack" hotel in a frontier town with three other men who, like himself, found the world a very thickshelled oyster. Each man was "drawing down" wages of just $47.50 a month. Each imagined that he basked in the particular favor of a winsome young woman who waited on the table. The day before Christmas, "Jim" Hill had an inspiration. "Boys, let's give her a present," he said.

They at once agreed. "Will you put in whatever I do?" They cheerfully assented.

He pulled a twenty dollar gold piece from his pocket, and tossed it carelessly on the table, as if he had many more like it. The others whistled in dismay. But he held them to the compact; and one of them said: "But, Jim, I ain't only got but just ten dollars." "Very well," said Jim, inexorably, "hand it over. You can give me your note for the other ten dollars and I'll pay it for you."

So, with wry looks, and heavy sighs, they made a purse of $80—which to any one of the quartet, was a fortune. And the next day, which was Christmas, "Jim" Hill married the girl.

MAY GET ARTILLERY UNIT FOR COLLEGE

MILITARY DEPARTMENT HAS APPLIED TO WASHINGTON FOR IT

Would Require Summer Work in Camp—Course Confined to Upper Classmen While Freshmen Keep on Drilling

The military department of the Kansas State Agricultural College has applied to the War Department at Washington to have a coast artillery unit organized at this college. While Lieut-Colonel Terrel is rather doubtful about the permission being given by the War Department to organize the unit, K. S. A. C. hopes to add this new phase of military training to the present course. As yet only one or two college have adopted and organized a coast artillery unit.

The work of the coast artillery would necessarily be confined mostly to the classroom, with possibly a small amount of field work. Also the course could be taken only by upper classmen, the freshman being required to take the regular military drill as given now.

Three summer encampments at a coast artillery post would be necessary before commissions in the reserve could be granted. The introduction of these branches other than the infantry drill, is a step to prevent universal military training. The theory is that if various branches are attractively offered the training will be taken voluntarily by the men rather than having compulsory training.

BEAT K. U.

Nearly two months will elapse before the game is to be played, but if we beat K. U. it will be done in the weeks between now and then.

The team can't beat K. U. Year after year this has been demonstrated. Football, like war, is fought as much in the hearts of the men and women as at home a sit is on the field or.

A better trained team, more speed, the Farmers been defeated with deadening rity annually for more than a decade. None has blamed the team. You have heard it said that the Jay-hawkers were lucky, but luck breaks oftener than that. The trouble has been in the hearts of our soft folks who do the rah, rahing, and fail to do the honest to goodness moral pushing that lends confidence and always wins a fight.

The K. U. game will be won or lost in the weeks between now and November 1. Let your team, with the best prospects in the Valley, have the share of confidence it deserves and we'll beat K. U. Rah, rah without any meaning and the dull, drab story will be repeated.

Get out in the bleachers these hot afternoons and show the team that you're interested. You don't have to yell—yet. Pass the men a glad word when you meet them on the campus. You can build up an esprit that will beat K. U. The best team in the world couldn't turn the trick without that moral backing.

GET THAT TICKET

Every Aggie student should by this time have a season ticket to the K. S. A. C. football games. Yet the records show that last year the season tickets sold nearly three times as fast as they are going this year. The reason for this can not be determined as last year the football prospects were not nearly as good as they are year.

Sixteen letter men back, with other mighty good material and with six of the nine scheduled games to be played on home grounds, the sale of tickets this year should be the largest that has ever been recorded for K. S. A. C. Every student should turn out and root for the Aggie Wildcats when the time comes but just at present get that season ticket.

ALL COLLEGE MIXER

The main purpose of the all-college mixers, which will be held from three to four times each school year, is to bring a closer relationship and feeling between the faculty, the different college organizations and all other students. This can only be properly done when every man of every department in the college turns out and does his bit towards bringing about that closer relationship, that Aggie spirit which has lasted for years and must be boosted now.

The Committee on Student Affairs is doing everything in its power to keep K. S. A. C. the most democratic school in the west. This college has had that reputation for many years and in order to keep that democracy, it is necessary for all to pull together and not to divide off in separate classes and pull in opposite directions. Let's have every K. S. A. C. man and woman out to the all college mixer on Friday evening, September 13. Let's also have every man and woman attend their respective class meetings, the pep meetings, and all gatherings that help boost K. S. A. C.—always boost for the Aggies always keep that democratic spirit for which this college is noted.

ENGINEERS AND BUSINESS MEN MET IN WASHINGTON

Resolutions for Engineers Adopted at the Meeting

A. A. Potter, dean of the engineering division, attended a meeting of business men and engineers in Washington this summer. The resolutions as adopted by the committee are of special interest to K. S. A. C. engineers.

1. Industrial and commercial development has created a demand for men with technical engineering training and business ability. Manufacturing industries are seeking engineers to qualify to serve in capacities requiring sound business training. Banks and brokers also need men with business training and the engineering point of view. This need is rapidly increasing and bids fair to demand a large number of technically trained men for both domestic and foreign commerce.

2. In order to meet this demand the economic phases of engineering subjects should be emphasized where ever possible in engineering instruction. This may be done by emphasizing the problems of values and costs in the regular technical work and by introducing or extending courses in general economics, cost accounting, business organization and business law into the engineering curricula. These courses should be designed particularly to meet the needs of the engineering students.

3. The engineering phases of economic subjects should be emphasized wherever possible in commercial instruction. Students in commercial courses should also be given opportunity to take special courses in the basic principles and principles of engineering so that they may understand in general terms the operation of power plants and transportation systems from the engineering point of view.

4. It is also urged upon all institutions with departments in engineering and economics or commerce that they consider some plans of coordination to develop the course in preparation for those careers where-in practical training in modern languages, in the essentials of engineering and business theory and practice have been found to be both helpful and necessary.

REPAIRING THE OLD DAIRY BUILDING NOW

Miss Grace Umberger New Person in Medical Office

The old dairy building which is being remodeled and repaired and will be a hospital for the temporary isolation of contagious diseases, will be ready for occupancy soon according to Dr. Seiver, college physician.

Added to this department this year is Miss Grace Umberger graduate nurse, recently of the A. R. C. in France. Miss Umberger graduated from K. S. A. C. in '05 in Home Economics and then went into training in the Illinois Nurses Training school at Chicago. Miss Umberger sailed with the Chicago Base 12 Hospital unit in 1917, which was attendant upon the British forces until February, 1918, when they were transferred to the A. E. F.

The college is fortunate in having two as competent people as Dr. Seiver and Miss Umberger on their medical force.

uate of an institution and who came out of the war a sergeant, and he replied "I'm done with war. There's too much for officers only in this war. I don't want to be an officer."

"Our army system isn't American in its expression—no reflection is intended for the regular army, by this statement. In the field hospitals in France, I saw the Second Division, composed of 27,000 men, put into the gap between the French and British armies and I saw that single division going against 96,000 of the best troops that the Germans had—and they were the only part of the allied line that belled back toward Germany. But there is a wrong situation in America. These lads that come back victorious ought to come back boosting for the army."

"West Point ought to be a finishing school for officers, rather than a school to train boys of a young age. I am in favor of the system of military training in civilian schools such as is had at K. S. A. C."

"With military training in civilian colleges, as good army officers as civil engineers can be produced from such institutions as K. U. or K. S. A. C. Then they can finish at West Point. After a man has taken fundamental training that fits him for the rank of an officer—before the straps are put on his shoulders—he must have been a man in the ranks and have learned the difficulties of a private.

"Then, I wouldn't put him away as an army officer. I'd put him to work in a railroad office, or a shop, or a wireless telegraph station, or a factory, or a warehouse; so that if the hour ever came again to this country, we would have an army staff, equipped for that organization. We don't need a standing army; we do need a great army staff equipped with all the particulars."

"We found out what France and England did—we can make good soldiers out of men in from six to nine months—but not good officers. There is need of a highly intelligent army staff."

"We must build along with mental qualities, a strong physical body—a well educated man is one with a clear and clean mind, his shoulders back, a clear look in the face, and a good physical body, that he may cope with the problems of the day as he faces them."

"I congratulate you on the great opportunity you have to serve the state and I am glad to note added maturity in this new student body. There is in your faces more determined purpose than I have ever seen before in the faces of students at the opening of a college. We are coming out of the suffering with new spiritual powers, which will find expression in the colleges of the land, as we find it here. It will direct in the building of a bigger hearted, bigger bodied citizenship."

K. S. A. C. MAN TO GIVE KANSAS EXHIBIT AGAIN

Sunflower State Is One Victory Ahead of The Cornhuskers

Bruce Wilson, assistant in agronomy will lead Kansas in its fifth contest with Nebraska at the international Farm congress and Soil-Products exposition, to be held this year in convention hall in Kansas City from September 24 to October 4.

Mr. Wilson who is the builder of the Kansas displays, now is one victory ahead of the Cornhusker exhibits. Wilson has won two first places and a tie for this state in the last four years, while Nebraska's record is one victory and a tie for first place. Since Mr. Wilson won his first victory in 1915 at Denver, the Kansas exhibit has ranked high in the "contest of the States." At that time the Cornhusker display was only four points behind the winner. When it is considered that 1,500 points is the basis on which the state, provincial and national exhibits are judged, four points is not a wide margin.

At Top For Three Years

Wilson repeated his victory in 1916 at El Paso with an exhibit which ranked well above the other states. In 1917, however, Nebraska won first place at Peoria, Ill., with Kansas not far behind in second place. For three consecutive years the Kansas display has ranked at the top, altho the Sunflower state was not considered in the awards of 1914, when the exposition was held at Wichita. Taking second place in Nebraska only stirred Wilson and he resolved that there would be considerable competition when the awards were made at Kansas City in 1918.

Altho the board of health clamped down a "flu" ban thirty minutes before the doors of the exposition opened in Kansas City, the awards were made as usual. When the awards were totaled on the national, provincial and state displays, Kansas and

Hard Fight Ahead this Year

This year the Nebraskan and the Kansan will again engage in a battle royal. Arkansas, Colorado, and Illinois have been winners of places in late competitions and so must be considered. Arizona, which won in 1914 and Oregon, victor in 1913, will again enter the exposition as well as will at least twenty-five other states.

Try to Break Monopoly

Three thousand delegates from foreign provinces and nations, agricultural colleges and farmers' associations are expected to attend the exhibit. This year, as before, a trial will be made to break the Kansas-Nebraska monopoly. But Wilson is prepared to put up his usual fine exhibit.

Dr. W. M. Jardine, president of the college and Dr. H. J. Waters, formerly K. S. A. C. president, are past presidents of the congress.

COLLEGE EDUCATION IS BIG BUSINESS ASSET

Pays In Dollars, Service, and Ability to Enjoy Life, Willard Says

How higher education pays was discussed by Dr. J. T. Willard, vice president of the college, in connection with "go to college week," which was declared by Governor Allen's proclamation for the seven days commencing August 17. The temptation offered by high wages for unskilled labor should not affect the determination of the young man or young woman to get a college education, he said.

"College training still pays in dollars and cents just as it pays in greater ability to enjoy life and serve the community," he continued. "But outside the consideration of the comparative earning capacities of the educated and uneducated, there is the fact that greater service can be rendered by the trained than is possible for the untrained. The experiences of the war have shown that graduates from this institution, and others similar in type, have made up the most useful body of men upon which the government could call in its emergency. The men who were thus able to contribute the most to the needs of the government are, for the same reasons, the men who are contributing most to the welfare and the development of the nation's industries.

"You never hear of a man who regrets the years spent in getting an education, but how many have you heard regret their failure to take advantage of an opportunity to go to college? There can be no doubt that it pays in every way."

He Passed Along The Kick That Was Meant for Receiver

Hazing is by no means a one sided affair—one side attacks and the other defends. The spirit of the fight seems to get a good grip on many of the K. S. A. C. students but on none stronger than the president, W. M. Jardine.

President Jardine spent his summer vacation in Estes Park, Colorado. He belonged to the organization called the "First Name Club," the purpose being that each member should call his brother member by his first name. In fact the "First Name Club" was very successful in its purpose for instead of hearing "Mr. Jones," "Doctor So and So," it was "Henry," "Jake," "Bill," etc.

But one day when a few members of the club, including President Jardine, were standing on the road trying to repair their car, the President forgot all about first names (and nearly everybody else) and called one of the fellow members by the last name.

A well aimed kick from the said party almost sent Jardine sprawling on the ground. But that is where the Aggie spirit gripped the President. After recovering from the shock he turned to another man on his right and politely passed the blow down the line. After it was all over, Doctor Jardine happened to remember "First Name Club."

RATS PROVE THAT MANHATTAN WATER IS HEALTHY TO DRINK

And It Works The Same With Humans, E. S. Kents Says

Manhattan's iron tainted water, said to cost the people of the city thousands of dollars annually in soap required to soften it and plumber's bills for labor on water backs, may, after all, be a blessing in disguise. An experiment recently conducted at the college seems to prove that iron in a compound such as that found in Manhattan water, is better suited for the purpose of building up the blood than iron in organic compound. In other words, where iron is required at all, iron as it appears in Manhattan water, seems to be most efficient.

The experiment was conducted with rats. Each rat was subjected to a blood test daily for sixteen weeks. Nine animals were used. They were divided into three groups of three rats each. One group received an organic compound of iron, another an inorganic, and a third no iron at all. Iron, hemoglobin and corpuscle determinations were made on each rat. Care was exercised to keep the food and water free from unknown iron.

The method of bleeding the rats was unique. The animal was placed in a common fruit jar with its tail passed through a hole in the lid. The blood was obtained by snipping off the end of the tail with a pair of shears. This was a daily occurrence for 16 weeks. After each operation

The Passing of Cinderella

THE quaint little childhood tale of the poor kitchen maid is not so far removed from recent reality.

For we all recall the staggering piles of dishes, the dust-strewn floor, the tubs of clothes, the treadmill task at the sewing machines! Yes, Cinderella-like was the housework of yesterday.

And now, the girl of 1920 looks to electricity—most tractable of hand-maidens—as the fairy prince who makes life easier and fuller.

Just a push of the button—and tiny electric motors sweep, wash dishes or clothes; clean, scour and polish; make ice or ice cream, run the sewing machine and play the piano or phonograph.

While the motors do the work, other electric appliances are distributed about the house to make good living more convenient. Electric cooking utensils, hair driers, cigar lighters, burglar alarms, door bells, and furnace regulators, are now operated by the magic wand of electric power.

The development of the miniature motors for the kitchen and electrical devices was made possible by the rapid progress in experience gained by the General Electric Company's Engineers, whose efforts in the application of electricity for every sort of industrial endeavor during the past quarter century have brought freedom from the drudgery of other days.

PARTIES GIVEN FOR NEW AGGIE STUDENTS

Y. W. AND Y. M. HELP THE STUDENTS GET ACQUAINTED

Party for Girls Given in Gymnasium
And One for Boys Given in the Y. M. C. A.
Recreation Hall

In order that the new Aggie students could get acquainted with the older persons in the college, parties were given Thursday evening by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The former entertainment was held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building and the latter was held in Nichols gymnasium.

Y. W. Helps the Girls

Four hundred girls attended the Y. W. C. A. carnival which was held in Nichols gymnasium between eight and ten o'clock Thursday evening.

"Come to the big sisters' carnival,

The band is sure to be there,

The gym is the place, the hour is eight,

The fortune tellers will reveal your fate."

Every girl in the college received this invitation as she left the gym after assigning and the majority of the girls attended. 'Tis rumored among the boys that the fortune teller promised the new comers to K. S. A. C. many wonderful things.

On the interior of the gymnasium nine booths were arranged in a true carnival fashion. Each booth had different name and within each different remarkable wonders were displayed. One booth "The Dutch Wonder," which was the cause of a great deal of laughter, contained a big bowl of sour kraut. In another booth a statue coming to life was shown.

Like all good carnivals there was a nigger baby stand where every one got three free shots at the nigger, red and green balloons were given as prizes to the heavy hitters. Teepees were arranged of corn stalks for the two gypsy fortune tellers who revealed the fate of every girl present. When all the fortunes were told and the booths had lost their attractions the kiddie car races began, the band of horrors turned up and the clowns played their meanest tricks. Ice cold pop was served thruout the evening.

Dean Mary P. VanZile and Miss Irene Dean of the Y. W. C. A., chaperoned the party. Luella Morris was chairman of the social committee. The girls who acted as her helpers were Jimmy Cameron, Helen Colburn, Gladys Flippo, Margaret Hamerly, Florence Reiner, Ardis Atkins, Earnestine Bibby, Irene Hoffhines.

The Y. M. C. A. Party

The Y. M. C. A. party was such a big success that the boys are hoping that the entertainment will be repeated again soon. Social affairs, including games, programs, etc., progressed from 8 until 10 o'clock. President Jardine, Coach Clevenger, Doctor Lamb and others were present with the boys at the gathering. The boys devoured over one hundred watermelons. While they were eating the melons the boys gave a number of Aggie yells to boost the football team.

The main purpose of the entertainment was to get the new boys acquainted and also to start a good enthusiastic spirit towards football. The college Y. M. C. A. will work with and for the students all the time.

The affair was planned by Floyd

Hawkins, newly elected president of the association. Mr. Hawkins was president of the Y. M. C. A. two years ago but has been absent from the college since then, serving in the army overseas.

Miss Mabel Leffler from the University of Ohio, will take the place formerly held by Miss Patricia Abernethy, instructor in piano.

Miss Helen Hennen will instruct in violin and stringed instruments. She will also have charge of the high school orchestra.

Mr. Lovejoy, who was a student of voice under Mr. Westbrook, will take Mr. Johnston's place. Miss Bess Curry will assist in piano and voice. Miss Hughes will teach public school music. She is a supervisor of music in the Manhattan schools. The other faculty members in the music department are unchanged. A. E. Westbrook is head of the department which has grown wonderfully under his direction. IT'S A SMILING SET IN NICHOLS

CLEVENGER AND SCHULTZ ARE FEELING CONFIDENT.

LIGHT PRACTICE STARTED

Good Prospects also for Baseball, Track and Basketball—Physical Training Will Help Athletics

All Aggies who want to see two of the broadest smiles on the Hill just step into the coaches' office and take a look at coach Clevenger and "Yankee" Schultz.

"Did you ever see such big men, Clev," says "Yankee" and then they both smile and smile some more.

Captain Bogue is smiling too. The hustling Aggie leader has over thirty men out now and hopes to turn over a squad of at least fifty when the coaches appear on the field Monday. Captain Bogue is after every eligible man that has ever donned the mole-skins for K. S. A. C.

Only once did the smiles diminish. That was when "Ding" Burton withdrew from school in order to attend Northwestern University. "Ding" was the snappy quarter-back on last season's eleven and it was hoped he would be calling signals this year.

The news that Al Slattery would return brightened things up again. "Slats" is a letter man and played a good game at end on the 1917 team. Slattery just returned from overseas but he will change from an O. D. uniform to moleskins about Monday.

Freshman Squad Heavy

The freshman squad is one of the huskiest in the history of the school. Coach Herschel Scott has material for a team which can put up a battle royal with the Varsity. Both varsity and freshman squads are so large and competition so keen that all the men will be kept on their toes every minute.

Football is going to be in the air at K. S. A. C. this fall. Coach Lorenz announces that all physical training classes will be given football as long as the weather permits. The rudiments of the game will be taught. Mr. Lorenz intends to develop a forward passing game which will not be too rough but yet will cause the blood to circulate a little faster. With everyone taking football or talking football, considerable interest should be developed.

Doing Light Practice

Captain Bogue has had his charges doing light practice all week. Houston has been booting 'em around forty or fifty yards. "Chief" Randels and Winters have been running down long passes. Gatz and Roda are getting hardened up for the guard positions. Magrath, Murphy, Hixon, Hines, Wise, Fletcher, and Dickerson have been getting in trim. Captain Bogue hopes to have the team in fine shape for regular practice Monday afternoon.

Talk Basketball Awhile

After everyone is thru talking and thinking football, Coach Clevenger continues to smile. Then he says to "Yankee": "You had better have some freshman basketball squad if you're going to keep up with the varsity."

Knostrman, center on the 1916 team, "Slim" Fullington, center on the 1917 team, and Jennings, center on the 1918 team are all back. Captain Hines, Bunker, Cowell, and Winters of last season's squad have enrolled in addition to a number of men from the '16 and '17 teams who are still eligible. Coach Schultz is confident of a fast freshman team which will give the varsity a good workout.

Next It's Track

After basket-ball is dropped "Yankee's" smile persists. Finally he chuckles out, "Believe me I'm going to have some track team." All of last year's squad are back except Foreman. Tillotson, a 1917 star, will work out in the mile and two mile events. Ray Watson, star miler and half-miler, is already getting in trim. Watson is going after records. Coach Schultz intends to have outdoor work for all track men this fall with an inter-class meet to keep up interest. Captain Evans is keeping a sharp lookout for good track material. "Yankee" is as proud as a daddy over his freshman track aggregation. The freshman have a stellar collection of high school stars and their coach raves all day about what he expects from them.

And Then Baseball

Even after track has ceased to be a subject of conversation Coach Clevenger keeps smiling. Baseball. The prospects are bright for a strong team in this sport, too. Captain Magrath is back, Snapp, the Cowell brothers, Hixon, McCollum, Willis, and Swengle of last season's squad have enrolled. Griffiths, Guilfoyle, and Hines of the 1917 and 1918 teams are back and will probably be in the lineup next spring.

Any student on the Hill can see these smiles on exhibition at the coaches' office in Nichols gymnasium if he will step in and throw down two fifty for a season football ticket.

Physical Work Helps Athletics

With the large number of students taking physical culture it was necessary to put a man in charge of these classes. The man selected was H. A. Lorenz. Mr. Lorenz has excellent qualifications being a graduate of Springfield in addition to several years coaching experience. The new coach recently returned from overseas where he had been division athletic director of the forty second division since the signing of the armistice. Mr. Lorenz was in the physical education department at K. U. for two years previous to his enlistment in the army.

Several new phases of physical education will be introduced. The new coach intends to start a class in boxing and wrestling in the near future. Mr. Lorenz intends to make it possible for every man on the Hill to participate in some form of athletics or physical culture. Outdoor games will be a big item in all physical culture classes Mr. Lorenz says.

Cross Country Running

Cross country running is to be revived this fall. For the last two years the Aggies have had no teams in this sport but with the return of several good men and a promising freshman bunch cross country should come into its own. Tillotson from the 1917 team will be one of the mainstays of the squad. Coach Schultz wants to meet all cross country men in order that training may be begun soon.

Manhattan Merchant Wants to See Aggies Win This Year

Frank Maxwell, a Manhattan merchant, has offered the Aggie Wildcats $100 if they get the scalp of the Jayhawkers this year. Mr. Maxwell, who is a football enthusiast, says he would like to see a repetition of the Aggie victory in 1906. There is every indication that the Aggies will have the best team in the college's history so it is quite probable that Mr. Maxwell will have to part with the $100.

NEED NINE MORE INSTRUCTORS NOW

JARDINE TO TOPEKA TO SECURE
HELP ON TEACHING STAFF

Large Enrollment Has Made It Impossible for Present Instructors to Have Classes of Proper Size

Due to the large increase in the enrollment, it has become necessary to secure a number of new instructors for the different departments. Dr. W. M. Jardine, president, went to Topeka to meet with the Board of Administration in order that the matter may be settled at once.

In the music department two more piano instructors are needed. Professor Westbrook of the music department says that there are many more students taking music this year than ever before. Especially is this true of the men. He explains this by the fact that the men greatly enjoyed the music of the army bands, the music seeming to help rest the men after a long day.

Two more teachers are needed for chemistry, one for English, one for mathematics, one for home economics, one for botany and one for physics. The college administration had prepared somewhat for the increased enrollment by securing six or seven new instructors but even with these additional teachers, the classes are so full that good work can not be done. One class in Anderson Hall which usually has about fifty members, has an enrollment of eighty this year. However, the difficulty will be overcome as soon as new teachers are secured.

K. S. A. C. Students Not Being "Held Up" by Merchants

That prices to K. S. A. C. students have not been advanced as has been frequently commented, is assured by Walter Burr, director of the Rural Service Department of the college. He is a specialist in the matter of rural trade and is much interested in the prevailing high prices, especially to K. S. A. C. students.

In his travels over the state he frequently heard Manhattan people quoted as having said that "the merchants of Manhattan are holding the people up. Living is higher here than in the average city its size." Mr. Burr says, "from my own experience in Manhattan for the past two years, during which time I did not travel as much as usual, I also assumed that we were being held up. During the last few months I have traveled more extensively, I soon became impressed with the fact that persons from other cities were also saying that the merchants in their particular city were holding them up beyond the merchants of other cities.

"I long since made it a rule to discover facts and face them, no matter what the consequences. Also I began to hear rumors that indicated that certain persons who were planning to come to college in Manhattan were talking of changing their plans on account of the story that Manhattan merchants are charging more for groceries and meats than is being charged in other places."

Mr. Burr says that he did not want to deny the statements or confirm them, without knowing the facts. He decided to learn the facts, and then give them publicity, regardless of whom they might help or hurt. A specialist in home economics made out for him a standard list of the groceries and meats used in the average household, according to grades, sizes of packages, weights, etc. Blanks were left for the writing in of the prices charged by retail merchants. These lists were sent to thirty-two cities in Kansas and adjoining states. Replies were received from fourteen cities, as follows: Manhattan, Salina, Hays, Marion, Atchison, Dodge City, Goodland, Hutchinson, and McPherson, Kans.; Stillwater, Okla.; Beatrice, Nebr.; Red Oak, Ia.; and Clarinda, Ia., and Columbia, Missouri.

In order that mercantile interests might not be able to falsify the reports, the requests for securing prices were sent to the Directors of Summer Schools in college towns, and to the superintendents of city schools in other places.

Recognizing that markets fluctuate from day to day, the prices were secured simultaneously on the same day, Saturday, August 9. In order that a general check might be made on conditions in Manhattan, the survey here was made at four retail stores. In no case was a merchant informed of the purpose for which the list was to be used, the impression being given that the party was contemplating an extensive purchase, and wished the actual selling price. In some cases the prices given on ordinary commodities were checked up with those charged customers actually making purchases at the time.

Mr. Burr says, "The lists from the fourteen cities that have reported, positively prove the fact of the higher prices in Manhattan than in the S. A. C. cities than in other cities of our kind in the central west. The Manhattan retail men are not charging prices beyond those charged elsewhere. Prospective students will find living any cheaper in the average college town elsewhere. Prices everywhere are alike enough, and it is up to someone to find out why. I do not hold any brief for retail merchants in general, and it may be that there is entirely too great a discrepancy between wholesale prices and retail prices. But it does not make for neighborliness and right relationship for persons to seek to incriminate certain individuals who have goods to sell, as being particularly greedy over and above others of their class. While the cost of living is too great everywhere, it is as low in Manhattan as anywhere in the central west. While it is low here, there are numerous ways in which merchants and consumers might co-operate to make it still lower. We ought to be able to report, for the sake of our college, that living is cheaper in Manhattan than in any other college town of the central west. If a lot of the energy we expend opposing each other were expended in getting together in a co-operative way through the Chamber of Commerce to consider the common welfare, we could after while truthfully make a report of that kind."

Prepare to Work for Uncle Sam

Teachers who wish to prepare for a Civil Service position may start in now on all or a part of the course by mail and then come to the Manhattan Business college and finish as soon as their schools close. Write or phone Manhattan Business College, Manhattan, Kansas, Phone 64.

Held Vesper Services

The regular weekly vesper service of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the rest room of the Domestic Science Hall, Thursday the eight hour. A large number were present, both faculty and students attending. F. W. Jensen, manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Manhattan, is eager to do all he can to help Aggie students this year. DISCHARGED MEN ATTEND SCHOOL

EIGHTY MEN HAVE ENROLLED IN DIFFERENT COURSES

Courses Opened for Men Who Were Disabled While They Were in the Army—Get Expenses Paid

Eighty men have enrolled, so far, in the courses open to disabled soldiers. Seventy of the men have never attended college here previously, the remainder were in the vocational classes last year. One hundred and fifty men have had their names approved for entrance in the college this term and the Federal Board representatives who are now here on business connected with enrolling the men in college, expect to send 200 disabled soldiers to K. S. A. C. before the end of the year. The Federal Board pays all the expenses of men who have been injured severely enough to incapacitate them 10 per cent or more, besides giving the single men a compensation of $80 per month and the married men $115 per month.

The majority of those enrolled are not high school graduates and will be in the school of agriculture. Some will take the regular collegiate work but for the most part the ex-soldiers are interested in vocational training, where it is necessary special classes have been formed so that the needs of all the men may be provided for. Dean J. T. Willard is in charge of the business end of the vocational training for the disabled soldiers. There is a board of counselors consisting of Dean A. A. Potter, Prof. W. W. Carlson, Dean F. D. Farrell, and Prof. J. W. Zahnley, who are to aid and advise the men in every way possible.

Two representatives of the Federal Board, F. C. McEachron and A. R. Gwinn are here this week and after the classes are organized a representative will visit the college once a month to inspect the work the boys are doing.

The finance committee of the Y. W. C. A. is selling aprons to the domestic science girls. So many persons have enrolled in this course that the committee has ordered more aprons.

HAVE A MIXER IN GYMNASIUM

TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 19

FACULTY AND STUDENTS

Details of Entertainment not Completed as Yet but Ample Amusements Will Be Ready for All

An all-student and faculty mixer will be held in Nichols Gymnasium on Friday evening, September 19, from 8 o'clock to 12 o'clock. Every faculty member, fraternity man, sorority girl, literary society member, members of the Y. W. and Y. M. and all other students are urged to be present.

Details not Completed

Prof. Cecil Baker, a member of the Committee on Student Affairs, is in charge of the preparations for the function but as yet the details have not been completed. Committees will be appointed immediately in order that all may be in readiness by September 19.

The main part of the mixer will be held in the big room in the gymnasium. After the mixer, a dance will be held. Professor Baker promises that everyone who attends will have a mighty good time as ample entertainment will be prepared for all persons.

May Use Society Rooms

Due to the fact that a number of persons do not care to dance, other entertainment will be furnished while the dancing is going on. It is hoped that the literary society rooms in the gymnasium may be obtained for this purpose.

The whole affair, which is one of three that will be given during the school year, has been planned under the direction of the Committee on Student Affairs. It is hoped that these mixers will bring a closer relationship not only between the faculty and students but also between the different groups of college men and women.

"College Night" at the Congregational church Sunday, 8 p. m., will be a choral program. Short sermon by the pastor.

Right here's the place to feed your face and get your money's worth.

Each meal is right, we treat you white, and serve the best on earth.

Selected pies for hungry guys; the kind that mother made. The best of veal and good oat meal, ice cream and lemonade. Assorted steaks and buckwheat cakes and doughnuts round. United here is high-class cheer in "eats" that's clean and sound.

Romp in for lunch, we have a "hunch" that you will call again. All meals we serve will help your nerve and never give you pain.

No phony brews, or sloppy stews, are served in HERE old pard.

This rhyme will show you where to go, so don't you loose this card.

Don't Shove, Men—Get in Line

By Wayland A. Dunham, Division of Engineering

They sing their songs about the crowds that pester bargain sales; Of mobs that push and whoop and yell and mourn their many ails; Of men that line up days before a prize fight or a bout, to spend their hard earned kale to see a mug-faced guy knocked out. Now, if it was a ball game or a Broadway Girlie Show, I'd line up with the rest of them and help them spend their dough. But when it comes to registering upon the College Log, I'd no idea the guys would rush or try to walk the dog. But when I reached the Campus gate, the scene that met my eyes, was one so much appalling, my worst of fears did arise. From every gate, by every path, there streamed a maddened throng. Straight to the chapel steps they rushed, the weak behind the strong. I thought, perhaps, a murder or a little scrap was on, and so I quickly paced it off, to get on the fun. I thought it was a lottery, a raffle or a run and so I crowded in to get a chance and drew one thousand and one. No! knowing yet just what was right, or what I had to do, I asked a guy just next to me, who to pay my money to. He looked at me with eyes of scorn and with a sickly grin, he said, "Don't worry, Fressie dear, me boy, they'll trim you at the Gym." So there I went and there again they knocked me to and fro and stepped upon my eight pet corns until I cried with woe. The sun beat down upon my pate, the hot winds fanned my nose, my back, it nearly broke in two, and still, ye gods, no news. At last upon the second eve, when strength was ebbing low, they told me I could saunter in and get my tickets to the show. I did, and now, kind fates forbid, I drew a line of stuff that makes me labor night and day. Oh, Kamerad—enough—enough.

ATTEND THAT FIRST MIXER

ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS TO MEET IN GYM FRIDAY EVE

ENTERTAINMENT FOR ALL

Details for Evening Worked Out and Good Time Is Promised for Those Who Dance and for Those Who Don't

A good time for all who will come with a smile and a bit of good humor is promised for the all-student mixer to be held in the Nichols gymnasium from eight to twelve o'clock, Friday evening, September 19. The Committee on Student Affairs wishes all faculty members and all students of the college to be present and to get acquainted.

Entertainment of a variety will be furnished. The mixer will be held on the main floor of the gymnasium and later the floor will be turned over to those wishing to dance. For those who do not dance other entertainment will be furnished. The literary society rooms at each end of the gymnasium will be given over to reception committees.

Prof. Cecil Baker, a member of the Committee on Student Affairs is in charge of the preparation. He has appointed various sub-committees to take charge of details.

Prof. J. W. Zahnley and the students of the School of Agriculture will be in charge of the cloak checking room. A. M. Doerner, assistant in landscape gardening, with the Inter-Society council has charge of the decorations of the gymnasium.

Miss Grace E. Derby, assistant librarian, with the Y. W. C. A. and S. A. Smith, instructor in architecture, with the men's panhellenic council are planning the entertainment for the evening. Miss Josephine Perry, assistant in domestic science, with the women's panhellenic council and J. G. ("Mike") Emerson, professor of public speaking, with the Y. M. C. A. will furnish refreshments.

Miss Jessie M. Machir, registrar, with representatives from each of the classes is in charge of reception. Music for the mixer will be given by the college orchestra under the direction of Harold Wheeler of the music department, successor to Prof. Harry Brown.

Don Lang of Gamma Omicron in Kappa Sigma was a mid-week guest at the Kappa Sigma house.

Watch the Bulletin Board

The college bulletin boards seem to be as popular as ever this year. They are crowded to the limit and some placards, for want of space, have been fastened on trees.

The bulletin boards have become a regular college institution. A student can, by a hasty glance at them, gain a large amount of varied and interesting information. For instance: If a freshly loses his beloved chemistry or botany text an anguished announcement of the loss soon appears on a bulletin board; or if a student finds that his room is too expensive he tacks up a notice to the effect that he greatly desires a roommate for the sake of companionship.

Let us hope that some arrangements will be made to remove all placards as soon as they have served their purpose. Old, discarded placards cling aimlessly to the bulletin boards and tend to create an impression of untidiness.

K. S. A. C. Art at Fair

The K. S. A. C. art department was well represented at the Topeka State Fair. One of the features of the exhibit was a number of designs and sketches which illustrated the college's method of teaching house decoration and creative designing. A number of examples of the work of persons taking the twelve weeks' course were shown. Among these examples were abstract original designs in flat water color which were suitable for wall paper, curtain borders or needlework patterns. Other exhibits consisted of similar work done in a 24 weeks' course, and a few of landscapes by members of the fine arts class.

K. U. Head Resigns

It was officially announced at the University of Kansas this morning that Chancellor Frank Strong has resigned as head of the university. Chancellor Strong's resignation, as it was forwarded to the board of administration, takes effect at the end of the school year. He says the university now needs no executive head of his type, with the state board in control.

Enrollment Totals 2,193

At noon Monday the total enrollment in the college amounted to 2,193. The list of assignments to the different departments has not been prepared as yet.

Misses Ollie and Bernice Klotz left Sunday for Kanapolis, after spending the week at the Delta Zeta house here. They are to teach in the Kanapolis schools this year.

SQUAD OF FIFTY MEN APPEAR FOR ACTION

FIFTEEN LETTER MEN FIGHTING FOR AGGIES THIS YEAR

COACHES ON THE FIELD

Burton, Hixon, Gallagher, Hinds, Placek, and Oliver Are Letter Men Who Will Be Fighting in Back Field

The Aggie Wildcats had their first regular practice last night. A squad of fifty men reported, sixteen of whom were letter men.

An Ideal Make-Up

The Aggie eleven promises to have an ideal make-up this fall, a heavy line and a fast, shifty backfield. "Germany" Schulz, line coach, is going to have some big line, judging from the material already in football togs. Murphy and Fletcher are candidates for center, both of them having played this position on the varsity. Both of these men weigh around one hundred and eighty pounds. Fletcher played on the Love Field team while stationed in Texas. Getz, Roda, Huston, Wise, and Hoffhines will provide plenty of material for the guard positions. Gatz is a two hundred pound letter man; Roda is an all-Missouri Valley guard; Huston is a big guard from last year's team. Huston's kicking won him a letter last year and may win him a backfield position this year. Wise and Hoffhines are both two hundred pounders. Hoffhines starred on the Fort Riley eleven last fall. Gingery and Magrath are two letter men who have had experience as tackles on the varsity. Captain Joe Bogue, Enlow, Winters, Randels, and Dickerson are all letter men and all of them have played end for the Purple and White.

Some Backfield

Burton, Hixon, Gallagher, Hinds, Placek and Oliver are letter men who will appear in the backfield. The Cowell brothers and Lloyd Miller are three more backs that Aggie rooters will see in action this season. These men will form one of the fastest backfields in the Missouri Valley. Gallagher got in the habit of breaking track records last spring. Burton, Hixon, Hinds and Oliver are speedy enough and shifty enough to keep up with the best of them. Miller, scrappy half on last years team, and the Cowell brothers will keep some of the backfield men on their toes all the time to hold their places.

Clevenger on Backfield

Coach Z. G. Clevenger coaches the backfield. With the combination of a heavy line and speedy backfield, and a squad of fifty men, many of them varsity players, and two good coaches who are acquainted with their men the Aggies will have a team that will look formidable to any of them.

Coach Clevenger says the men are in fine condition and stiff workouts will be on the daily schedule soon.

Mr. Clevenger is a very busy man these days but he says he can still find time to sell a few more football tickets.

CHORUS WORK STARTED—HAVE GLEE CLUB TRYOUTS

Professor Westbrook Wants More Voices in College Chorus

The college chorus met for the first time Monday evening and according to Professor Westbrook, head of the department, it was a splendid beginning. This chorus will put on the big musical events of the year and all those interested should get into the work immediately. Professor Westbrook says that more singers are needed to make the chorus as big a success as he wishes it to be.

The first glee club tryouts were held yesterday and today they will be held from five to six o'clock. The tryouts for the glee clubs will be completed on Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Lovejoy has charge of this work.

The orchestra will have its first tryout and practice in the auditorium this evening at 7:30. Everyone interested in the work should be present.

The music department has the largest enrollment in its history and so the ones in charge are looking for a big and successful year. Important announcements concerning the outcome of events from the music department will appear in the next issue of the Collegian.

SOCIAL CENTER WILL NOT OPEN FOR MONTH OR MORE

Room Is Ready But Furniture Has Not Arrived

The latest word from the president's office announces that the social center in Main hall which was expected to be ready for the students in time for the opening of college, will not be turned over for their use for a month or more. The plans in rushing the work to get the social center ready were carried out by the college as announced, the building itself is ready but the furniture ordered some time ago has not been shipped, and according to report will not be here for some time.

In the meantime the president's office announces that the gymnasium, Y. M. C. A. and other buildings will be available for certain of the student activities.

DON'T SHOW YOUR LACK OF LIBRARY KNOWLEDGE

Arthur B. Smith Is the Librarian and Miss Derby, Assistant

The class reserve room in the library is now located in room three in the basement. Students will find that the lighting facilities and other accommodations are much better in this room than they were in the old reserve location. Anyone who wishes to appear wise beyond his years should go into the library and feel perfectly at home. The library board urges all to get acquainted with the ones in charge.

The library staff is composed of the following: Librarian, Arthur B. Smith; associate librarian, Miss Grace E. Derby; loan department, Miss Hedrick; reference department, Miss Ruth E. Sankey; cataloging room, Miss Lilly Cilly and Miss Hessel G. Findley.

Meeting in Ag. Building

There will be a meeting of all agricultural students on Tuesday evening, September 16, in the old agricultural building. The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock in G-56 and everyone is urged to be present.

Begging Your Pardon

In an account last week of the marriage of W. W. Bell, former student, it was stated that Mr. Bell was a member of the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity. That was a mistake. Mr. Bell is a member of Alpha Zeta, but not of Alpha Theta Chi.

Miss Lois Litchfield of Blackwell, Okla., is spending a few days at the Delta Zeta house.

Miss Ada Robertson drove to her home in Washington Saturday, returning Sunday night.

Miss Opha Babb, of Douglass has a position in Dean Thompson's office, and expects to spend the winter here.

BOOST THE TEAM

On September 27, 1919, the Aggies met the Baker Huskies on the K. S. A. C. grounds. Now Jimmy sat on the bleachers and watched with open eyes but didn't utter a word. But Johnny was on his feet and whenever a good play was made he shouted, "Good for you, Bogue, or 'Atta boy, Gatz," and "Hit 'em, Winters."

The difference between Jimmy and Johnny was just this. Every evening the latter could be found on the bleachers watching the men practice, he boosted for them and then when the Baker game was played he was ready with all the pep and vim that he had. But Jimmy didn't know a man.

Get out and boost for the team men—help them practice and then when the first game is played on September 27, help them win that game. Remember that instructors can't teach unless they have pupils and so the team can't win unless it has someone on the bleachers to keep up the moral support. And if you read the Collegian you will soon learn the names of the men.

THOSE WOOLEN SHIRTS

Much has been said about the spirit of democracy shown at K. S. A. C. The most noticeable exhibition of so called democratic principles is manifested by the remarkable number of K. S. A. C. men who wear army wool shirts this year.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

Author Anon

We don't feel much like cracking jokes as our new shoes that we purchased to start to school with are just about pinching our feet in two.

One good thing, we can always say that we dress with great pains.

"We are always chasing BUBBLES" is right, but it is not the chasing that is so exasperating, but the fact that no sooner than we have it within our reach, a sudden breeze bursts it and it is gone for ever. So, our bubble when we read the following: "John J. Jump, a former poet, has just retired to private life on a fortune made with a circus as a living skeleton."

Which Do You Use?

"The page is out of my book."
 "I didn't find that in my lesson."
 "I know but I can't exactly explain."
 "I was sick last night."
 "I studied the wrong lesson."
 "I didn't hear your question."
 "I forgot to take my book home."
 "I don't know."

Boys, all of us who are taking Trig. for the 40-11th time, cheer up, there is yet hope! Chas. Dickens says, "Every failure teaches a man something, if he will learn it."

"So you asked Old Crusty for his daughter, eh? How did you come out?"
 "Thru the window."

Girl: "Do you know my brother?"
 Boy: "Sure, we both sleep in the same assembly."

Ever hear of Postmaster General Burlesque?

We've heard so much about the guy, we would like to lamp him for a few minutes.

Of course, we have no case against him only we sent a letter to our best girl here, that we were coming to school. We arrived last Sunday. The letter arrived today.

There were in the U. S. service, during the war, 53,006 Johnsons, 51,000 Smiths, 4,700 Williams and 18,500 Walkers. If we have not been misinformed there were surely more than 18,500 walkers.

We were walkers ourselves.

A Kansas preacher says: "Inferno won't be so bad at all if all the hypocrites go to Heaven."

We wouldn't advise him to purchase his ticket yet, 'cause we know some hypocrites on the train now.

Of course, it's none of our business we are supposed to write poms and colms.

It is rumored that the Psha of Turkey has one hundred cooks. Oh Shaw!

This column did not have much to say about how the war should have been conducted, neither were we invited to sit at the peace table. But it seems to us that we have done just about as much as King George of England.

First Wit:—"Have you lived here all your life?"

Second Wit:—"Not yet."

One Dollar Per Melon Is Quite
 Some Big Price

Which is the most profitable, stealing watermelons or buying them?

Ask seven girls who made a trip to Hunter's Island Sunday in a Buick car, license No. 146897, and they will say it is more profitable to buy them.

Each girl had a large juicy melon and were just about to get away, when across the patch came the owner and his son, armed with real guns. "Oh My! Give her the gas!" But deep sand wasn't meant for speed and the car stuck.

Son Joe got on horse back and caught the culprits demanding the car license number. When the girls refused this information the gun was brought into display again with a threat to shoot a hole in the tires so he got the number without further trouble.

Members of the expedition, by this time, were at the height of fury and they were allowed to depart with this bit of information just to remember the incident by:

"Melons at the house are one and a half cents per pound, but when you take them this way they are one dollar a piece." So the girls came back to town with two small melons.

Miss Grace Dickman of Postoria, was a week end guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house. Miss Dickman is teaching in the Postoria high school this winter.

"All Same It Goes"

Poy Lim, who is a Chinese boy, has found many odd manners and mannerisms in America since he was persuaded to come here in 1915 by Dr. H. J. Waters, then president of the Kansas State Agricultural college. But he affirms that the strangest of all is a machine he and his companions in the division of engineering made. They call it the Mechanical Mascot.

The Mascot—every bolt and beam of it—was made from the forge to the lathe, in the shops of the college division of engineering. W. W. Carlson, professor of shop practice, recalling the dictum that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, sanctioned the manufacture of this, the craziest machine extant.

It runs like an automobile, but looks like an engine of the devil. Its exhaust is unmuffled and can be heard from the campus to the Riley county court house, nearly a mile away. Nobody likes to see it coming, everybody likes to see it going. But the engineers are proud of their handicraft and never allow an opportunity for exhibiting their mascot to pass. Never a parade is formed but that its noisy puff-puff is heard and its ungainly outline is prominent. No rubber tires grace its wheels. Its transmission is a crude leather belt and its clutch an iron rod. There is no reverse and springs are conspicuous by the absence.

"All same it goes," says Poy Lim.

Doing Big Business

The college cafeteria is doing a mighty big business this year. On Wednesday 1,016 meals were served and on Thursday 1,078. Every noon and evening when one passes the cafeteria he sees a line of students crowding into Kedzie Hall.

The Pennsylvania Dutch have the reputation of being very economical, and very careful in watching the details of domestic affairs no matter how small.

"Heiny!" called the father.

"Vat?" answered the son.

"Run and count them geese again, Heiny."

Heiny went. Heiny returned.

"Heiny!" said the father.

"Vat?" said the son.

"Did you count them geese again Heiny?"

"Chess, there was vun."

As his wife's mother was departing after a six months' visit, Judkins asked her, sarcastically, to stop a little longer. She stayed another six months. Boys, it doesn't pay to fool with fireworks.

MAKE RULES FOR STUDENTS

COLLEGE HOP EVERY SATURDAY IN HARRISON'S HALL

NO PUBLIC DANCES NOW

Committee on Student Affairs Makes Rulings Which Will be Effective Thruout the College Year

The Committee on Student Affairs met last Saturday morning and made rulings that will be effective thruout the college year. A booklet called "Information for Students" has been published by the committee and the rulings for the year are set forth here.

One Dance a Week

There was some contention the latter part of last year to the effect that students be allowed to attend two dances a week, one on Friday and one on Saturday but the committee ruled that only one college dance should be given each week. It will be held every Saturday evening at Harrison's Hall in Aggieville.

It had been suggested that the new room in Anderson Hall be used for the college dances but the committee objected to this. The room is for the use of all students and faculty, open for recreation, rest and nearly anything else that the students wish to do. But it was decided that the room should not be used for the college dances.

No Out of Town Functions

The committee ruled that students should attend no out of town functions. It also decided that college women may receive gentlemen visitors only on Friday and Saturday.

An all-college mixer was planned by the committee. It will be held on Friday, September 19.

The booklet, "Information for Students," tells in detail the rulings that will be effective thruout the school year. It says:

"1. Social conduct should be based on respect for one's best self and the determination to make that best self prevail.

"2. Social conduct should be determined by belief in and respect for the best in others.

"3. Social conduct can be solved only when men and women think and act in full recognition of existing social organizations.

"A social code and a social program are recognized as essential in the interpretation of these principles. The code is made up of conventions by which we carry on social intercourse. The program provides avenues for social pleasures. Both code and program are human institutions and must undergo constant revision and change; but the principles underlying them and not the impatience of impulse should be the guide. Anyone who ignores the established code or substitutes for the accepted social program, forms of companionship or recreation not sanctioned, should do so only in full appreciation of the responsibility he owes to society at large and to his college. No student with college spirit worthy of the name ignores this established code.

"For your information, a statement of the standards for, and regulations governing the conduct of students of the K. S. A. C. follows:

"Students who are not residents of Manhattan are expected to live in rooming houses that have been inspected and approved by the college administration. All changes of residence during a semester shall be reported to the Registrar.

"Social functions, including parties, dances, picnics, hikes, smokers, etc., given by or participated in by students, shall be limited to Friday and Saturday and the night of or preceding any college holiday. (Exception: Greater privilege is granted during the first week of the semester.) Arrangements for such functions, when given by students, must be made and reported to the Committee on Student Affairs for approval not later than 48 hours before the time set for the function.

"Social functions shall close not later than 12 o'clock p. m. except one event each year for each organization, the closing time of which shall be fixed by the Committee on Student Affairs.

"Men callers may not be entertained at the women's rooming houses except on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday between the hours of 3 and 10:30 p. m.

"Students' social organizations may entertain dinner guests on Sunday when the house mother is present or when other approved chaperon has been provided.

"Mid-week programs, which have the approval of the college administration may be attended by the students.

"Students may not attend public dances or dance in any public cafe.

"Each organization must submit each semester to the Committee on Student Affairs a list of its members and officers and a statement of its purpose.

"Students may not be pledged to the membership of any social organization who have not been resident students for one week, and who do not have credits for fourteen units of high school work. Students may not be initiated into membership of any social organization who have not been resident students for one semester, and have passed of their assignment of work at least 75 per cent for the semester with a minimum of 12 semester credit hours.

"Social organizations may not pledge or initiate students to membership until the committee on Student Affairs has certified their eligibility.

"Social organizations may not permit any one who is not a pledge or an active member of their organization to room and board in their home, except under the written consent of the Committee on Student Affairs.

"Men's social organizations may not receive women callers at their homes, except for the approved social functions, and never without the presence of a chaperon. This regulation does not apply to mothers and sisters of members of these organizations."

Harold Crimble of Gamma Nu chapter was a mid-week guest at the Kappa Sigma house.

The Acacias gave a house dance in honor of their rushees on Thursday night of last week.

Charles Cloud returned to his home in Winfield Sunday after spending a week at the Kappa Sigma house.

The members of Pi Beta Phi gave a Cookey Shine on Saturday night, in honor of their new pledges.

Initiation was held at the Acacia house on Thursday evening for Paul Willis of Horton, and Homer Henney of Horton.

Delta Tau Delta gave an informal reception for Governor Allen on last Friday. Governor Allen is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Miss Elizabeth Adams of Maple Hill, Miss Sarella Herrick of Topeka, and Miss Wilma Roark of Junction City who visited at the Pi Phi house last week have returned to their homes.

Jardine Says Biggest Year in History of Institution is Ahead of Every Student and All Should Work

Get behind some student organization and give it your enthusiastic support, is the advice of W. M. Jardine, president, speaking before the second student assembly of the semester, Tuesday, September 16.

Need Student Leaders

"If a student is a leader in college activities," said the president, "we have no doubt as to the kind of a citizen he will be when gets out of the institution. Class work is the chief business of the college student but if all his efforts are confined to the class room he is missing an essential part of his training."

"I want the students to visit the different departments of the college and get acquainted with the faculty. We are all here for an education and we must work in harmony or our knowledge will be of no advance."

2,200 Have Enrolled

"More than 2,200 students have enrolled to date and they are still coming in. This is the largest number we have ever had and the different departments are taxed to capacity to care for them. Additional instructors have been telegraphed for and we are going to get them. Two will be added to the department of music, two to the chemistry department, two to English and public speaking, one to botany and one or two to the department of physical training."

Support Athletics

"Lend your best support to athletics. We need 100 per cent of the student body and faculty behind the football team this fall. Do not be a mere audience at a game but show the team a spirit of cooperation."

"K. S. A. C. not only has as good a coaching staff as there is in the Missouri valley but as good as there is in the country. Our record for the past four years since Coaches Clevenger and Schulz have been here shows their ability. And our Missouri valley record has only begun."

Observing Bill
Knows a Few Things
About Fall Styles

Yes boys, its all right if the girls don't wear their blouses tucked in at the belt. How do I know? Why I just asked one of them.

It seems strange to me how girls can always think of some new way of fixing their clothes. Before I went away to the army all the coeds were wearing short butterfly skirts and long tight sleeves and now its short butterfly sleeves and long tight skirts. If that was the only change it wouldn't be so bad. The college girls now all have the latest wrinkles in clothes and I've been observing, I have.

Right now all the girls seem to be using embroidered grapes on their blouses and hats. Perhaps because its the harvest season. I suppose next month embroidered apples will be the rage.

Some of these georgette blouses look to me like a down town shop window with all colors of beads and yarn and some of them fixed up with fringe like a hula skirt. Just what kind of a blouse is the right kind of a blouse I don't know. Some are long, some are short, some belted, others belted. Just so its a blouse that evidently is the only requirement.

Now I thought collars were just the thing and I loaded up with a bunch in France to give to my best girl, Pansy. But Pansy says the best necks are collarless. So, of course, Pansy can't wear collars this season.

Boys, the thing I fall hardest for are these new peek-a-boo sweaters with a two inch square mesh. Such a collection of colors—every thing from cockle burr yellow to clam shell green. They are pretty tho with yards and yards of ribbon hung on at the waist.

I have seen two different girls wearing ribbed woolen stockings with oxford. The Kansas City Post says that this is only proper for late fall. So for once I have something on the ladies.

I am mighty glad the girls are moving those wads of hair back an inch or two. Very likely the hair got so thin from constant rattling that there wasn't enough left to cover the whole ear. In time those earbobs, will likely degenerate and dwindle away to small wads of nothing, composed of rats and old hair nets.

Talking about hair makes me think about hats. Today I saw a girl on the hill with a new fall bonnet on all old rose, shell pink and black. The price tag was still on, she left it there on purpose of course, so I just took a squint at it. Thirty-five bucks—oh boy I can't even talk about such luxury. Anyhow I know you will admit that I'm a good observer of ladies' fixings.

Observing Bill.

HE THOUGHT THE COLLEGE NEEDED HIM ON THE TEAM

But University Could Easily Play Football Without the Star

K. U. athletic officials are seeking to correct the impression concerning college athletic policies which seems to have become rooted in the brains of certain ex-high school stars. Karl A. Schladehan, acting director of athletics received the following telegram a few days ago, from a Rockford, Ill. youth: "Recommended by Heine Shanks. I have received offers from K. S. C. and St. Louis university. Played four years on Hyde Park high school, Chicago. Captain last year. All-state end. Weight 165 pounds. Wire offer if any."

The athletic director rebuffed the young star with a collect telegram declining his services and recommending a professional team.

ENROLLMENT IN BOTANY IS LARGEST IN HISTORY

Over 350 Freshmen Studying about the Plants

The botany department's enrollment this year is 450, the largest enrollment in the history of the department. Approximately 350 are freshmen, the large numbers of beginners making it necessary to have 11 divisions of general botany classes. However none of the botany force seems apprehensive about the traditional unlucky power of the number 13.

A new instructor is soon to be added to the department, raising the number of the department staff to seven. Robert Schmidt, a former instructor in the department, is assisting temporarily until the new instructor can be secured.

It's no Longer
Delicious Ices,
Fruits, and Cakes

Rush week is over, over until next fall when new freshman victims will again be caught in the mad whirl. The freshman rushees have been dragged from dinner to dance, from dance to breakfast and from luncheon to line parties.

The boys have ridden in every kind of car from the red Beta "bullet," the Sig. Alph. "own a dori" to the Kappa Sig. "blue baby". The girls have dashed about in long soft cushioned touring cars, electrics and Ford runabouts.

Poor rushees, they have been cooed over flattered and smiled at until some began to believe that college was a sort of a Utopia where its inmates sang, drank and made merry eternally.

What a sad awakening is due this week to the freshmen who find the pledge button pinned in coat lapel or georgette blouse. There will be no more salads, ices after dinner mints and other delicate dishes of goo. No more cooing and palavering, no more free rides and picture shows. The delightful rushees of last week are only the freshman pledges of today, with duties to perform. The dirty work will be their share until some day in the future when other poor deluded little freshmen come to take their places.

The freshmen who looked so gay and frivolous last week look pinched and weary today. Their feet are blistered from dancing. Their eyes are heavy after nights of gaiety. Their ears are weary of hearing of Greek glories and accomplishments. They have come to realize that college life is not all a bright bubble. They are tired mentally and physically; but they have no time to rest. Poor little pledges they are now doing the heavy.

HOCKEY PRACTICE STARTS NEXT WEEK

GIRLS MUST SIGN NAMES ON BULLETIN BOARD IN GYM

Girls Making Class Hockey Teams Will Be Given 25 Points Toward Winning a K Sweater

All girls in college who want to try out for the class hockey teams must sign their names on the bulletin board in the girls gymnasium.

The hockey field back of the domestic science building will be marked next week and practice will begin at once, according to Miss Edith Bond, physical training instructor.

"Hockey is the girls' popular outdoor game for the fall season," said Miss Bond. "There is no reason why every girl in school who loves sport should not come out and take a fling at the game."

"There will be several weeks of practice before the class teams are chosen. This will furnish plenty of time for the freshmen and upper classmen who are not acquainted with the game to get into good practice before the real tryouts come."

Any girl who makes the class hockey team will be given twenty five points toward the winning of a K sweater. After all the class games are played off a varsity team is chosen from the best players of all the classes. Any girl who makes the varsity team will be given an extra twenty five points toward the winning of a K sweater.

Sign your name on the bulletin board next week girls and try out for your class hockey team.

Sherwood to Texas

Prof. R. M. Sherwood, formerly of the extension division of the Kansas State Agricultural college, has accepted a position with the Texas university, at College Station, Tex. He will have charge of the experiment work in poultry at that place. Professor Sherwood will be remembered by many people here, having been extension specialist in poultry since 1914.

Professor H. L. Kent and Embert M. Coles left Monday as delegates to the grand convocation of the Acacia fraternity held at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Bennie Wenn, Delta Tau Delta alumna, who has been visiting in Manhattan, has gone to his home in Erie, but will return for the week end.

William A. Lippincott, professor of poultry husbandry in the college, recently attended a meeting of the American Poultry association at Chicago. Professor Lippincott is recognized as being one of the leaders in the poultry world.

OVER 800 TAKE GYM TRAINING

BOXING IS NEW FEATURE IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION

LORENZ NEW INSTRUCTOR

Major Davidson, a Graduate from West Point, Will Have Charge of the Boxing Classes—Wants All to Take Part

The athletically inclined Greeks of ancient times will have nothing on Aggie students this year if H. A. Lorenz, physical education director, carries out his schedule.

At present there are between seven and eight hundred students enrolled in the physical training classes. The men are showing unusual interest and instead of the customary policy of trying to dodge these classes many students are requesting that their assignments be arranged so as to allow them to enroll in a class.

"Their experience in the army has taught the men that physical training is necessary for successful effort in any line," says Mr. Lorenz.

Will Have Games

Games in season will be a part of the schedule, supplemented by boxing, wrestling, swimming, gymnastics, calisthenics, and tumbling. As long as weather permits football and cross country running will be on the program. Football players will be classified according to weight and previous experience in order that none of the games will be too one sided.

Cross Country Team

Out of the seven or eight hundred who hope to develop a cross country team which will do credit to the school. A definite program has not as yet been arranged but workouts for places on the team will begin immediately.

All Kinds of Sports

As soon as the football season is over the classes will be held in the gym. The classes will be divided in groups, one group on the indoor track, one playing basketball, another taking apparatus work and the regular gym work, and still another group will be using the swimming pool. These groups will be alternated in order that every man will have a chance to become skilled in every sport. Mr. Lorenz says he will use every effort to teach every man who cannot swim how to swim before the year is out. A gym team and a swimming team will be developed.

"The idea of the whole plan," says Mr. Lorenz, "is to make more participants, more men who will derive a direct benefit from college sports, and incidentally this will create more interest in intercollegiate games."

Boxing a Feature

Another feature of athletics at K. S. A. C. this fall will be boxing and wrestling. Major Davidson has consented to assist Mr. Lorenz in this phase of the physical education program. Major Davidson is a graduate of West Point and has had practical experience in the army in teaching boxing.

Major Davidson says of the sport, "No sport is cleaner, it is a better developer of muscle and mind, it develops coordination, and is particularly valuable to the young man in developing confidence in himself. It is hoped that the people who believe boxing is brutal will be convinced that they have the wrong impression. I think it will be a great success at this school because we have red-blooded Americans here."

All Students Eligible

Boxing and wrestling classes are not limited to R. O. T. C. nor to freshmen or sophomores in college, all students are eligible. Participants in boxing classes will be divided according to the Marquis of Queensbury weights: flyweight, under 116 pounds, bantamweight, 116 pounds; featherweight, 122 pounds, lightweight, 133 pounds; welterweight, 142 pounds; middleweight, 155 pounds; light heavy weight, 175 pounds; and light heavyweight, 175 pounds; and string of boxers of a 1 weights will be developed and tournaments with other schools arranged.

LARGE NUMBER OF STUDENTS ATTEND THE CHURCH MIXERS

Several of the Churches Entertained for the Students

Student mixers were held at several Manhattan churches Monday night and a large crowd was present at every church. These mixers are always a source of pleasure to townspeople and students alike because they afford a means by which the two become acquainted in a social way. They also connect the church and the school more closely in the student's mind.

Lively games of all kinds were played and at a late hour refreshments were served. Everyone present at either of the churches reports a good time.

VETERINARY SCIENCE DEPARTMENT GROWS

NEW INSTRUCTORS AND COURSES MARK DEPARTMENT'S GROWTH

New Offices Are Being Added and Old Ones Remodeled in Order to Accommodate the New Professors

New professors, new courses, and changes in the building mark the independence of the department of veterinary science.

Dean R. R. Dykstra, who is a graduate of Iowa State Agricultural college, has been a professor here in the department for a number of years. Doctor Dykstra is also head of the department of surgery and medicine and veterinarian for the experimental station.

Dr. W. E. Muldoon, from Cornell university, is associate professor in the department of surgery and medicine. Doctor Muldoon served as a captain in the army. He is planning to offer a new course in ambulatory clinic. The students will take trips out in the country to see cases that are not brought in.

Doctor Kitzelman, from Pennsylvania university, is interested in contagious abortion in cattle.

The vacancy made by the resignation of Dr. C. B. Griffiths, who is now working for the Alexander Clear Scrum plant of Kansas City, has been filled by Dr. J. P. Scott, who was in the department of anatomy and physiology. Doctor Scott's place has been taken by Dr. W. M. McLeod of Iowa State Agricultural college. Dr. H. F. Liebhart is now head of the department of pathology. Dr. L. W. Goss, the former head of the department, resigned to accept a position with the Parke Davis company.

Dr. C. W. Hobbs, who has been here several years, is superintendent of the department of vaccine laboratories. He oversees the production of cholera and black leg vaccines. New offices are being added and old offices changed to accommodate the number of new professors.

GREENHOUSE WILL NOT HAVE THE ROSES NOW

Heat to Building Is Entirely Too Uncertain

"It's all right to 'Say it with flowers,' but if you have a message which has to be said with roses, don't expect me to furnish the roses," says H. A. Pratt, foreman of the college greenhouse. For Mr. Pratt does not intend to grow any roses this year. Chrysanthemums, sweet peas, carnations, and bulb plants he will have in abundance, but the "queen of the garden" will be minus in quantity. The reason lies in the fact that the greenhouse heat is too uncertain, sometimes it's 80 and then again only 50. The temperature required by roses is from 60 to 65.

FIRST GAME WEEK OFF

FOUR SQUADS OF VARSITY MEN RUNNING SIGNALS

HUSTON READY FOR GAME

Scrimmage Practice Starts Next Week—Large Crowds Turn Out to See the Practices

Over four squads of varsity men have been running signals and learning the fundamentals of football for the past week.

Huston is getting his toe in trim and can drop from any angle of the field and from any distance up to the fifty-five yard line. Gallagher, Magrath, and Burton are punting around fifty yards.

Coach Z. G. Clevenger has enough material for a team for all kinds of weather; a heavy backfield for a wet field and a light backfield for a dry field.

Big Year Ahead

If the size of the crowds witnessing practice is a forecast of a successful football year the Aggies are due for their biggest season, for never before have so many students been out through the week to cheer up practice work. When scrimmaging begins next week even larger crowds are expected.

Scrimmage Practice to Begin

Freshman Coach Herschel Scott has a small army from which to choose his material. About eighty men are out, and some of them make their coach look like a Lilliputian in size. These boys are rarin' for scrimmage practice to begin. Such stars as Farris, the four Bayers, Burton, Bruce, Butcher, and Marshall will keep the varsity squad on their toes.

First Game Next Week

The first game of the season is a week off, September 27, with Baker. The coaches are expecting a stiff game and every Aggie rooter will see a sample of game which is to be played on Ahern field this season.

"Germany" Schulz issues this warning, "Get your tickets now, this office will not be open for any 'just before the game' rush."

KANSAS READY TO CARRY AWAY THE HONORS AGAIN

Wilson and Simonds Have Displays Ready to Show

Bruce Wilson of the agronomy department and H. A. Simonds of the horticulture department, have the Kansas exhibit for the fourteenth annual International Soil Products exposition all prepared.

The Kansas exhibit consists of two parts, the Kansas booth, where the agricultural products will be displayed and the experiment station exhibit which is composed of maps and charts showing the results of experiments conducted by the experiment station at Hays and the college here. The departments of agronomy, agricultural economics, and dairy husbandry are represented in the experiment station division.

The booth will be used to display all kinds of agricultural products. Horticultural products are to be a special feature of the display. Prominent among the fruits, will be grapes, pears and apples and a varied group of vegetables will be shown. All the important varieties of grain grown in the state will also be found at this booth. The grain will be displayed at the various stages of preparation for storage.

Society Notes

The little five year old daughter of a well known society woman of this town was gambling in the park with the company of a Perkingese dog in a striped yellow and white linen powdered with tiny sprays of flowers and a cabriolet hat of yellow glazed straw tied with a natter blue ribbon.

Perhaps one of the prettiest late fall weddings was that of Marriette McBride Kowns. Her gown was a beautiful creation of etc. etc. Her hair etc. etc. Her flowers etc. etc. Her jewels etc. etc. Her bridesmaids etc. etc. Her flower girls etc. etc. etc. The decorations were in etc. etc. The color scheme in the dining room etc. etc. The presents etc. etc.

Two boys who wished to play a joke on the parson, glued two leaves together in his bible. The next day he was reading to his flock and this is the way it sounded: "Noah was eighty years old and his wife was (turning new leaf which was the glued one) 127 feet long, 40 feet wide and 17 feet deep. She was coated with pitch tar, inside and out." "Well," mumbled the parson, "It's in the Bible and I must believe it."

We note in the Chicago Tribune that there is a man residing in St. Paul who lives on onions alone. Seems to us he ought to live alone if he lives on onions.

We went into a restaurant the other day and the girl who came to take our order said: "We have frogs legs, chicken liver calves brains, and—"

We interrupted her and told her that was so we thought the whole force ought to see a physician.

LUV

O hum, what is luv?
It cometh from above
And lighteth like a dove

And sum it never hits
And sum it never fits.
O hum, what is luv?

Dear Editor of Colm.

I am writing to you because I think that anyone who can write such stale jokes as you do and get away with it must be pretty wise. I am writing in a very serious manner and please answer just as seriously. I am just crazy over cats. Now there is nothing so very strange about that is there? Well one of my school teachers has gotten me quite worked up on the subject. Only the other day he said that I could never, never hope to be married on account of my great love for these felines. What shall I do? I cannot bear to think of being an old maid, and yet the fact remains that I love my cats. Also, I am becoming interested in a fellow in my chemistry class. Should I give him up or do away with my pets.

Perplexed,
Gracie.

Dear Gracie:

Your stand is a natural one for a girl. It is quite right to love animals. However, speaking from a man's standpoint, I would suggest that you do not parade your other love before your fiancé, as men in general are very jealous. I do not wish to coerce your decision so I would rather you would make the decision between the two. Which ever you choose, love it alone as they don't mix well.

Sincerely,
The Colm Editor.

The police department in Manhattan has started a raid on the tobacco users. All Aggie students under 21 years of age had better watch their step. Minors using tobacco—Sec. 9.—Every minor who shall smoke or use cigarettes, cigars, or tobacco in any form on any public road, street, alley, park or public lands used for public purposes, or in any place of business, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not more than $10.00.

Why Spoons In Cups Are Often Dangerous Weapons

It really was very nice of the Biblical writers to have coined that expression "feeding the multitudes" for they have made it possible for this poor wandering scribe to have access to an adequate phrase for what has been accomplished by the college cafeteria management in the first week of the new school year.

Judging from the looks of most of those who did finally gain an entrance to the cafeteria at the meal hours during the great rush of the first week they truly did earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. I might behoove the athletic coaches to look in this direction for football material for freshmen and seniors, alike, certainly did hold the line and they did "carry on." No casualties have been reported from the front as a result of the tri-daily engagements, however.

It is authoritative from all who have traveled down the trail that leads from soup to ice cream and the checker that the agonies of the registration process have nothing on waiting in the bread line for the nineteenth century equivalent of a "bit o' bread, a jug o' wine, and Thou."

The manner in which the patrons of the cafeteria made an effort to secure at least a taste of their favorite dish if it happened to be a part of the menu for the day was certainly funny, and more than one homesick student betrayed his state of mind when he confided in the person behind him that "the biscuits or the jam or the burnt-sugar frosting on the spice cake looked almost as good as the kind mother made."

This being the first week away from home bank accounts are in that most satisfying state, namely, sizable, and as a result a good many trays carry four or five kinds of dessert. Farbeit from the cafeteria reporter to remark too extensively on the mannerisms or dessert-inclined appetites of the K. S. A. C. student body for they're a fine crowd, but really, you know, five desserts isn't done in the best of families. Of course this like a few other little things will adjust itself as the school year advances and the bank account lessens and that gentle but firm letter from father comes, saying—well, we all know just what that paternal does say—the gist of the matter is that the difficulty will work itself out quite beautifully with the coming of winter when soup and potatoes and gravy which are most helpful in the process of becoming an upper classman will take the place of the lighter things of life.

"The Life History of a Cup of Coffee" or "The Confessions of a Teaspoon" might be a good theme subject for all students in the hope that they might better understand the relationship between the two aforementioned articles. It might be well to lay particular stress on the point that coffee and tea are not drank from the cup while the spoon is still in it. One of the lighter writers of the day tells a story of a man, who, when asked why he drank his coffee and tea from his saucer replied to the effect that when he drank it from his cup his spoon always got in his eye. (If there is anyone who does not get the point of this illustration, the K. S. A. C. Society for the Betterment of Table Etiquette will be glad to give him the necessary information. Kindly inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

It may help some to know that the little window in the south wall of the west dining room of the cafeteria is not the ticket window of the athletic field, nor it is a continuation of the labor of enrolling. It is the place where you should put your meal tray when you have finished eating and if you see someone else doing it, do not think they are leading you into an April's Fool stunt for it is only one of the simple and usual things that are done in all well-regulated cafeterias.

The cafeteria facilities are to be greatly enlarged, thus making it possible for more students to be fed on the hill in a shorter period of time. Consideration on the part of patrons, of the inconvenience and difficulty under which the rush is now being handled will be greatly appreciated by all.

The breakfast hour is from 7:15 until 8:30 o'clock, the lunch hour from 11:30 until 1:00 o'clock and the supper hour from 5:00 until 6:00 o'clock. If you are at the college at these hours you will be fed but the cafeteria management will appreciate it if you will not ask to be served two minutes or five minutes after the doors have been closed.

Announcement concerning the opening of the tearoom will be made later, after the necessary improvements and installation of equipment have been effected.

ALL A FAKE

I'm only a freshman crude and green. Put I want to tell you what I have seen, I'm from the farm as perhaps you know, My styles not slick—but I'm not slow. Before I came, 'twas told to me That beautiful girls here I would see; I've watched and looked till my eyes are sore, I've seen poor imitations and nothing more.

The most of the maids are not pretty—but clever They always look classy, shabby never.

Two smooth cheeks—soft and pink Two blue eyes that slyly wink, Red cupid lips that always smile, Dimples two once in a while, Eye brows dark arch a little, Where did she come from, that's the riddle?

I'm from the country not clever they say, But I've figured how girls can look that way;

Don't worry about this riddle queer. For this is the answer worked out here:

A box of rouge, the proper hue, And perhaps a thirty cent lip stick too, Some soothing cream a dollar a box, Some curling lotion for her locks, Eyebrow pencil and tweezers small, She's a clever make up, not a beauty at all.

LARGEST STUDENT ASSEMBLY PRESENT IN PAST TEN YEARS

President Jardine Tells of Plans For Future Assemblies

The largest student assembly in the past ten years met at chapel Tuesday morning. The singing was the big feature of the chapel hour. Mr. Lovejoy led the singing with so much enthusiasm and pep that before the first song was finished the whole student body had joined in.

After the singing Miss Hanna a new member of the music department played a violin solo. President Jardine then made an informal talk to the students.

President Jardine said in the future the assemblies will be forty-five minutes in length and so arranged that no classes need be omitted. On the morning that the chapel is to be held the time of the classes will be shortened fifteen minutes. The time so gained will be used for assembly.

If a speaker talks over time the students are privileged to leave for their next hour classes. The chapel hour is to be made as attractive as possible to the students, in fact so attractive that the students will have absolutely no inclination to remain away from it.

At each assembly there will be singing by the student body and a selection by a member of the faculty of the music department. The devotional feature will be in charge of Doctor MacArthur.

List is Being Compiled by the Registrar

A directory of all college students is being compiled by Miss Machir, registrar. In order to have the list absolutely correct, sheets will be posted on the bulletin board in Anderson Hall and it will be up to each student to see to it that his own name, address, and phone number are correct. If any name is omitted, the student should add it. Miss Machir urges that every one take some interest in this directory as an all-college directory is a thing that is mighty good if it is correct.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Lead in Style and Quality

THAT'S why we talk about these clothes so much. Style and quality are the two big things men want in their clothes. If we can give them more of those things than anyone else, we are doing a good thing for men and for ourselves.

Suppose—You are offered a wonderful opportunity—a chance to buy a fine piece of property at a big bargain.

Suppose—You can pay for this almost as you choose—paying as low as 2 per cent of the value each year.

Suppose—At the end of a few years, say 20 years, the company deeds the property over to you.

Suppose—If you die before that time the company would deed the property to your family.

Suppose—If you are totally disabled the property brings enough to support you, would be deeded to you at once, and the income paid would not affect the value of the property.

STOP QUESTIONABLE FORMS OF DANCING

DOCTOR MACARTHUR TELLS ABOUT RULES FOR HOPS

Rules Must Be Followed as Stated by The Student Affairs Committee or Dancers Must Leave
The Floor

Time, Saturday evening, ten P. M.
Place, Johnny Harrison's dance hall.

The music suddenly stopped and Dr. J. R. MacArthur made his way to the orchestra platform. He smiled his broadest smile and motioned to the dancers to clear the floor.

"To the new students who have never heard the K. S. A. C. rules of dancing and to the old students who appear to have forgotten I want to repeat them to you," said Dr. Macarthur.

"First the girl must place her hand upon the man's shoulder and not around his neck. Of course, I know from experience that the latter form is very pleasant for the gentleman; but as it is against our rules of dancing it must be eliminated.

"Second the man must place his hand in the center of the lady's back and not around her waist.

"Cheek to cheek is not to be tolerated," emphatically declared Dr. Mac-Arthur. "I did not bring my glasses this evening and as I'm just a little short sighted, I may be mistaken; however, I believe there are a few couples here who are afflicted with the cheek to cheek malady. I realize that in some instances the lady is of just such height and does her hair in peculiar sausage side hair rolls that it is impossible to tell just where her cheek is located. In cases of this kind we will try not to judge too harshly.

"The shimmy was forbidden in K.
S. A. C. last year or any form of dancing which closely approached the shimmy. The sororities of the school voted first to eliminate it.

"The shimmy is bad form and un-graceful. The best dancing teachers in the east do not sanction it and their jazz music is also becoming unpopular. Now, Aggie students, I know what I'm talking about for when I was in the east this summer
I attended one of the large theaters of New York City where a troop was dancing the advanced stages of the shimmy. I went in order that I might talk intelligently upon the subject of shimmying.

"I was in the city two weeks and a different troop played each week; however, I only saw each troop once."

(It is said that Dr. MacArthur never prevaricates; but the students sometimes have opinions of their own. The way Johnny's dance hall echoed with laughter would seem to prove that some believe that he attended the theater every night of his two weeks' visit in New York.)

"I know every loyal Aggie student will follow these rules laid down by the city's welfare committee and K.
S. A. C. If any one does violate them they will be privately spoken to between dances. If then the couple still persist in wild antics the offenders will be asked to leave the floor. But this will never happen for every student here is a loyal Aggie."

Dr. MacArthur smiled and bowed.
The dancers' applause was long and hearty. The orchestra tuned up with a good ragtime piece and the dancers swayed to its rhythm. The dancing season at K. S. A. C. had started in earnest for the winter season.

A GENUINE TURKISH BATH

When I
Was in New York
The other day,
I thought
It might be a good time
To take a bath,
I mean a
Real, genuine, Turkish one:
The kind
You hear the suspender salesmen
Tell about. And you Decide to take a chance
The first time
You are where they are.
I found the place
And sauntered in.
I thought
That I had gotten into
The wrong place
For
Two heathens
Grabbed me by the chin
And took away my money
And my clothes
And my socks
And then, one on each side,
They rushed me through a series
Of rooms

Each one
A little more infernal than the Last one
Until in a room,
Too hot to mention,
I
Not only began to suspect
But felt certain That
My last hour had come.
I was beginning
To wonder
What would be done with My remains when I was through with them

When two roughnecks
Sneaked up from behind Seized me and Without warning
Laid me full length on a red hot Marble slab.
Ye Gods!
I sizzled
And scorched
But despite my shrieks
Those cruel monsters, pinned me
Down with their knees
And pinched, and slapped, and scratched.

They kneaded me,
Cracked all my joints
And finally
Wrung me out like a dish rag.
From this gridiron
Of hideous
Torture, I was rushed Down a line
Where I was scalded and frozen
By alternate streams
Of hot and cold water.
Then
A bucket of suds
Was poured over me
And my two persecutors
Rushed at me
Like two prizefighters
And gave me
The once over
With a pair
Of coarse hair mittens.
They told me
It was three minutes
For I only remember
About the first minute.
My remains
Were wrapped in a Cool sheet
And laid to rest
In the cooling room.
They say
Either to succumb
Or recover.
I recovered
And I'm here to say
That if I am ever
In Little Old New York again
I know the place
And I got the price.

Did the Pretty Girls Stoop to Hook the Melons

Silently an automobile stole up to the side door of a Manhattan sorority house. As silently as a spectre pretty girls stole out of the back door, ran around the back of the house, and entered the car.
"Ha!" thought the passerby, "A romance is on foot." And he concealed himself behind a tree so that he might watch developments. Soon another car glided up to the house.
Again a pretty girl picked her way cautiously out to the car, entered, and went away.

From a spirit of curiosity the passenger remained in his place, trying to "get the big idea." After a period of half an hour or so, both cars glided noiselessly up to the curb, the occupants alighted, proceeded to smash the bulb on the street light, and then—produced watermelons from the cars. The pretty girls and the bold, bad men then broke the melons on the curb, ate the hearts, and left the rinds lying there.—Manhattan Nationalist.

PREPARE STOCK JUDGING TEAM

TO GET SOME PRACTICE OUTSIDE THE COLLEGE

Eight Students in Animal Husbandry Took First Eight Places in Contest at State Fair at Topeka

A stock judging team, made up of seniors in the course of animal husbandry, is now being trained in swine judging by F. W. Bell, associate professor of animal husbandry, previous to being sent to the National Swine show at Des Moines, Iowa, September 29.

The team is practicing in the regular stock judging classes in the department of animal husbandry and will also get some practice in judging stock outside the college.

Eight students from the department—R. R. McFadden, K. D. Thompson, N. Pearson, P. E. Neale, D. M. Howard, T. T. Swenson, J. F. Brown, and J. L. Mullen, respectively, took the first eight places in a free for all contest in swine, cattle and horse judging at the Kansas Free fair at Topeka Monday, September 8.

K. D. Thompson and N. Pearson tied for second place. Prizes were given the men ranging from five to 25 dollars.

Menhaden Is Good for the Hogs If It Isn't for Humans

Ever hear of Menhaden? Well, your hogs will be eating it before long, predicts Paul H. Imel of the extension division.

Menhaden is a fish too oily and bony for humans to eat, and for a long time no one on the Atlantic coast, where it is caught, knew what to do with it. In the last few years, however, it has been made into fish meal and has been used in the east and the south for hog feeding. It is superior to tankage, Mr. Imel says, as it contains a large proportion of protein and also of easily assimilable bone ash.

Bone meal is not generally available in the middle west now, but probably soon will be at a price lower than that of tankage.

Mill Going Again

The milling department of the Kansas State Agricultural college started the operation of the mill Tuesday for the first time since closing down last spring. The milling department under the direction of Professor L. A. Fitz, is carrying on experiment and demonstration work in milling.

He was teaching her arithmetic, And said it was his mission, He kissed her once, he kissed her twice, And said, "Now that's addition."

And as he added smack by smack, In silent satisfaction, She timidly gave him one back, And said, "now that's subtraction."

Then he kissed her and she kissed him, Without an exclamation, And then they both together said, "Now that's multiplication."

But dad appeared upon the scene, And snorted in decision, He kicked poor him three blocks away, And said, "Now that's long division".

It is said all women are witches but you never see the broom until after the honeymoon.

Tuesday's issue of the Collegian stated that R. L. Bennet had pledged Acacia. The name should have been R. L. Dennen.

Word has been received from A. W. Foster that he will return soon. Mr. Foster recently went to France with a shipload of dairy cattle.

CHINESE MAN IS DOING Y. M. WORK

WILL RETURN TO K. S. A. C. TO FINISH EDUCATION

Writes Long Letter to Miss Machir, Telling of His Work with Chinese Laborers in England and France

Philip H. Young, a Chinese boy who received his degree of B. S. from this college in 1918, has been doing Y. M. C. A. work in France. In a letter to Miss Machir, registrar, he says that he will return to K. S. A. C. to study one more year. He says:

"Riviere pas de Calais, Chinese Y. M. C. A., France, June 20, 1919.—My dear Miss Machir: Allow me to begin this letter with a sincere apology for not being able to write earlier than this. I have had a good mind to write and tell you all my experiences in France but writing is a habit which inertia is a difficult thing to overcome.

"I had a quiet, pleasant time in crossing the pond although I was a very poor sailor. There were 317 secretaries in the party. I was the only Chinese in the crowd. We had the whole boat to ourselves. A somewhat military discipline was observed while we were on board. The trip as a whole was not an exciting one except in the last few days. While the boat was approaching the Irish water, we were warned to look out for periscopes and to have a life belt on. The number of boats were increasing up to sixty in the last day. Of course they were escorted by destroyers, seven in number. It took sixteen days to take a trip from New York to Liverpool via Quebec, Canada.

"We arrived at London on the seventeenth of September. At once one could realize that the nation was at war. At night the dark streets were full of wandering soldiers and floating parasites. Many new lines of business as a by-product of the war were opened up. Saloons, restaurants, theaters, and tea houses were the most popular places. The store keepers were women and disabled men. It was an unusual thing to find a wholesome young man in business. Their slowness in execution of transactions at once told us that they had been fed up with the terrible war.

"In London the food stuff was not scarce by any means. Only the abnormal prices made the public feel that way. Eight shillings ($2) for a pound of ordinary grapes! In fact all the eatables on market sold proportionally at that rate. We can easily see what this high cost of living would mean to the working class which earns an honest living by sweat and toil. The English are certainly born business men. But in this war they have been confronted with economic problems which are very much complicated in nature. Had they not been stiffened by the American dollar her present victory would not be so certain.

"My first station in France was Boulogne, a channel port. There were five thousand Chinese laborers with the British. They are confined in a barb wired camp and are kept under military discipline except that there is no drilling. The average working hours are ten daily and seven days to the week. Since Boulogne is an important supply base, their work consists of loading and unloading at the dock. Our work among the Chinese there is not very different in character from that of any American Y. M. C. A. Of course some specific alterations have to be made in order to suit them the best. In the British area the Y. M. C. A. has the only institutions where the men can be accommodated.

"Now I am here with the intention of seeing a little more of the world. It is a devastated area. It is said that the Germans were only one mile away (at Breville). All the buildings in this village were smashed if not destroyed by shell fire. It is certainly a pathetic scene to see the French civilians building sheds here and there among ruins. Everybody is working hard for a mere existence. The general conditions at present almost resemble those of the early pilgrims in the New World.

"Although it is a devastated area the country itself is a very pretty one. The people are all rural. Wheat farming and dairying are the most popular occupations. France is famous for her delicious butter. Riviere is one of the places which is responsible for that product. The farming system is typically intensive. The average farm is under two acres. One may occasionally see an old fashioned threshing machine propelled by horses as a supply of power but the use of modern machinery is very much limited. The soil is very productive. During this war many fields have been rendered useless by shell holes often ten feet in diameter.

"There are about five thousand Chinese in the area. Unlike those with the British they are scattered around over a wide extent of the territory. The French authority does not impose upon them as much as one third of the military discipline of the British, but they pay them a daily wage six times as high. The French carelessly use a Laissez Faire system, the British cunningly introduced a Colonial method in control of the respective laborers. The laborers have been in France three years. They all are homesick. One laborer told me earnestly that he would prefer to give up three years wages if he could go home at once. This feeling is general. It is more intense among the Chinese with the British.

"Our work here among the Chinese with the French is somewhat different from that with the British. The laborers with the French are only required to do a certain amount of work daily, generally filling trench. They can come home, or do what not in the French villages as soon as their assigned work is done. This Laissez Faire system with the Chinese has imposed upon us many complicated problems which are almost unknown among the Chinese with the British. Furthermore, the French were very careless in recruiting the laborers in China. The British had the first chance to get an honest group of farmers and the French took what it came to, or what was rejected by the British. I wish to make my last statement clear. Not all the Chinese with the French are regular junks in China. Many are quite intelligent, bright and skillful. To my surprise the illiteracy among the Chinese with the French is very low in comparison with the British. The sad thing is this, that the appearance of the whole company is spoiled by the presence of a few block sheep amidst the laborers. The French are very particular in dealing with those bad ones. A little bribery can cover many evil doings which may come from time to time.

"Sometimes it is very hard for us to approach the laborers. We have to explain to them the nature and purpose of the Y. M. C. A. work for many really don't know. But so far our work is quite encouraging. Now our work is somewhat held up by lack of proper transportation. Sometimes we have to walk many miles in order to give a Chinese a lecture, and we are obliged to walk back at one or two o'clock in the morning. We just got word from Paris headquarters saying that a jitney is coming to this area at our disposal. If it is so, our work will be greatly facilitated.

"I expect to come back to the States this coming August and I shall be very glad to see you again. I shall continue my studies in K. S. A. C. for a year or so before I go back to China.

"Enclosed please find a copy of the weekly Y. M. C. A. paper for the Chinese in France. It is beautifully written. I wish you to keep it for a souvenir. Best wishes to you. Yours respectfully, Phillip H. Young."

Delta Zetas who are back this year are: Miss Ada Robertson, Miss Edith Wakefield, Misses Nelle and Grace Baker, Miss Netta Dubbs, Miss Madeline Locke, Miss Marian Clarke, Miss Garnet Grover, Miss Carolyn Lear. Miss Izil Polson will also be here this year, as she has resumed her work with the Journalism department.

PROFESSOR ALLEN ON TRIP IN PERU

FORMER K. S. A. C. INSTRUCTOR FINDS MANY INTERESTING THINGS

Allen's Records on His Trips Are Now Attracting a Great Deal of Attention in the States

Notable among the scientific expeditions of the past year is one taken through the mountains of Peru in which W. R. Allen, a former instructor at K. S. A. C. took an active part. Allen, who left here about two years ago, went then to Cornell where he was connected with the teaching staff of the zoology department. After his service with the eastern college he went to Indiana university to take work for his doctor's degree and it was while there that he made his connection with the famous Eigenmann expedition.

Eigenmann at Head

Doctor Eigenmann, who is the head of the zoology department of the Hobbs school is of German birth, but received all of his schooling in this country, is one of the most loyal Americans of Teutonic birth. His attitude in the war was unmistakably pro-American but in spite of this, when the party reached New Orleans they experienced great difficulty in having their passports and credentials accepted on account of the German name, accent and other characteristics of the leader of the party. After a considerable delay the party was allowed to proceed, permission having been secured from President Wilson through the intercession of the state officials who knew Doctor Eigenmann well.

Arrived in Peru, Allen left the main party at Huanuco and it was from this point that he began a series of letters to friends at the college which were continued throughout his travels through the South American country.

Mr. Allen, according to his letter, experienced great difficulty in securing a dependable steed and his progress was considerably hampered by the collapse of his horses. Sleeping on the ground without shelter and in the rain were common occurrences during the trip.

The following is an excerpt from a most interesting letter received from Mr. Allen, describing the beauty of the country and giving in general an idea of the difficulties under which such an expedition is made.

Travel on Horse and Mule

"From Cerro de Pasco to this point is about 80 miles. One must travel by horse or mule. As soon as you leave Cerro de Pasco the road passes abruptly into a little valley. In this little valley you pass through a series of springs. These springs soon accumulate into a little brook and the road to Huanuco follows its growth into a river and follows the river until the present location. Near here it is more than half the size of a stream as large as the Kaw, near Manhattan.

"This is precipitous country and the road is much addicted to following the face of the mountain, overlooking the constant series of rapid below. It is a land of perpetual Spring—of cactus, and of cabulla, bordered roads, of clumps of eucalyptus, most picturesquely grouped at odd corners of the haciendas. It is a land filled with the sound of running water. The first night I was out on the journey that led me over this country, I arrived at my hotel very late, and the winding road, the shadows and lights of the valley, the white cascades below made an extremely picturesque picture.

"At Huanuco the valley widens to a mile or more in extent. Through irrigation it is wonderfully productive of cotton, sugar cane, lemons, oranges, bananas, etc. It is the country of large haciendas. The road here follows the valley between high adobe walls over which one gets an occasional glimpse."

All About Peru

In another letter, Mr. Allen says that the natives of Peru regard the United States as the savior of the world, in that they entered the world conflict and helped the Allies save the world from German domination. He says that the average native knows but little of the geography of his own immediate country, comparatively, less of the world. They know of New York and Washington but have not heard of Manhattan, Kan., according to Mr. Allen. He further says that if he had found any native of Peru who had known of Manhattan he would have considered him of a very high type.

Peru knows nothing of apple dumplings, Mr. Allen declares and in one of his communications in which he tells of his longing for "one good days' grub at the College Club" he asserts that the nation that is so busy Sunday morning to transact business nighted as to not know of apple dumplings should not be allowed to exist.

One of the successful lines of research was worked out at the hacienda of Dr. Durand, a big cocaine planter of Peru. Mr. Allen says that when he located his laboratory there all the workmen, petty officers, lieutenants, cooks and the superintendent, himself busied themselves in the search for parasites, to the extent that there were more parasites than there were birds. Even an eleven-months' old child became interested and brought an offering for his assistance.

As Mr. Allen traveled on through the country he arrived at his destination just in time for the beginning of the rainy season, and he says that Peru is the finest place in the world to study the life history of the rain cloud, from within, above and below.

Much of the traveling was through almost impassable mountain growths and the use of the machete, a large scalping knife, was a great help. Mr.

Allen was in close contact with the natives throughout all of his travels and tells some amusing incidents of his conversations with them. He says that they have good food but that they do not know how to prepare it properly and believes that the American missionaries would be doing a good service if a part of their time were to be spent in teaching the native women the simple arts of cooking food so that it tastes as it is meant to taste.

"One of the highest hopes I had in coming down here has been realized," writes Mr. Allen. "I have dined upon peccary. Now I can die, content with having fulfilled an ambition entertained from boyhood. For did not Alexander Selkirk, Robinson Crusoe, Captain Cook and other celebrities subsist at times upon the juicy and well-flavored meat of peccary?"

In conclusion Mr. Allen says that everything is ripe for the American enterprises to enter Peru. America is the most popular of nations with the Peruvians, he says. Many of them are trying to pick up English and no fewer than four men with whom he came in contact are planning to come to the United States as soon as they can.

Mr. Allen is back in the States now and the records of the material which he secured during his searching is being presented to the public from time to time and is attracting considerable attention.

FRESHIES MUST DON BONNETS

SCRIMMAGE PRACTICE KEEPS AGGIES BUSY

HUSKY FRESHMAN TEAM BUCKS WITH THE VARSITY SQUAD

SEVERAL MEN ARE INJURED

Prospects for Victorious Team Are Increasing as Practice Continues—First Game Saturday

It was a regular game—that first scrimmage of the year. Cars were parked along the fences, spectators were in the grandstand and the side lines were jammed. Aggie students shouted and applauded at the many incidents in the game.

Freshman Team Receives

The freshman team chose to receive. The men advanced down the field to about the forty yard line where they lost the ball. Line bucks by Cowell, end runs by Gallagher, Hinds and Burton put the varsity far into the freshman territory. Then there was a fumble—a freshman player picked up the ball and raced sixty yards for a touchdown. The freshmen on the side line took this event for a "corker" and gently reminded the upper classmen of the affair.

Varsity Comes Back

The freshman team then started fighting harder than ever but the varsity came back with line plunges by Cowell, end runs by Gallagher and Burton. When the Wildcats were on the forty yard line, Huston made a pretty drop kick over the goal.

Substitute Several Men

Coach Clevenger began making substitutions after the varsity had made its goal kick. The Aggies made two more touchdowns before the end of the quarter. Captain Bogue ran to a goal post and cut a deep gash in his forehead while running signals. However, Bogue stayed on the field and helped to coach the men.

Phil Barnes, who was a fighter in France as well as on the football field, gained time after time by making line plunges and end runs.

Freshmen Made Showing

The remarkable showing of the freshmen won favorable comment from all the spectators. Gork, playing full back, was in every play. Marshall and Schmidt, playing guard and tackle, broke up many plays for the Aggies.

Burton and Hinds on the varsity showed old time form in broken field running and Gallagher skirted the ends for good gains. On the defense Roda, Randels, and Bogue showed up mighty well. Winters and Enlow went down the field with a show of speed while Ptacek was hitting the freshmen hard from his position of full back. Quinlan, a star on the freshman team in 1917, showed up mighty well as half on the varsity. Pete Hixon made a number of hard hits on the line. Stauffer, McGuire, and Develbliss played an excellent defensive game.

First Game Saturday

The first real game of the year will be played Saturday on the home field when the Aggies meet the Baker team. Everyone turn out for the first game and yell, shout and scream until your voice is a goner.

Is Hydraulic Engineer

K. S. A. C. alumni will be interested in the following note concerning Capt. William E. Stanley, a civil engineer of the class of 1912, taken from the Engineering News-Record of September 11.

"Capt. William E. Stanley, engineer, U. S. A., who recently returned from 20 months' service in France, has received his discharge from the service and has accepted a position with Pearce & Greeley, consulting sanitary and hydraulic engineers, Chicago. Mr. Stanley will be resident engineer on the construction of a sewer system for South Charleston, W. Va. Before entering the service Captain Stanley was instructor at Purdue University."

FOOTBALL NOTES

Coach Clevenger had reason to smile again Saturday when "Slim" Fairman dropped in at the gym and asked for a football suit. Fairman was a star fullback on the '17 squad. He was not in school last year however, as he was doing coast patrol duty as an ensign in the navy. Put "Hobe" was not expected back this year, until late in the fall. The rumor then was that he was going to Arizona university. But the wandering star returned, and Saturday he was out limbering up, and watching the varsity and freshman tangle. Fairman will be a big addition to Clevenger's already strong back field as he is a punter as well as a full back.

The spirit of the Aggie students is due to advance several hundred percent this week. Coach Clevenger has given season tickets to all "K" men and this week they are making a special effort to sell a large number of tickets before next Saturday's game. Last Saturday there had been only some six hundred tickets sold, and here are about 2500 students and instructors here. Figure the percentage yourself.

The athletic department has suffered heavily during the war, and this year it should have the kind of backing that will give our coaches time to figure on new plays and formations instead of financial worries. How many of you know that men who have won their "K" in football, basketball, baseball, and track have not been given their sweaters for the last three seasons. If a sufficient number of tickets are sold this fall they will be ordered, so Coach Clevenger says.

This year we are to have six games on Ahearn field, and they are to be good games. The Aggies' prospects in athletics never were better. But the team needs the support of the student body. And your support means more than your good will. It means $2.50 for a season ticket, and your presence at every game and pep meeting. This week you will be given the opportunity again to purchase tickets. There is to be a game here on our home field for the next three week ends. Why not be prepared to win them by buying a ticket, and starting to push for the team?

Captain Bogue was injured during the football practice Saturday evening when he ran headlong into a goal post. His forehead was cut considerably above the right eye. However, Bogue will be out and into the game soon.

E. L. Knosman of the Knosman clothing company, has written a check for $100, payable to the Kansas Aggies. Mr. Knosman has attached no stipulations to the check—it's as good as the cash. A few things like that will help the Aggies win the championship.

Floyd Hawkins is teaching typography in the journalism department.

The Weather

The summer suns are waning low; the days have had their go, and I am one that's glad. I hate to stew around and puff; of Kansas heat I've had enough; it makes me good and mad. My new silk shirt is soaked clear through; the red stripes mingle with the blue; I am about to curse. My chin is chafed from briny dew; my lips are parched; my tongue is blue; I couldn't feel much worse. I like to hear of snows to be; of frozen stream; of barren lea; and northern stories told. I love a biting winter day; I like to run about and play, until my feet get cold. What perverse jays we mortals are; we mix the sweet in with the sour. We never are satisfied. When winter holds the world supreme; we long for summer's warming beam; we switch from side to side. The sun is blazing in the sky; and to me where I sit and fry; the longing for an ice pack comes. But did the winds around us shriek, and were our bones so chill they'd creak; we'd wish for flowers and plums. Dame Nature's a peculiar jane; she deals out sunshine and the rain, regardless of our needs. No matter if the prunes are dry; she sends us sunshine from the sky; to wither up our weeds. But soon Jack Frost will reign supreme; and I will live my best pet dream; and paddle in the snow. There is no use to fume and fret;—just what is billed, that's what you get. It's the same where e'er you go.

PEPPIEST PEP TO BE SHOWN

ATTEND ROOTERS MEETING IN AUDITORIUM FRIDAY NIGHT

YOU BE THERE AT 7:30 SHARP

President Jardine, Coaches Clevenger and Schulz, Mike Ahearn, Mike Emerson and Others
Will Talk

Coaches Clevenger and Schulz are doing all in their power to make a winning football team and now comes the pep committee to do its share. Next Friday night at 7:30 in the auditorium the fireworks will begin for the peppiest pep meeting ever held at K. S. A. C. Old and new students will be taught old and new yells, the old Aggie spirit of "Fight 'Em, Fight 'Em" will be instilled in every rooter. Speeches, songs, and a general "whoop-er-up" time will fill out the program.

President Jardine will be there unless some very important business keeps him elsewhere. "Prexy" is an old football player and track man and he knows what a peppy yell will do for a team. His talk is sure to instill pep into the most peppy.

The two "Mikes", Ahearn and Emerson, will probably be there with a good line too. "Mike" Ahearn used to be the Aggie coach, they only had one then. Besides being a football coach and a horticulture professor, "Mike" is one of the best story tellers on the hill. He can give out a good line on Aggie traditions too. It's worth the price of admission, which is nulla, just to hear "Mike" Ahearn laugh.

"Mike" Emerson is a public speaking prof. and for a polished speech full of wit and pep, "Mike" is hard to beat. He knows what a pep meeting should be like, just be there and hear him tell about it. The young ladies of the college should be especially interested in this number.

Of course, "Clev" and "Germany" will make a little bow and Capt. Joe Bogue may be induced to "spiel" some.

The Aggie Wildcats have the best combination of players and coaches in the Missouri Valley conference and all they need to complete a winning aggregation is a loyal bunch of Aggie rooters.

The pep committee consists of all team captains, editor of the Collegian, the four class presidents, and the president of the Y. M. C. A. This committee will have hand bills out announcing the details. Watch for them, snap out of it and be at the auditorium Friday night at 7:30 with bells on.

Has Pictures of Other Colleges of this Section

Spalding's official football guide for the 1919 season includes a picture of last year's Aggie team as well as pictures of the following other teams of this section: Washburn, Kansas State Normal, Emporia Normal. Records of college teams and service teams of this section are given in the guide. A unique feature is a history of the A. E. F. champion team of the Eighty-ninth division. The men composing the team were practically all from this part of the country. The Kansas conference is large and better organized than any other state association of its class.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM GOES TO DES MOINES

MEN ARE CHOSEN FROM ANIMAL HUSBANDRY CLASSES

Will Stop at Nebraska University and Ames, Iowa, Enroute to Contest

K. S. A. C. will be represented by a stock judging team at the National Swine show held at Des Moines, Iowa, September 29. The team has been picked from the class in form and function instructed by F. W. Bell, associate professor of animal husbandry.

Those who will go to Des Moines are P. E. Neale, N. Pearson, J. D. Montague, F. G. Welch, K. D. Thompson, and D. M. Howard. The team will leave Wednesday, September 26 and will stop enroute at Nebraska university and Ames, Iowa, where they will work in judging stock belonging to those schools. This work is preparation for judging at the National Swine show.

Each year the National Swine show holds a student judging contest and the agricultural colleges of the middle west are represented. The men going from K. S. A. C. have been working for three years in preparation for this team.

New Commissioner

New deputy dairy commissioner Charles C. Vasey, takes office today. Mr. Vasey is a graduate of Nebraska university at Lincoln, Nebr., class of 1917. He has just returned from the army to take up his new position here.

Mr. S. J. Pearce, who formerly held this office, resigned September first. He went to Ames, Iowa, where he expects to specialize in bacteriology.

BUT PADDLES NOT TO BE USED AGAIN

JARDINE FAVORS WEARING OF THE AGGIE CAPS

URGES ALL TO WEAR THEM

President Says that Freshman should not consider Caps a Humililation but Merely a Designation

The Aggie bonnet, that traditional striped cap which has been the delight of the upper classmen for many years, will again be donned by the freshies. It is hoped that this new fall style of millinery will be on hand in time to have the blooming freshmen appear on the football field Saturday, decorated with this mark of distinction.

Sophomores Decided It

The sophomore class at its first meeting Thursday night, decided that students should be designated by the distinction of purple, white and green. In fact the sophomores were so anxious to get the matter decided, they dispensed with the nomination of officers until the matter regarding the caps had been decided.

The sophomore class president has appointed a committee of three to take charge of the purchase and distribution of the freshie headress. This committee will have the illuminated roofing for sale in a booth in Anderson hall. Every freshman boy must secure one of these petite brain covers before the first football game on next Saturday.

No Paddling this Year

While the display of rainbow colors on the campus will be the same this year as formerly, one of the old Aggie habits will be lacking this year. That is the paddling. Those stiff barrel staves and traditional boards must be omitted from the usual fun making. However, other means of punishment for the freshies who refuse to wear caps are being worked out.

President Favors Plan

Wm. M. Jardine, president, is very much in favor of the new comers wearing the caps. Concerning the matter he said, "The freshmen should not consider the wearing of the caps a humiliation but merely a designation. They will become acquainted with each other sooner and the upper classmen will make some effort to know them. However, there will be no paddling this year. Paddling, while not so violent in reality as the newspapers always say, gives the school a bad or wrong reputation. Other means, such as refusal of membership to the Student Self-governing association, will be taken to force the freshmen to wear the caps.

Sophomores Spread the News

Every sophomore on the campus is busy informing suffering freshman that the caps must be worn. The rules about the caps are really not so severe, the sophomores assure the freshies. For instance, after the home coming game on Thanksgiving, the caps may be thrown to the winds. They need not be worn to dances or any formal affair.

Girls Should do It, Too

That the freshmen girls should also wear some mark of distinction, is the opinion of President Jardine. He made no suggestions but several sophomores, taking into consideration the high price of silk, suggested that a few hints from the play "Green Stockings" might be beneficial to the ones on the committee that decides the question. This would add a new bit of humor to the situation.

COLLEGE MIXER WAS BIG AFFAIR

NEARLY TWO THOUSAND ATTENDED THE ENTERTAINMENT

Was Biggest Mixer Ever Held in the Gymnasium—More to be Held During the School
Year

Between fifteen hundred and two thousand persons attended the big college mixer which was held in Nichols gymnasium Friday night. It was one of the largest affairs of its kind ever held on the college campus.

Every person, on entering the gym, was given a slip of paper on which he wrote his name and then pinned it to his coat. At ten o'clock the dancing began and it was a real dance. Each person had about two inches and an imagination to dance on and in the end only a few suffered smashed toes. Tag dances caused much merriment, especially for the boys who had dates. One boy encircled the gym a half dozen times and then sat down and said, "I've looked for my date for the past two hours. I guess she'll have to look for me now."

Two or three more such mixers are to be given this year. If as many turn out each time as did for the one Friday night, everyone in the college will know all his fellow students.

College Professors Sometime Act Sorta Wild and Wayward

On their return trip from one of the recent fairs two said College profs. became lonesome and yearned for a cheering game of—oh tiddly winks or parchest or whatever profs. play when they're feeling real wild and wicked. Anyway the profs wanted to play but they had no table. Soon the holder of the two thought of a plan. A woman in the next seat had a suitcase, which the bold professor, after carefully testing it with his toe, decided was about the right weight to make a comfortable card table if properly arranged on the card players' knees.

Finally the bold professor in a very mild tone of voice asked the lady with the suitcase if he and his friend might use her property for a card table. Her answer was "I should say not," uttered in such a stentorian voice that all the persons in the neighboring seats looked around as if to reprove the professors for flirting with the lady.

The profs. were forced to ride all the rest of the way home with nothing more exciting to do than twiddle their thumbs, and wonder whether the lady had diamonds in her suit case or whether she merely objected to card playing.

"Con" Hoffman, secretary of the K. U. Young Men's Christian association, will return to his position this fall after a four years' absence overseas. Mr. Hoffman has been in Y. M. C. A. work among the British soldiers since 1914.

JOURNALISM IS POPULAR STUDY

OVER EIGHTY PERSONS ENROLLED IN THIS COURSE

More People Working on Collegian—Department Successfully Handled under Prof. N. A. Crawford

Another department that has a record enrolment this year is the journalism department. Over eighty persons signed up for this course which is one that is fast gaining popularity in K. S. A. C.

More freshmen than ever before are assigned to this department. And many more are taking Collegian practice, making it possible to get a wide area of news in the student publication. Practically every nook and corner is covered twice each week by some person from the Journalism department.

Prof. N. A. Crawford, head of the journalism department, has worked hard in building up this division of the college. E. T. Keith is the assistant instructor in Journalism. Miss Polson and Mr. Rogers are also instructors in the department. A number of studies including typography, news writing, industrial feature writing, editorial writing, copy reading, newspaper practice, are offered in this course.

Professor Crawford is desirous of securing even more freshmen in the journalism department. He is especially anxious to get them working on the Collegian. The Collegian this year has been enlarged from a four page paper to an eight page publication and this should be some incentive to students to write for the paper.

Charles Cloud of Winfield who was a sophomore here last year is teaching mathematics in the high school at Udell.

Mrs. Donald Jordan of Denver, Colo., an alumna of Kappa Kappa Gamma, was a mid-week guest at the chapter house.

CONTRACT FINALLY LET FOR LARGE ADDITIONS

Engineering Wing to Cost Nearly Two Hundred Thousand

The contract for the new wing on the engineering building has finally been completed and work will begin as soon as material can be obtained. The building will cost $190,000. Preparations for the addition to the engineering building began early last year. The building will be the same as explained in the Collegian last fall.

Get Girls' Dormitory

The Ellen Richards lodge at 1407 Anderson avenue has been turned into a girls' dormitory, with Miss Vera McCoy in charge. The building was formerly used as a model home where home economics students put into practical application the things they had learned in the class rooms. Because of the shortage of rooms this year the department has allowed the house to be turned over to the use of all college women. This is a splendid opportunity for any girl who likes dormitory life.

Date Already Set

November 13 has been set as the opening date of the Farm and Home week at the college. This week is always looked forward to as one of the big events of the year. It is one of the big get-together meetings which the college has with the people from all over the state.

Brad Worley who was in school '17 and '18, spent the week end at the Acacia house. He leaves this week for Philadelphia where he will attend the University of P.

The college greenhouse has between 1,600 and 1,700 chrysanthemum plants, some of which will be in bearing within a month. The flower crop generally lasts until after Thanksgiving.

Floyd Pickrell, '18, is teaching agriculture in the high school at Mulvane this winter.

Harold Gullbert of Wallace, has re-entered college.

GLEE CLUBS HELD PRACTICE

PROFESSOR WESTBROOK TO DO MORE EXECUTIVE WORK

Mr. Lovejoy Will Have Entire Charge of the Two Glee Clubs here and on the Trips Which they Will Take

Nearly ninety men of the college tried out for the glee club at Mr. Lovejoy's studio in the auditorium last week. On Thursday at 7:30 the first meeting and rehearsal was held, at which time the best twenty-five voices were selected, among them being some old singers and many new ones. Mr. Lovejoy said that it was a very difficult matter to select the best voices since there were so many excellent ones, the finest bunch he ever heard, he said.

Plans were made for the coming year which Mr. Westbrook thinks will be the best in history. The two glee clubs will be used in the chapel choir. Professor Westbrook gave some suggestions for financing the trip that the club will take. Both clubs will be used in presenting an opera during festival week next spring.

Professor Westbrook turned over the management of the two clubs to Mr. Lovejoy, and said in closing, "I regret very much that I cannot have the training of the two glee clubs this year, but with the extension of the music department it becomes necessary for me to spend more time at the executive work. The time and effort I have put on the two clubs I have never considered as work for they have been truly pleasurable to me. As I have said I regret that I must leave this work but I assure you you will have in Mr. Lovejoy a leader who will put lots of pep into the organizations since he has had seven years experience in this work. I wish you all the success possible and remember I have your interest at heart always."

FAIR WEEK IS BUSY TIME FOR SEVERAL COLLEGE PROFESSORS

Seven Professors Acted as Judges at Topeka and Hutchinson Fairs

Fair week is always for the college professors deal with any subject judged at fairs. The Topeka and Hutchinson fairs both claimed a number of professors as judges and others will go to the Wichita Wheat Show or fairs in neighboring states.

Many write ups of the Topeka and Hutchinson fairs contain allusions to Aggie professors which are quite complimentary. The Topeka Daily Capital has this to say about the representatives of the animal husbandry department who judged at the Free fair at Topeka: "Two professors from the Kansas State Agricultural college, who don't act or look like story book professors, had charge of the horse and cattle departments and gave satisfaction. These were C. W. McCampbell, and A. M. Paterson."

The same article contains the following account of the exhibit at fair in charge of Otis E. Hall: "The inspiring work of the members of the Boys' and Girls' clubs of the Kansas State Agricultural college was exhibited under the supervision of Otis E. Hall of the state college. Prof. M. F. Ahearn of the horticultural department acted as a fruit judge at the fair."

At the Hutchinson fair Doctor McCampbell and Professor Paterson had charge of the college animal husbandry exhibits. The Boys' and Girls' club exhibits were in charge of Otis E. Hall and Louis Williams. Professor Ahearn was one of the judges of the fruit exhibits. A very interesting exhibit of the damage done by the codling moth, and the damage done to wheat by the Hessian fly, and the damage done corn by grasshoppers was put on by E. G. Kelly, specialist in entomology for the extension division.

Mrs. McFarland and Miss Frances Brown judged the textile and food exhibits.

EXTENSION DEPARTMENT SENDS COURSES TO MEN IN PRISONS

Prison Men Interested in Various Courses Offered Here

The work of the College Extension department is being accepted by men who have time to think a lot upon the subject. One of these men who is now detained at the Federal Prison at Leavenworth has become interested in electricity through the Extension department and is planning to continue his studies in the electrical school here as soon as possible.

Another who has become interested in agriculture has secured a parole and is inquiring through the department for farm work near the college.

K FRATERNITY IS SELLING TICKETS

McCOLLUM, BASEBALL PLAYER, IN CHARGE

Proceeds to Go for Purchase of Sweaters for Football, Basketball and Track Men of Last Year—Everyone Get One

The K fraternity has charge of the football ticket sale, this week. The proceeds will go to the purchase of sweaters for football, basketball and track men of last year, the basketball sweaters having already been ordered. The sale is in the direct charge of McCollum, second baseman on last year's nine. All students, faculty members and townspeople will be solicited. A thoro canvass is to be made. Coach Clevenger says that between fifteen and eighteen hundred tickets should be sold. Buy a ticket and boost Aggie athletics.

The K fraternity is an athletic fraternity to which all men, who have won their K's, belong. Any of these men will have tickets. The first game of the season is only a week off and everyone should have his ticket before then.

Fair Damsels Try To Build Their Own Cedar Chests

One of the most interesting things in the enrolment of the student body for the first semester's work is the interest which has been manifested by girl students in woodworking classes and a visit to the shop practice rooms will show that they have entered that line of study without fear of jamming fingers with any of the equipment.

At present the fair coeds are learning the simple tasks which will fit them to undertake that special bit of construction, namely, the cedar chest, an article, which in the life of any fair coed is not to be scorned. Cumbrous and man-like articles, such as letter-files, wheelbarrows and the like are not in it at all so far as the girl-carpenters are concerned.

The ease with which the students undertake the handling of the tools and the continuation of their interest in the elected line of study is gratifying to the instructors, as well as being productive of good results for the student. Records show that the students of this year have made considerably more progress in the woodworking study than in their other studies in the same period of time. These first days of the school term are being filled with exercises which are aimed to help the student to become familiar with the handling of the tools and materials on which they are to work.

Students taking work in this department are having to pay double the fee of former years but this was made necessary by the continued increases in cost of material. This, however, has not tended to dampen the spirits of the carpenteresses for they are bent on making the fragrant box in which to store their linens and all the other whatnots which are a part of that sad but true state which we all allow ourselves to reach sooner or later.

Many girl students have been trying since the opening of college to arrange their assignments so that it might be possible for them to take some of the work offered in this section of the manual training department. At present there are a number of cards in the files of the department head which are being held pending official assignment to that work.

In all parts of the work the girls ultimately prove themselves efficient with the exception of the fact that limited physical strength sometimes limits the size of the task they may undertake. Also, not many girls have the early training which makes it possible for them to understand all the ins and outs of sharpening tools, and other tasks of a like nature. Their diligence in following up the work in a general way is, however, more noteworthy than that of the men students to whom the work is naturally more easy.

Most girls undertake the work for the purpose of knowing how to make small pieces of furniture which are helpful in a home. Not many of them undertake big jobs but a few of them follow out the full line of study for the purpose of being able to teach it as regular manual training. Many of the girls who have taken woodworking during their four years' work at K. S. A. C. are now successfully teaching it in the schools where they are now teaching other subjects.

Our idea of a soft snap: Being janitor of an air castle.

Same Sweet Sad Story

Sam Smiley sat still, stiff, star-staring;

Sue Smith seemed somewhat slighted.

"Sam," she sighed, "seems silly sitting so, star-staring."

Sam started suddenly, said seriously,

"Easy so, Sue. Such solemn scenes seem sweet sometimes."

Sue still seemed slighted. "Sam," she suggested, "say something sweet."

Sam simply said softly, "Sit still, Sue. Stop suggesting."

She sat still six seconds. Squinting slyly, she said,

"Shall Sue smuggle?"

"Sure," sighed Sam.

She smuggled, staying silent several seconds.

"Sam," she said suddenly, "steal some sweet-sweet," she stopped, softly slapping Sam's shirt sleeve.

Stooping swiftly, Sam stole six sweet smacks (stole seems somewhat strained, since Sue sat stock still seeing Sam steal—shaw she simply smuggled snigger).

Several seconds slipped silently, swiftly—

"Sam—", she spoke softly, sweetly,

"Sam, Sweetheart!"

"Sweet Sue!" shouted Sam, squeezing Sue's shoulder.

She smiled sweetly. Sam spoke several sweet sentences seriously. She seemed speechless some seconds.

Suddenly he straightened somewhat; she stole seventeen soulful sweet-sounders.

Sighing, she sagged, snuggled, seemingly satisfied.

Sweet souls. Stars, shine softly.

Saints, shield Sue, shield Sam.

Sweet, simple, serious souls. Silly Slush.

BERNICE FULLER OF WASHBURN IS NEW ENGLISH INSTRUCTOR

Miss Fuller did Y. W. C. A. Work in Boston During the War

Miss Bernice Fuller, a Washburn graduate who has done considerable graduate work both at Washburn and at the University of Chicago, is a new instructor in the English department.

Miss Fuller has taught in the grades and high school in the Topeka schools and was employed for some time as director of education and as English teacher in the Indianapolis Y. W. C. A. During the war she held a similar position in the Boston Y. W. C. A. She has had considerable experience in preparing students for the entrance examinations of eastern colleges.

The engineering division has a larger number of students enrolled than ever before in the history of the division. As a result of the large enrolment in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and engineering classes, the rooms are overcrowded, necessitating more rooms and teachers.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT HAS DOUBLED ENROLMENT NOW Need More Instructors in Piano and Voice

The enrolment in the music department this year is just double the enrolment of last semester. There are approximately 125 students assigned in the piano department alone. Students are now on the waiting list for entrance into the department of music. These will be taken care of as soon as enough new instructors are secured.

Miss Vina Brazelton, a new instructor in the piano department, arrived last week. Miss Brazelton is a graduate of the Bush conservatory of Chicago. Another instructor in the piano department is expected in a few days.

With all of the new instructors there will be twelve faculty members in the department. Practice rooms are now being arranged in Anderson hall.

BIG PROSPECTS ALL COLLEGES

K. S. A. C. IS NOT ONLY SCHOOL
LOOKING FOR SUCCESSFUL SEASON

INDIANS IN THEIR FIRST GAME

Many Schools Not in Valley Will Compete in Football This Year
—Homecoming Games Scheduled

Gridiron prospects of practically all the colleges and universities in the state this season are expressed in superlative terms. The first contests between the college conference teams will take place next week, but the football season of the state started off Saturday with a game at Lawrence between the Haskell Indians and a Camp Funston eleven.

Scheduled for this week are three games, Cooper college of Sterling and Southwestern university, at Winfield, Thursday; Baker university vs. the State Agricultural college, at Manhattan, Saturday, and Kansas University vs. Commerce, Salina, vs. Haskell, at Lawrence Saturday.

Record breaking attendance is bringing to all the Kansas schools of higher education many football veterans and such an abundance of promising material of unknown quality, that it is conceded that the "letter" men will have to make a vigorous showing to regain past honors of position on the school teams. With the return of scores of college men who were with the colors, "bucking the line" of Huns on foreign soil a year ago, these warriors, hardened by the rigors of army life, will lend especial strength and spirit to the game.

Eighteen Kansas colleges have scheduled 88 games for this season, most of the schedules running eight or nine games to the season. Coaching staffs generally have been rehabilitated, and in most schools enlarged. Two Kansas schools—K. U. and the Aggies—are in the Missouri Valley conference again this season, but at the same time these two schools have numerous games scheduled with institutions listed in the Kansas conference, as also have the Haskell Indians, Camp Funston and the Kansas University of Commerce, Salina, none of which is a member of the college conference.

The colleges in the Kansas conference, 14 in number, are: Bethany, Baker, Fairmount, Friends, Kansas Wesleyan, St. Mary's, Cooper, Hays normal, Pittsburg normal, Emporia normal, College of Emporia, Ottawa, Southwestern and Washburn.

Forty-four games, just half the season's schedule are to be played during the month of October, with November running almost as strong. The wind-up of the season on Thanksgiving day will see many traditional contests which for years have held the most important positions on each school's football calendar, due to long-time rivalry. The historic K. U.-M. U. Turkey day game will be played at Lawrence this year; the Kansas Aggies will meet Oklahoma university at Manhattan; Baker and Ottawa will play at Ottawa; Friends and Fairmount at Wichita, and College of Emporia and the Emporia State normal at Emporia.

First reports of the season indicate that the College of Emporia, which won the conference championship last season, will have to depend on speed rather than weight this season, the prospects being that the team will probably not average more than 165 to 175 pounds. The Aggies, however, will have a fairly heavy team.

FOREIGNERS COME TO K. S. A. C. FOR SPECIAL COLLEGE WORK

Four Foreign Countries and Our Insular Possessions Represented

At the opening of the present semester there are students here from four foreign countries, and three from our insular possessions.

Alexey E. Dobrohotov, of Vladimir, Russia, is studying how to raise wheat. He expects to visit some of the large wheat counties of Kansas, before going back to Russia.

Newton Q. Quan, Canton, China, and Wing Ker Lan, of Sun Ning, China, are industriously working over the courses in agriculture. They are planning to take two years' work while in this country.

Prospective flour makers from Santiago, Chile, South America, are the Valdes brothers, Fernando and Ignacio. They are sent here by their father, a mill owner, of Santiago, to learn the modern methods in milling.

The Brazilian government is paying the expenses of three young men from Bahia, to take courses in agronomy. B. Oliveira is entering on his second year's work. The other two are new students this year, and are Alvaro N. Ramos and G. Ferrica.

Our insular possessions are represented by Yuh En Tsen, of Honolulu, Hawaii, who is taking the course in agriculture. While from the Philippines there are two, Simplicio S. Mendoza, and Joaquin B. Martine, who are enrolled in the general science courses.

A real pin, "New Moon." Mad-dock & Hollis.

LOST—A opal ring, between chemistry and D. S. building. Phone 450 Reward offered.

Miss Mary Frances Davis, who is a junior in general science and who will return to school for the second semester, is filling the position of assistant cashier in the Farmers' State Bank of Blue Mound.

K. S. A. C. HAS AN ALL AROUND ATHLETIC GIRL

Miss Edna Chapin Carries Away Honors in Many Sports

"Hello Eddie, how's the world treating you?"

A hundred times a day more or less this greeting is called out to a boyish jolly little girl, one of our Aggie coeds. But Eddie Chapin is more than just an Aggie coed for she is K. S. A. C.'s all-around girl athlete.

You can just bet your best dollar she is. She is an artist at every game. She handles the tennis racket with the equal skill that she handles the basketball, the hockey stick or the baseball bat. But Ed does not stop with just games, for the high jump, vaulting and the forty yard dash hold no terrors for her. She loves them all in true sport fashion.

Edna has been in college two years and in that time she has made a real record. In her freshman year she made the class hockey, baseball and basketball teams; as well as the varsity basketball and hockey teams in the spring of that year she won the college loving cup in the girls' tennis tournament.

In her second year honors again were given to her. She made the sophomore hockey, basketball and baseball teams and also the varsity hockey team. Last spring she won a medal for first place in the girls' tennis tournament. Edna was one of the first girls in the college to be given a K. sweater. She made her points in a year and a half which is an exceptionally short time.

She is a true sport always in for the game because she loves it. She is a good winner and a good loser, never vain and self conscious of her honors. After playing a splendid game of basketball last winter she snapped her fingers, shook her head in disgust and remarked: "Oh shuck, I played a rotten game."

Every one in school likes Ed. That jolly smile of our girl athlete has won the heart of her college friends. It's not the game she plays but the way she plays it and it's not the things she says but the way she says them that has made her an all-around girl.

"Hello Ed, coming out to practice tonight?" Again you hear some cheery remark addressed to her. You see the boyish eyes light up and hear a boyish voice reply. "You bet I am, get 'em all out for we want a rearing good game tonight."

IS IT FAIR?

The government is rather liberal to students in the last two years of the R. O. T. C. course. It pays them commutation of rations, which, at the present time, amounts to approximately 50 cents a day.

But in order to be eligible for this commutation the students must have received their elementary work in some school where a course in military tactics was offered.

Students who got their "elementary" training in the Argonne or the army camps of America, the men who joined the colors when the country needed them, are not eligible for this pay.

There are several hundred veterans of the war, former students of the college, back in the school this semester. They are the men who would be the natural leaders in case of another war.

Yet the government denies them the benefit of the bonus offered cadets whose training, however thorough it may be, cannot compare with the experience of actual service.

The result is only natural. Few of these experienced soldiers are enrolled in the advanced course.

Can you blame tried and proven soldiers for shying at an arrangement that plays such favorites?

As a matter of fact the injustice of the law is now being felt for the first time. It was passed in 1916, and students who got their training in actual military service are returning to college this fall for the first time since it became a law.

A corrective measure already has been prepared and will be presented to Congress in the form of a rider to some bill at the first opportunity afforded. Such a measure is only in justice to the young men who gave up comforts and plans for the future, and offered their lives, for their country.

HOPE THEY DO

It has been suggested that the division of engineering install several models of modern aeroplanes to be used in future instruction in that branch of transportation. Doubtless, many students would take advantage of such a course, especially some of those who have ample time to spend their week-ends and other spare time at home. Aeroplaning would allow much more time at home and in other respects be an extremely fascinating, exhilarating and up to the minute pastime for wide awake Aggies.

GET SOME PEP!

Pep, peppier, peppiest—that's what is needed for the football game Saturday. Organized pep is the thing and the only way to get organized pep is to have the peppiest pep meeting possible. Everyone turn out Friday evening and help root.

WHAT STUDENTS SAY

Editor Collegian: What has become of that law, enacted some years ago by the Kansas legislature which prohibited the use of public drinking cups? Those in charge of the refreshments at the all-college mixer Friday utterly ignored and disregarded all laws of health and sanitation by serving drinks in glasses which were never once washed after serving. Such defiance of the law is bad enough in normal times but with another flu epidemic threatening it seems that extra precaution should be taken.—S. R. H.

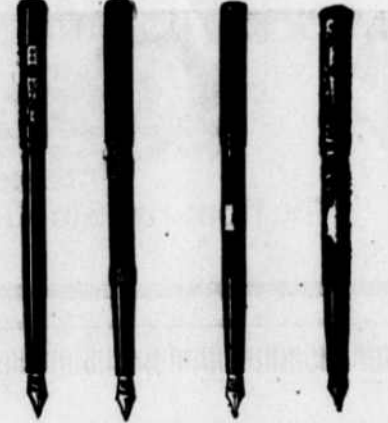

Editor Collegian. College students who know the value of books should not leave them lying around on the grass in front of the library. Recently, two friendly canine students found an algebra text there and began to eagerly devour it. In fact they were so eager to gain the valuable knowledge that the book was nearly torn to pieces. Only the quick work of a nearby journalist prevented the book from being entirely destroyed.—A Senior.

F. D. FARRELL TELLS ABOUT STATE FAIR

GIRLS' CLUBS GIVE EXCELLENT CANNING DEMONSTRATIONS

The State Experiment Station Exhibit Was Especially Interesting and Attractive

F. D. Farrell, dean of the division of agriculture, attended the State Fair at Hutchinson, Thursday. In commenting on the fair, Dean Farrell says: "The attendance on this day was 1,400. This was higher than the average attendance of the other three days. The attendance, however, was not as large as the quality and number of exhibits justified."

"One of the recent features of the fair is that it is coming to be well housed. It already has a number of permanent buildings, and others in construction. There is still need for several new buildings."

"One of the most impressive things at the Kansas State Fair, and at the Free Fair at Topeka last week, was one of the demonstrations of the Girls' Clubs. These demonstrations showed not only some of the latest methods of canning vegetables and making various kinds of bread, but also showed very noticeably the wonderful progress that is being made in the junior work of the extension department. When one appreciates the interest, skill, and charm which these club girls put into their work, he can be very hopeful of American college life."

"The experiment station exhibit attracted a good deal of attention. Special interest was shown in the map and composite Kansas farm, showing some of the outstanding features of Kansas agriculture; and in the exhibit made by the entomology department illustrating methods of controlling the hessian fly, grasshopper and other insects."

"After visiting the Free fair at Topeka last week, and the State fair this week, I am impressed with the fact that neither is as large as the state should have. In view of the agricultural wealth and importance of Kansas, the State fair ought to compare with that of Minnesota. It is inferior to Minnesota both in size and in other things. Kansas ought to have one of the biggest fairs in the United States."

Dean of Women Resigns

Miss Mary Alice Whitney, dean of women and head of the department of American history and government at the Kansas state normal, has resigned her position. Her marriage to T. C. Greene, advertising manager for a Denver dry goods firm, will occur early in October. Miss Whitney has been on the normal faculty for thirty years. She is also chairman of the history round table of the Topeka section of the state teacher's association and secretary of the state conference of deans of women.

Frank E. Fox, instructor in poultry husbandry, attended a meeting of the American Association of Instructors and Investigators of poultry husbandry held at Guelph, Canada, during the summer months.

STAGE ALL SET FOR BIG GAME

VARSITY BREAK FRESHMAN FOR THREE TOUCHDOWNS

HUSTON'S KICKING EXCELLENT

Gallager Out of the Game Because of Injured Knee—Fairman Will Play His Old Position as Fullback

The Aggie Wildcats are all set for their first game. In the last scrimmage the varsity went thru the strong Freshman eleven for three touchdowns. The Aggies exhibited more pep than in any previous scrimmage, the linemen making big holes and the backs running splendid interference.

Huston Working Hard

Huston booted the ball behind the goal line on the kick-off in the last scrimmage. Huston has been working hard to improve his kicking ability and Aggie rooters are going to see some real punting and drop-kicking this fall. Meekes, a famous Michigan university kicker, was on the Field Wednesday giving some pointers.

Gallager Out of the Game

Gallager, star halfback, will not be in the game Saturday on account of an injured knee. The gloom caused by this announcement will be dispelled by the appearance of Fairman, letter man and star fullback on the 1917 team, at his old position. Cleland was on the squad in 1916 and has been playing with the navy eleven the past two seasons. He will be seen in action at his old position at center, Saib, from last year's squad, is a promising man who will be in Saturday's lineup. Staib is a high school star and may develop into a fullback as the season progresses.

Team in Good Condition

With the exception of a few minor injuries and bruises the team is in excellent condition and are anxiously awaiting the kick-off Saturday.

Little information is available as to the strength of the Baker eleven. They have about fifty men out, twelve of whom are letter men. According to Kansas Conference rules, Baker can play Freshman this year on account of their light enrollment. It is reported that Baker has some high school stars who will figure prominently in Saturday's game.

Everybody Boast Team

"It will be a good game. Baker always has a good team and they play hard against us especially," says Coach Z. G. Clevenger.

All Aggie rooters should be out for the first game, boost the team, get acquainted with the players, and get a lineup on the Aggie Wildcats' chances for the season.

SAYS DISEASE DOES NOT COME FROM COLLEGE SHOP

Barber Shop on Hill Wishes to Exonerate Itself

A report is being circulated to the effect that three of the members of the faculty who have been suffering from a skin disease which is very prevalent in the community contracted it at the barber shop in the basement of Anderson Hall. We are in a position to deny this report absolutely. The first faculty member contracted the disease before the College barber shop was opened. The second caught it from the first. The third visited the barber shop just as the disease was beginning but before he knew what it was. The source of his contagion is known and it was not the College or any other barber shop in town. The three faculty members are anxious to have this report contradicted as it is utterly untrue.—College Barber Shop.

AGRONOMY DEPARTMENT NOW HAS UNIQUE EXHIBIT READY

Show Display at International Soil Products Exposition

The agronomy department of K. S. A. C. has a unique exhibit which is expected to be one of the features of the International Soil Products exposition which opened at Kansas City September 23. The centerpiece of the display is a composite Kansas farm, showing all the crops grown in the state, their relative value and extent.

A large map also shows the resources of each Kansas county with accompanying statistics showing the value of each crop raised in the county last year. The number of motor cars owned in each county will also be shown.

The exhibit is in charge of Bruce S. Wilson, assistant in agronomy, and Harold Simonds of the horticultural department of the extension division. A reproduction of an experiment station of the college is also part of the exhibit.

Professor Call of the soils department will deliver a lecture before the congress of the exposition on Thursday the 25th. Several other professors and instructors are expecting to attend.

SPORT DOPE

The Aggie students are getting behind the team. Tickets have been on sale this week by members of the "K" fraternity. And there has been a big demand for them. Only one day left in which to get that season ticket. Have you yours yet?

Saturday is going to find the Aggies with one of their star backfield men out of the game. "Cliff" Gallagher has a badly wrenched knee which he received in scrimmage Tuesday night. It was thought that he would again be in shape to take part in the Baker mix up. But the present indications are that "Cliff" will not be "among those present" when whistle sounds Saturday. However, Coach Clevenger says that Gallagher will be ready for the army game a week from Saturday.

Do you know that a pep meeting is the place you get your pep? The students are all ready showing a good bunch of enthusiasm. If you come out to the Pep Meeting tonight at the auditorium you will see some real spirit shown. If you already have your share of pep, come out and help it along.

Baker university dopsters are keeping in the shade what the Methodists expect to do this year in football. The only thing that they have put out is that they have a large number of letter men back, and that any team that beats them will have to put up a fight for the money. They have a new coach this year and he is reported to have a fast, aggressive bunch. In former years the Aggies have been able to come out on top with Baker. Last year Baker took the small end of a 22 to 0 score. The Wildcats should do as much to them this year, maybe more.

Finds New Remedy

Mr. C. G. Elling has found a remedy for the disastrous stomach worm in sheep. Until recently little has been known about this worm. Mr. Elling's discussion of his experiments will soon be published in bulletin form.

New Dairy Instructor

A new member is added to the teaching staff of the dairy department this year. Mr. C. F. Huffman is the new man. He took up his work here the first of this semester.

Mr. Huffman graduated from K. S. A. C. with the class of 1917. Since then he has been in the army. He was a lieutenant and instructor in the aviation corps.

WANT COLLEGE MEN IN LEGION

ORGANIZATION OF DISCHARGED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS HERE

THEY WILL HAVE CAMPAIGN NOW

Any College Student Who Was in the U. S. Service During the World War is Eligible to Membership

A campaign is being conducted among the discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines of the college to obtain new members to the Pierce-Keller post of the American Legion. The American Legion is an organization of discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines of the world war, whether they have been overseas or not. Its object is to fight so that those principles for which the men fought are upheld.

Legion's Purpose

The purpose of the American Legion is stated in the following words: "For God and Country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligations to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the masses and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

The Legion has demanded investigation of the pardon and subsequent honorable discharge by the War department of convicted conscientious objectors. It has strongly condemned the activities of the I. W. W.'s, the anarchists, and the international socialists. It has recommended that Congress take steps to reclaim arid, swamp, and cut-over timber lands, to ex-service men an opportunity to establish homes for themselves and fitting place in the constructive work of the country. It has demanded of Congress the same disability pension for men of the national guard as national army as now pertains to the establishment.

The Pierce Keller post now has a membership of 107. The post was named in honor of Capt. W. L. Pierce and Lieut. Clyde R. Keller, both of Manhattan, who were killed in action. Meetings are held at 8:00 o'clock on the first Monday of each month in the community house. Every honorably discharged soldier, sailor, or marine, whether male or female, enlisted, drafted, or commissioned, is urged to be present at these meetings.

EXTENSION SPECIALISTS BUSY JUDGING AT COUNTY FAIRS

Many Women over the Country Interested in Extension Work

"The extension specialists are busy this fall responding to the real awakening in interests in home and community betterment since necessity of war activities freed their time," says Mrs. Mary W. McFarlane, director in home economics in the extension division of K. S. A. C. "Much more interest in women's work is apparent at the county fairs than there has been for several years," continues Mrs. McFarlane.

The extension specialists are busy judging at county fairs just now. Mrs. Harry Allard has gone to Pottawatomie county to judge women's work at the fair held at Wamego. Miss Gertrude Lynn is doing the same work at Barber county.

Miss Susanna Schmeidler, extension specialist in home economics left Wednesday for Silverlake where she will give a lecture upon the subject, "Community Health." Miss Minnie Sequest is holding a dress making school in Nemaha county and will return October 4th.

EXCAVATION FOR THE NEW BUILDING HAS STARTED

Will Be Completed about Commencement Time

Ground excavation on the big $200,000 engineering building started on Tuesday, September 23. It is hoped that the building will be ready for use about commencement time. When completed the building will house the entire engineering division. The building will have a frontage of more than 360 feet. It is hoped that a perspective of the building will be available for publication in the Collegian at an early date.

Records in the office of the dean of engineering division show that more than 500 students are enrolled in mechanical, electrical, civil, agricultural engineering, and architecture. This is the largest enrollment of engineering students in the history of the college. Growth of the freshman class has increased from 93 in 1913 to more than 300 this year.

KANSAS TAKES FIRST IN CANNING CONTEST

K. S. A. C. Instructor Attended Contest at Sioux City, Iowa

First place in the individual jar contest and second place in the collective exhibit of canned goods were won by the Kansas canning club team reports Miss Lottie Milam, assistant state boys' and girls' club leader, who has just returned from Sioux City, Iowa.

Twelve states of the middle west take exhibits of canned goods to this fair each year. "The exhibit and the demonstrations by the girls this year showed a marked improvement over last year," Miss Milam said. "Never before was there such keen interest shown," continued the club leader. "The Anderson county girls' canning club first won first place over all the other canning clubs of the state at the Kansas fair."

PEP MEETING TO BE HELD IN AUDITORIUM

FOOTBALL TEAM WILL SHOW UP ON THE STAGE

YELLS AND EVERYTHING ELSE

Clevenger, Ahearn, Schulz, Jardine, and Others to Help Spread the Peppiest Pep Possible

Nothing but pep will be seen in the auditorium tonight and every Aggie who has any pep left, should appear there at 8:15 and learn how to make his lungs expand and emit sounds of Aggie yells. A big program has been worked out, topped off with the pepsters going down town and attending the Marshall picture show.

Big Program

Coaches Clevenger and Schulz, Mike Emerson, Prof. H. H. King, Dr. A. A. Holtz and Pres. W. M. Jardine will be on the stage and all will give short snappy speeches. The football men will also be on the stage and Captain Bogue will be asked to speak for the team.

Mr. Lovejoy will lead the singing while the band will furnish the music. A yell leader will be elected tonight—a number of nominations will be made and then each nominee will be given a chance to show his ability by leading the pepsters in several Aggie yells. The head yell leader will then be elected by the crowd.

Parade to the Show

Floyd Hawkins, head of the pep committee, has secured the promise of the Marshall theatre to give a special show for the Aggie rooters. The show will commence at 10:15 and the pepsters will join in a parade from the college to the Marshall theatre. In order to escape the war tax, the Marshall theatre will give a special show, separate picture and all, for the Aggie people.

AGGIE JUDGING TEAM TOOK FIFTH IN CONTEST

F. E. Gottman Took First in Judging Ayrshires and Guernseys

The Aggie dairy judging team took fifth place at the dairy cattle congress at Waterloo, Iowa, this week. F. E. Gottman placed high in judging Ayrshires and Guernseys. He was fourth high individual.

The following telegram was received from Professor Fitch, who accompanied the team to Waterloo: "F. E. Gottman placed high in judging Ayrshires and Guernseys, 4th high individual. Team 2nd on Ayrshires, 5th on all breeds. Following teams competed and placed in this order: Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and South Dakota."

Mr. Gottman, who was high man on the team, is a senior in dairy husbandry. The other members of the team are: Robert Camel, G. M. Grumm, Robert Lush, and G. C. Anderson. The team is expected to return in the next few days.

THIS CLASS IS ALL BOYS BUT ONE LITTLE FRESHIE

And She Is Certainly Having Fine Time Now

She was a very bashful little freshman and as she entered the class room she looked neither to right nor to left but hurriedly took the nearest seat.

She heard the professor read through the long list of roll cards and was horrified to learn that she was the only girl in the class. Certainly there must be some mistake. Surely that is a girl sitting across the room. No—it is only a boy with a curly pompador. Horrified, the little freshman determined to have her assignment changed immediately.

The professor announces a field trip. What should she do? It wouldn't be proper for one little freshman to tramp all over the campus with a bunch of big boys. But—she did go and as they started out one nice looking boy made a friendly remark to her which caused her to breathe much easier. And as they walked along the other boys talked to her and one even picked some sand burrs off of her shoes. So the little freshman decided that those boys were rather nice and she believed that she wouldn't have her assignment changed after all.

GET POPULAR TEACHER NOW

CONTEST TO FIND BEST LIKED INSTRUCTOR

Nominations with Letter Should Be Sent to the Collegian and Vote Will Be Made Within Two Weeks

Who is the most popular professor on the hill—man or woman? A contest to determine this question is to be conducted through the Kansas State Collegian.

Make Nominations First

The nominations will be made by the students—by anyone who is sure that he knows the most popular professor or instructor on the hill. Anyone sending in a nomination to the Collegian, should also send a short article telling why, wherefore, and how, etc. the said instructor is the best liked. The article will be limited to 100 words. So make it short and snappy.

Election in Two Weeks

Nominations may be sent to the Collegian for the next two weeks and the write-ups about the teachers will be published. At the end of two weeks, the list of names submitted will be printed and then a vote made. The vote will be carried out by ballot. A booth or box will be set up in Anderson Hall and every student in K. S. A. C. is requested to vote.

Miss Ellen Barr was called to her home in Cherokee county on account of the serious illness of her father. Miss Barr is a stenographer in the office of V. L. Strickland, director of the home study department of the extension division.

E. M. Houston, '19, has accepted a position as research assistant in agricultural economics in the college. Mr. Houston is especially well prepared for this work, as he has spent more of his time since graduation in a selected area gathering cost of production data on farms.

LEARN HOW TO STUDY

Dean Potter tells the freshman boys in the engineering course that the most important part of the entire course is learning how not to let the course interfere with your work. He even goes as far as to state that most students spend more time on their lessons than is absolutely necessary. The dean meant that if the average student studied as he really should, it would only be necessary to spend about one half as much time in preparation and yet show fifty per cent better results.

Education is an opportunity, nothing more. It will not guarantee success, or happiness, or contentment, or riches. Everything depends upon what development is produced by it.

George Fillmore Swain, in his little book, "How to Study," says: The first essential is that the student have the right mental attitude. He must not read and blindly believe. His object is to understand and he should be interested enough to delve into the subject with the author and help him arrive at the conclusions.

Above all, study understandingly. Pick out important points and carry them in your mind, question them, state them different ways, reflect on the full significance of their meaning, think of an illustration, apply them to things in every day life and always keep the mind alert for a new thought that may effect the ones already advanced.

Make your brain a systematic file instead of a pile. Grasp the fundamental idea, digest it properly and then classify and arrange the remaining important material.

Your brain should never be allowed to grow stale. Practice mental initiative. If you are not already interested, you should create an interest in your work. Reason the problems out for yourself. Put the book aside and think of it as a whole. Reach out beyond the portion that you have read and work out practical conclusions. Remember that it is more valuable to know a few things well than to have only a speaking acquaintance with a great many.

Get Their Scalp

List to the wild wierd music
Of the Wild Cat's battle call
That echoes over the gridiron
In the early days of fall.
Look at the host assembled,
Fifty in togs arrayed,
And championship hopes the brightest
They've been in a full decade.

Fifty men out for practice,
And fifteen of them letter men,
Stars of many a hard fought game
Back in their togs again,
Fletcher and Gatz and Roda,
Huston and Bogue and Wise,

Placek and Hinds and Enlow,
With speed, experience, size.

And all the rest of the fifty
Determined to fight their way
To a berth on the Wild Cat Eleven,
And a chance to get into the fray.
List to the wild wierd music
Of the Wild Cat's gridiron crew
As they train for blood and vengeance
And the scalp of the bird.—K. U.

Banner Year for Fairs

"The county fairs are bigger and better this year in Kansas than ever before," according to A. C. Hartenbower, of the extension division.

The extension division is furnishing judges, speakers, and assistants to nearly all of the county fairs. This contributes greatly to the success and interest of the fairs. It is hoped that their success this year will act as a stimulant, that in the future there will be many more county and community fairs.

OVER 500 GIRLS ARE IN PHYSICAL TRAINING

Two Assistants Secured for the Extra Classes

Over 500 girls are enrolled in the physical training department this semester. This is the largest number that has ever taken work in the department during a single semester.

Miss Winifred Bartholt of the University of Wisconsin and Miss Avis Blain who graduated here last spring have been secured as assistants to take charge of the extra classes.

Tryouts for Orchestra

Friday afternoon Miss Hanna gave a short tryout to violin players who wished to enter the orchestra. The players, in groups of two or four exhibited their proficiency and talent by playing certain parts of the music used by the orchestra. There are a number of new violin players this year who will make valuable additions to the orchestra.

Another New Silo

A new 110-ton tile silo is being built at the dairy barn. This silo is to take the place of an old stave silo which was torn down this summer. A new 80-ton stave silo has also just been completed at the dairy barn. These silos are used to store ensilage for the college dairy herd.

"A Step in the Evolution of the Modern College" is the subject of the address to be given by Dr. Helen Bishop Thompson, dean of home economics, at the meeting of the Fifth District Federation of Women's clubs to be held in Junction City, October 1, 2, and 3.

DEBATERS ARE READY TO WORK

PROF. O. H. BURNS HAS CHARGE OF WORK THIS YEAR

TRY OUT IN OCTOBER

Many of Last Year's Debaters and Men Who Were in Former Debates Are Ready for Work

Prospects are fine for some winning debate teams this year, according to Prof. O. H. Burns, new debate coach. More than 40 students have already been chosen for the debate squads this year.

Dual with Ames

The Ames dual debate, which is the main contest of the season, is scheduled for this fall. The question submitted is: Resolved that "The United States Government Should Control the Packing Industry." This question has not been definitely decided upon and may be altered. Professor Burns is corresponding with Ames in trying to get this debate postponed until next spring. If it is postponed until that time it will be possible for the team which goes from here to Ames to stop on the way back at the national convention of the Phi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity. This convention is to be held at Sioux City, Iowa, April 9 to 11.

Girls Working Hard

The question and date for the girls' triangular debate with Ottawa and Washburn have not yet been decided. Both will be announced later. There will be six girls on these teams. Many good debaters are trying for places on the squads and it promises to be one of the best debates of the season.

Professor Burns has had a wide experience in debate and public speaking which makes him well fitted for the position of debate coach at K. S. A. C. While a student at Kansas university in 1914-16 he took part in inter-collegiate debates with Oklahoma university, Nebraska university and Missouri university. In 1917 Professor Burns was instructor in public speaking at K. U. and in 1918 he came to K. S. A. C. as head of the public speaking department here.

Burns Has Charge

He will have full charge of the debates this year and will coach the debators on thought, composition and delivery. Formerly some member of the English department has coached the debaters on thought and composition and the public speaking department on delivery. It is believed that his new arrangement will prove much more satisfactory and efficient.

"With this new arrangement and with the proper amount of cooperation of the debaters and those interested in debate, K. S. A. C. can do some big things in debate this year," says Professor Burns.

Tryouts in October

Try-outs for the spring term squads will be held some time in October. The exact date will be announced later. Anyone who has had previous experience in high school debates or who is interested in debating should see Professor Burns in his office in A-66 some time soon and make arrangements for the try-outs. Two credits are given for debate in a term whether the student makes a team or not. A total of four credits may be had by each student.

The boys' debate next spring will be the pentangular. This debate is an annual contest and is between Ottawa, Washburn, Baker, College of Emporia and K. S. A. C. This is one of the big debates of the year. Each team debates once here and once at one of the other schools. The girls' triangular with Pittsburg and Southwestern also comes in the spring.

Old Debaters Back

Most of the debaters who were on the teams last year and several men who were in former intercollegiate debates are back this year. Those who were on teams last year that are back are: J. W. Barger, E. W. Frost, A. J. Englund, S. J. Gilbert, M. A. Graham, W. R. Horlacher, E. H. Willis, L. C. Binford, Lawrence Whearty, Floyd Hawkins, A. N. Burditt and C. J. Medlin, who held the debate scholarship last year. Miss Gladys Addy, Miss Christine Cool, Miss Florence Mather, Miss Dorothy Mosley, Miss Elizabeth Circle, Miss Ella Stinson, Miss Jewel Sappenfield and Miss Eloise Morrison are the girl debaters. Miss Jewel Sappenfield and Oscar Steanson hold the debating scholarships this year. W. W. Petro and H. H. Nelson, former intercollegiate debaters are also back on this year's squad. Besides the experienced debaters there are many new men and women who tried out last spring, working for places on the teams this fall. There are about forty in all on the various squads.

There are prospects for debates this year with Colorado Aggies, Kansas State Normal, State Normal of Iowa at Cedar Falls, and State Normal of Nebraska.

NEW PROFESSOR OF PATHOLOGY

DR. GATES COMES FROM UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN TO TEACH

Has Made Many Contributions to Science Along Systematic and Ecological Lines

Dr. F. C. Gates has been appointed assistant professor of botany and plant pathology. Dr. Gates comes from the University of Michigan where he has been acting assistant professor of botany since his release from the army. He will devote considerable time to the building up of a general herbarium beside teaching general botany, systematic botany and plant ecology.

Professor Gates has had training at the University of Illinois and at the University of Michigan. His teaching experience has been extensive as he has taught at the University of Michigan as a graduate assistant and was an instructor in the University of the Philippine Islands from 1912 to 1915.

He carried out special experiments at the biological station of the University of Michigan from 1915 to 1916 at the same time conducting classes in systematic botany and plant ecology. He went from the University of Michigan to Carthage college, Illinois, where he was professor of botany until his entrance into the army where he served as a lieutenant in the sanitary corps. After his discharge he returned to the University of Michigan where he remained until called here.

Doctor Gates has made a great many contributions to science along systematic and ecological lines. He has a very large collection of plants which he has personally collected. Some of his collections are now being installed in the field museum at Chicago and in the museums of the University of Michigan and the University of Chicago. He will bring a part of his collection, including specimens collected during his years of work in the Philippines to the Kansas herbarium.

Professor Gates expects to outline some new courses along the lines of his specialty which will no doubt be of interest to persons specializing in botany. He has a personal collection of photographs and lantern slides running into the thousands which he will use in illustrating lectures to be given here this year.

MANY MEN ARE TAKING THE MILITARY TRAINING

Number of Men Enrolled in R. O. T. C. Is Now 650

Some men seem to be more than satisfied with the military training they got in the army. Others seem to have enjoyed it. At least they are continuing the work after returning to college by enrolling in the R. O. T. C. A good many of the men enrolled have been officers in the army. There are 650 enthusiastic men taking R. O. T. C. work and in addition to these many men are making time in the ranks of the military science classes. With so much material to work with the military department is expecting to do some big things this year.

Prof. O. H. Burns is the new debate coach. After the death of Professor Burk last year, Miss McLean of the English department had charge of debate work until Professor Burns received the appointment this fall.

Miss Greeta Gramse, '18, of Perry, spent the week end at the Alpha Delta Pi house visiting her sister, Miss Lucille Gramse. Miss Gramse is teaching domestic science this winter in the Eudora high school.

"Pete" McNall, who graduated from K. S. A. C. as an engineer in '09, received his degree in agronomy in '14 and his M. S. the same year, leaves today for the University of Wisconsin, where he will take special work in farm management. McNall has been farm management demonstrator in K. S. A. C. for the past five years.

LOOK INTO THIS

Collegian Editor. Of course we don't know, but it looks very suspicious, that four girls should meet every noon at the Dairy Commissioner's office and sew and sew on napkins, and sheets, 'n everything, I wonder?

Dear Editor: In your last issue you printed an article about Jack London having been saved from a flood by floating away on a piano.

Now would you mind telling me, just how could one float on a piano unless the sounding board was removed. If such was true of this particular piano, you failed to mention it.

To The Collegian:

What a lot of confusion there would be if all the college bulletin boards were dispensed with now and forever. They are the highly efficient agent through which the students are kept informed of everything around the College that is of interest to them.

They are always crowded to their capacity with announcements that concern every student, and their importance cannot be overestimated.

If the announcements on the bulletin boards had not reminded every student—not once, but many times—of the "mixer" last Friday night, that event would probably not have been so well attended. If no other announcements of chapel was ever given other than that of ringing the bell the attendance at the assembly would be far from what it has been this semester.

The bulletin boards were made to look at, so if you have not already fallen into the habit of keeping a sharp eye on them try to cultivate it at once. It might save lots of trouble.

Editor of the Collegian: In Tuesday's Collegian your correspondent S. R. H. made a rather severe criticism of the committee in charge of serving refreshments at the mixer last Friday night. Before this correspondent speaks of disregarding the law and of doing things in the "defiance of the law" they had better inform themselves as to actual conditions and not spread unfounded criticism. The committee in charge of the serving of refreshments provided dish-washers and attendants to handle the matter of washing cups and did their utmost to conduct this matter in a satisfactory and scientific manner. No one was asked to drink from a dirty cup and no one would have been allowed to do so except that in the rush some ill-bred and inconsiderate persons insisted upon serving themselves in dirty cups.—Cecil F. Baker, General Chairman.

Editor Collegian: Just a few words in regard to the external and artificial upholstery for the seat of the intellect of the freshmen, as proposed and provided for by the members of the sophomore class.

Did they ever stop to consider that a large percentage of the freshman class this year is composed of men who are resuming school after two years in the service of this country both at home and in France?

Did they ever reflect that had they followed their natural desires or tendencies, that they would not now be freshmen? Has it occurred to them that these men have possibly seen far more of life, far more of the world than at present is visible to the naked eye in the hours of one or even perhaps fifteen years on the hill?

Do they remember that these men have in the past two years suffered hardships and injuries both physically and spiritually that do not come to one in comparatively sequestered life of K. S. A. C.? And that none of them regret?

And don't they think it is just a trifle "off color" and perhaps indicative of an immature judgment to force them (which might become embarrassing) to wear a hideous headgear that is neither becoming nor beneficial.

The upperclass men will find the A. E. F. and all service men not lacking in school spirit but the majority of them do not consider the "wearing of the green" as any particular distinction and it is a matter for conjecture whether any of them will take kindly to the suggestion, or whether it will improve the congenial relations that should exist between them and the rest of the school. It seems that the men who sacrificed two years of school merit some consideration but in order to gratify the natural desire to see the 1919 high school grads proclaim the fact, his suggestion is offered. Amend the rule to read thusly, either wear the bronze and silver button denoting service, or lacking that the cap, altho the necessity for any class distinction seems somewhat doubtful to a casual observer.—A Freshman who was in the service.

Accepts New Position

Miss Lassie Lane who has been extension specialist in household management at K. S. A. C., is leaving the department to accept a position as assistant State Leader of home demonstration work in the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, Oregon.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

The staff held their regular annual meeting last Tuesday afternoon.

Much business was brought before the meeting but there were no treaties signed. We adjourned for lack of something better to do.

Did you ever meet our sister states? We'll tell you their names: Miss Ourl, Mary Land, Della Ware, Ida Ho, Allie Bamma, Minne Sota, Mrs. Sippl, and Louise Anna.

She asked poor Nellis for his hand. And he agreed, but understand, That he was in a barber chair And she did manicuring there.

Senior (writing home)—"Dear Dad, send me $500. Money makes the mare go."

Father (by return mail)—"Yours received. Enclosed $50. That ought to be enough for a jackass."

Professor's Wife: "I need a new hat, dear."

Professor: "All right. I'll have the students buy another of my text books."

We have for sometime been trying to introduce a system of simplified spelling. When we loose hear and the job looks well ni hopeless, we just stop and thank our luck stars that we are as fortunate as we are. What if we had to spell soup with a "p" as in "hiccuph", or go with an

"O" as in "dough," or tea with a "f" as in "phthis", or date with a "A" as in "weight", or pet with a "T" as in "coquette", or hole with an "O" as in "beau"? We think we for one would fold up our pen and put it on the shelf.

INOCULATIONS TO BE GIVEN HERE FREE

WAR DEPARTMENT WILL GIVE TYPHOID INOCULATIONS

Those Wishing to Take the Treat- ment Must Sign Names at the Military De- partment

The war department will administer typhoid inoculation to all who desire to take it, according to Lieutenant Colonel Terrel, commandant at K. S. A. C., providing enough persons signify their desire as to secure a medical officer to give the prophylaxis.

The typhoid prophylaxis consists of three inoculations, given in the arm, pointed out the Commandant. The inoculations are given with a hypodermic needle and the procedure is painless. Only in rare instances have there been any after effects from typhoid inoculations.

Those wishing to take the inoculations will turn in their names at the office of the military department. One hundred must signify their intentions of taking the prophylaxis before the services of a medical officer from the army can be secured to administer the serum.

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHER IS WANTED FROM K. S. A. C.

Arkansas Man Says Aggies Have Good Journalism Course

D. C. Riley, director general of the division of extension, University of Arkansas, was here Wednesday, to see Professor Crawford of the department of journalism in regard to finding a university publisher.

The University of Arkansas has had Arthur W. Boyer and Leo C. Moser, both graduates of K. S. A. C., on its staff. Mr. Boyer was editor of publications for the department of agricultural extension, division of Arkansas, from September, 1918 to July, 1919. Mr. Moser now has this office with headquarters at Southern Trust Building, Little Rock.

The work of these two men in addition to other things is what is making our journalism department conspicuous. In giving credit to whom credit is due, Mr. Riley said, "the School of Journalism of K. S. A. C. is the best school west of the Mississippi today, and ranks among the first four in the United States. This high development is undoubtedly due to the efforts of Professor Crawford."

UNIVERSITY DAILY KANSAN WILL CARRY OUT NEW POLICY

It Will Be Run on a Model Rather than on a Paying Basis

The University Daily Kansan, the K. U. student newspaper is to be run hereafter as a model, rather than a paying newspaper. The new policy of the paper was decided Tuesday at a conference of Lawrence newspaper owners, members of the board of administration, and Governor Allen. The Kansan is to be put out by the school of journalism and may use such telegraph service as it sees fit, but it will not compete with local newspapers commercially.

Beauty is Aided By Bangs Dangling On Fair One's Face

Have you noticed the little bangs that the girls are wearing this year? The blonds and brunettes have little straight bangs hanging down about an inch over their foreheads.

You ask why they do not curl them as was the custom other years. If you inquire you will find the truth of the matter is that they do not have time to curl them before first hour. Besides this those old curlers stuck on their heads all night give them a dreadful headache.

Chamois skins and rouge puffs are not the only things that you will find in girl's pockets now. There is also a little fine comb. When greatly engrossed in a subject they get out this small comb and begin slowly to draw it through their fine locks. Other times they smooth them down gently with their hands.

The principal reason for these bangs is that they serve as beautifiers. The men's eyes when they look at girls who wear them are caught by these adorable little bangs that soften the features of the girl's face and make them look so lovely.

W. D. Perry, a zoology specialist at Laramie, Wyo., is one of the new members of the extension division. He will have charge of the work in the eradication of gophers and prairie dogs. He succeeds Carl Denber who is now taking a course at the University of Missouri.

Arrangements are being made for a central rooming house for colored women students of the college. A house mother is to be secured and a comfortable home life planned for the girls. The American Legion is the most democratic organization ever formed in this country in the opinion of Dr. A. A. Holtz, Y. M. C. A. secretary, who spoke before the student assembly Tuesday morning, September 23.

"I don't believe any organization was ever born with greater possibilities," said Dr. Holtz. "The American Legion comes from a common understanding of the American Expeditionary forces that there should be an organization formed to carry on the ideals which they had fought for during the war."

"The first meeting toward an organization was held in Paris where 17 men were appointed to continue the work in forming the Legion in the

TWO AGGIE SENIORS DO RESEARCH WORK

H. H. NELSON AND R. CAMPBELL
DO WORK IN DAIRY LINE

The Work Will Be Carried on in Their Home Towns and in Manhattan

Two senior students in the department of dairy husbandry, R. Campbell and H. H. Nelson, are doing research work in marketing in the department of agricultural economics. They will take up projects relating to the marketing of dairy products in their home towns and in Manhattan.

In this research work in marketing the student selects and plans a definite line of work on one certain project in which he is especially interested submitting a report at the end of the semester which describes in detail what has been done and the results accomplished.

The student is placed to a large extent on his own initiative in doing the work, with frequent conferences with the instructor, who simply serves to advise and suggest as conditions warrant.

This kind of study is typical of the larger colleges and universities, and is recognized as being of high value in developing those qualities and talents in the student which will in after life help him to the greatest extent. Marketing problems are especially adaptable to this kind of study.

"Hello" Promenade Between Library and Chem. Building

"Hello!" Doesn't last for a minute,
A clear little, queer little sound.
But say! there's a lot of cheer in it;
It's a good thing to keep passing around.

You hear it right here on the campus,
You hear it where ever you go;

And when it comes down to real meaning
There isn't one word like "Hello".

Do you remember the "hello" walk of last winter, which was between the library and the chemistry building? On that walk everyone said hello to every body else. It was the get acquainted walk of the school.

Freshies who didn't know more than two or three people on the hill were spoken to when they walked on the "Hello promenade". The real amount of goos that this custom brought about is not realized by the majority of college people. Some in fact thought the idea a foolish one. But to tell the truth it brought about a great deal of good feeling between upper and under classmates and between fraternity and non-fraternity people.

Why not again mark the "Hello walk"? Other colleges follow this custom and think it a practical plan. Why shouldn't it work at K. S. A. C.? That little word hello, when it is said in the right spirit, can do a lot in the college world.

A FRESHMAN'S SOLILOQUY

I am a Freshman
And am beginning to realize
I am just about as green as they make 'em.

I tho't
I got a lot of experience
In the army

But I never had
As hard a time
Hangin' my name

To any ration line
As I did,
Attachin' my number

To this here roll.
Made one friend, though,
An important looker,

He was standin'
With his hands
Jammed down in his pockets

And was lookin' like
He was proprietor
Of the hull show.

I tho't
He was one
Of those

Important SENIORS
You hear about
And I asked him,
Sort'a hesitatin' like,
If he was it
And he thanked me
And said
"Not quite."

He was a SOPHOMORE.
About that time
I was beginnin' to feel Kinder holler

In the lower story
So I started
Towards the Cafeteria
And got

About to the walk
Between the Auditorium
And the cookin' building
When

I bump't into
The end of a line
Which they said Ended near

The grub.
I got to eat
About three o'clock.
I decided

That the next day
I would bring my own
Bologna and crackers

Which I did.

Just how

I got along

The next few days,

I don't know.

But

I do know

I felt like crawlin' into

The first hole I came across

And pulling it

In after me

For

I always seemed to do

Just what I should not

Have done, and not to have done

What I

Should have done.

But anyway

I hope

By this time

A year from now

To be standin'

Around like that Guy

Who fooled me

And have some

Freshie lad

Ask me

If I know where

He could buy

Paper stretchers

Or Striped ink.

SOME STUDENTS ARE DISTANT

BUT THEY STUDY THRU THE EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

Enrolment in Vocational Courses for Past Year Was 273 and 3,720 Were in the Reading Courses

There are many Aggie students taking courses offered by the College who are miles away from their instructors. Sixty-six of the courses offered by the home study service of the Extension Division are credit courses of either high school or college rank. Students who for various reasons are unable to attend school here this year and those who wish to make advance credits are enrolling in the courses offered by the Home Study Service. Last year there were 450 enrollments for these credit courses alone.

A still wider field is open and growing with healthy bounds in the way of vocational courses and reading courses. The enrolment in the vocational courses for the past year was 273 and the reading course lessons totaled 3,720.

A new feature which is perhaps one of the most important growths of the department is a series of follow-up club lessons. These lessons are sent out to the Boy's and Girl's Clubs of the state giving additional help and summarizing the work they have done. These were sent to eight different kinds of Boys' and Girls' Clubs and to these various clubs about 45,000 lessons have been sent this season.

The credit courses lead in the number of lesson papers read in the department last year with a total of 3,483. The vocational courses second with 1,590. In the reading courses while only 509 papers were read, this represents a great deal of work on the part of the students, because most of the lessons papers were class reports representing 10 to 30 pupils. The follow-up courses had the least number of papers but were probably read by thousands of young Aggies because these papers were sent to clubs to be read by all members with but one member making the final report.

GRADUATE HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED IN DELINEATOR

Mrs. Nichols Has Articles Accepted by Other Magazines

Mrs. Floyd Nichols, a graduate of the home economics department in the class of 1916, is the author of an interesting article entitled, "Half-Hour Dishes", which appears in the October number of the Delineator.

Mrs. Nichols, although specializing in home economics, has done considerable work in journalism and her articles have been published in the Ladies Home Journal and other magazines.

Mrs. Nichols, who was formerly Miss Edith Nell Beaubien, received her master's degree in human nutrition at the University at Wisconsin in 1917, and taught in the journalism department there last year while her husband was in the army.

In Again, and Out Again, Oh But It's A Glorious Feeling

"Yes sir," said the old caddy master, as he warmed up to his story, fortified with a large chew of Climax, "this here game of golf has been known to ruin many a happy home. O course, since July 1 the best hole of all the courses has been closed sudden-like, but they as play the game still perform queer stunts."

"I'm reminded of a stunt that was a real stamper. When this game of golf goes so far as to get a perfect respectable member of the school faculty arrested, it is time these lawyers get star'ed and make the game safe an' sane."

"Well sir, the story sounds funny, but all them there golfer maniacs is funny, so you can believe me. You know Herb King, the chemistry prof? Well, if you don't, just kinda gaze aroun' the Country Club hill some day, an' you'll see him an' Mike Shearn an' a few others takin' a little 'Ole man's exercise' an' hollering fore to beat the band."

"'Bout two summers ago, Prof. King was studyin' to be chemistry doctor in Chicago, an' was stayin' at the house of a friend who was out o' town. An' Prof. King's particular sport after monkeyin' around with a bunch of these here chemistry formula's was to play some society shiney."

"One afternoon after havin' some of those queer little figgers act peculiar an' not lay down and sit up when he told 'em to, he decides to take out his spite on some new grass they had just planted on the golf course."

"Well, they say as how he sliced his drives, fozzled some kind of mash sho's—I guess it was corn mash an' got too old—and just plowed up the field in general with all his funny shaped clubs."

"Anyhow, he was sore, the little kid he had as his golf footman was sore, an' the ground looked like it was ready for the new spring crop of wheat. O' course, such actions demanded explanations, an' when the professor got aroun' to the nineteenth hole, he started to tell 'em all about it."

"Ever time he drove off on his talk, he got behin' a bunker, and ever time he drove out from a bunker, he got in the rough—and also rougher—an' when he had finished, the moon was sure lookin' purty."

"After decidin' that the life of a chemistry doc was sure strenuous he decided he needed some rest an' started toward his friend's house. When he started to go in, some big husky taps him on the shoulder an' says, 'Hey you, as a second story man, you are a fine ribbon salesman. You come right along to the judge an' explain such actions as these.'"

"O' course, the argument started right there, but the big boy had the best of it, and so they went to the captain. After telling him how pretty he looked in his new uniform, the professor asks to use the phone. Matters was soon settled then, and the professor was soon enjoying the rest due to a chemistry doc."

"Things turned out all right, but Professor King never told the story here. But I claim a game which causes such accidents and arrests is a danger to the present state o' high civilization that we are always hearin' about."

Make use of that vacant hour. Don't waste it. Cooper's Barber Shop in the main hall.

Who Knows This Eternal Smiler Of Johnnies Dances

She always smiles, she always looks pleased—and who is she you ask. Well to be correct, and not exact, she is one of the most popular sorority girls in the school. Especially is she popular at the Saturday evening dances at Johnnies.

Even while she dances she smiles, not a tailor made patted on smile, but a sweet little smile all of her own. Surely, the boys like her for she is easy to please. She is never too hot to dance, never too tired to talk and never too worried to be pleasant.

The boys eagerly ask her for dances. Not because she dances so exceedingly well; but because she is always so pleasant and so easy to please. Boys get weary listening to the line of yammering and fussing that so many girls put out. It is a relief to find a girl who is eternally pleased and having a good time.

AGGIES WIN THE DAY WITH SCORE OF 16-0

MOST OF THE GAME WAS PLAYED IN BAKER'S TERRITORY

BURTON STARS IN THE GAME

In Punting Duels Baker Makes Gains Baker Held Aggies To A Closer
Score Than Last
Year

The Aggie Wildcats were too much for the Baker eleven. Only once during the game was the Aggie goal threatened. Most of the game was played in Baker territory. In the punting duels Baker made some gains. After finding the line impregnable and the ends on their toes, the Baker eleven resorted to numerous fake plays; but Gatz, Roda, and Murphy broke thru the opposition too quickly and Enlow and Randels were too speedy for the Baker backs to get by. In fact all of the Aggie players showed unexpected form for a game so early in the season.

Closer Score This Year

Baker held the Aggies to a closer score than last year. The Baldwin squad were unfortunate in having several men crippled. One of the most spectacular plays was made by Green when he recovered a fumble and raced 65 yards only to be downed within 10 yards of the goal line.

The grandstand was crowded with spectators and bleachers would have held very few more. The famous Aggie band furnished music during the intervals. Between halves two Freshman squads warmed up by running signals.

Burton Stars in Game

Burton was probably the individual star of the game. "Ding" made a pretty 80 yard run for a touchdown and caught a forward pass that netted some 30 yards. Gatz and Roda played true to their form in the line and Charley Enlow was up to his old tricks at end. Fairman was playing his old rushing plunging game and showed up well for having practiced only a week. The Cowell brothers, one at full and the other at half, showed that they were fast enough for the best of them. Another promising back is Quinlan.

Considering the fact that Captain Joe Bogue and Gallagher were both out of the game on account of injuries, the showing of the Aggies looks very promising. The coaches now have a better line on the ability and suitability of the men and can develop the team accordingly. Both Bogue and Gallagher will probably be seen in next Saturday's game with the army.

Aggie Pass Intercepted

The Aggies receive. Kirby kicks to Burton on the 10 yard line. Burton returns to the 40 yard line. Hinds goes around end for 10 yards. Cowell makes 2 yards thru the line on a fake. An Aggie pass was intercepted by Kirby on the Baker 10 yard line. Johnson punts to 70 yard line and Burton returns 15 yards. Cowell charges thru the line. An Aggie pass fails. Huston punts fifty yards but the ball is returned on account of an offside play. The Aggies again punt and Enlow tackles the Baker safety in his tracks on the Baker 18 yard line. Johnson kicks to Burton on his 25 yard line and Burton returns 5 yards. Hinds gains 20 yards around left end. Burton makes slight gain thru line. Cowell plunges thru the line for 4 yards. A forward pass, Hixson to Hinds, nets 5 yards. Huston attempts drop-kick and Green returns to 10 yard line. Baker punts to Aggie 45 yard line and Burton returns 10 yards. Cowell goes thru line twice for a gain of 8 yards. Hinds makes a yard thru the line. Burton goes thru the line for first downs.

Hinds Makes First Touchdown
Burton goes for another 5 yard gain. Burton recovers fumble and goes for two yards. Hinds makes a spec-

SPORT DOPE

Did you notice "Hobe" Fairman's constant grin during the game?

The way Pete Hixson went after the Bakerites' shoestrings, has labeled him a shoe string peddler. And then when he threw that fellow over his shoulder—oh boy!

After Ding Burton made a seventy yard run for a touchdown, some of the crabby spectators remarked that they "didn't pay hard earned cash to see a track meet."

The girls don't like Carl Roda and Ike Gatz anymore—these football stars treated the Baker men too roughly, the fair damsels say. All is fair in love and war, you know.

Nowadays, every wide-awake American recognizes that it pays to advertise. No matter what trade or profession you are in it is vitally important that you let the other fellow know what you are doing. College activities are no exception to this rule. Therefore, K. S. A. C. advertises to a very large extent, in more ways than one. Of course the athletic department is one of the best advertisers since athletics play such a large part in the institution.

Several years ago the slogan "BEAT K. U." was originated. It was so expressive of the real sentiment of the school that it is now by far the most popular and generally used of any on the hill. Every Aggie student has that spirit of beating the rival school from old Mount Oread. It is drilled into him from the time he first begins wearing the green cap until he graduates, and even then he is always glad to come back every fall and "Beat K. U." again.

In order to make this slogan more generally known outside of Manhattan an ingenious method has been devised. Although not a new one, the plan is to get a number of loyal Aggies to go out to one of the neighboring hills like Blumont or Prospect and there make, in large letters the inscription BEAT K. U. These immense letters could be made of stone and if placed upon the side hill could be easily read by tourists from a far distance.

How about those Saturday afternoons, Aggies?

GRANDMOTHERS OBJECT TO THE PHYSICAL WORK

But Doctor Selver Says It Will Help Delicate Girls

A number of students have presented pleas for being excused from physical training. Among excuses offered are: "Oh! mother says that my delicate health won't permit it," "Dr. X, back home, says that he is afraid that the training will hurt my head," "Grandmother objects very strongly to these new-fangled notions of girls training and says that she positively will not consent to my taking it."

Of course valid reasons are presented in the majority of cases but Doctor Selver says, "If the majority of them would get out and take a full breath once in awhile they would feel better. Most people, girls especially, haven't taken a good 'filling' breath for ten years. If they would only realize that the physical training is not designed for their own personal punishment but for the correction of their physical faults, they would find themselves more interested in it and in all their other studies."

Mr. C. F. Laude spent Sunday at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house.

Pals

I tell you when a fellow's blue, it's mighty nice to have some friends; It takes a guy who isn't new to patch things up and make amends. When you're in hard luck, bad or worse; and everything is going wrong, a pal's the guy to rob the hearse, set things aright and start a song. The other day I was in trouble, for throwing sticks at Jinson's cow. The old man blew up like a bubble and I was sure we'd have a row. Along came Evanizer Beck, who'd run with me since we were two. He took old Jinson by the neck and wore the point off his shoe. I fell one sad, sad day a victim into the snares of Sally Brown. I tell you, boys, she was a slick one, the slickest, I believe, in town. I soaked my watch to buy her sweetmeats, I pawned my "Tuv" to go to shows, and even started taking treatments to straighten out my crooked nose. And then, Oh cruel fates sustain me, I got a letter from my pal. "Oh please would I his best man be?" for he was going to marry Sal. A few years later in the news, I saw my dear old friend was dead. "His wife," it read, "did him abuse. She beat him on his puny head." Again, I say, a pal's a pal; a life-long friend is ever true. For who else would have married Sal; to shield me from her raving mind?

KANSAS WINS FIRST PLACE

K. S. A. C. WAS FIRST ON CORN

The Exhibit Will Be Brought Here

The exhibit prepared by the agronomy and horticulture departments representing the state of Kansas, won first place at the International Soil Products Exposition held at Kansas City this last week. The exhibit was prepared by Bruce Wilson, assistant in agronomy and Harold Simonds of the horticulture department.

Prof. L. E. Call has just returned from Kansas City where he delivered an address at the exposition. There were about twelve states represented. Kansas state, winning first and Manitoba, second.

The Aggie exhibit also won first prize in sorghums, first in corn, and second in all small grains. The exhibit was considered the third most artistic one on display.

Webster Meeting

The Webster Literary Society recently elected the following officers for the term: President, Earl Frost; vice president, R. C. Ramsey; recording secretary, Paul W. Winchel; corresponding secretary, Earl Means; critic, J. H. Moyer; treasurer, Clell Newell; marshal, R. D. Nicholls; asst. marshal, R. E. Cranklin. Lawrence Wheatly was elected junior member of the Inter-society council, and Clinton Guy, and Ernest Hartman are members of the program committee.

Many of the Websters who have been out of school for a couple of years are back with their old time pep and the Websters expect to make their society the best ever this year.

The Webster and Eurodelphians gave a joint program Saturday night. Those in attendance say that it was one of the best ever given. All Freshmen are especially invited to attend these Saturday night programs.

Recollections of Last Year Bring Paddles and Hits

About a year ago at this time the freshmen boys were passing through a very strenuous and violent period. They had been courteously advised of the fact that the upper classmen desired the new students to purchase a small piece of green ribbon and adjust it carefully and artistically just above the knee. The freshmen haughtily ignored the request and went their way ribbonless. One day the upper classmen, armed with paddles, gathered in a mighty throng in Aggieville. A large crowd of freshmen boys, coming through the campus, met them. Then the fun began. In just about ten seconds a long line was formed and the freshmen sent down that line as fast as they could be accommodated.

When the battle was finally over, due to the lack of more freshmen, the scene of the fray was thickly strewn with torn coats and caps, books and broken paddles.

When a truce was finally declared by President Jardine it was more welcome to the sore, skinned and bruised freshmen than the truce of November 11.

You freshmen came in at a much more peaceful time than the freshmen of last year. You can be thankful that you are spared the unpleasantness that the sophomore boys had to endure a year ago.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED IN MILLING DEPARTMENT

OAKES, FLETCHER AND KELLOGG RECEIVE AWARDS

Kansas Flour Mills Company Award Annually a Three Hundred Dollar Scholarship Fund

Scholarships in milling industry were awarded to Floyd E. Oakes of Manhattan, senior in Agronomy; Lorby Fletcher of Wichita, junior in flour engineering and R. E. Kellogg, of Wichita, junior in flour mill engineering.

The Kansas Flour Mills Company award annually a $300 scholarship fund to be awarded to students specializing in their work, according to the rules and restrictions which the college authorities may adopt. It is open to students in the divisions of agriculture, general science, and mechanic arts who are specializing in milling industry.

The committee appointed by President Jardine this year consisted of A. A. Potter, dean of the division of Engineering; J. T. Willard, dean of general science; F. D. Farrell, dean of agriculture and L. A. Fitz, head of the department of milling industry. In awarding these scholarships, they considered the course of study, scholarship, character and personality, and the financial condition of the candidates. All other things being equal, preference is given to residents of Kansas. Except in extraordinary cases, these honors are not awarded to students below the junior year in college.

This comes as a very high honor to these men as it denotes that they have done work far above the average in the course of milling industry.

Wine Roast

The Athenian-Browning literary societies met in their hall in Nichols gymnasium after the football game, Saturday afternoon and hiked to Wildcat for a "wine" roast. After a general mixer and an hour of games, clow call was given. After the last bun and marshmallow had disappeared a short program was enjoyed. About 50 couples, including guests, were present.

THREE ALL STAR CON- CERTS TO COME HERE

PAUL ALTHOUSE, FAMOUS OPERA SINGER, COMING SOON

FIRST NUMBER OCTOBER 27

Three Nationally And Internationally Renowned Musicians Will Make Up The Series
This Winter

The first concert of the All Star Artist Course, which is to be given by Paul Althouse, a leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, at the college auditorium Oct. 27 marks the beginning of a new musical era for K. S. A. C. and Manhattan.

The Althouse concert is the first of a series of three numbers by nationally and internationally renowned musicians which is to make up the All Star Artist Course for 1919 and 1920. The next number after Mr. Althouse's concert October 27 will be a concert by Arthur Middleton, a metropolitan bass baritone, who will appear here November 24. The last number of this season's course will be a violin recital by Miss Florence Hardmann to be given February 23. Miss Hardmann is an internationally known violinist. An estimate of her musical ability may be gained by the fact that a few years ago she appeared with Sarah Bernhardt on a world tour.

Never before have three such noted artists been brought to Manhattan in a single school year, and it is indeed unusual for artists of their caliber to give recitals in cities smaller than fifty or sixty thousand. Lucy Gates, who gave a concert during Festival Week last spring was of the same class as these three musicians who have been secured for the Artist's Course. Judging from the enthusiastic ovation given Miss Gates it is believed by Professor Westbrook and Professor Emerson who have the full responsibility for the course, that the numbers on the Artist Course will be well received.

Professor Westbrook of the music department and Professor Emerson of the public speaking department have been in charge of the artist's series for the past three years, and it is under their direction that the Artist's Course has steadily developed from the old "lecture course" featuring Swiss bell ringers and "rabbit from a handkerchief" magicians to the present All Star Artist Course featuring Metropolitan stars and co-stars of Sarah Bernhardt.

Both Professor Westbrook and Professor Emerson believe that the college and town have branched out sufficiently along a musical line to warrant such high class attractions as have been secured for this season. "This series is in the nature of an experiment," says Professor Westbrook, "and the attitude which the college and townspeople display toward the Artist's Course will determine whether the high standard being set this year can be maintained in the future."

From a cultural standpoint there could be no greater opportunity for the college students than the Artist's course. The course gives the student a chance to hear artists who are rarely heard by college students unless their schools happen to be located near large cities. The standing which the school will gain by obtaining such noted artists is one which K. S. A. C. cannot afford to pass by.

The support given the Artist Course this year should be such as to insure that the high quality of this year's program will be the permanent standard for the college Artist Course attractions.

Reception

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity entertained with a reception Friday afternoon, during the hours from three to five in honor of their house mother Mrs. Sargent.

A color scheme of pink and white was used. The rooms were decorated with potted plants and pink roses. Dean Mary Pierce Van Zile served from three to four, and Mrs. W. M. Jardine served between four and five. Mrs. R. I. Throckmorton and Mrs. W. E. Grimes assisted with the serving.

Mr. Russell Knapp accompanied by Miss Bess Curry at the piano sang several numbers. Seventy-five guests were received during the afternoon.

WHO WINS IS THE QUESTION

PRIZES TO BE GIVEN FOR BEST YELLS AND SONGS

Y. M. C. A. AND Y. W. C. A. AT HEAD

Prize of $15 for Best Song and $10 for Second—$10 for the Best Yell and $5 for the Second Best

Yells and songs that will help the Wildcats win are the things that are wanted now. The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are conducting a contest to get good songs and yells.

The songs and yells must be written and handed to the Y. W. or Y. M. or in a box in Anderson Hall before Thursday evening. For the best words to any good peppy tune, the Y. M. C. A. will give a prize of $15. For the second best, a prize of $10 will be given. For the best yell submitted, the Y. W. C. A. will give a prize of $10 and for the second best a prize of $5 will be given.

The Aggies last year had some songs that were full of pep but this year they have evidently been forgotten. Floyd Hawkins of the Y. M. will "dig 'em up" and they will be practiced at the next pep meeting.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM READY FOR DES MOINES

Coach Says Men Are Placing Closer Than Ever Before

The K. S. A. C. swine judging team, which is on a trip through Nebraska and Iowa, making preparation for the swine judging contest at the National Swine Show at Des Moines, rested over the week end at Ames, Iowa. Thursday the team worked on the swine herd at the Nebraska University. From there the men went to Ames, where they work Friday and Saturday. After the workout Saturday, Coach F. W. Bell said the men were placing closer and more consistently than any other six men with which he had ever worked.

Saturday morning the teams from Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas worked on the swine at W. F. Barr's Chester White Farm near Ames, Iowa and in the afternoon on the swine at the Iowa State College. The team will face keen competition when it enters the contest at Des Moines.

Mr. Lee Turley, who is ill with influenza, has been taken to his home in Hutchinson.

THAT COLLEGE EDUCATION

The value of a college education is shown in the following article, written by a discharged soldier for the American Legion Weekly in which he tells of his experience hunting a position:

"I visited twenty offices in all, obtaining some very valuable experience but no job. As a result of my observations I have arrived at the following conclusions:

1. A college education serves two purposes. First, it affords one a never-to-be-forgotten four years' loaf and, second, it serves as an excellent excuse to break away from business at commencement.

2. Having been in the service is much like having gone to college. It was fine while it lasted and it was a cinch compared to going over the top for a job.

3. If the employer does all the talking the chances of getting a job are 6 to 1 against you.

4. If he promises to let you know he is a plain liar.

5. If he promises to write you he is a monumental ditto.

6. If he takes your name he is none the less a liar—only methodical.

I finally perforce started a business of my own and am making a great success. I am running a correspondence school advising young men how to get jobs."

SOUND INFORMATION

New students, did you know that there is a place on the campus where you can find your respective county papers, particularly the weeklies? You will find them in the periodical room of the library and your perusal of them will help you to keep in touch with the happenings at home as well as the general news of the world.

The office of the building and repair department which, in the past, has been located in the rear of the engineering building, has been moved to a building of its own and will be found in the little square white building between the engineering building and the shop practice rooms.

G. R. Pauling, who is the superintendent of all repairs and building at the college, with his clerical staff, has his office there.

Anybody want a job, part time or full time? Then call at the Y. M. C. A. for at present they have a list of fifty for which they are anxious to secure persons to fill. The work is varied and pays well and will help any student in need of assistance, immensely.

PRIZES ARE TO BE GIVEN FOR BEST COLLEGE SONGS WRITTEN

Pep Committee's Anxious For Many Songs To Be Sent In

The Pep Committee of K. S. A. C. is anxious to have a large number of songs written in the contest for the $15 and $10 prizes offered by the Y. M. C. A. for the best and second best words to be sung to some snappy tune.

Also everybody should try for the $10 and $5 prizes offered by the Y. W. C. A. for the best and second best yells.

It is necessary that the contests close Thursday night in order that the songs and yells chosen can be printed for use at the next pep meeting.

Dancing Party

The Kappa Sigma fraternity entertained with a dancing party at the chapter house on Saturday evening September 27. A two piece orchestra furnished the music. Professor and Mrs. Doerner chaperoned the party. Twenty couples enjoyed the dancing.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: It's all very well for K. S. A. C. to have a student directory, and all like that, but what about the poor, defenseless girl student who happens to live at a house that allows a telephone when every man on the campus can find out her telephone number without the least difficulty, whatever.

Is it fair, that this sad state should be when the afore mentioned girl student is really trying to study every night, that the names should be so publicly posted, address, telephone number, 'n everything?

It seems that it is bound to result in a bolshevik-inclined organization of some kind, or a Society for the Protection of Girls Whose Telephone Number Is Known to the World at Large.—S. C.

Collegian Editor: Kindly issue the above or betterment on the same topic (referring to an article he had written) in the Tuesday addition of the Collegian.—A freshman subscriber.

The Collegian is in doubt about this statement. The paper has no annex or addition of any kind and so would like to have an explanation on the "Tuesday addition."

Editor Collegian: Navy officials should consult some of the seagoing coeds who cruise about the campus wearing navy jumpers, in order to learn how to make the personnel of the navy more efficient. Some of our salutes are certainly accomplished. Just think of a gob being able to be a chief quartermaster, a bugler, and at the same time wear a navy E. Another startling accomplishment is the way they can make a chief master-at-arms also be a seaman. That sure is great because they always were looking for something to do anyway. Someone should let the secret out that it was the cooks that had the most friends.—A Gob.

Editor Collegian. A down town street sign reads, "Shute the Tailor" and as we pass through Aggieville we are encouraged with "Drown the Tailor." Is it open season for tailors in Manhattan?—Not Signed.

If the person who wrote this article will kindly send his name to the Collegian, the editor of "Look Into This" will be glad to answer the question. Too many personal things would have to be said to answer it through these columns.—The Editor.

Dean Burton Didn't Blush Because He Didn't Have Time

Dean Burton is not bashful, and it's mighty handy sometimes that he isn't. It would have been duceedly inconvenient during the Baker game Saturday if Burton had demanded a dressing room in which he might change his sweater.

One of the Baker heavies in his attempt to catch Burton who was nimbly dashing through the lines with the pigskin, caught only his sweater sleeve; as Burton would stop for nothing, the sleeve remained behind.

Dean Burton's football brothers at once insisted upon having a whole sweater for their best sprinter. The whole sweater was brought from the sidelines and the speed hero was surrounded by the Aggie warriors while the shift of covering was being made.

This temporary dressing room fitted the occasion very well but it was not secure from grandstand peekers. However, Burton wasn't embarrassed, in a football game there isn't time for that. He grinned at the onlookers, made the shift and jumped into the game for the third reel.

LIBRARY IS NOT PLACE FOR THE LAZY SNOOZERS

But Beds Will Be Prepared in Anderson Hall

It was thought for a time that the reading room of the library would have to be remodeled in order to accommodate those students who desire to regain some of the sleep lost during their midnight meanderings. The matter has been turned over to the committee on student affairs and it is hoped that some sleeping equipment will be provided in a quiet corner of the community center in Anderson Hall.

There is an axiom that runs something like this. "Success in business, or in going to college, depends, not so much on lying awake nights as in keeping awake in the daytime."

Doctor Macklin Writes

Dr. Theodore Macklin writes that he is well pleased with his new position as associate professor of agricultural economics, which he accepted this fall, in the University of Wisconsin, at Madison. Doctor Macklin has been head of the department of the agricultural economics in the Kansas State Agricultural college since 1917, and an instructor in rural economics in the college from 1915 to 1917.

W. E. Grimes, assistant professor of farm management, is acting head of the department.

Held Vesper Service

Prof. H. W. Davis's talk at last Thursday's vesper service was on the subject, "Learning to be Tolerant." He developed the thought that college offers the opportunity to expand previously existing narrowness of mind; that one goes to college largely to become dissatisfied—in a wholesome way—with the community in which one has lived. Devotionals were in charge of Eloise Morrison. A vocal solo was given by Miss O'livette Mitch.

The Big Sister organization is holding committee meetings this week. Other T. W. C. A. committees are being organized in preparation for the year's work.

Mr. A. B. Smith, librarian, was in Kansas City, on business Wednesday.

SOPHOMORES ARE AGAINST POLITICS

CLASS ELECTION HAD SOME EXCITING EVENTS

Simpson, Zeller, Hill, Miller, Foltz, McKee, Turner and Randels Elected to Respective Offices

The Sophomore class election which was held from one to five o'clock last Thursday afternoon proved a very exciting incident. Some real old time ward politics was injected into the contest by an eve-of-the-election circular issued by one faction declaring themselves against "machine politics" and for various other principles, including the wearing of freshman caps, student self-government, and more class functions. Electioneering waxed quite rabid during the election, representatives of both sets of patriots standing opposite the polling places and urging the claims of their candidates upon the passing sophomores. No fatalities from the consumption of the election cigars have yet been reported but it is declared that a particularly villainous brand of rope-ends was disseminated by adherents of the different factions.

When the well-known and justly famous smoke of battle had cleared away and the votes had been tallied the results were announced as follows:

President, Sam Simpson 102, Victor Meade, 66; vice president, Bucklee 81, Lulu May Zeller 86; treasurer, Jack Hill 108, Hobart May 60; secretary, Enola Miller 167; marshal, Shorty Foltz 157; assistant marshal, McKee 154; chairman social committee, Rowena Turner 44, Evelyn Glenn 26, Findley 19, Rolfe 24; member of student council, Horace Randels 168.

The total vote was 169, more than two-thirds of the members of the class participating in the election.

Kissless Winter

Must be Observed

By Every Kansan

This is to be a kissless winter, according to the latest bulletins from the office of the society for the prevention of influenza and its auxiliaries. Anybody discovered violating this most important ruling will be punished accordingly.

Now what do you think of that, everybody?

Moreover, when you meet friends from whom you have been long separated, your greeting shall be only a salute, not even a handshake. Exception is not to be made in the case of men returned from overseas. Anybody who comes home after this ruling goes into effect will be out of luck where meeting with Mary dear is concerned.

This is a Kansas idea, let it be remarked and originated in Topeka thru the efforts of one Dr. Earl C. Brown who daily exerts himself in behalf of the Anti-Flu Society.

Greetings can be as friendly as you please as long as the act of greeting is confined to a broad grin, or a "hello" or other words, but woe be to the person who is caught in an osculatory expression of his affection for another.

Finally, the only comfort there seems to be in the new ordinance is that it is one thing that cannot be blamed to the high cost of living. Dr. Earl C. Brown and the A. F. Society are alone to blame and judging from the reception with which his suggestion has been received over the state, he will never be elected president on the strength of his popularity won through this action.

TWO NEW INSTRUCTORS IN ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

That Department is Much Larger than Ever Before

Growth in the animal husbandry department is marked by the addition of two new members to the teaching staff, which brings the total to ten.

Dr. H. L. Isen will be associate professor in charge of genetics. Dr. Isen holds the degrees of bachelor of science in agriculture, master of science in genetics, and doctor of philosophy in genetics from the University of Wisconsin. Work which he has done ranks him as one of the leading geneticists in America.

B. C. Zimmerman will be assistant in stock judging, history of breeding, and pedigree work.

College Canteen now open. Basement of main hall.

POULTRY CLUBS DO BETTER WORK

BOYS AND GIRLS POULTRY EXHIBITS BRING MANY PRIZES

Parents and Children Desire Clubs To be Started in their Communities

Great enthusiasm is being shown all over the state by the boys and girls in the Boys' and Girls' Poultry clubs, according to John L. Prehn, state poultry club leader, who has just returned from work with the poultry club exhibit at the free fair, held at Topeka September 8 to 13, and the Kansas State fair, held at Hutchinson Sept 13 to 21.

"I find that the club work of the Boys' and Girls' club workers and the quality of their exhibits this year is far superior to that of last year," says Mr. Prehn. One member in particular won regular and special prizes aggregating $40 with two single birds of White Rocks.

"I find it very encouraging to note the spirit of progress among the young people. Quite a number exhibited at the fairs last year but on account of the poor quality of their stock they received no prizes. This year they came back strong and won premiums all the way from fourths and fifths to firsts. There were 68 birds exhibited at Topeka, and 48 at Hutchinson. These exhibits represented all of the popular varieties of poultry and were sent by members of 30 clubs in six counties of the state. Arrangements have been made with the Kansas State Poultry Breeders association whereby the members of the clubs will be permitted to exhibit at the state poultry show to be held at Wichita next January.

"At both fairs I received requests from both parents and children that clubs be started in their communities. Club work will start in November this year. It is expected that there will be at least 50 per cent more clubs and club members during the coming year than the past year. The Kansas Boys' and Girls' Poultry club is open to all persons between the ages of ten and 18. Membership is free.

"All material and instruction is furnished through the cooperation of the Kansas State Agricultural college and the United States department of agriculture. The assistance of local leaders thruout the state is desired to make connections between the state leader and the local community."

Teachers, parents, and boys and girls desiring clubs in their communities should write John L. Prehn at the college.

The home economics department of the extension division is answering some calls for judges at county fairs this week. Mrs. Allard left Wednesday to judge the women's work at the county fair held at Onaga. Miss Gertrude Lynn will be a judge at the fair held in Medicine Lodge. Miss Francis L. Brown left Wednesday for Meade to act as judge at the fair to be held there.

Is Modern Hog House

The new hog house being constructed by the animal husbandry department is nearing completion. This will be one of the most modern hog houses in the country and will cost approximately $1200.

Word has recently been received by the civil engineering department that J. C. Jones, '13, has returned from foreign service and is now working with Leo Rexroad, '13, who is conducting a consulting engineering business at Hutchinson.

Miss Arria French Neal returned Sunday evening from Salina where he spent the week end.

Miss Viola Stiles was a Friday dinner guest at the Chi Omega house.

Miss Alice Dawson of Belleville, spent the week end at the Chi Omega house. Miss Dawson was a graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural college with the class of '18.

Mrs. W. H. Pilkenton, house mother of Lambda chapter of Chi Omega, Miss Pauline Pulse, and Miss Marcia Baker also of Kansas university were week end guests at the Chi Omega house.

WANTS SERVICE MEN ORGANIZED

K. S. A. C. HAS THREE ALTERNATIVES OF ORGANIZATION

EMERSON IS INVESTIGATING NOW

Pierce-Keller Post of American Legion Will Give Smoker for College Ex-Service Men in October

The Pierce-Keller post of the American Legion in Manhattan is highly desirous of seeing the ex-service men of K. S. A. C. organized in some connection with the Legion. J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking, having served in the ranks, has been appointed by Pres. W. M. Jardine to investigate the matter of forming an organization of college ex-service men.

A smoker for ex-service men of the college will be given by the Pierce-Keller post, sometime in October. The exact date has not yet been decided. At this time it is proposed that the college men decide which of three alternatives they will follow. They may either apply for a post at the college, join with the Manhattan chapter with an auxiliary post at the college, or affiliate with their home chapter and form an ex-service club at the college without any official chapter.

"I have talked with a few ex-service men," said Professor Emerson in discussing the three plans of organization, "and I find they are not inclined to favor the plan of forming a separate post at the college, because such a chapter would automatically expire at the end of four years. Each year would see a fewer number in the chapter and it would naturally die out.

"Ex-service men should be thinking over these three plans because their interests are vitally concerned. The American Legion is going to be a tremendous factor in American life of the future. It is highly important that the college men especially exert their influence to the end that the Legion's purposes shall be honorable and its policies remain true to the ideals of its founders, one of which is that it shall not become a tool in the hands of political manipulators.

"I believe it is the purpose of each county organization to gather data concerning the men of the county who have been in the army, such as photographs and honors bestowed upon them, and to publish this data in a book form as a permanent record of the post. This should be taken into consideration when deciding which of the three forms of organization is to be employed.

"The desirability of a distinctly college organization should be apparent. It will frequently fall to the lot of college ex-service men to express their will with regard to educational policies affecting them directly. The advantage should not be overlooked as to the influence the college men should have in affairs of the Legion. They should be able to make their ideas felt collectively as well as individually.

"Every ex-service man in K. S. A. C. should consider it of vital interest to himself to attend this smoker to be given by the Pierce-Keller post at a future date."

An Aggie graduate who did not lay away his desire for learning with his diploma is Ulysses Grant Houston, a Manhattan resident and K. S. A. C. graduate 59 years of age who recently made application for entrance to the Cambridge, Mass. high school. Mr. Houston wished to study elementary Latin. As yet the Cambridge school committee have not been able to decide as to whether or not Mr. Houston should be admitted to the class. The committee believes that he is too mature for a class room filled with boys and girls from 14 to 16 years old.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: In the last issue of the Collegian, the writer A. E. F. expressed himself as being against the wearing of the freshman bonnet.

Does the fact that he was in France or in the service for two years, have anything to do with college spirit? And did he ever stop to think of the fact that practically every college student in K. S. A. C. was in the service the same as he was? And even more than that—did he ever consider the fact that many of the persons who were not in the service, did much more than many who were?

The freshman cap is not a degradation or humiliation to the student—merely designates him as a first year student. Seems to me that Mr. A. E. F. would be glad to don one of these bonnets because he will get acquainted with his fellow classmates much sooner and the upper classmen would make an effort to know him.

And another thing, from the outcome of the first freshman meeting, it looks as if the class needed some organizing of some kind. If A. E. F. wants any more argument on this question, I am ready to give it—A Sophomore.

The "Look Into This" column is for the use of every student on the hill. If he has a complaint, good word or anything else, it will be published in this column. Moreover, the Collegian will print anything sent to this column—unless it is too bad.

Young Man: "Do you serve lobsters here?"

My pony.

It was well trained no doubt,
For every time that Johnny came
The little light went out.

City Boy: "I suppose you hatch all these chickens yourself?"

Country Boy: "No, we have hens that do that."

Molly had a little curl
That hung behind her ear;
But when she went to bed
It hung up on the chignonier.

"My wife is just like George Washington; I don't believe she could tell a lie to save her soul."

"You're lucky; mine can tell a lie the minute I get it out of my mouth."

"Dad, I was simply great in the relay events," boasted the youth just home from college.

"That's good son, your mother will soon be ready to relay her carpets."

"Oh doctor, if I should die," sobbed the patient.

"I'm doing my best for you," replied the physician.

The oldest good story is the one about the boy who left the farm and got a job in the city. He wrote a letter to his brother, who elected to stick by the farm, telling of the joys of city life, in which he said:

"Thursday we auto'd out to the country club, where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach, and Friday there."

The brother on the farm wrote back:

"Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all afternoon. Then we went to Med's and poked till morning. Today we muled out to the corn-field and gee-hawed until sundown. Then we rapped, and then we piped for a while. After that we staircased up to our room and bed-steaded until the clocked fived."

There were two Browns in the village—both fishermen. One lost his wife and the other his boat at about the same time. The Vicars wife called; as she supposed on the widower; but really upon the Brown whose boat had gone down.

"I am sorry to hear of your great loss," said the lady.

"Oh, it aint much matter," was the philosophical reply; "she wasn't much good."

"Indeed," said the surprised lady.

"Yes," continued Brown; "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my mate but he wouldn't have her. I've had my eye on another for some time."

And then the outraged lady fled.

We understand that a movement is on foot to change Memorial Day to June 30th, in memory of departed spirits.

Robust old gentleman (to sick lady): "Take heart, when I first came here I hadn't strength to utter a word. I had scarcely a hair on my head. I couldn't walk across the room and had to be lifted from my bed."

Sick lady: "You give me hope, kind sir. When did you come here?"

Old Gentleman: "I was born here."

How a Man Can Be His Own Grandfather.

I married a widow who had a grown up step-daughter. My father came to visit me and being a widower, he fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. My father therefore, became my son-in-law, and my step-daughter became my mother, because she had married my father. In due time my wife had a son, who was, of course, my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my step-daughter. My father's wife, who was my step-daughter, remember, also had a son who was my brother, and at the same time my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. Now my wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was therefore, my wife's husband and grandchild, and, as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.

When Adam in bliss,
Asked Eve for a kiss,
She puckered her lips with a coo.
Gave looks so ecstatic,
And answered emphatic,
"I don't care, Adam, if I do."

He: "It makes me a better man every time I kiss you."

She: "Oh, my Harold! How good a man you must be now."

"Here's something queer," said the dentist. "You said that this tooth had never been worked on before, but here I find small flakes of gold on my instrument."

"I think you have struck my back cellar button," replied the victim.

A man was defending himself in a divorce suit. "She's unreasonable," he contended, adding, "the other day she called me the laziest man in the world because I threw a kiss at her."

"No; I don't enjoy billiards now."

"How is that, Jim?"

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION BEGINS THE YEAR WITH PEP

Every Girl In College Having Fifty Points Can Join

The girls athletic association is starting up with an unusual amount of pep this fall. It was decided at the last meeting that the association's membership would be made larger than it has ever been. Real things are going to be accomplished, things that count for something, things which will make every member proud that she is a part of the organization.

Every girl in college should belong to the association and can belong if she will get busy and make 50 points, which is the required amount for membership. Points are not hard to make as they are given for almost every type of work done in athletics.

Fifty points are given to any girl making a class team. Points are also given for swimming, tennis, perfect class attendance, vaulting, dancing and hiking.

FORMER CAPTAIN FAVORS THE PHYSICAL TRAINING

Says Aggies Should Have Been In Machine Gun Service

A former captain who saw active service during the war and is now taking vocational work here, believes that if more Aggie students had seen the way in which machine gun battalion recruits were made into real fighters, they would be more enthusiastic concerning physical training and athletics.

The machine gun service was probably one of the most active branches of the army. The men were trained by severe physical exercises and rough handling with the aim of developing team work and cooperation. The captain believes that if Aggie students had seen the splendid results obtained by methods used in the machine gun companies they would be willing to get behind the physical training department of the school as that department aims to do to some extent what the machine gun companies did for the soldiers.

K. S. A. C. HAS TWO BANDS THIS YEAR

DIVIDED ALL BANDMEN INTO TWO BIG ORGANIZATIONS

First Band Will Be Composed of Trained Musicians and Second of Men Who Have Had Little Experience

Seventy men have signed for band work this semester and this means that the Aggies will have two bands this year, according to Mr. Harold Wheeler who has charge of the work. The first band will be composed of trained musicians and will be used for concert work throughout the year while the second band will serve as a training school for those who have not had the opportunity for practical experience in the work. Mr. Wheeler says, "The bandmen are to devote their time to band work instead of the regular military drill and classwork. In addition to that the men will be expected to put more time than the required three hours a week. The men are willing to do this in order that the band this year may be an organization of specialists, trained in their own particular line of work."

To get this band into shape for the position that it will hold in the school and in the military department of the college, the members will have to undergo a course of training that will be more strenuous than the men who do "squad right" and "squad left" on the college campus. Under Mr. Wheeler's direction the band is going to be a matter of pride to the military unit and to the institution in general.

Mr. Wheeler desires that all men who play band instruments come out to the next meeting of the organization. The first band meets on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 5 to 6 p. m. The second band meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays at five o'clock and on Saturdays at one o'clock.

First Its Up Then Down, Out and Then In—Well What's Next

Presto Change. Girls you have had your last little mincing steps, now you can step out of the narrow skirt into a wider one—anyhow, my Pansy says you can. She says that for winter the skirts are all going to be wider and higher, that the instep skirt is going to be a back number.

The co-eds who are wearing those war suits with the long skirts one yard in width and slashed to the knee had better quit "doing their bit" and get a wider one if they want to be in style.

K. S. A. C. isn't a Paris or a New York style center but the girls here do like to hang on the out skirts of fashion, I notice.

I just wonder what the women will do with the skirt next. Pansy says that fashion just takes delight in playing all kinds of antics with it, first it's up—then it's down, next it's in and then it's out.

I saw a lot of new things at the foot ball game yesterday. All the girls stepped out in their new trimmings. A lot of the dresses were some kind of funny cloth, looked like screening. Pansy said it was tricollette.

But what's the use of me telling you what I saw at the game, guess you were all there from the looks of that grandstand.

AGGIE DEBATE SQUAD HAS FIRST MEETING

TWENTY BOYS AND GIRLS ATTEND THE FIRST BIG MEETING

Boys Are now Working for the Ames Team—Girls Working for Triangular Squad

The Aggie debate squad had its first meeting Wednesday evening September 24. Eleven girls and ten boys were out for this meeting. The boys are out for places on the Ames team which will debate some time in December. The girls are working for places on the girls' triangular with Washburn and Ottawa, which is also to be held some time in December.

It was decided that the debate squads would meet every Wednesday and Friday between 4 and 6 in the afternoon. Professor Burns announced that the work for the next few weeks would consist of work in delivery and class work on composition of debates. The exercises assigned by Professor Burns for voice culture may cause considerable grumbling on the part of the debaters roommate. However, Professor Burns says if practiced diligently, he will guarantee the debaters a fine speaking voice.

The debaters are showing lots of pep this year and with the coaching which Professor Burns is giving them K. S. A. C. will be sure to have some good debate teams this year.

A. H. DEPARTMENT SENDS FIVE HOGS TO IOWA

Is Largest Show of Its Kind Ever Held in the United States and It Is Difficult to Place a Prize

The animal husbandry department this week is sending five head of Poland China hogs to the national swine show which will be held at Des Moines, Iowa, September 29 to October 4. The exhibit will be in charge of E. F. Ferrin, associate professor of animal husbandry, and W. W. Bales herdsman of the college.

The national swine show is the largest swine show in the world. Only the very best of the swine shown at the state fairs are entered. At the first show, held at Omaha in 1916, exhibits were received from Rhode Island and Kentucky on the east to Minnesota on the north and Washington on the west. This year exhibits will be received from all over the United States.

As competition is very strong, exhibitors are fortunate to receive any prizes whatever at this show. No encouragement is given to stock which has not received prizes from the state fairs. On the five head to be exhibited, the animal husbandry department won $138 in prizes at the Kansas free fair at Topeka. The prizes taken were: junior champion, 3 firsts, 4 seconds and 2 thirds.

COLLEGIAN CAN'T ANSWER THIS ONE

HOW CAN A DISH TOWEL BE USED IN DRINKING LEMONADE?

Subscriber in Indiana Is Interested in Work that a Certain Society in K. S. A. C. Is Doing

The K. S. A. C. Society for the Betterment of Table Etiquette which established itself, locally and nationally, through the issue of the Collegian of last week has already received a second addressed, stamped plea for assistance. It reached the head of that organization last Friday and came from Napoleon, Ind., a copy of the best college newspaper in Kansas having penetrated even into the wilds of the Hoosier state.

The epistle reads: "I received the Kansas State Collegian today and you can be sure that I enjoyed it immensely. Reading through it I discovered an article which made me believe that you could help me in my present difficulty. The article concerns the proper and improper use of drinking cups in their relations to spoons.

"Now the other night I was suffering from a bad cold and had to drink some hot lemonade. It was seething hot and the cups in the house in which I live have no handles on them. I bethought me long and well, then tried to take it spoon by spoonful but that was unsatisfactory since hot lemonade must be assimilated while it is hot lemonade if it is to have the desired effect on a cold. I lighted a match in the kitchen and found a dish towel, sometime a flour-sack. Then I drank. Was I right? Or what was I?"

The editor of the column who handles communications of this organization was somewhat baffled as to a fitting reply to make to the trusting and interested person-whose-subscription-is-paid-for and as yet has not answered the letter, the difficulty being that it cannot be determined just where the dish-towel, erstwhile flour-sack, entered into the process of drinking the hot lemonade.

In the future, it will be appreciated if all applicants for aid and assistance will express themselves more clearly, else their letter will have to be referred to the English department.

Did you know that the lost and found bureau was located at the college post office? Maybe a lot of you did but there are a lot more who have been traveling around the campus looking sad and forlorn over the loss of some article, not knowing that there was an inquiry bureau which might possibly alleviate their difficulties.

Others have been asking to be allowed to use the telephone in places where it is really not convenient for them to conduct their telephonic conversations, so, to whom it may concern, there is a public telephone booth in Anderson hall which all may use. If you can get to it.

Many are not familiar with the location and purpose of the college bulletin boards. They are located in the east wing of main hall, all in a row—literary societies, denominational organizations, athletics, and the like, and any information which you may wish to know concerning any of them will be found there if it is available at all. At the north end of Anderson hall will be found a general bulletin board where are posted generally interesting things concerning the world at large. Perusal of these will not come amiss and you will not be ruled out if you are discovered reading them.

Last, but not least, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. stand ready to serve you in any way that it possibly can. If, in the course of the school year, you come up against some problems which weigh heavily against your heart, mind or anything else, including your pocketbook, and you're in doubt as to who is just the person who will exactly understand you and be able to help you, take it to one of these two places and you will find in Miss Irene Dean and Dr. A. A. Holtz, the Y. W. C. A., and Y. M. C. A. secretaries, respectively, a source of help and comfort which cannot be rivalled.

It is of interest to know, too, that the student presidents of these two college organizations are, respectively, Miss Elizabeth Circle and Floyd Hawkins, and you will do well to make their acquaintance for they are here to help you in any way, possible.

SHORTHORN EXHIBIT TO BE GIVEN NEXT MONTH

Animal Husbandry Department Is Preparing for Exhibit

That it is possible for the beef type of shorthorn to be a heavy milk producer will be demonstrated by the animal husbandry department at one of the largest shorthorn shows in this part of the country. It will be held at the W. R. Nelson farm, near Kansas City, October 1 to 4.

This show is the first strictly shorthorn show in the United States and the best herds throughout the country will be shown. One of the most interesting features will be an exhibit of the heavy milking, thick fleshed shorthorn cattle, from an experiment now being conducted by the animal husbandry department.

"The chief purpose of this experiment is to show that it is possible for the beef type shorthorn to be a heavy milk producer," says Dr. C. W. McCampbell, head of the animal husbandry department. "The cows in this experiment are giving from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of milk a year and their calves are winning prizes at the International Live Stock shows each year."

IT PAYS TO ENTER THESE STATE FAIRS NOWADAYS

K. S. A. C., Men Bring Home over $2,300 from Two Fairs

Winnings of the animal husbandry department at the two state fairs of Kansas amounted to more than $2,341. This is nearly twice as much as was ever made before. Prizes were taken in competition with live stock from the best herds in Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas.

College Dairy ice cream. College Canteen.

The best syrups, fruits, and ice cream is used at the College Canteen.

A. M. Paterson, instructor in animal husbandry in the college, left Sunday for Muskogee, Okla., where he will judge hereforwards at the Oklahoma fair. This speaks very highly of the ability of Mr. Paterson as a judge of cattle, as only the best of judges are employed at the state fairs of the country.

COLLEGE STOCK WINS MANY RIBBONS AND PRIZES

Winnings Include Championships from all over the U. S.

Ribbons representing the winnings of the stock of the animal husbandry department at the fairs the last season are on display in the show case in the basement of the agricultural building.

Prizes were won last season not only at the state fairs; but also at all of the large stock shows over the United States. The winnings include championships, first, second, and third places. Horses, cattle, hogs, and sheep are among the winners.

The large number of ribbons displayed speaks well for the animal husbandry department. The quality of the stock bred by the department is known over the country as among the best. Few animals are raised that do not become prize winners.

Great interest is being shown in the vesper meetings this year. The rest room in the home economics hall will scarcely accommodate the crowds. Meetings will be held in the recreation room in Anderson hall as soon as the room can be completed.

GOOD-BYE E'S

'Twas but three weeks ago to-day,
Just when this term was new.
That I resolved to make some E's
And a splendid record too.

But now the days are setting long,
I'm sort a tired of grinding.
I can't forget that Autumn's here,

And paths to the woods are winding.

There's a keen little show in town today.

I think of it with a sigh.
Oh, chemistry and calculus
I'll study you bye and bye.

There's a keen little girl on a certain street.

I think of her, my mind in a trance.

Oh, lessons why be bothered with you?

I'll take that maid to a dance.

'Tis a balmy autumn afternoon

The woods they call to me

Oh, books, you cannot teach me half of the things that I can see.

So it's good bye Zoo, and it's good bye calc and the rest of the things to be learned.

I'd a blamed sight rather be an all round sport and let those E's be durned.

RIOTS AND FIGHTS IN FIRST MEETING

FRESHMEN WILL TRY TO HAVE MEETING AGAIN TOMORROW.

Few Persons Tried to Control Freshies' Crowd and the Remainer Objected—All Are Quite Disgusted

Riots and scrambles for the floor were the big features of the first freshman meeting this year, held in the auditorium last Thursday night. The fight lasted so long that the meeting was finally adjourned and the freshmen will try it again in the auditorium tomorrow night.

The meeting started off in fine style with a temporary chair in charge. Nominations were made for president and vice president and then the fight began. Everyone wanted to talk at the same time and as a result no one talked at all. Several would-be orators tried to wave the crowd down and secure a hearing but hisses from all parts of the auditorium drowned the voices.

It was the largest freshman meeting ever held on the hill and the failure to keep order is placed on the persons who had charge of the meeting. Every freshman should be cut to meeting tomorrow night and help elect the officers that will do the right thing by the class during the year.

"MIKE" EMERSON WAS THE FIRST SPEAKER

The largest pep meeting in Aggie history was held in the auditorium Friday night. Over 1,800 students, about twelve hundred of whom were boys, were there to learn the yells and to listen to various peppy speeches.

About 150 members of the Kansas City, Kan., commercial club attended the meeting and boosted for the Aggies.

"Heinie" Hinds quieted the crowd long enough to elect a cheer leader. "Shorty" Meyers was elected head leader, while Ray Watson, Jimmy Albright and "Dumpy" Corby were elected assistant cheer leaders.

"Mike" Emerson was the first speaker. His subject, "The High Cost of Living and Germany Schulz" immediately commanded attention. The way he handled things, not "Germany", of course, brought much applause from the students. Emerson's philosophy, he said, is "say it with a football ticket and make a dollar feel like itself once more."

Doctor Holtz, Coach Clevenger, "Germany" Schulz, and Colonel Brady made short snappy speeches. After the Aggie yells were practiced, all went to the show at the Marshall theatre.

Another pep meeting will be held next Friday night in the auditorium and more girls are urged to attend.

R. P. McCULLOUGH TALKS ON DEVELOPMENT OF THE NEWSPAPER

Newspaper Men Must Aid in Saving The Soil of Kansas

"For thirty years Kansas has been saving her soul and losing her soil," said R. P. McCullough in a talk given before the journalism students Thursday on the subject, "The Development of the Newspaper."

"Newspaper men have done their part in saving Kansas' soul," said Mr. McCullough, "by their campaigns for prohibition, woman suffrage and other reforms, now they must help Kansas save her soil, for if she loses that she will lose her soul as well."

Mr. McCullough believes strongly in the field of industrial journalism. "There is a field in agricultural journalism, broad beyond description," said Mr. McCullough. "The journalist can not better serve his country than by learning what to say and how it should be said concerning questions of industrial life."

Mr. McCullough praised the advance newspapers had made along the lines of advertising and politics. In regard to dictation he thinks that the news sheets of thirty years ago surpassed in their language the slipshod dictation of today. Mr. McCullough is optimistic in regard to the increasing number of politically independent newspapers. "Politics is important, but not of supreme importance," he said, "Too many newspaper men believe that in order to be patriotic they must be partisan. A newspaper must serve all the people, not those of one political party."

MISSOURI UNIVERSITY'S BEST MEN ARE ON HOSPITAL LIST

Line Is The Greenest The School Has Ever Had

Missouri's football future is not painted in bright colors in a recent issue of the "Missourian". A large hospital list and one of the greenest lines the University has ever known are the main causes for Missouri's "hard luck story", a portion of which reads as follows:

"Rarely in the history of football at the University has there been such a large early season hospital squad as at the present time. With the practice only a little more than ten days old, Coach Miller has some of his best men on the field only as onlookers and in every case the men out of scrimmage are those to whom Miller looked for great things."

Torn shoulders, broken fingers and the misfortunes which are threatening the "flu" attacks are a few of the Missouri game. Those who are still on the field are said to comprise the line "that is characterized as one of the greenest Missouri has ever had." According to the "Missourian" "Those who are watching the development of a Tiger team realize that the men who are to push forward or hold the Gold and Black line must make some fast progress in the near future if Missouri's chances for success are brought out."

"BEAT K. U." NEWEST CLUB

ELMER KITTEL ORGANIZING CLUB OF ROOTERS NOW

ALL BOOSTERS ARE ELIGIBLE

There Are No Fees Attached to the Club—Any Red Blooded Student or Faculty Member Can Join

"Tater, pumpkin, turnip, squash. Pluck that Jayhawk's bird 'gosh."

This is the chant of the newest organization on the hill. It's the favorite refrain of the "Beat K. U." club.

The Beat K. U. club is being organized by an Aggie graduate, a former cheer leader and organizer of rooter clubs. It is Elmer Kittel of the college canteen. "Kit" organized a bunch in 1916 to go with the team to Lawrence and when noses were counted there were 1,500—three times as many as were ever on the K. U. field from K. S. A. C. before.

Anyone May Join

The sole purpose of the club is to beat K. U. As to eligibility "Kit" says any red blooded Aggie booster, student, faculty member, or citizen without respect to race, color or previous condition of health or of servitude, is eligible for pledging. Membership is limited to 5,000 so hurry boys and hand in your name.

No Fees to It

The best thing about the organization is the fact that there are no fees and anyone can meet the other requirements. When there is a pep meeting, all members must turn out and yell for all they are worth—and when there is a football game, the members of the Beat K. U. club must yell for two solid hours.

How You Gonna Get There?

How are you gonna get to K. U.? That is a simple matter. Just drop in at the college canteen and sign your name to the book which Mr. Kittel is carrying. You will be given your choice of passenger train, touring cars (Fords included), auto truck, busses, motorcycle, pullmans, cattle cars, box cars, coal cars, hand cars, cabooses, or any other thing that livestock can stand.

A special passenger train will be chartered. Town people who have cars but have no one to drive them, are being asked to communicate with the Beat K. U. club. Also anyone that will have some extra room in his car, is asked to notify Mr. Kittel.

Get Tickets Now

Tickets for these methods of travel will be on sale at the college canteen. All you have to do is step up and pay your money and you can go by any one of the methods—or both if possible.

As to signing up for the Beat K. U. club—why, the sooner the quicker.

SPORT DOPE

Saturday's game promises to attract a great deal of interest. It is the Aggies' only game outside of a school game, and the outcome of it has no effect on the Missouri Valley standing.

Gallagher is still on the hospital list. It was thought that he would be able to get out in time for this week's mix up, but it will probably be another week before he is again in shape to play.

Another player who was out of the game last Saturday on account of injuries was Captain Joe Bogue. Bogue is still slightly crippled up, but his condition is such that he will take a part in the game this week.

How many of you fellows who were at the pep meeting last week have been following the suggestions about going out to watch the team practice, and doing a little yelling out there?

There is to be another pep meeting tonight. Don't get the idea that it won't amount to much. Come out and practice those yells.

Hinds who played such a good game against the Methodists, may not be able to play much in the coming game on account of a bad charley-horse that has developed this week.

Last year the Aggies won the Missouri Valley track meet, and Germany Schulz has big hopes of repeating the stunt this year. He already has a squad out working every afternoon. It will be a long time before any contests take place but it takes time to develop a speed demon, and a number of the men who are now working have been out of the game from one to three years.

It only seems right that somewhere in this column we should report the fact that "Mike" Emerson refereed the freshman class meeting last Wednesday evening. Dr. MacArthur and Prof. Baker acted as umpire and head linesman respectively.

The world series right now is taking a great deal of interest among the students. And the rate of interest was more than 6 percent among those who backed Chicago in the first game.

K. S. A. C. TO WELCOME ITS MOST NOTED WAR HERO NOW

Major General Harbord Expected in Manhattan in Near Future

Major General James G. Harbord, K. S. A. C.'s most distinguished warrior, will probably arrive in Manhattan sometime this month. Major Gen. Harbord is an Aggie graduate and has many friends in college circles. His mother, Mrs. Effie Harbord, lives in Manhattan.

Major General Harbord expects to finish his work in Armenia and Turkey where he has been at the head of the American commission for the purpose of investigating conditions there against the possibility of the United States exercising a mandate over Armenia. He will come to Kansas shortly after his return to the United States.

Major General Harbord won the reputation of being one of the most able of the American generals in the A. E. F. during the war. He was chief of staff for General Pershing, and commanded the second division. Later he was placed in charge of the S. O. S. His latest honor is the appointment as head of the commission to the Near East.

The annual election of the Kansas State Collegian board will be held on Tuesday, October 14. Four members will be elected, these together with the head of the industrial journalism department constitute the board.

The board has general charge of the paper, including election of the editor and manager when these offices are to be filled.

Only seniors and juniors are eligible to membership on the board. Nominations are made by petition, and each petition must be signed by twenty subscribers for the Collegian. These petitions must be filed with the journalism department not later than Wednesday, October 8.

Voting at the election is open to all students who have subscribed for the paper.

Gallery Practice Starts

Gallery practice will begin next Tuesday, fourth hour. This is not a class in amateur photography; it is a class in R. O. T. C. 22 caliber target practice. Classes will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Each class consists of thirty or forty men.

What Makes a Popular Guy?

We've wondered that since childhood days and yet there's nothing to confide. We've thrashed it out a thousand ways and still no clue; none can decide. There's Percy Brown, so dear and sweet; he's just like sister Susan Ann, yet girls just fall down at his feet and vow he is the nicest man. Imagine Skinny Ruben Jake, society's bright leading star. He used to drive the city rake, now he's the one man of the hour. There's Beefy Lewis, slick and fat, who slides in sideways at the door; he even wears a stovepipe hat and flits around the ball room floor. Remember Hiram Witherston? The geek with pockmarks on his map; he was the ugliest bird in town but now he's termed a popular chap. Jack Milford Jones is a rich man's son, who spends his coin like so much rice. Whether it's personality or his mon, the girls just think him awful nice. There's another duck that we all know. He sweeps the floors and dusts the stairs, but has a smile for every Joe and nothing's complete without Jack Airs. It's not his family history that makes a man today. It's not his dad's prosperity that soria paves the way. There's many a pie faced guy that takes, in society's grand review. So it isn't the handsome face, that makes a duck of the chosen few. If it isn't the way he ties his tie or the color of his hair, it must be the guy himself that's awry, if he doesn't get his share.

ROOTERS ARE ONES NEEDED

PEP MEETING IN THE AUDITORIUM AT 7:30 TONIGHT

WANT TWO THOUSAND TONIGHT

Big Program and Parade Will Be Staged as Starter on Camp Funston Game—New Yells and Songs Will Be Tried

The second pep meeting of the year will be held in the auditorium at 7:30 tonight. Every Aggie student must be there or take the consequences later. The pep committee will take the delinquent ones in charge.

Prepare for Game

New yells and songs will be practiced for the Camp Funston game. A contest has been in progress for the past week to get new songs and yells and these will be tried out by the students.

At the last pep meeting there were over 1,500 Aggies out to start the ball rolling. But this time a much larger crowd is wanted. If 2,000 rooters turn out for the pep meeting tonight, it's a sure thing that the Wildcats will defeat the Funston terrorists on Saturday.

Fine Program Arranged

The pep committee has arranged an excellent program—one that could put pep into the dearest of the dead. So if any of you Aggies are not enthused over tomorrow's football game, come out tonight and you are sure to catch the spirit.

Following is the program for the meeting tonight: Speeches by Fausen and Davis; music by the pep quartette, music by the band, yells, etc. Dean Potter is the chairman for the evening.

DAIRY JUDGING TEAM IN WISCONSIN WORKING NOW

Preparing for Work to be Done in Chicago Soon

The K. S. A. C. dairy judging team, which took fifth place at the cattle congress at Waterloo, Iowa, last week left Thursday for Wisconsin. From there the team will go to Chicago where the men will judge cattle at the national dairy show.

The team will spend about three days in Wisconsin near Wauslesha visiting the different dairy herds. This work is done merely to prepare for the national contest at Chicago. Professor Fitch, one of the coaches of the team, will join the others at Chicago Monday.

The following men are on the team:

G. E. Gotman, G. C. Anderson, Raymond Campbell, and R. H. Tush.

Monday evening after the contest a banquet was given by the National Swine Show Association in honor of the different teams. The banquet consisted of a six course dinner given at the Savary Hotel. Between the courses the different teams gave their college yells and songs.

After the banquet Big Bob Evans, president of the association, gave a talk on the raising of pure bred livestock, and of the future of the livestock business as a whole.

Professor Mamford of Illinois, chairman of the students judging contest, gave a discussion on the placing of the different classes of hogs in the contest and the reasons for the placing of the judges.

Mr. Russel, specialist of swine husbandry in the U. S. department of agriculture, talked on the raising of hogs as a business instead of a game or on the speculators basis. Mr. Gordon, a prominent hog breeder of Iowa, talked on the merits of the different teams and announced the placing of the teams and the individuals.

Tuesday the team followed the official judging of the Duroc Jerseys, and Berkshire, breeds of hogs and returned to Manhattan Wednesday afternoon in the absence of more than a week.

This year the team took second place while the team two years ago was last. If the people of the college will back the team like they do the football team we can have a winning team at the International contest in December. The stock judging team that goes to the International is composed of five men. These men represent the college the same as the football team does, except that the stock judging team has to pay its own expenses. At the International the team will compete against teams from all over the United States and Canada.

Golden Belt Medical Society

The quarterly meeting of the Golden Belt Medical society will be held in the lecture room of the chemistry building at K. S. A. C. next Thursday.

Many well known members of the society will be present and many interesting topics will be discussed. Elizabeth Rothermell, associate professor of food economics and nutrition will read a paper on "Some Dietary Problems in Febrile Conditions."

Mrs. W. W. McFarlane, director of the home economics in the college extension division, went to Chanute this week to be judge at a fair. Miss Gertrude Lynn of the same department will be a judge at the fair in Beloit. Miss Rena Paulson, the dairy specialist in the department is attending a dairy meeting all this week in Altamont. Mrs. Allard is spending several days in Jackson county giving dietetical lectures.

AGGIES PREPARED TO ROMP ON ARMY TEAM

CLEVENGER PREDICTS BATTLE ROYAL WITH M. U. TIGERS

BIG PEP MEETING TONIGHT

Rooters Will Have Strong Competition Saturday with Four Hundred Yelling Soldiers from Camp Funston

The Aggie Wildcats have been "bitting the ball" this week. All the players came out of the game Saturday in fine shape and all the men except Cliff Gallagher were ready for the stiff grind of this week. The scrimmage with the freshman has been the real thing and the entire squad had to snap out of it. A great deal of time this week has been spent on perfecting the style of play and trying out some new plays in preparation for the Missouri game. The Aggies are fast rounding into mid season shape and by the time the whistle blows on November 11, K. S. A. C. rooters will see a smooth working, fast, snappy, formidable eleven.

Will Be a Stiff Fight

The Camp Funston team's lineup has not yet been sent in and little dope is available on the strength of this eleven. The army squad is made up of players from some of the best teams in the country. The Haskell Indians beat the army two weeks ago by a score of 35 to 0 but two weeks of practice makes a great difference. It is certain that the Funston eleven will fight even harder against the Aggie team than they did against Haskell. Captain Bogue will be in the game and will prove a strength to the Aggies. Without a doubt Saturday's game will be an exhibition of spectacular playing.

Coach Z. G. Clevenger was very well satisfied with the game last Saturday.

Lots of Pep Last Saturday

"I believe there was more pep and interest shown than ever before. The yelling was good too," he says. "It was probably the largest crowd ever attending a first game at K. S. A. C."

Soldier Rooters from Funston

The Aggie rooters will have strong competition Saturday. It is reported that about four hundred soldiers are going to accompany the army team and those soldiers can yell. Every student should be at that pep meeting tonight and get in readiness for Saturday's game.

Then there is that Missouri game. Aggie rooters can't practice too much for that game. The Tigers are out to avenge those two defeats and the one that the Aggies administered. It is going to be a battle royal and Aggie rooting will have much to do with twisting that Tigers tail.

FRESHMEN FINALLY NOMINATE OFFICERS

Second Meeting Proved to Be More Successful Than First

The freshman class met last Wednesday night in the auditorium to nominate class officers. The meeting was a success as compared to the first meeting of the freshmen.

The first meeting was characterized by wild disorder. A certain few wanted to run the meeting according to their own ideas. When the temporary chairman called the house to order, or rather disorder, and called for nominations, every one talked at once. No one seemed to know who was nominated or what business was really before the house. People were cussed and questions discussed. The class did the only sensible thing it could do—it adjourned. A mass meeting was called Monday night at Harrison's hall to choose nominees. The political issues which brought the members out were momentarily forgotten while every one got acquainted with the one next to him. Instead of a caucus the meeting turned out to be a mixer.

Everybody turned out Wednesday night to see what the real results would be. The meeting was opened by a greeting from President Jardine, delivered by Dr. MacArthur. He said: "President Jardine has desired for some time to meet the freshman class and get acquainted. He wanted to be here tonight but was called out of the city. I extend to you his greetings and congratulations. You express the hope and belief that this class will be the best to go through this college; and you are showing the right spirit. I do not know of any class meeting that has ever had such a large attendance. Any disturbance that will bring the whole class out is really a blessing in disguise."

Professor Emerson was also present. Mr. Emerson helped the house over difficult parliamentary questions. E. V. Kimble was elected temporary chairman.

After the nominations were dispensed with the suggestion in regard to class sponsor as given by President Jardine was acted upon. He suggested that he appoint a faculty member to be sponsor for the class, but left it to the decision of the class since it was already organized. In the future it is his plan to appoint a sponsor for each incoming freshman class.

Miss Potter spent the summer with her parents in Boulder, Col., and taught a class in domestic science in the University of Colorado. C. visitors were Miss Grace Craven, Miss Pearl McHenry, Miss Mabel Hunter, Miss Frances Ewalt, Miss Anna Fowler, Miss Vida Harris, Miss Grace Meritt, Miss Emma Evans, Miss Winifred Varner, Miss Dorothy Potter, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Anderson, who were on their way to their new home in Mt. Vernon, Wash. Mrs. Anderson was Miss Helen Munger, '15.

IT'S A FACT

That K. S. A. C. has the best engineering division of any college in the west; that the division this year has an enrollment that passes all former records.

HELP ARTIST SERIES

One of the most enjoyable and instructive events of the school year, is a series of musical events given in the auditorium under the auspices of Prof. A. E. Westbrook and Professor Emerson. This year the Artist Series will start with a number on October 27; the second number will be given November 24; the third will be given February 23.

Professors Westbrook and Emerson have taken the financial responsibility for the Artist Series and now it is up to the Aggie students to see to it that the musical events are properly patronized. The events are big boosters for the college and so they, in return, deserve the support of the whole student body.

Talk it up down town, Aggies. Let everyone know that there is to be an Artist Series this year. And here is the main point—if there is any profit made, it will go to remodeling the stage and other things in the auditorium. Last year over $1,800 worth of new material was added to the stage and more is needed. The entire affair is for the benefit of the college—so boost for the Artist Series the same as you boost for football.

KANSAS EXHIBIT WINS 8 PRIZES

MINIATURE FARM AWARDED CUPS
TOTALING VALUE OF $975

Fruit Exhibit One of the Attractive Features—Wins Three Ribbons on Apples

Eight cups, having a total value of $975, were brought from Kansas City, Tuesday by Bruce Wilson when he returned from the International Soil Products exposition where he was in charge of the Kansas exhibit. Eight classes of Kansas exhibits were entered.

Kansas was awarded first prize for the best display made by any nation, state, or province. Manitoba was awarded second, Oklahoma third, Colorado fourth, and Arizona fifth. Manitoba won first prize for the most artistically arranged booth, Arizona was awarded second and Kansas third. Kansas also took second for the best display of corn, first for the display of sorghum, second for fruit, and third for vegetables. Although there was no contest for experiment station exhibits, Kansas was given a special cup for her display. A special award was also given for the composite farm. The prizes were awarded Saturday.

Showed a Composite Farm

The composite farm was one of the most unique features of the Kansas exhibit, and was probably an important factor in the decision giving Kansas first place. The plot consisted of a miniature farm, representing 244 acres, as that is the average size of Kansas farms. The farm was "planted" with grain in the proportion in which it is grown in the state. Each "field" was filled with the grain, the yield of which it was representing.

Above the farm was a map of Kansas showing the amount of grain grown in each county, as well as the amount of livestock, silos, tractors, and automobiles owned in each county. Bottles of grain were used to show the proportionate amounts of grain planted. Miniature automobiles, tractors, animals, etc., each representing a certain number were used to show the number owned in each county.

Kansas was the only state to display a composite farm. The other displays showed the varieties of soil products grown in the state but did not show the comparative amount of the different products or the proportion of grains grown in each county.

Fruit Exhibit a Feature

The display of fruits was one of the most attractive features of the Kansas exhibit and those who attended the exposition seemed much pleased with it. Harold Simonds, of the horticultural department was in charge of this display, being assisted by A. M. Doerner, landscape gardener for the department. Mr. Simonds was awarded three blue ribbons on the three plates of apples he exhibited. There were 20 varieties of grapes and 30 varieties of apples shown in the fruit exhibit. A huge apple outlined on the wall above the exhibit added much to the display. The apple was made up of Jonathan apples and was displayed against a background of Grimes Golden with a border of Jonathan around the whole figure.

Professor Simonds and V. S. Crippen, senior in agronomy remained in Kansas City this week to take charge of the exhibit. Mr. Wilson will return to Kansas City Saturday to assist in dismantling the exhibit. The exposition closes Saturday.

College Calf Barn Has Cat and Calf That are Friends

Mollie had no home.

Some one had left her by the roadside, and she was very hungry. On either side of the road were fields of corn, but no house was in sight. Presently the sun went down and soon it was dark. This did not disturb Mollie for she could see quite as well at night as in the day.

Long before morning she reached a barn. The smell of hay seemed good to her, so she entered by a side door and found a rest bed by the side of a Jersey calf.

Early the next morning she was awakened by the milkman who came hustling to the barn, and as his merry whistle rang thru the air, every cow and calf knew that it was breakfast time. Mollie sat up on the hay, blinked her eyes, and wondered if she would be welcome there. Then a wonderful thing happened. The milkman came with a pan of milk. This was too much for Mollie, down she jumped and into the pan she went. There was a scramble between the man, the calf, and the cat.

After it was all over, Jersey laid down on the hay and Mollie, feeling the distance, came closer and quietly licked the milk off of Jersey's face. Since then they have been friends, and every night puss warms her feet on the calf's back.

This happened a long time ago, but today you may see Mollie and her family at the college calf barn where they are fed as regularly as the calves. And Mollie knows that she has a real home.

S. A. C. IS SECOND IN JUDGING CONTEST

J. MONTAGUE WAS HIGH MAN FOR THE AGGIES

Missouri Took First, Kansas Second, Iowa Third and Nebraska Fourth—Contest Was Held at Des Moines

The stock judging team from K. S. C. took second place in the students' judging contest at the National fine show at Des Moines, September 29.

A member of the team from Missouri ranked first in the contest with a score of 899. J. D. Montague of S. A. C. was high man for the Kansas team, running Missouri close with a score of 877.

The ranking of the teams in the contest was: Missouri, first; Kansas, second; Iowa, third; and Nebraska, fourth. The Aggie judges had but little work on three of the breeds judged and all states represented by their teams in the contest raise more pigs than Kansas.

NEW INSTRUCTOR IN PUBLIC SPEAKING NOW

Mrs. Grace Bowman Is Added to the Teaching Staff

A new instructor in the department of public speaking is Mrs. Grace Bowman, who is teaching ten hours a week in extemporaneous speaking I. Mrs. Bowman will be remembered by the excellent program she gave in chapel last spring. She attended the University of Kansas for two years, and later studied at Leland Power's School of Expression at Boston, from which she was graduated with honors.

She is an experienced and talented reader, having had experience in chautauqua work, in plays, and also in directing plays. Mrs. Bowman was presented with the W. C. T. U. diamond medal for superior work in elocution when she was fifteen years of age. At that time there were but four of these medals given in the United States.

Invitations to membership are being sent to members of the Federation of American Societies of Experimental Biology of which Dr. Bogert is a member.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: I wish to make the first nomination for the most popular professor on the hill. I understand that I can have only 100 words in the nomination so please consider this part the introduction, won't you?

I nominate: N. A. Crawford, head of the Journalism department. He is an instructor who is always pleasant to everyone, whether that person happens to be in the general science division or the engineering division. He has a faculty for remembering faces and names so that when he meets one on the campus or down town, he speaks cordially.

Moreover, Professor Crawford is a mixer. If anyone wishes to dispute any of these facts, he had first better consult Professor Searson.

—A Senior in Journalism.

Dear Editor: As we understand from the college rules, students are given Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights for literary societies, dances, dates, and other little extravaganzas that go with college life.

Then why is it that professors make it a business to give quizzes on Saturday and Monday mornings and thus cause many poor students to spend these evenings shut up in their rooms wistfully watching the world go by as they make a vain attempt to study?

Feeling that this is a great injustice to the student body at large we move and second the motion that a rule be made requiring that college professors do not give quizzes on Saturdays and Mondays.—Two sufferers.

Mrs. Gertrude Harris Goble of Riley spent last week end at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Mrs. George Ferrier was a dinner guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house last Wednesday evening.

Miss Artis and Miss Evelyn Garvin spent Saturday and Sunday visiting their sister, Miss Ruth Garvin.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Bressler, Mr. Giles Sullivan and Mr. Harold Gilbert were Sunday dinner guests at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hilts of Kansas City, stopped for a few hours at the Alpha Delta Pi house on their way to Salt Lake City. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hilts are graduates of K. S. A. C. Mr. Hilts is a member of the Acadia fraternity and Mrs. Hilts is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Many members of the home economics department are planning to help with the county agents' program during the second week in October. A separate conference on home economics will be held. Dr. Helen B. Thompson will speak, also Doctor Bogert, Professor Kneeland, and Miss Perry, Miss Pittman, Miss Reynolds, Miss Ward, Miss Cowles, and Miss Florence Hunt.

How was that?

A young newlywed brought a parrot home for his wife and every time his mother-in-law came in it would say, "I wish that old lady was dead." This enraged the mother-in-law and she laid the blame on the young man. He went to a pastor and asked advice and the pastor loaned the young man his parrot, which was a very religious parrot, thinking that it would teach the other parrot good manners. The next time the lady came the parrot said the same thing, "I wish that old lady was dead," and the good parrot bowed its head and said, "Lord, grant us our petition."

"I gotta good job in a restaurant now; I'm the blacksmith." "Whadayah mean, blacksmith in a restaurant?" "Shoeling flies."

In a recent Kansas murder trial, the defense submitted three or four pairs of pretty silk stockings to the jury for inspection, and then introduced the pretty woman who had worn them. Seems to us that justice has no chance where juries are tampered with that way.

Of course we wouldn't say for sure.

Lumley: "So you didn't propose after all?" Chumley: "No, I got a glimpse in to the future."

Lumley: "What do you mean?" Chumley: "When I got to her house she was chasing a mouse around with the broom."

PROF. HAZEN HEADS NEW DEPARTMENT

OKLAHOMA AG. COLLEGE HAS NEW ENGINEERING DEPT.

Prof. Hazen Has Been in the Federal Employment Since His Graduation from Kansas State Agricultural College

A new department of rural engineering has been started at the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College. Professor Hazen, a graduate of the K. S. A. C. engineering department, class of 1906, is to be head of the new department.

"Professor Hazen is a man who has had experience as well as training in his line of work. The heavy enrollment this year is an indicator that the course is very popular," says Oklahoma's college paper, the Orange and the Black.

Professor Hazen was born near Centralia, Kansas, and finished his elementary training in that place. After graduating from K. S. A. C. in 1906, he entered federal employment and was with the U. S. Department of Agriculture until 1909. Since then Professor Hazen has farmed three years and has been Assistant Professor in rural engineering at Cornell University; completed a course in Mechanical Engineering while at Cornell; has been head of Department of Rural Engineering at Rutgers College; spent summer of 1917 as Superintendent of tractors for State Food Commission of New York and the winter with New York tractor extension division.

Goal Posts Make Good Impressions If Handled Right

How does it feel to run your head thru a goal post? Just ask Captain Joe Bogue. He knows because he's been thru.

Last Saturday evening Captain Joe made a ten yard dash for the goal. The goal post being in the way, Bogue took a head long shot at it. The post broke off a few feet from the bottom and Captain Bogue landed on the safe side of the goal with the ball and an awful headache.

The goal post is the hardest thing Joe has run up against for some time. It made quite an impression on him. To be exact the impression took the form of an ugly cut about two inches long over the right eye.

Captain Bogue always does everything in a workmanlike manner and in the case of the goal post he made no exception to the rule. Poor captain, he has worn his head in a sling until yesterday, when he removed the bandage and convinced the coach that he was again ready for scrimmage.

When Joe came on the field for the first time after the tumble, he looked at the broken post, rubbed his scarred cranium and remarked: "Ought to hang a stop, look, and listen danger sign on those posts, maybe a fellow could see them then."

Miss Arria Neal spent last week and H. Salina visiting her brother.

Miss Frances Ford spent Thursday visiting her father, T. Topeka.

Miss Vera Whitmore has resigned her position in the chemistry experiment station.

Miss Ruth Howells of Kansas City, returned home after a short visit here with her brother, Oliver Howells.

Mr. Carl Miller, of Belleville, former student of K. S. A. C., will spend the week end at the Sigma Nu house.

Mrs. W. H. Pilkenton, Miss Pauline Pulse, and Miss Marcia Baker of Lawrence, were week end guests last week at the Chi Omega house.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Miller and family of Belleville motored to Manhattan today and will spend the week end visiting their daughter, Miss Enola Miller.

Miss Fern Humphrey, for two years chief clerk in the chemistry department of K. S. A. C., has resigned her position and has gone to her home in Illinois. Miss Ruth Culp of Springfield, Mo., takes her place.

Lieut. W. N. Skourup, recently of the army of occupation in Germany has been appointed an instructor in general chemistry at K. S. A. C. He is a graduate of this school, also of Kansas university.

GIVE TALKS ON OPERAS TO BE SEEN IN KANSAS CITY

Madame Butterfly and La Boheme To Be Presented

The Chicago Opera association will present Aida, Madame Butterfly, and La Boheme during its annual visit to Kansas City, October 22 and 23. The operas will be given in Convention Hall. Some of the artists who will appear are from the Metropolitan Opera company, among them, Alma Gluck, the noted American soprano, and Sophie Braslau, contralto.

Aida, one of the most spectacular of all operas, will be given Wednesday night. The Ethiopian princess will be portrayed by Rosa Raisa, one of the greatest dramatic sopranos. For Thursday's matinee, Madame Butterfly has been selected. The title role will be sung by the Japanese prima donna, Tamaka Mirva. Madame Gluck will be heard in La Boheme Thursday evening.

If it is desired by a sufficient number of Manhattan people expecting to attend these performances, the operas will be discussed by Miss Doris Bugby in her classes in musical appreciation Thursday and Friday, the week preceding the operas. The classes are held at three o'clock.

Miss Elsie Smith of the music department has charge of the sale of tickets in Manhattan.

HELP HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WITH FRENCH AND SPANISH

Professor Cortelyou Appointed to Help in this Educational Work

In recognition of his leadership in the field of modern language instruction, Prof. J. V. Cortelyou, head of the department of modern languages, has just been appointed state chairman of the National Peabody Foundation for international educational correspondence.

His duties are to keep the foundation in touch with all the Kansas high schools where Spanish and French are taught. Students taking Spanish and French in high school will, as a result of his work, be assisted to correspond with students in corresponding schools in various parts of Belgium, France, and Spain.

Increased interest in the study of French and Spanish is certain to result from this practical way in which Professor Cortelyou is assisting high school students to improve themselves in the use of these languages.

EXPERIMENTS CONDUCTED TO PRODUCE BLUE GUINEA PIGS

Dr. Ibsen Carrying on the Work for the Meek Court & Co.

Dr. H. L. Ibsen, professor of genetics and color heritage in the college, is conducting an experiment to produce blue guinea pigs for the Meek Court & Company, dealers in guinea pigs, rabbits, and rats, of Chicago.

Blue rats, rabbits, and various other small animals have been produced, but the breeding of blue guinea pigs has never yet been accomplished. That Doctor Ibsen should be chosen for this work, speaks highly for his ability as a geneticist.

Dr. Ibsen has already done work in this field that ranks him among the leading geneticists of the country. He is a new man in the college. He was connected with the animal husbandry department at the beginning of last semester.

The Troubles of an Editor
One evening when I felt quite dejected, And sat at my desk and reflected On the lack of true religion, and the need of common sense: A solemn looking Freshie Who was tall and rather fleshy Entered proudly and to crush me did commence.

"Once I sent a poem to you, sir. Did not know they were taboo, sir, 'Twas about the balmy season they call spring: And though I've read your paper Which is really quite some caper, Of that poem I've discovered not a solitary thing."

Now this Bolshevik was wiry And his look was wild and fiery And to calm him down I lied most bitterly For I said with inward curses That before we got his verses We'd received just forty five on Spring (Of which we'd printed three.)

And I added, "We've decided That these verses be divided In a way to publish three for every Spring: So yours. I'm pleased to mention. Will receive our prompt attention In the year of 1950 when the birds begin to sing."

Percy Deput went to Chapman last Monday to carry out some experiments in sparrow extermination war in co-operation with the division of extension.

EXTENSION DIVISION WILL GIVE COURSES FOR PRISONERS

Military Prison Will Obtain Material Used in these Courses

Dr. Mason of the Board of Administration was at the college last week and arranged for the home study service department of college extension division, to conduct courses for the prisoners at Lansing.

Last year several hundred people were enrolled for these courses at the Federal penitentiary and at Lansing, the state prison. This year because of the growth of other work the courses have been dropped at the Federal penitentiary.

Major Edgar King and Lieut. Oliver K Appleman are here from the military prison, at Leavenworth, to secure material used in the correspondence courses as a basis for establishing courses at the prison school.

BIG JUMP IN ENROLMENT IN PUBLIC SPEAKING

Nearly Two Hundred Seventy Five
Students in the Department

The department of public speaking is sharing the increase in enrolment and popularity along with the other departments in the Kansas State Agricultural college. This is definitely illustrated by the fact that heretofore the largest enrolment has been 145, and this year the students in this department number 275.

Professor Emerson is the head of this department and has brought the activities and studies as well as the practicability of its courses before the student body and made the students realize the value of extemporaneous speaking in any work which they may choose for their life occupation.

ONCE the fire insurance on your property ran close to its value. Now the value has far outstripped the insurance and a fire would mean a greater loss to you than ever before.

The increased value is a fine thing but the increased risk is dangerous.

For your own protection you should do two things—now. First, increase your insurance and second, reduce the chance of fire. The Hartford Fire Insurance Company offers you this double protection at the mere cost of the insurance premiums.

Let us explain this new service which gives you every means of preventing a fire and adequate, reliable insurance in case a fire does occur, despite your precautions.

MONTGOMERY GAVE ADDRESS TUESDAY

MUST THINK IN WORLD TERMS IF WE ARE WORTHY TO LIVE

Montgomery Says Man Who Was Big Enough for His Job Four Years Ago Is Not Now If He Has Not Advanced

We must think in world terms if we are to be worthy to live in these days, is the opinion of Dr. Knox Montgomery, president of Muskogean college, who addressed the K. S. A. C. student assembly Tuesday, September 30.

"The man who was big enough for his job four years ago is not big enough for his job today if he has not been growing with the times," said Doctor Montgomery. "If a man has not been moving forward in leaps and bounds he is out of place."

Must Grow More

"Much of the national ferment of today is due to the fact that some of our statesmen are still thinking in terms of four years ago. The reason of the bitterness of the south during the reconstruction days after the civil war was not the memory of the war but that the men who had the work of reconstructing the union were not big enough for their job. As a result we had 50 years of bitterness on the part of the south which was not entirely healed until the nation went into the world war."

Educated Have Chance

"Never was there a day when the educated man had a greater opportunity than now. The country needs men who know their job. If the world doesn't welcome the young man when he finishes college he has to look only to himself to find the reason. There never is enough of the real article to go round. There is plenty of room at the top but so many refuse to climb."

"To fit himself for valuable service a young man must know what he knows, he must do well what he does, and he must begin now what he expects to become in the future. The young man must be honest, diligent, and persistent. He must know his job better than anyone else and he will be in great demand."

Startled Prof.

Forgot To Give

Written Lesson

One of the mildest professors on the hill and one of his more or less mild classes were given a terrible shock the day of the Aggie-Baker game, when a demonstration which had been planned by one of the class members "fell through."

The aforesaid class member decided that when the professor called the roll, that instead of answering "Present" he would shout "Will we beat Baker?" expecting, of course, that the customary response would be forthcoming.

As it happened, however, a written lesson had been rumored as the morning's program, and all present were industriously engaged in gaining last minute knowledge. The only attention they paid when the name of the member who had planned the exhibition was called, was to absentmindedly cock one ear in mild curiosity as to whether the instructor would again succeed in mispronouncing the name, as it happened to be a peculiar one.

The professor did mispronounce it and mispronounced it more ludicrously than he had ever done before. Immediately the inmates of the class room were startled by a roar, which, if they had not been in a dazed condition resulting from an attempt to absorb forty pages in five short minutes, they would doubtless have recognized as the well known question, "Will we beat Baker?" As it was, they heard only the word "beat" and, with the horrified thought that the person with the peculiar name had become infuriated at the continued mispronunciation, and intended to beat up the offending prof, they looked about to ascertain whether the approaching combat was to be a fist fight or whether the opposing parties were carrying concealed weapons.

Nothing of the sort seemed to be on foot. The loud voiced student had a slightly sheepish look and the expression of the professor was that of a startled fawn.

The really happy part of the incident, however, lies in the fact that the student scared all thought of a written lesson from the instructor's mind.

Naughty Naughty

Have you heard the story of how one of our learned professors actually picked upon a poor innocent girl in a crowded street car and deliberately sat down right square in her lap. We aren't mentioning any names but we will say that he is young, unmarried and rather handsome, and wears tortoise rimmed glasses.

Of course he denies emphatically that such a thing happened but they have our opinions and when you hear the story we will let you judge for yourself.

It happened this way: It was nearing dusk. The soft twilight, in other words, was rapidly enveloping the earth in its tender folds. The light (notice singular number) had not been lighted on board the "bumpy coaster," meaning, of course that it was still dark within the street car. Enter villain in form of tired, hungry professor. The seats have all long since been filled to capacity, and then some.

He lingeringly runs his eye over each and every seat, hoping and yet daring not to hope that it may rest on some small, unoccupied crevice where it will be possible to rest his weary bones. The plot thickens like gelatine when you put it in the ice box. A lady crawls forth from the seat next the window and alights at the next station. Hist! here is his chance.

He stealthily approaches but the young lady occupying the other portion of the seat, doesn't seem to intend to move over and of course it wouldn't do to pass in front of her. He must have a seat though. A-ha, a desperate plan presents itself. Just as the car swings around the Y. M. turn, he lurches forward and deposits himself directly in the young lady's lap.

A shriek, some rapid movements and the professor has a seat. And as we pulled the cord to get off at the next crossing we heard him say, "I trust that you will pardon, the car does give an awful lurch at that turn, doesn't it?"

Men's Glee Club Good

Tuesday morning the student assembly had the first glimpse of the college choir, the men's glee club, and the college orchestra. The men's glee club sang the Winter Song by Bullard. They were very heartily encouraged but were quite modest since it was their first appearance.

Mr. Lovejoy in commenting on the men's glee club, said, "It is certainly a splendid organization and if they just keep up the spirit and the pep they will amount to something fine by the end of the school year. The selection Monday morning was given after the second rehearsal of the club."

NEWS FROM OTHER COLLEGES

A record for returning stars which is hard to beat, is that of the Pennsylvania State College. The college has 30 veteran players, three of whom are ex-captains out for practice.

Indiana University does not follow the Aggie method of encouraging dates at football games. The "Howling Host," the rooting body of the university frown at mixed groups on the bleachers. "Dates at the game will be conspicuous by their absence as all the men in the university are expected to bid the fair ones goodbye at the bleachers and take their place in the section reserved for 'leather lunged' members of the host," says a recent number of the university newspaper.

The Quill club members at K. U. have their plans well under way for their year's work. The club expects to elect about fifteen new members this fall.

The enlistments in the R. O. T. C. unit at K. U. have been closed, with a total enrolment of 150. The largest number of men are in the infantry. Two credits are given for the work.

A new position which has been created at Pennsylvania State college this year is that of Dean of men. A. R. Warnock who has been assistant dean of men at the University of Illinois has been secured for the position.

The Y. M. C. A. at the University of Missouri proves itself a broad minded organization by its recent appropriation of $100 for the maintenance of a bowling alley, and $200 for the upkeep and tax on the pool tables belonging to the organization. The two appropriations form two of the items on the budget of $10,165 which has been prepared for 1919 and 1920.

Many Bulletins Requested

Requests for bulletins all the way from 1 to 500 are being received by the extension division at the rate of about 400 a year. During the year ending June 30 about 190,000 bulletins were distributed.

Miss Flo Brown left yesterday for Salina to spend the week end with her parents.

She Wears Her Hat Wrong When She Is Watching Theda Bara

Stout, glowing, puffing, she rushed up to the ticket office of the Wareham picture show.

"I always hate to get in on the last scene," she said, as she pushed her way through the crowded entrance door.

"Oh, Theda Bara," she said in disgust, to the occupant of the next seat, before she had caught her breath from entrance worry and settled in her seat. "Hag! I know that, I wouldn't have hurried so. You know I don't think she is a bit good looking. She's a regular cat. She always plays the part of a vamp. Now my husband thinks she's simply grand. You know we simply can't agree. He always wants to see Theda Bara, when he is in town. You can just bet I never let him know when she plays if I can help it. I get a headache or plead a pleasant evening at home when he suggests going to see her, although I do enjoy seeing how she does it, I would not have him know it for the world.

"There she goes now, after that poor little woman's husband, and look at those common men over there how they act as if they admire him for falling for her."

"There," she said wiping her eyes, "I hope she is satisfied, she's succeeded in killing the man's poor little wife. Nothing quite so sad as a woman dying with a broken heart," she sighed. "My gracious, for heavens sake, there's my husband among that group of men over there, let me put on my hat and get out of here before he sees me."

At that instant, the lights came on. All methods of escape were blocked, she was in the midst of the group of men of which her husband was a member.

Speaking in a stage whisper that was heard above the strains of a syncopated melody from the orchestra, the husband said:

"Bess, for heavens sake, change your hat, you've got it on backwards."

"I have not," she flung back. "You're trying to make a fool of me, that's what you're trying to do. This is the correct way to wear this hat. I guess I know what I'm doing."

"All right, all right, have it your way. You're wearing the hat. You are right and of course I'm wrong."

As the two passed out, the good wife glanced into one of the Wareham mirrors. The husband heard one scream. "Oh that terrible hat," she wailed, "I'll never wear it again, that bird is put on the wrong way. I had the hat on right. It's that impossible little milliner at Mansfield, that put the owl on backwards. Here I've worn the owl going backwards, and right before all those men too. Why didn't you tell me?"

The husband who was always wrong turned his back to the wife who was always right, so she would not see him smile.

"That's just the way with a man, never sees a thing," she fired.

Why beat around the bush?

This is not the only good men's store in the city—and we are not any more entitled to your business than the other fellow—if he's got the goods.

We, of course, think that our Fall models are just a little more up to date—and that our values are just a little more out of date than any other place in Manhattan—just like the proud daddy of a 14-pound bouncer thinks his son is the brightest in America.

But when all has been said and done—you've got to use your own judgment—and compare style for style—fabric for fabric and dollars worth for dollars worth, for it's your money and you are going to wear the clothes—and that's what we'd do if we were in your place—and that's what we wish you'd do here. AGGIES AGAIN THE VICTORS

WIN FROM FUNSTON TEAM BY A SCORE OF 20 TO 6

WAS A LOOSELY PLAYED GAME

Aggies Did Not Exert Themselves
When They Saw that the Game
Would Easily Be Won—
Army Scored in Fourth

The wild Wildcats took the second game of the season here last Saturday when they defeated the Army team from Camp Funston by a score of 20 to 6. There were only occasional moments when real football was played. The soldiers lacked condition and were handicapped by the loss of seven members of the team, who are away from the camp on guard duty at Omaha and other places. Coach Clevenger's Wildcats were confident of winning the game and failed to exert themselves.

Five minutes before the final whistle sounded Murry, big Funston tackle, recovered the pigskin on an Aggie fumble, and with a clear field ahead of him, made a 70-yard run for the only soldier score of the game.

During the first quarter Huston, Aggie guard, drop-kicked from the 35-yard line for the first Aggie score. In the third quarter he drop-kicked from the 50-yard line. These two performances indicate that Huston's famous foot is in condition again.

Sam Stewart, who was captain of the Washburn college eleven in 1915, starred as fullback for the soldiers. Another soldier star was Schulz, an end.

Fairman, K. S. A. C. fullback, put the ball over for the first touchdown. On the kickoff E. Cowell caught the ball and kicked goal. In the third quarter the soldiers drove the Wildcats down to their own 15-yard line. On a fumble W. Cowell recovered the ball and ran 75 yards to the Funston 20-yard line before a soldier tackle downed him. By short line plunges the Aggies then advanced the ball up to the 3-yard line. From there Placek, Aggie right half, put it over the line and the Aggies kicked goal.

During the rest of the game the ball was mostly in K. S. A. C. territory, until about seven minutes before the close of play the Aggies pushed the soldiers back. Then came Murry's long run, which ended the scoring.

Throughout the entire game the Funston line-up was frequently changed. Probably twenty-five soldiers were used during the game. Sam Stewart was placed on the field as the Funston fullback shortly after the first quarter began and played until the end of the game.

The line-up:
Aggies (20) Pos. Camp F. (6)
Bogue RE Baer
Gingery RT Mains
Roda RG Morang
Clelland C Compton
Sulton LG Ball
Gathe LT Murry
Enlow LE Schulz
Burton Q Ward
Hinds RH Halley
Hixson LH Holmes
Fairman FB Marker
Substitutions: Aggies—E. Cowell, for Hixson; Placek, for Hinds; W. Cowell, for Burton; Hutto, for Gingery; Hoffhines, for Roda; Quinlan, for Placek; Placek, for Fairman; Fletcher, for Clelland. Officials: Cochran, K. S. A. C., referee; Mike Ahearn, Amhurst, umpire; Lieutenant Fielder, Georgia Tech, head linesman.

Muscle to the Foreground

Miss Mabel Leffler of the piano department favored the student assembly with a piano solo Tuesday morning. The selection was Barcarola in A minor.

Seven new pianos have been added to the piano department this year. This makes possible quite a number of practice rooms for students. Three of these practice rooms are located in the basement of Anderson hall and the new practice rooms on the second floor of the old S. A. T. C. barracks just east of the college mess hall are now ready for use.

The college choir is preparing to give some special numbers for chapel in about two weeks.

SPORT DOPE

When "Hobe" Fairman got knocked out of the game the Aggies lost one of the most consistent ground gainers that the Wildcats have developed for some time. "Hobe" played a game Saturday that will long be remembered.

With Burton, Gallagher, Roda, and Fairman, four of the team's best, out of the game, the Wildcats are going to have a stiff fight to twist that Tiger's tail next Saturday. But there are lots of men who are willing to fill their places. So we may again be able to make the customary twist. Missouri has also had a large number of casualties among their star performers.

Saturday's game will be the first Missouri Valley game of the season, and one of the biggest, if not the biggest game of the year. It means more to beat Missouri than any other team. We have been doing it for several years by a close margin. But as Coach Clevenger said at the first pep meeting, "Some day Missouri may have a fellow that can kick a goal." Kicking goals is one thing that we don't need to worry about. Anyone after seeing Huston ease that one over from the forty five yard line the other day feels that he is good for most any distance on the map. He doesn't seem to care where they are.

"Germany" Schultz has a line that holds like the proverbial stone wall. It don't take the opposing team long to get discouraged, from trying to buck through that defense.

One of the smallest stunts that we have seen pulled for some time was when someone got the brilliant idea of tossing up in a blanket some of the fellows with dates. It may be good sport but it does not show good sportsmanship to announce at a pep meeting that they want all the fellows to bring dates, and then later get a mob of apaches and takes them out and toss 'em up. It does not arouse pep as is frequently thought. There are other and more modern methods of arousing pep. When we beat K. U. in 1906 they didn't do it that way. They encouraged the fellows into taking dates. How many of you know that the average girl does not like to tag it to a foot ball game any better than the average man likes to tag it to a Saturday night dance.

No, you have another guess. We were not tossed in a blanket, neither did we tremble in fear, neither did we desert our date and hide behind the grandstand. How did we do it? Well we didn't happen to have a date.

One of the biggest helps in the last two football games has undoubtedly been the band. The band furnishes a nucleus for the organized pep at these games. And remember this, that the band has not been in existence for more than two weeks. Those who were present at the army game last Saturday will remember that practically the only organized backing the Funston boys had was their band and the backing of that band was one of the biggest helps that they had.

We want to see the Aggie band prosper and the way to make it prosper is to work for it, talk for it, and use it. In a few weeks the Aggies are going to Lawrence to beat K. U. In order to aid in the accomplishment of this task there is being organized a special organization called the Beat K. U. club. The best thing that could be done for this Beat K. U. club would be to incorporate the band with this club. We want the band at K. U. else who would there be to play the funeral dirge after the game.

The faculty meeting, which was called for Tuesday at four o'clock, has been postponed indefinitely. Announcement of the meeting will be made later.

W. R. Horlacher spent the week end visiting friends in Kansas City. J. W. Briggs of Protection, was a Sunday guest at the Alpha Theta Chi house.

Miss Eleanor Brown and Shannon Brown spent Sunday in Junction City visiting their mother, Mrs. L. Brown.

FRIDAY IS THE COLLEGE NIGHT

STUDENT DANCE TO BE CHANGED FROM SATURDAY TO FRIDAY

INTO EFFECT ON OCTOBER 17

Three Halls on the Hill Are Available for Student Dances—Only Cost Will Be That of Hiring Orchestras

Beginning with Friday, October 17, the regular weekly college dances held at Harrison's hall, will be given on Friday nights instead of Saturdays. This change was the result of a petition signed by 177 students and circulated by the inter-society council. This organization is composed of representatives of all the literary societies on the hill. Since the societies meet on Saturday nights the dances have been playing havoc with the attendance.

Other Halls Available

Dr. J. R. Macarthur, chairman of the student affairs committee, announced last week at Harrison's that the regular college dances could be held at the following places without cost except for orchestra: The new recreation hall in Anderson hall, the gymnasium and the domestic science hall. The hours will be 12:30 on Fridays and 10:30 on Saturdays. By dividing the dances the crowded conditions at Harrison's will be relieved.

COLLEGIAN HAS NEW FEATURE

TO HAVE ORIGINAL CARTOON IN EACH ISSUE OF PAPER

Pictures Are Drawn by Merton Swanson, a Sophomore in the College—First Cartoon Next Tuesday

Beginning with next Tuesday's issue the Collegian will run one original cartoon in each issue. Merton Swanson, who is a sophomore in college and a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, is going to do the cartooning.

Mr. Swanson has had considerable experience along this line of work. During the two years when he was in the navy he worked for the Great Lakes Bulletin. He has also contributed work regularly to the Students' Art magazine and to Life. Mr. Swanson has studied for four years under Miss Gladys Bates.

This will be the first time that the Collegian has ever had a cartoonist on its staff. It is thought that the cartoons will give the paper a touch of individuality among college papers.

THESE TWO BOYS WILL RETURN IN SEPTEMBER NEXT YEAR

Could Not Find a Suitable Lodging
Place This Year

In the first month of school the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were perhaps the two busiest organizations in connection with the college. They did their utmost to secure suitable lodging and eating places and do other accommodating things for new students. And although the Y. M. C. A. did its best there were two Ottawa county boys who were sadly disappointed when they came to K. S. A. C. After having gone through the agonies of registration and assignment they were unable to obtain a place to live. They thought home would look pretty good to them and it did. They said they would be on hand promptly in September, 1920.

Attended Colorado Fair

Professor M. F. Ahearn has returned from the Colorado state fair at Pueblo where he judged the horticultural exhibits.

"Colorado had one of the finest fruit exhibits that I have ever seen," says Professor Ahearn. "Their apples were large and they had a splendid variety not only of apples but of peaches, grapes, and plums. They also had French, German and Italian prunes. The daily attendance at the fair averaged thirty or forty thousand."

While in Colorado Professor Ahearn saw many old Aggies, among them William Droge, '10, who is county agent for Otero county, and Walter Ott who is county agent of Morgan county.

WILL ATTEND EPISCOPAL CONVENTION IN MICHIGAN

Professor Crawford Goes as One of the Representatives from Kansas

N. A. Crawford, head of the industrial journalism department, left yesterday for Detroit, Mich., where he will attend the general convention of the Episcopal church.

This convention, which meets once in three years, is the highest legislative body of the church. In the convention all bishops have seats, as have also four priests and four laymen from each diocese. Mr. Crawford is one of the laymen representing the diocese of Kansas, which comprises the eastern half of the state.

While in Michigan, Mr. Crawford will also attend the annual conference of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, which will be held at Ann Arbor under the auspices of the University of Michigan.

ALL COLLEGES TO TAKE PART IN IT

CONFERENCE OF STUDENTS AND FACULTY AT EMPORIA

K. S. A. C. To Be Represented with Other Colleges—Many Well Known Speakers To Be on the Program

"The Present World situation and its demands upon the American College" is the official title of the conference of students, faculty members and college presidents which will be held at Emporia, October 18, 19, and 20. Ben Cherrington, a former student of the University of Nebraska, who is in the student department of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian association, with headquarters at Denver, was in Manhattan and outlined the plan of the conference.

"This is the first year after the war. A new crop of students is on the campus," said Mr. Cherrington. "It is absolutely in the hands of the present students to make the colleges what they should be in the years to come. What are the lessons coming out of the war, and are the students going to take a definite stand on serious problems of the campus such as cribbing in the classroom."

Mr. Cherrington went on to emphasize the importance of the attendance of faculty members. He said: "In order to present a clear cut issue, it is necessary to have every faculty member behind all Christian movements. That is why we want them at the conference, to give them an idea of what they can do for the constructive good on the campus."

Several speakers and lectures have already been announced. J. Stitt Wilson of California, labor leader and lecturer, as well known in England as in our country, will speak on the theme of Industrial Democracy. "Dad" Elliott needs no further introduction to students of K. S. A. C. O. E. Pence, of the University of Illinois who was in Y. M. C. A. work in Turkey when the war broke out will present the theme of the student development of world citizenship. Harrison Elliott, an authority on training leaders of Bible and discussion groups, will meet both faculty members and students who will lead such groups in the colleges and universities. "Con" Hoffman, secretary of the K. U. Y. M. C. A. will also be one of the speakers. Students will remember that Mr. Hoffman worked in the prison camps of Germany during the war. Doctor D. W. Kurtz, president of McPherson College, will also be on the program.

Mrs. Harold Goble of Riley was a dinner guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house Sunday.

Miss Muri Gann, '09, who is teaching domestic science at Osceola, spent the week end at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

C. C. McPherson was in Wichita the first part of last week as a delegate to the American Legion convention which was held at that place.

FAIRMAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT IN ARMY GAME

SUFFERED HEMORRHAGE OF BRAIN—IS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED NOW

TWO OTHERS ALSO INJURED

Carl Roda, Guard, Had Ligaments of Shoulder Torn and Will Be Out of the Tiger Game—Burton
Slightly Hurt

Hobart Fairman, Aggie star fullback, was seriously injured in the last few minutes of the Army-Aggie game Saturday. "Hobe" had made a good gain and demonstrated his famous "stiff-arm" when two Army players caught him in a "pocket" and threw him heavily. After being taken off the field, hemorrhage of the brain developed and the injured star was rushed to the hospital. Physicians gave little hopes of recovery at first but late Monday evening his condition was reported better. In Fairman the Aggies lose one of their best all around football players. With the Missouri game only a week off this loss will be even more severely felt by K. S. A. C. students.

Two Others Injured

Carl Roda, Missouri Valley guard, had the ligaments of his shoulder torn and will be out of the Tiger game. Roda is the best lineman in the Valley and his absence in the line-up makes Aggie prospects even gloomier.

"Ding" Burton is also on the casualty list and may not be able to play the entire game with the Tigers. Burton has an injured back.

Other Good Stars

Despite the many misfortunes of the game Saturday the caliber of several new men was demonstrated. "Shorty" Cowell showed unusual speed in carrying the ball. His 75 yard run was one of the sensational plays of the game. "Shorty" has the old fight, too, which he demonstrated in the third quarter when he gave that Army end a little of his own medicine. "Shorty's" brother, Warren, didn't play such a bad game at quarter either. "Ike" Gatz surprised the spectators by his ability to get down on punts.

Quinlan at half played good football especially on the defense. Hinds and Hixson make a pair at half and they work a clever forward pass combination Saturday. Although Clelland made two wild passes Saturday he played a good defensive game. Huston made a pretty 50 yard drop kick which brought many favorable comments from the crowd. In the exchange of punts with the famous Sam Stewart Huston again showed his kicking ability.

GOOD DOPE ON THE VALLEY FOOTBALL GAMES SATURDAY

Things Point Favorably Towards Victory for the Wildcats

The results of games played in the Valley Saturday gave some dope on Aggie opponents.

Although Missouri scored 41 points or Drury the fact that the Tigers allowed two touchdowns shows a weak defense. Missouri has four men in the backfield who are old letter men but their other backs are inexperienced. The Aggies have six men in the backfield who are letter men and several others who have had experience. The Tigers have two letter men out for the end position and the Aggies have four letter men out for the same position. The Aggies have four more letter men in the line, Roda being a Missouri Valley man. In addition to this material the Wildcats have the best kicker in the valley, Huston.

Haskell Indians beat Baker by only nine points. The Aggies beat Baker by 16 points in their opening game.

K. U. beat the Pittsburg Normals 4 to 0 Saturday. It was the first game of the season for K. U. The Normalites were more successful with the forward pass than the Jayhawkers but gained very little through the K. U. line.

Oklahoma has a team with lots of endurance evidently, making 187 points in the mud against Kingfisher. The Kingfisher eleven did not put up sufficient defense to give a line on Benny Owen's proteges as football players but he has some fine track material.

QUILL CONTEST IS OPEN AGAIN

WILL RUN UNTIL NOV. 1—SUBMIT MANUSCRIPT TO CRAWFORD

Quill Club Is an Organization for Persons Who Are Inclined Towards the Literary—Certain Restrictions Placed on Writing

The Quill Club contest for the first semester will close November 1. All manuscripts should be handed to Professor Crawford or Professor Davis on or before that date. The Quill Club, the Beta chapter of which was installed at K. S. A. C. in 1914, is a national organization founded by persons distinguished in literary fields. Its purpose is to encourage literary effort and criticism among American college students.

The manuscripts submitted in the contest may be short stories, poetry, feature articles, drama, or any salable manuscript. The authors of the best manuscripts will be elected to membership in the club.

If a prose manuscript is submitted it should be at least 800 words in length, or several articles totaling that number of words may be substituted. If a short story is submitted it should contain at least 3000 words. There is no required length for poetry. Articles which have already been sold or published may be used. All manuscripts should be typewritten. A margin of an inch and one-half should be allowed on the left of each sheet.

The Quill Club has elected the following officers for this year: chancellor, Miss Mabel Bentley; vice chancellor, Miss Ada Rice, keeper of the parchments, Miss Charlotte Russell; scribe, Miss Elizabeth Dickens; scribe, Mr. Floyd Oakes.

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTION GIVES GIRL PRESIDENCY

Marcia Seber, President; Irene Graham, Student Council

The returns of the junior class election which was held Thursday afternoon, October 2, from one to five o'clock were given out Monday.

Marcia Seber was elected president over Oscar Cullen by a vote of 60 to 26. A unanimous ballot was cast in favor of E. A. Tunnell for vice president. For secretary a unanimous ballot was cast in favor of Miss Gladys Dushong. Joe Bogue was elected treasurer. Earl Abbot declined the nomination for sergeant-at-arms so a unanimous ballot was cast in favor of Mr. Dickerson.

Out of the nominees for student council the votes stood: Irene Graham, 83 votes; Glen Hoffhines, 68 votes; E. D. McCollum, 64 votes; Walter Law, 22 votes; and George Ginchich, 21 votes.

Clementine Paddleford was elected class historian over Mr. H. Moyer by a vote of 62 to 24.

IT'S A FACT

That the course in industrial journalism is steadily growing and that it will not be long before K. S. A. C. can boast of having the best journalism department in the west.

WHAT BECAME OF PEP COMMITTEE?

ROOTERS WERE THERE BUT THE ONES IN CHARGE DIDN'T APPEAR

But Few Students Stayed and Showed Aggies How to Really Yell — Freshman Class Displayed Good Spirit

The Aggies who are really backing the Wildcats were brought into evidence Friday night at the pep meeting. When the pep committee failed to appear and the auditorium remained locked after the time scheduled for the meeting there still remained some who had enough K. S. A. C. spirit to find some one to unlock the auditorium and have a pep meeting anyway.

Why the hall was not open in time for the meeting doesn't seem to be known for certain but the condemning finger points to the pep committee. The greater part of the crowd didn't wait until the hall could be opened by some one else. They didn't think it worth while, so went away.

The Freshmen put it all over the upperclassmen in showing Aggie spirit. Those who thought it worth while to stay and show they were really behind the Aggie football team were Freshmen. Here and there in the crowd an upperclassman could be seen but where were the others?

Though the crowd was small they yelled, and yelled better than any bunch of Aggies has yelled for several seasons. An impromptu program was planned and short straight from the shoulder talks on Aggie pep were given by Professor H. W. Davis, Coach Clevenger, Doc Holtz, and former cheer leader Byron Dudley.

"Girls should bring their lungs instead of powder puffs to a football game," said Professor Davis and "Clev" said we would have a real pep meeting next Friday night if he and the cheer leader had to do it all.

"And if Coach Clevenger wants an errand boy to help put on that pep meeting he can call up Holtz," said "Doc."

"Dud" isn't in favor of taking dates to the games.

"How can a man yell as he should when his attention is some place other than on the cheer leader or the team?" he asked. "If a girl hasn't enough Aggie spirit to go to the game by herself she will do more good by staying at home anyway."

CHANGE YOUR WRIST WATCH WHEN THE CLOCKS GO BACK

October 26 is Day Set for Old Time to Come Back Again

October 26th is the official day which will mark the return to the regular time schedule. It will be a happy day when we can sleep one hour longer and work one hour less. Or does it work that way?

The point is that every student should not forget to adjust his alarm clock and wrist watch to tally with this change for you will gain but little by it and lose a perfectly good hour of sweet repose by neglecting to make the hour change in your time-piece.

TWO CHILIANS TAKING MILLING IN COLLEGE

Will Operate Mill in Chile after They Have Finished Here

Fernando and Ignacio Valdes, of Santiago, Chile, sons of a wealthy farmer and mill owner of the South American Republic, are enrolled in the college course in milling industry this fall. The Valdes brothers have been in America since last February. While learning American ways they investigated courses in milling in all parts of the country, finally selecting the one at the Kansas college as the most thorough.

Senor Valdes, father of the two boys, owns five thousand acres of land most of which is in wheat. In addition to this Senor Valdes owns and operates a flour mill in Santiago, which he expects his sons to operate when they have completed their education.

Fernando Valdes admits that it takes a great deal of courage to leave home and country for two years to attend school, but says he and his brother have been so interested in the new country that they have had no time for homesickness.

Investigate Corn Smut

H. H. Biggar of the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., is here conferring with Prof. L. E. Melchers concerning some corn smut investigation work which Professor Melchers is doing for the government. Mr. Biggar is helping with field notes and selection work on a problem in breeding resistance to corn smut and root rot. These diseases cause millions of dollars loss to corn every year. Professor Melchers hopes, by his experiments to improve some of the commercial varieties of corn so that they will not be so susceptible to the diseases.

Held Vesper Services

Vesper services were held last Thursday afternoon. Reverend Jacobsen of the Baptist church spoke on the subject "Too Late," the theme being that college days are the summertime of opportunity. Miss Florence Meyer sang and Miss Irene Miller had charge of the devotionals.

Next Thursday the girls will have a Hollister echo meeting. Interesting features of the afternoon will be Hollister songs and yells. A display of pictures, taken by the girls while they were in camp, will be shown.

Crickets Good Luck

Crickets on the hearth may bring good luck in story books, but crickets in your best Sunday coat are a bad omen. That's the warning offered by George A. Dean, Kansas State Agricultural college etomologist, who knows all about bugs, both good and bad. The cricket, fireside companion of many a romantic character of fiction, instead of being the innocent chirper tradition pictures him, is a vandal of the worst order, Mr. Dean says.

The black crickets, now so common in Kansas, are serious pests in dwelling houses and clothing and dry goods stores, according to Mr. Dean.

W. A. Lloyd in charge of the county agent work of the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., visited Dean Umberger a few days this week and discussed the work of the extension department.

So Daniel Tapped the Rock and Water Came—Was it Daniel?

Once upon a time there was a drinking fountain in Main hall which afforded a supply of refreshing aqua pura so large that it was necessary to place a water-deflector, sometime a washpan, there to stop the flow of the H. O.

This actual fact was in the days before Anderson Hall boasted of a canteen, yea, even in the days when most of us enjoyed the cheerful jingle of coins in our pockets which we could have spent had there been a canteen in the basement of Anderson Hall.

But one day a bad fairy came along and cast a bad spell over everything in general, including our coin carrier, and thus made it impossible for us to go belowstairs and sip at the fountain of cherry coke and chocolate ice cream sodas.

At the same time it was very hot and on several separate occasions we betook ourselves to the aforementioned drinking fountain only to be disappointed upon arriving at the point. For, lo and behold! the ingenious device for saving the delicious fluid which is really what you want when you think you want a chocolate ice cream soda, had disappeared. And so had the stream of water. In its place a struggling strip slipped silently and sadly out of the tiny pipe and down the other pipe, a supply of water scarce enough to moisten one's parched lips or cool one's fevered brow after a French quiz.

Farbeit from us to remark unkindly concerning the college canteen for we wish it success and certainly do all we can to make it succeed when we have the wherewithal, but brothers and sisters of the we-are-broke club, is it fair, we ask you that the water supply should be so unwittingly cut off just at the time our bank account is low and the weather has taken a sudden Julyish turn instead of behaving in its October fashion as it should?

Is there nothing that can be done to help those of the student body who for a time must desist from partaking of Elmer Kittell's fancy fix-ups?

TRADE MARK

NINE cases out of ten, the man who once smokes a WDC Pipe becomes a life member of the WDC club. He can't help it, because a WDC is certainly a man's size smoke. It's as sweet and mellow as carefully selected French briar and expert seasoning can make it. Not only material of the first water, but craftsmanship of the highest order, and designs that are most pleasing—all combine to make the WDC Pipe a smoke of peace, contentment and satisfaction. A man's smoke. Any good dealer will confirm this.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian:—In electing a man as the most popular professor in the college, we want a man who is liked by the students, who takes an interest in the welfare of the students, and one who is broad enough and active enough in college affairs to be an honor to the college.

Keeping these qualifications in mind I take great pleasure in nominating Dr. J. R. Macarthur, professor of English, as the most popular professor on the hill.

Dr. Macarthur is president of the committees on debate, and on student affairs, and a member of the committee on advanced credit. He is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary society, and an active worker for the promotion of oratory and debate. Every student on the hill tries to get in "Doc's" English class in order to have a good laugh when ever the occasion arises—forever.

If Dr. Macarthur is elected, I can safely say that he will continue to wear that broad smile as before, and to make the students aware that he is the most popular prof., not only on the hill, but in existence.—A Senior.

Editor Collegian:—Please accept the nomination of Professor J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, as the most popular instructor in K. S. A. C. Professor Emerson is known as "Mike" Emerson by many Aggie students.

Mike is an instructor who has not sought popularity but who has become popular by being a friend of every student on the hill. He is a man to whom any student can go for advice or instruction and be sure that it will be given gladly and to the best of his ability. His pleasing personality and actions as a man are an inspiration. To know him is to admire and respect him.—A Senior.

Editor Collegian:—Saturday, September 27, K. S. A. C. opened its football season very creditably by defeating Baker by the score of 16 to 0. The game itself was very interesting but the actions and pep of the student body was a great disappointment to a great many people, especially to visitors. During the entire game I stood beside a captain in the field artillery from Camp Funston, who had played three years of high school football, four years of college, and three years at West Point. He said the biggest disappointment of the game, to him, was the fact that the college did not have better rooters and cheer leaders who could lead.

College football is a game that depends as much upon the student body as upon the team itself. There is nothing in this world that makes a man fight harder on the football field than the fact that he knows that the student body is behind him. This can be made known to him by loud and continuous cheering. It is true that a man hears little while he is really playing, yet there is a sixth sense that tells a football player that the student body is cheering him on.

The greatest fault, it seems, lies with some of the cheer leaders. When they do not know the yells, how can they expect to lead the students in the yelling? One leader Saturday read the cheers from a slip of paper as he tried to lead the students. Another forgot that he held such an important job and got so interested in the game that he forgot that cheering is no good without leadership.

These are two examples of the ability of some of them. Surely there are men in a college of this size that have more ability along this line than the present leaders. Every man has not the knack to get the most noise out of a bunch of students and the men who have such ability should have these jobs. The position of cheer leader requires a man of personality, popularity and pep, together with that "Come-on Gang" spirit that will turn a sure defeat into victory.

I understand that there is a man in college who in 1916 took 300 leather-lunged rooters to K. U. and completely drowned out the 2000 or more rooters of that institution. That man was not on the field Saturday. Why not? I am also told that he holds the distinction of being the only K. S. A. C. student to be awarded the official sweater for cheer leader. Why not ask him to help?

Let's all get together, form an honest-to-goodness "Thundering Thousand" and get some real cheer leaders who have some real ability.—Graduate of Another College.

Editor Collegian: If freshman caps are really an honor, would it be necessary to use any means to force any freshman to wear one?

If freshman caps are really marks of distinction why should they be worn when the freshmen are the greenest and are most easily known to be freshmen?

If freshmen caps are being urged upon freshmen in the spirit of fair play why are they forced upon them during their unorganized period?

If distinctive caps are such an honor as some upperclassmen indicate, why do not they wear gaily colored distinguishing marks?

I am a senior this year and am not personally affected by the cap question unless the freshmen vote to make seniors wear caps; but I would like this question reasoned out with careful logic. Consider, reason, and then decide.—A Senior.

It was all unintentional but a dog effectively enforced the campus speed law Thursday noon by bringing the bicycle speedster to a dead stop. As the bicycle reached the Y of the east drive the dog jumped out just in time to get struck. The student pitched over the handlebars and landed in the grass. When he got up he was looking green, feeling blue, and talking black—otherwise he came out without serious injury.

TO THEM

The Collegian can not begin to express the sincere regret that the college feels in regard to the accident which occurred at the football game Saturday. Hobert Fairman, fullback, who suffered a brain hemorrhage when he was struck by two Army players, is somewhat improved but his condition is still serious.

Carl Roda, guard, who had the ligaments of his shoulder torn, is feeling somewhat better. And "Ding" Burton, quarterback, is suffering from a strained back.

The sorrow that every Aggie student has for these men is inexplicable and all wish to extend to them the sincere sympathy and appreciation of the entire student body.

HOWDO YOU GET THATAWAY!

Just how and why it happened no one seems to know—but dates proved to be rather unpopular at the football game Saturday. The old time game of "bouncing" occurred between halves, following the Aggie snake dance.

The "blanket bouncing" was a big surprise to all because it had been advertised that men could take dates to the game if they so wished. Is it an Aggie habit to promise one thing and then do another? Indeed it is not—the occurrence Saturday was due to the main efforts of one man. That man was the cheer leader who announced in the pep meeting that men could take dates to the game.

Was it not a rather "Germanish" affair for that man to then lead the Aggies into "bouncing" the dates? We realize that deceit started way back in Adam's time—of course you all remember that. But Aggies are supposed to be men—men who are honest and trustworthy. A real Aggie doesn't promise one thing and then go back on his word.

Is then, the man who said that dates would be welcome at that game and who was the instigator of the riot there, worthy of being called an Aggie?

PEP-PEP-PEP!

What's the matter with the pep of K. S. A. C. this year? Will instructors and professors and student leaders who have been busy in past years telling the weary students that there isn't any pep among the Kansas Aggies, dare to say such things this year when the hill seems fairly bubbling over with that necessary article?

Even class meetings are attended this year, the seniors could not all find seats in F2, the juniors turned out en masse, and the freshmen! Well, their laughing and clapping and yelling could be heard from all sides of the auditorium.

Open house days at the Literary societies are over-crowded, pep meetings go fairly wild, and chapel programs are attended by every student in college. They don't get up and leave any more, like they used to do in other years, but sit through all the speaking until Prexy has to tell them to go when it is all over.

Every organization on the hill is busy and wide awake, and the year holds promise of much achievement. Students seem anxious to have well prepared lessons, and the faculty smiles broadly, rejoicing over the splendid spirit shown everywhere.

Even the birds on the campus soon imbued with the spirit of the day and join in a tremendous chorus, "Let's go Aggies!"

When you come to the end of a three weeks' quiz,
And you read what the prof. has wrought,
While the "F" rings out its fiendish sentence;
Oh, the sorrow that the thing has brought.
Do you think that the end of a perfect repentance,
When the yellow envelopes begin to arrive,
And visions of paternal wrath enshroud thee.

A Fresh Parody

Meet me tonight at the library,
Where the sophomores roam.
Meet me tonight at the library,
And then I'll see you home.
Come with a note book or two,
Meet me at the library, that studious library,
There let my hopes of a first date come true.

How Bevo Got Its Name

Sure, a little bit of skum flowed down the Kaw one day, it passed a little burg so very far away, and when Ann Heuser saw it, sure, it looked so sweet and fair, she said, "Suppose we bottle it, it looks so frothy there."

So they sprinkled it with yeast foam to make the bubbles kick; 'tis the only near beer that never makes you sick. Then they sprinkled the floor with saw-dust to make the bar just so. And when they had finished sure they called it Bevo.

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service.

NEW FEATURE FOR DANCING

K. S. A. C. HAS FORM OF DANCING
RARELY TAUGHT IN COLLEGES

MISS BOND GIVES INSTRUCTION

Main Feature Is To Interpret The Different Kinds of Music—Will Also Teach Expression and Beauty in Music

"Not every one can write poetry, paint masterpieces or play beautiful music but every one can learn to dance," Miss Edith Bond declared when describing the purpose of the new interpretative dancing which she has introduced into the college this year.

New Form of Dancing

This form of dancing is entirely new and is taught in only four other universities in the United States. The purpose of the course is not to teach dances but to teach dancing. It is a training of the muscles in order to enable one to relax or contract them at will.

The classes when assembled in the gym, resemble a pretty picture. Each girl is dressed in a loose short costume of a color of her own choosing. The costumes are made with long lines giving a Grecian effect. The girls dance in their stocking feet or bare-foot if they choose. However barefoot dancing is not taught in the course. If the girls wear hose, the stockings must match in color with the costume.

Interpretative Work

When the class is in session the gym is perfectly quiet and classical music is played on the Victrola. The muscle exercises are then worked out to the time of the music.

Soon the girls will begin on the interpretative work proper. The pieces of music played will be interpreted by movement. Each girl will express by motion the meaning of the music as she herself interprets it. The music is hardly ever interpreted twice in the same way.

Beside the training of the muscles, the course will give to the girls a greater appreciation of the meaning of music. It will also give self assurance and poise, which can never be lost after once obtained. Wherever the course has been taught it has been a success. Those taking the work here are enthusiastic over it. Its success is due to the fact that it is a means of self expression. It is a means of interpreting the beauty of music by motion.

System Three Years Old

The system which is only three years old was worked out by Miss Margaret H'Doubler of the University of Wisconsin. A few years ago Miss H'Doubler went to New York City to study dancing. She was so dissatisfied with the type of work taught that she decided to work out a system of her own and interpretative dancing was the result.

DATES WERE IN BAD AT FOOTBALL GAME

BLANKET TOSsing GAME GETTING POPULAR AGAIN

Snake Dance, Followed by Searching of Bleachers for Dates, Staged Between First and Second Halves of Football Game

"Let's blanket the guys with dates" exclaimed some of the wildest of the wild rooters after the snake dance at the game Saturday. With this suggestion away rushed the dancers for the grandstand, with the flash of battle in their eyes.

Oh They Squirmed

The poor devils with dates squirmed uneasily. Most of them were old men and had been up in the blanket before. They knew the disheveling effect, that a ride in the blanket produces on a good looking suit of clothes. Now most of the boys were dolled up in their best, with a good three inch crease in their suit and how ducedly unhandy to have to ruin a perfectly good press.

It was between halves, just that time when a fellow is so comfortable, just sitting munching peanuts and talking to the pretty girl by his side. But the Aggie Wildcat rooters of the north side seemed to forget the time, the place and the crowd, and up into the grandstand they pushed their way.

Goodbye Press

The dates were aroused to consciousness by rough hands pulling them by the coat collar, the collar of that brand new fall suit too, and demanding their presence upon the field. Protest was useless and the older men knew it. So they left their new hats with the blushing indignant cause of the cause of the trouble and walked out to the field like lambs to the slaughter.

A few high tempered youthful Aggies failed to see the joke of the sport and they absolutely refused to be pulled to pieces by the dirty roughnecks and this is where the fun began for the date tossers. They simply picked up the young rebellious and carried the kicking and sprawling out of the grandstand to the bouncing blanket.

On man how they bounced them, higher and higher, faster and faster, till the rebellious young dater could feel nothing but sore places.

When the second half began back came the daters rumbled and fussed to that keen little girl, the cause of all the discomfort. What happened in the game during the second half the dates could not tell for all they remember of the remainder of the game is that the seats were mighty hard.

After they had been wrapped up and handed to him, he was told that they were two dollars and fifty cents.

"I've only two dollars," he told her. "Well, I tell you," he said, an idea striking him, "you pin The Last Rose of Summer onto Annie Laurie, set her in The Old Arm Chair in The Cottage by the Sea and leave Old Dog Tray to watch her while I go out and get the other fifty cents."

Girls, does it appear bad for boys to carry their hands deposited in the depths of their pockets? If it were not for whistling a young fellow wouldn't know what to do with his mouth when he wasn't eating. In a like manner pockets furnish a pleasing resting place for his hands between meals.

ANXIOUS AGGIE

Editor Collegian: I noticed at the dance at Johnnie's Saturday night that one of the chaperons was a very good dancer. Now I wanted to dance with her but didn't know whether it would be proper. What do you know about it?—A Freshman.

Dear Freshman: It is not only permissible and proper, but it's a commendable thing for a gentleman to ask one of the chaperons to dance. Indeed, if a chaperon went to one of the dances and sat still all evening, her eyes would become tired and her head weary, even if she be an instructor.

Collegian Editor: I have been told that the college paper is the place to write for information. What can you tell me about going down the reception line at the college dances?—S. O. E.

Miss or Mr. S. O. E.—Anxious Aggie will attempt to answer all questions—as long as they are normal. In regard to the reception line, every person who goes to a college dance should greet the chaperons cordially. It is not necessary to do so when first entering the hall if a dance is in progress. But the chaperons should be greeted sometime during the first part of the evening. And don't feel at all bashful when you are speaking to the reception committee. If you care to talk to them between dances, do so. They will be glad to give you a little of their time.

Or a Whole Tree

When every pool in Eden was a mirror,
That unto Eve her dainty charms proclaimed,
She went undraped without a single fear, or Thought that she needed to be ashamed.

'Twas only when she'd eaten of the apple
That she became inclined to be a prude,
And found that evermore she'd have to grapple
With the much debated problem of the nude.

Thereafter she devoted her attention,
Her time, and all her money to her clothes,
And that was the beginning of convention,
And modesty, as well, so I suppose.
Reaction's come about in fashions recent,
Now girls conceal so little from the men
It would seem, in the name of all that's decent,
Someone ought to pass the apples 'round again.

LIVESTOCK AND FEED CROPS ARE THE IMPORTANT THINGS

Dean F. D. Farrell Addresses International Farm Congress

Emphasis on livestock and feed crops rather than on crops sold for cash will mark the future farming of the great plains area, pointed out F. D. Farrell, dean of agriculture in the Kansas State Agricultural college, at the International Farm congress in Kansas City last week.

The program suggested by Dean Farrell will require more far reaching plans by plains settlers and also moral and financial support of great plains agriculture by the public, he showed.

The speaker showed how fluctuations in rainfall and other weather conditions had seriously interfered with the farming generally practiced in the region. Figures presented by him gave the minimum annual precipitation at some points as 7 inches, and the maximum at 34 inches. This naturally results in frequent failures in common grain crops.

Diversified farming, with crop industries generally subsidiary to livestock ones, is the future agriculture for this region, Dean Farrell stated.

"For time at last sets all things even—

And if we do but watch the hour,
There never yet was human power
Which could evade, if unforgiven,
The patient search and vigil long
Of him who treasures up a wrong."
—Lord Byron.

MORE DISABLED SOLDIERS ATTENDING COLLEGE NOW

Ninety-seven Have Enrolled in Various Departments Here

Ninety-seven discharged soldiers are enrolled in the college this year under the provisions of the act for vocational training for discharged soldiers.

These men have all been partially disabled while in the service of the United States, either while in France or in the States. The seriousness of these wounds vary from a lost arm or leg to internal injuries and ailments resulting from the effect of gas. Under the Act of Congress of July, 1918, these men are allowed $80 a month if they are single; $115 if married; and $10 additional for each child. In addition to this, all of their traveling expenses, matriculation fees, books, and incidentals even to a lead pencil, are paid. The board pays the college the same matriculation fees and laboratory fee that any other student would pay.

These men are enrolled in nearly all of the departments of the college. Agriculture is the popular branch with these men as they want an occupation which will take them out in the air. Fifty-one men are enrolled in the school of agriculture, taking undergraduate work. Of these about ten have not yet passed the grades. A special class is being organized for these men so that they can get their proper training. The enthusiasm shown by these men in trying to get an elementary education speaks most highly for them and they should be encouraged in every way possible.

Eleven of the men are enrolled in the division of agriculture. These men are classed from freshmen up to juniors. The engineering division has 28 of these men enrolled in their regular course in engineering.

The ardor with which these men pursue their work shows their tenacity of purpose and their willingness to improve themselves along vocational lines. Dr. J. T. Willard, who is in charge of the administrative work connected with this work, expresses himself as very much pleased with the work accomplished by these men. Only in a very few cases has there been any cause for complaint.

"The old students should help these men all they can," says Edward L. Holton, professor of education. "These men are lonely. Some of them have never been to college before. They are removed into strange surroundings, and should be helped in every way possible. Especially the men who have not advanced far along educational lines should be encouraged."

French in K. S. A. C. Is Hard on Little Freshman Students

Dear Family: As I wrote last week I am trying to learn to talk French and whatever possessed me to allow myself to get into anything so seemingly useless as that language; it is simply beyond my comprehension, or that du professeur française. If I ever get out of that class alive, sane, and without XYZ shining forth on my punch-card at the end of the semester much as if it were the highlight of the California Limited instead of being only the grade which I shall have gained by that time in the language of beautiful France, it will be a wonder.

With all due respect to the men who fought so gallantly in the A. E.

F., it certainly is beyond me how they could have fought, bled and died for a country that allows such a language as the French. When you go to France as a soldier you learn one kind of French, when you live in French Canada, another, but when you study French at K. S. A. C. you learn "literary French" and it is different and harder than any other kind of French.

Now when we started out it was really quite nice, for Mademoiselle Professeur did all the talking and the way she rattled off those parlez vous things made Eva Tanguay a small timer, that's all. But little by little the Mademoiselle Professeur has been moving toward that sort of conversation which is largely interrogative and for the life of me I can't see why she always turns her head my way when she says something that ends in a question mark instead of a period.

Now just to show you how sickle and inconsistent French is I'm going to tell you what the text says about it. The first few pages tell that so-and-so means so-and-so, and they give you their word for it. Well, you let that all work into your tired brain and just about the time you begin to comprehend why they tell you that you should forget all that for they have decided that this-and-that, instead of so-and-so means what they meant in the first place. And then about the time you get that devoured they tell you that there are three or four ways of saying one thing. Now my experience in youth in the matter of saying one thing and meaning another never got any 90's for me in grades nor did it keep me from the need of assistance of a father-confessor. I have found that to have one way of saying a thing and sticking to that one way is by far the best way. And certainly the easiest, and methinks that the French should follow us in that respect whether they like our League of Nations or not. If they did there would be fewer distraught and grayheaded freshman.

The official reason why I am taking French is that it will give me double credit but the personal reason is simply and unmistakably because I didn't know any better. In all my remarks, dear family, I do not mean to speak hatefully to or of the French people but I certainly think they have a poor language. Plain United States English is good enough for me and in the future I shall study it with tender reverence and use it accordingly, as a penance for having, with my eyes and ears open signed up valuable time to the pursuit of French when I might better be learning how to conjugate the verb "to be" or the gender, person and number of nouns and pronouns, generally.

I am very tired so I will make this a short letter. I have three pages of French translation to do tonight and it will take me six hours. I will have to study my other things at meal hours tomorrow. As soon as I can I will write you a cheerful letter and tell you some of the nice things about K. S. A. C., for there are many.

I wish, father, that you would send my birthday check that you promised, for I was told today that I will have to have a pair of green silk stockings, to show that I am a Freshman, and having spent my allowance for Bavarian creams and roast pork sandwiches. It is perfectly absurd for if anyone is in doubt after giving me the twiceover as to whether I am a freshman, or not, all they need to do is to attend my French recitations and all their doubts will be removed. I am the freshest and greenest first-year student in that subject that ever had the audacity to undertake learning it.

With all good wishes to everyone,
I am, Avee amour, Suzanne.

READY FOR TRY-OUTS

FIRST PLAY HAS ALREADY BEEN CHOSEN FOR DRAMATIC FRAT.

ALL STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE

Try-Out to be Held in Room 2 of Fairchild Hall Next Thursday, October 9—Many Men Are Urged to Make a Try

Try-outs for the Purple Masque play to be given this fall, will be held in room 2 of Fairchild hall on Thursday evening, October 9. The try-outs will start at 7:15.

Play Is Chosen

It is the hope of those in charge of the play and the members of Purple Masque that the number of students trying out will be larger than ever. Plans have about been completed as to the play to be given and the date of the performance. The try-outs before have been well attended, but with the size of the present student body, it should be possible for the judges to have at least two hundred candidates out for the various places.

Want Many Men

Miss Florence Heizer, the coach, is especially anxious to have a number of men try out. There is an unusual number of places for the men, she says. Before, the men have not taken the usual interest in the plays, and it is hoped that this year they will respond more readily.

Emphasis must be laid upon the fact that the try-outs are open to all. While the performance is staged by the Purple Masque Dramatic fraternity, it does not mean that they are the only ones that can try out. Everyone, from freshman class up, who has any ability along dramatic lines, is urged to try out.

All those who wish to try must see Miss Heizer before the trials. Miss Heizer will give any information wished, and also give suggestions. She can be found in her office in Anderson 53, during the second period, any day in the week.

SHRUBS AND TREES TO BE PLANTED AT ATHLETIC FIELD

Ten Foot Cement Wall to be Erected Around Two Sides

The landscape gardening department is planning extensive planting around the athletic field. Pines, spruces, firs, oaks, poplars, willows, and many other varieties of trees and hardy flowering shrubs will be planted on the north, east and west sides of the field and around the entrance. The planting will be started this winter and probably will be completed next spring. Plans are being made for the erection of a ten foot cement wall around the park on the south and west sides sometime in the future.

Members of the department asserted that it was their intention to plant poison ivy, dogwood, poison oak, honey locusts, and all sorts of "prickles" on the east side of the field in order to prevent the students from cutting across the campus to the cafeteria.

New Botany Instructor

Miss Dorothy Cashen, a graduate of Carthage college, Illinois, has been secured as assistant in the botany department. Miss Cashen began her graduate work in systematic botany at the University of Illinois where she was a graduate assistant. She will continue her graduate work at this institution and will receive her master's degree this year. Miss Cashen has had a successful career at Illinois and comes here highly recommended. She will teach some of the freshman classes in general botany and will also have some of the school of agriculture classes.

Hockey Practice Now

Oh girls! Come out to hockey practice! Hockey is one of the best sports on the hill, and every loyal Aggie girl should come out and try for her class team. The freshman girls, who will practice Fridays at five, head the list with seventy-four trying out. The sophomores come second with forty-two girls. Their practice comes each Wednesday at five o'clock. The juniors and seniors will practice Tuesdays at five o'clock. Twenty-three juniors and fifteen seniors have signed up for hockey.

W. M. JARDINE TALKS AT THE WHEAT SHOW

GIVES SURVEY OF KANSAS FARMING FOR THE LAST TEN YEARS

Points Out Changes that Have Taken Place in Acreage Planted to Various Crops

A practical program for a better balanced agriculture for Kansas was outlined at the wheat show at Wichita last Wednesday by Pres. W. M. Jardine.

A survey of Kansas farming for the last ten years was made by President Jardine. He pointed out the changes that have taken place in the acreage planted to various crops and the lessons that these facts and the results of other investigations held for the immediate future.

The points of the program outlined by President Jardine for the Kansas farmers was to raise less wheat, double the sorghum acreage, double the alfalfa acreage, grow twice as much Sudan grass and other pastures, not increase too greatly the acreage of corn, distribute farm operations through the year, and keep up the soil fertility.

President Jardine's discussion was followed by F. D. Farrell, dean of agriculture, L. E. Call, professor of agronomy; C. W. McCampbell, professor of animal husbandry; and J. B. Fitch, professor of dairy husbandry.

Will Talk to Student Body in Auditorium on November 5—Will Go to Various Teachers' Meetings in the State

Henry Suzzalo, president of Washington University at Seattle, Wash., will address the Aggie students in the auditorium on November 5. Doctor Suzzalo is an excellent speaker and every K. S. A. C. student will be glad to hear him.

Doctor Suzzalo's coming to the college is due to an invitation extended by Professor Kammeyer. The former is coming to Kansas to speak at several teachers' meetings on November 6, 7, 8, and 9. Professor Kammeyer wired Doctor Suzzalo and secured his consent to come here.

Building Good Roads

The Roads and Materials laboratory has sent out over 750 samples of material since May 1. Contracts for over $3,700,000 worth of hard surface roads have been closed and work on some of this is under way. This when completed will represent over one hundred miles of hard surfaced roads.

Have Swimming Classes

Classes will be open in the gymnasium on Tuesdays and Thursdays the eighth hour for any college women, or women of the faculty who desire to take swimming. Any woman may enter either class providing she has a doctor's certificate. Lockers may be had by presenting a locker fee card, which may be obtained at the business office.

Miss Ila Knight spent last week end at her home in Jamestown.

Miss Pauline Parkhurst, '14, and Miss Ruby Parkhurst, former student, both of Kinsley, are attending the University of Southern California, in Los Angeles, this year.

H. B. Winchester, assistant professor of animal husbandry in the college, left Thursday for Beloit where he will judge cattle at the Mitchell county fair, held this week.

The School of Agriculture football team has made arrangements with the Y. M. C. A. to use their shower baths and dressing rooms each evening. This makes it much more convenient for the boys as they practice in the city park.

Herbert Helmcamp is now employed in the United States department of agriculture as grain inspector. His work consists of inspecting the different mills throughout the east. "Slim" graduated with the class of '18.

The Y. W. is having more demands for household help than there are girls to fill them. On the other hand there are many more girls listed for stenographic and clerical work than there are positions for them. This seems to be the age of the professional woman.

ROOTER MEETING IN AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

BIG PROGRAM HAS BEEN PREPARED BY PEP COMMITTEE

TALK BY PRESIDENT JARDINE

"Mike" Ahearn to Have Charge of the Meeting—Big Bonfire on the Football Grounds after the Meeting in the Auditorium

It's best Missouri now. At the rooter meeting in the auditorium tonight a real pep meeting will be held and every Aggie student is urged to be there with bells on.

Ahearn the Chairman
"Mike" Ahearn will have charge of the meeting. A half hour will be devoted to learning the new yells and songs and the practicing of old ones. The cheer leaders have been together this week so it is a certainty that they will make everyone yell at the top of his voice.

The first speech will be given by Pres. Wm. M. Jardine. A member of the pep committee will give an address, followed by a talk by Dr. H. H. King. Coaches Clevenger and Schulz will give short talks. The football men will be on the stage.

Have Bonfire
After the meeting in the auditorium the gang will be led to the freshmen football field where a real honest-to-goodness bonfire will be built. More yells and songs will be given there.
During this week, the pep committee and cheer leaders have had two meetings, planning the yells and the way in which things will be conducted at the meetings and on the field. Better yelling is needed at the games and the cheer leaders are now prepared to make the rooters root. So everyone be at the meeting tonight!

GIRLS' LOYALTY CLUB IS LATEST ORGANIZATION

EXPRESSES ENTHUSIASM FOR ALL COLLEGE ACTIVITIES

Special Section Reserved for the Club at Pep Meeting Tonight—All Aggie Girls Urged To Be Present

Three hundred and fifty girls, brimming over with pep and ready to back the football team and all other forms of college activities to the limit, gathered at the auditorium Wednesday at five o'clock to organize the Aggie Girls' Loyalty club.

Miss Derby presided at the meeting. Talks in favor of organization of the club were made by Pres. W. M. Jardine, Dean Van Zile, Prof. H. H. King, Miss Bartholf, and Miss Marie Hammerly.

The girls of the college have felt for some time, that an organization was needed to express the loyalty and enthusiasm which they feel for all college activities. Just at the present time the organization is a means for expressing loyalty to the football team and appreciation of its work.

All the speakers expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of the club. Dean Van Zile, in her talk, said that she realized that there was need on the hill for some sort of organization in which every girl in the college could have a part, and in which all can work together to express their loyalty. President Jardine urged that the girls devote especial attention to the need for songs at the athletic games. But I prefer that you omit, Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here said the president.

Professor King, who spoke in behalf of the men's athletic interests of the college spoke enthusiastically of what might be accomplished by the club, as did Miss Bartholf who represented the Women's Athletic interests. Miss Hammerly, president of the Women's Athletic Association said in her talk, that the Aggie Girls' Loyalty Club would in no way infringe on the Women's Athletic Association, but would rather be of assistance to that organization.

After the girls had voted unanimously to form the club and the name Aggie Girls' Loyalty club had been suggested and favorably received, a council of five members was elected. Miss Ernestine Bibb was elected chairman of the council, the other members of which are Miss Hetty Carris, Miss Bly Ewalt, Miss Irene Graham and Miss Edna Chapin. At the first meeting of the council an advisor will be elected.

The Aggie Girls' Loyalty club urges that all girls meet in the women's gymnasium at 7:45 Friday evening. A special section will be reserved for the girls at the pep meeting. The club will put on a special stunt between halves at the Aggie-Missouri game Saturday.

KANSAS CITY JOURNAL SPEAKS MIGHTY WELL OF AGGIE TEAM

Says Wildcats Have Good Chance for Valley Championship

An unprejudiced opinion of the Aggie team was expressed by the Kansas City Journal Sunday. The fact that the K. S. A. C. team is being hoisted for Missouri Valley honors by such a publication should make the students feel more like getting behind their team and showing more pep than ever before. The article follows:

"Judging from their work in the first two games of the season against Baker U. and Camp Funston, the Kansas Aggies are going to have another of those steady, hard fighting teams which are stronger on defense but have enough scoring power to put over the necessary touchdowns to make a strong fight for the Missouri valley conference championship. Z. C. Clevenger, director of athletics, has had charge of the backfield and by the time a valley conference team is met, he will have a fast charging set of backs that will be hard to stop. "Germany" Schulz has charge of the line and the "All-American center for all time" will turn out a line that will be hard to penetrate. Schulz is strong for defense. He figures if he can keep the opposition from scoring, the chances of a winning team are very rosy.

"In Burton, quarterback, the Aggies have a splendid broken field runner. He carries the ball back a long way on punts and is speedy in making end runs. Burton is small and slight, but a game, hard fighting player who will make a name for himself in the conference.

"Huston is a sure point winner with his toe. He makes accurate drop kicks and he will score many goals this season. He made a splendid drop kick in the Baker game. When the Aggies get near the enemy's goal they are in danger of scoring because of Huston's ability to boot the pigskin.

"There are many other good men in the Wildcat's lineup, including Roda, the big guard; Randals, an end, who is a brother of "Stiff" Randals, former Aggie captain; Gallagher and Hinds."

Nuther Pipe Dream Busted

I've toiled along for many years at plowing corn and raising steers. I thought I'd been a fool, and I looked forward to the day, when I could junk my tools and say: adieu. I go to school. There I would have no grievous task, in sunny realms of ease I'd bask and sing soft songs of love. I'd tiddle on my ukela and in the brass band I would play and through fine gardens rove. I captained, once, our village team and I thought that to them I'd seem a full sized grizzly bear, and all I'd have to do would be, to let them set their eyes on me and they'd ride me in the air. At last the day I longed for came; joy percolated through my frame. "At last," I said, "I'm here. This getting up at break of day, to slop the hogs and pitch the hay, doesn't suit an engineer." I finally got to sign the log: took everything that I could hog and now I'd like to curse. I study along from morn 'till night; with radicals, and Greek I fight, life couldn't be much worse. Don't know a soul; not a soul knows me. I feel like a monkey up a tree: I haven't a single chance. My feet are as big as a barn yard lot, my hands are calloused, my hair's in a clot, I can't even learn to dance. The damsels, so pretty, all turn me down cold. The jokes that I crack, They tell me, are old. They say that I'm a bore. I wasn't made to dazzle eyes or in society take the prize; my dreams are dreams of yore. I long to plow the rows of corn and hear the welcome dinner horn, resounding far and near. I may be homesick or perhaps just blue, whatever it is I wish I knew for my chance is punk, I fear. Some guys were made to go to school, and some were made to play the fool; I fear that is my run. I hack away at chem, and trig, and through my Latin grimly dig, but truly, it's no fun.

FRESHIES DON RAINBOW CAP

GREEN WHITE AND PURPLE COVERINGS HERE AT LAST

WILL WEAR THEM SATURDAY

Every Freshmen Boy Must Have Petite Brain Covering When He Appears on Football Field Next Saturday

The freshmen bonnets have arrived at last. For over a week the first year men have worried and thought about these rainbow roofings. Some even thought that the sophomores had changed their minds and had not ordered the brain coverings.

Wear Them Saturday

The traditional bonnets were placed on sale in Anderson hall Tuesday afternoon and all were sold by Wednesday evening. The sophomores have issued orders that the freshmen wear the caps now and especially when they appear on the football field next Saturday.

The rules governing the wearing of the caps are the same this year as they have been in former years. They shall be worn on school days but not on Sundays unless the wearer so desires. It is necessary to wear them only on the campus and in immediate vicinity. If a freshman wishes to go down town, he need not wear the cap. But if he is just going to Aggieville, it is a good policy to don the cap. When a freshman goes to a dance or party in the evening, he need not wear his cap.

What Is the Punishment

Wild rumors are afloat concerning the form of punishment that will be inflicted on the freshman who refuses to wear the cap. Something has been said about tanks and lakes and duck-ings. Other rumors say something about belts and sticks. But it seems to be a certainty that the rebellious ones will be attended to properly.

Caps Cost $1.10

Each cap this year costs $1.10. Last year the caps sold for 75 cents. The president has ordered that the committee that has charge of the sale of the caps shall make no money on them. The committee has been asked to submit the original invoices for the caps so no money will be made this year.

The caps must be worn until after the home coming game on November 22. This game marks the close of the football season and so the caps need not be worn after that.

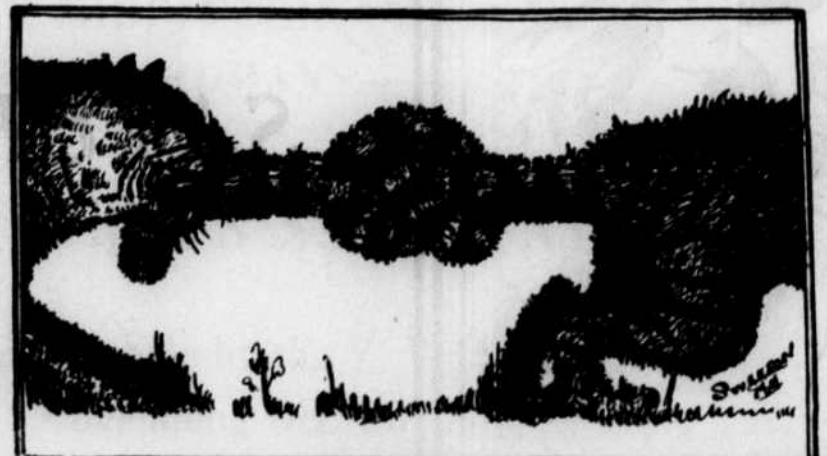

Aristocratic Porker Would Have Profs Present Calling Cards

Contrary to the popular opinion, hogs have many traits similar to human beings. Some of them have a high sense of humor, while others cannot stand fame without feeling that they are a little bit above the common scum of the earth.

This is especially true of one hog, shown at the National swine show held at Des Moines. This boar, an excellent type of porker, thought that because he had won prizes at some of the largest fairs and stock shows in the United States, that he would insist upon being truly aristocratic and associate himself only with the elite.

Therefore, when one of the professors in animal husbandry of the Kansas State Agricultural college attempted to enter the pen without first presenting his card, the hog immediately became hard boiled and commenced to show his authority. But after taking a slash into the calf of the prof's leg, the hog recognized the aristocratic taste of the blood and immediately "ceased firing." As a result, however, associate Professor Ferrin is just able to be about on crutches.

Wildcats Prepared to Twist the Missouri Tiger's Tail

The Wildcats are all set and ready for Saturday's game. The team, while hampered somewhat by the loss of two good men, has developed well in the past week and is prepared to fight. Every student in college turn out tomorrow and help tie the knot in the Tiger's tail—just as the Wildcat is doing in the above picture.

WILDCATS MIX WITH TIGERS TOMORROW

AGGIES ARE PREPARING TO TWIST THAT TAIL AGAIN

NEITHER TEAM HAS THE EDGE

Freshman Eleven Has Been Using Missouri Formations Against the Varsity this Week

The Aggies play their first Missouri Valley game of the season with the Missouri Tigers on Ahearn field Saturday. All week the Wildcats have been drilling hard on new plays that will twist the Tigers' tail. The freshmen have been using Missouri formations and the Varsity has been "Lustin' 'em up."

Roda and Fairman Witnesses

Carl Roda will witness the game from the sidelines. Carl can't get used to carrying his arm in a sling and it's a safe bet that he will be out in a suit again as soon as possible. "Hobe" Fairman says he wants to see the Tiger's tail twisted Saturday so his physician is making arrangements for the star fullback to have his wish. With the exception of these two men, the team is in fine shape. Cliff Gallagher will probably get in the game for a time at least.

Missouri is bringing twenty two men to Manhattan. Newspaper reports state that some of their men are also on the injured list but all of the Tiger letter men will be on the line-up.

The Aggie team compares very favorably with the Missouri aggregation. Coach Clevenger has two sets of backfield men that it is hard to choose between. He also has two sets of ends all of whom have won their letters. Dope has it that Missouri is not so strong in these positions most of their strength being in the line.

Have The Jinx

The Aggie seem to be a jinx to the Tigers. The first year the Aggies played the Missourians the score was 3 to 0 favor of Missouri, the next year it was a tie 0 to 0. For the last two years the Aggies have beaten the eleven from their sister state by a score of 7 to 6. The game Saturday will be a battle royal with neither team having very much of an edge on the other.

The Line-Up

Bogue, Capt.	R. E.	Schroeder

Hutto	R. G.	Wilks

SPORT DOPE

The Tigers are coming. And they are of the man eating variety. Suppose we go to the pep meeting Friday night and go ready to tame them.

The Tigers are putting out bear stories about the coming affair with the Wildcats. But when a Tiger and a cat, especially when it is an overgrown cat, get together there is bound to be some fur flying.

At a meeting of the Missouri team, the coach, Johnnie Miller, told them that their interference was poor, and if not improved would cause them defeat at Manhattan. Well! we don't care if it does.

This is the fourth annual game with Missouri. We have played them a tie, and beaten them by a one point margin the other two years. The Aggies went to Columbia in 1915 and they played a goose egg to goose egg game. We went back the next year and each made a touch down. Missouri, however, failed to kick goal. This was Coach Clevenger's first year with the Farmers. The next year he let Missouri visit us. Again we were nice to them and played another 6 to 7 game, again the Tiger booter missing the goal.

The players on the hospital list are improving. Roda and Fairman, the two most serious cases are getting along quite well. But the Aggies have suffered a loss. Neither will likely be in the game again this year.

Assistant Coach Phelan of Missouri came to Manhattan last Saturday to watch the Aggie-Army game.

We don't know what the decision is going to be regarding dates at Saturday's game. That will probably be decided at the pep meeting. So if you want to get posted on this point you had better attend the rooters' gang. Every student on the hill should be at the auditorium Friday night. Lay off that Friday night date and get out with the gang. If you really must have a date bring it along.

There probably will be a bunch of Missouri rooters come up to see the game. So we should remember our manners. We should do this whether they come or not. The school spirit is high at Columbia. Let us convince them that we have a good supply of the same stuff.

COLLEGE DAIRY TEAM WINS FIRST HONORS

TEAM RECEIVES THREE TROPHY CUPS AND A MEDAL

At the Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa, the Team Took the Fifth Place

The dairy judging team of the Kansas State Agricultural college won first honors at the students' judging contest at the National Dairy show held at Chicago. Sixteen different teams competed for honors.

The Kansas team not only won first place in the contest as a whole, but was also first in judging Holsteins, and third in judging Jerseys. E. F. Gotman, a member of the K. S. A. C. team stood third as an individual judge. Raymond Campbell, another member of the team, was second in judging Ayrshires.

The members of the team were: W. E. Gottman, and Raymond Campbell, seniors in agriculture, and G. C. Anderson, a junior in agriculture. Professor J. B. Fitch and H. W. Cave accompanied the team.

As a result of the splendid work of the team at this show the college will receive three trophy cups and one gold medal. The team also judged at the Dairy Cattle congress, held at Waterloo, Iowa, where it took first place.

Up She Goes

Work on the new addition to the college infirmary is progressing rapidly and it will be in use soon. The new addition will be about 20 x 30 feet and is being made of stone taken from some old buildings on the campus.

IT'S A FACT

That the Kansas State Agricultural college has two of the best and foremost athletic coaches in the west; that their names are Z. G. Clevenger and A. G. Schultz.

PHYSICAL WORK IS TAKING WELL

BOXING IS LATEST FEATURE IN THE TRAINING

Swimming Pool Is Crowded Most of the Time—Cross Country Runs and Short Sprints Are Also Popular

H. L. Lorenz, director of physical training, has cranked up his physical training machine, and has it running smoothly. Director Lorenz says, "It was some little task to set these classes moving, and had it not been for the unusual interest taken by the boys, the classes would not be much more than organized."

Pigskin Is Active

The majority of the men, in this department are to be seen daily out on the freshman gridiron, and incidentally, many "Brickley" toes are on their way to the hall of fame. "The chief function of the gym classes in taking up football is, of course, to get the benefit of the outside crisp air, then a great number are interested in the science of football, who do not have the time to put in on the daily grind—four until six-thirty," states Lorenz. As yet, there has been no scrimmage among the gym-football squad, due to the lack of togs.

Cross Country Try-Outs

Lorenz put his track men through their first paces last week. It is a large surprise to notice so much form in the sprints, middle distant and the cross country, such as is displayed by some of these boys in this department. "The old athletic slogan, 'where there's a will there's a way,' is not only a saying but is a true fact as there are several, who run the course in less than eleven seconds.

Boxing Classes in Earnest

Major Davidson, who is searching for a "crop of white hopes," is meeting with great success. Davidson has nearly all of his classes filled, and is now taking rapid and lengthy strides toward perfecting his Dempseys. After battering up a portion of his Fisticana Club, Davidson was heard to remark that he had not only heard of the Aggie's fight but had really encountered a portion of it. The efforts of Major Davidson, up to the present, have been chiefly directed to the fighting pose, and the various methods of attack, but he has promised opposition to all of his stable if they desire.

Swimming Pool Full of Life

The ducklings are taking to the water to a greater extent than was ever forecasted. No appeals or invitations, such as, "come on in, the water's fine" have been necessary, but the motto, "Sink or Swim," is no doubt coming to the point of realization among the physical torture boys. The various strokes, somersaults, and dives have been lectured upon, and from now on, solo and stunt swimming, is bound to add life to the old hole.

That's Different

"Boys flying kites haul in their white winged birds;
But you can't do that way when you're flying words.
Thoughts that we think may sometimes fall back dead;
But God himself can't kill them when they're said."

NEW POINT SYSTEM IN GIRLS' ATHLETICS

MUST GET 400 POINTS IN ORDER TO WIN THE "K" SWEATER

Certain Games Will Count 50 Points
Each While Others Count Only 10
Points—Girl Must Be Good Athlete to Win the K

A new point system for the girls' physical training department has been worked out by the athletic association. Under the new system any girl who is freshman or sophomore this year must earn 400 points before she is entitled to a "K" sweater. The junior girls of this year must have 300 points and the senior girls will be required 200 points. This method gives the girl who started to earn points under the old system a chance to win the sweater before she finishes school regardless of the new way of grading. Under the new system every girl making a hockey, baseball or basketball class team will be given 50 points.

Girls making class swimming teams will be given 25 points. If they win a blue cap while they are on the team 50 points will be given.

For aesthetic and folk dancing before judges, 15 points will be given, and for apparatus test before judges, 15 points and for perfect class record each semester 10 points are awarded. To every girl chosen for any varsity team 25 additional points will be given.

Twenty-five points are given for first place in the tennis tournament, 15 points for second place, 10 points for third place and five points for fourth place.

Every girl desiring to earn points should be a member of the athletic association for this organization has charge of the point system. Fifty points entitles any girl to membership. Every member of the association who earns 175 points is given a W. A. A. pin.

Junior and senior girls who take gym. after they have completed the two years of required work are given 25 points.

Reorganize Cadet Club

An attempt is being made to reorganize the cadet corp club. Elaborate plans are being formulated for the year's work. The treasury contains $150, part of which has been used for the purchase of a field range and cooking outfit and tentage equipment for 50 or 60 men. The club plans to take week end hikes or camping trips. The men will go out Friday night and stay until Sunday night. Military tactics and discipline will be carried out as much as possible. Valuable training of a practical nature will be obtained in this manner.

COLLEGE PHOTOGRAPHER IS HERE AND READY FOR WORK

New Department Is Opened in K. S. A. C.—Only for Advertising

F. E. Colburn, college photographer, has arrived and will begin work immediately. The building formerly used by the building and repair department will be made into a studio and occupied by Mr. Colburn.

This is an entirely new department in the college. Mr. Colburn, who was assistant professor in photography at Ames and lately has been in forest reserve work taking pictures from the air, will have complete charge of the college work. The work will include taking pictures of the campus, dairy barns, stock, and anything that has to do with advertising the college.

R. O. T. C. MEN REORGANIZE RIFLE CLUB

ALL EXPERT RIFLEMEN ARE ELIGIBLE TO MEMBERSHIP

Club Will be a Member of the College Rifle League of the National Rifle Association

D. C. Thayer and H. S. Woodard, senior R. O. T. C. men, have formed a committee to reorganize a rifle club which will be a member of the college rifle league of the National Rifle Association. The club will consist of any member of the R. O. T. C. who is proficient in rifle practice. All men who qualify as marksmen, sharpshooters, or expert riflemen will be eligible to membership in the rifle team. The team will consist of the ten best men of the club.

The intercollegiate riflemen's contest will be held sometime after Christmas. This contest will be entered by teams representing colleges all over the United States.

The contest consists of nine trials, extending over a period of nine weeks. Each team will make one trial every week. The results will be sent weekly to the judges at Washington, D. C., the headquarters of the National Rifle association.

The team making the highest record in marksmanship for the nine weeks will be considered the champion rifle team of its class. In addition to team work there are opportunities for individuals. Contests between individual marksmen are carried on much the same as those between teams, rules governing either being similar.

Valuable prizes are offered to winners in this sport.

Lieutenant Colonel Terrell is endeavoring to get the athletic department to recognize marksmanship as one of the minor sports of the college.

GIRLS LIKE THE PHYSICAL WORK

OVER 400 GIRLS TAKING PHYSICAL EDUCATION IN COLLEGE

MISS BOND IS HEAD TEACHER

Training Used To Be a Bore but Now the Course Has Been Made so Attractive that All Girls Are Anxious to Take It

That girls as a rule deplore to take the proper amount of exercise is a theory which is hackneyed and worn out. Long ago it was laid away on the shelf to be forgotten. The Kansas State Agricultural college was one of the schools to help bury this ridiculous idea which at one time was so prevalent.

Make Courses Attractive

The change was slowly brought about. But today it can be said that the physical training courses are attractive to the girls of the school. This is proved by the fact that the girls' physical training classes in the college are crowded and extra assistants have been hired to take charge of part of the work.

Several years ago the girls regarded physical "ed." classes as a thrice a week bore. The girl who actually enjoyed the work was an exception. Little by little the department has done its work more and more attractively. Various plans have been put into effect to bring about this change.

Give Prizes, Too

Games of all kinds are taught, such as volley ball, baseball, hockey, basketball, tennis, and liberty ball. Each year teams are chosen by the instructors to represent the various classes in basketball, hockey, and baseball. In recent years a loving cup is awarded to the winning classes in basketball and hockey.

Get into the Pool

This semester class teams will be chosen in swimming. The classes will then compete for first place in the winter swimming carnival. One day during each week the girls are allowed to vary their gym work with a class in dancing. Esthetic, folk, and interpretative dancing are taught. The interpretative dancing is entirely new in the school. The idea was brought here by Miss Edith Bond who is an instructor in the department.

Pep is the key word that admits every Aggie coed into the athletic world at K. S. A. C. It is an honor on the college hill to be a member of a class team, to play the game and play it well. The greatest honor for which every girl is working is to be the possessor of the purple "K" sweater.

This year 400 girls are enrolled in the course. Many junior and senior girls are taking extra work in gym, for which they receive no credit. Girls' physical training at K. S. A. C. is a success not because the girls naturally enjoy that type of work, but because the work in the department has been made attractive.

Pep

Vigor, vitality, vim and punch—
That's pep!
The courage to act on a sudden hunch
That's pep!
The nerve to tackle the hardest thing
With feet that climb and hands that cling,
And a heart that never forgets to sing—
That's pep!

Sand and grit in a concrete base—
That's pep!
Friendly smile, on an honest face—
That's pep!
The spirit that helps when another's down
That knows how to scatter the blackest frown,
That loves its neighbor and loves its town—
That's pep!

To say "I will"—for you know you can—
That's pep!
To look for the best in every man—
That's pep!
To meet each thundering knock-out blow,
And come back with a laugh because you know
You'll get the best of the whole darn show
That's pep!

Lieutenant Colonel Terrell is well pleased with the progress of the work in military science. Any one who wishes to see a snappy bunch of men in action may do so by appearing on the east side of the auditorium at the fourth hour on any day except Monday or Saturday.

Members of the Eurolephian and Webster literary societies are seeking to correct the impression which an exceedingly innocent, or ignorant young freshman girl has been giving concerning the joint Webster Eurolephian meeting Saturday evening. "We had whiskey and doughnuts for refreshments," said the innocent freshman. And the society members wish that someone would explain to her the difference between cider and whiskey.

New Improvements Made

Due to the great increase in the experimental work to be undertaken by the poultry husbandry department this year, many new improvements are being made in the equipment of the department.

The capacity of the incubators has been increased from 1800 to 3600 eggs. The experimental feed laboratories have been enlarged to 20 feet by 30 feet. A new laying house 15 by 30 feet has also been built.

TAKE YOUR GIRLS

Boys, take your girls out to the football practices. Teach them the names of all the football men and then they can emit pep in the proper manner.

There is no denying that the Missouri game tomorrow is to be a hard one—and if it is to be won, the rooters will have to do their share. Three Wildcats have been injured and, while there are substitutes to take their places, the team is slightly weakened.

And if you want to take your girls, boys, there will be no more blanket tossing. The rule is that boys may have dates and we are sure that the person who started the trouble the last time will be glad to keep out of it now.

BUCK UP, FRESHMEN

There are still many freshmen who object to wearing the Aggie bonnet. Some have the idea that it is a disgrace to wear a cap which is no larger than a man's hand. This is the wrong attitude, and we hope none of them will keep this view. The upperclassmen, as they look back to their first year on the hill, are proud of the fact that they wore the petite brain covering. In fact, most of them now consider that the caps were marks of distinction.

This year sees the largest freshman class ever enrolled in the college. Most of them are strangers to one another. The wearing of the cap will enable the freshmen to distinguish their classmates from the upperclassmen, and help them make many friends.

Wear the cap and be proud that you can do it. Ten years from now you will be tickled to death to relate incidents of your freshman year and the wearing of the cap will be one of them.

There will be no padding this year—or at least it is so advertised. The women's and men's fraternities have methods of making their freshmen don the bonnets and it is certain that methods of forcing the others to wear them will be found.

THEY'RE NOT TO BLAME

It seems that the committee in charge of purchasing and selling the freshman bonnets, failed to order a sufficient supply to satisfy the demand. A number of freshman boys have tried to buy caps but none can be secured.

Miss Jessie Machir, registrar, has been trying to help the frightened freshmen but not a cap can be found. It is rumored about the campus that the committee in charge failed to order a large number of caps in order that there would be some "meat" left. This rumor has not been proved, however, and members of the purchasing committee deny it.

However, if freshmen are to wear the striped cap, all and not part of the boys, should wear them. If the committee did not order a sufficient number to go around, it isn't the fault of the freshmen. Any punishment that is inflicted on the boys who desire to purchase the caps but can not, will be entirely out of order. These freshmen should secure some kind of designation before going to the game Saturday.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER

There are knockers and calamity howlers who are born and there are those who acquire it because somebody else knocks them or because they associate with the pessimists. But either kind is a detriment to any group and K. S. A. C. has no place for either.

All this being a preliminary to the subject matter, which in brief is this: It would be a good thing for all students in case of future mishaps such as occurred on the athletic field last Saturday in the injury of one of the star players to guard with zealous care any remarks they make concerning the extent of the injury of players or placing the responsibility of the unfortunate occurrence on the shoulder of any individual, or college, itself.

To the actual knowledge of the Collegian it was reported three times that the player who was injured, had died as a result of injuries received in the game last week end.

Secondly, but none the less important, don't go around the campus or about town blaming the athletic department or college for listing the game since it was not one that would effect the championship standing one way or the other. Be loyal; take the thing as it comes and consider it wisely and fairly.

Lastly, go to that Missouri game! The fact that two of our good men are taking a rest cure is all the more reason that you should be there, physically and with your whole heart and spirit.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor: Friday night dances, four Saturday solids, and often two or three hard Saturday morning quizzes, what a sad combination for the average student, who is carrying 10 credit hours. Such a duke's mixture is about as easily digested as a midnight lunch of sweet milk and dill pickles.

Now don't misunderstand me and think I'm complaining for I'm simply commenting on the situation. Of course, there is not a student in the college who would complain, because that is not the Aggie spirit.

But we would just like to suggest that the hard headed profs. who persist in giving their weekly quizzes Saturday morning, would step out to Johnnie's on Friday nights and shake their scholastic toes to a good rag-time piece.

We believe that after a few of these midnight gambols these profs. would realize that Saturday, like Sunday, should be a day of rest.

For why should they sit in the scorn-er's seat.

And hurl the cynic's ban; Come, try the floor at Johnnie's, And be a friend to man.—A Dancing Sophomore.

Dear Editor: In your official capacity will you not request Mr. Wareham to refrain from playing "Home Sweet Home" at picture shows? There have been several of the younger students who have lost much of their morale because of prevailing nostalgia resulting from exhibition of home scenes and the playing of home music by the orchestra.—A freshman who wants to go home.

Editor of Collegian: I want to nominate a winner. What is the one thing that is more popular in college than anything else? Athletics, of course. Then who should be more popular than the man behind our athletics? I want to nominate Coach Clevenger as the most popular faculty member. If every student will sit down and think, he will discover fifty reasons why Coach Clevenger should win the popularity contest.—Junior Woman.

Editor of the Collegian: Why haven't you nominated "Mike" Ahearn? How many of our students know that the only time we ever beat K. U. in football was when Mike was coach? I reckon that that ought to count for something in a popularity contest. He has always been an all-round booster for the college. Anybody who has heard him talk at a pep meeting knows that he can deliver the goods. He can tell a story better than anyone in Manhattan. He always has a pleasant smile for everyone. And he doesn't belong to the committee on student affairs.—Alma M.

Editor Collegian: In electing a man as the most popular professor, I feel that one should be elected who is remembered by every student and one who is constantly on their minds. He should not only be known for his popularity but for his thoroughness as an instructor.

The man that I am nominating is a very thorough instructor, in fact, so well does he meet this requirement, that few people ever think of going to his classes unprepared. Anyone who can create such a deep interest and make such a lasting impression should certainly have a place in the popularity contest, therefore I nominate I. Victor Iles.—An American Government Student.

Editor Collegian: I would like to pass a suggestion thru your column. Aggie girls, let's be out at football practice Friday nights and get an inspiration for a song and yell. Why not learn the game, get the feeling and then compose what we feel into words? I hold that we can't sit back in opera chairs with one lone person performing in the spot light and get any real pep. We need songs and yells with spirit in them, not epics but lyrics, to be technical. Let's go, Aggie girls! and get that inspiration. I would like to see 200 Aggie girls out to football practice tonight.—An Aggie Coed.

Editor Collegian: Is a person justified in calling our cheer leader "Germanish" for doing his duty. It is the duty of the cheer leader to incite pep. A person from observation will know that the quite places on the sidelines were those where "dates" predominated.

Should the cheer leader be called a disloyal Aggie for finding the fault with the rooters and providing a remedy? Emphatically, he should not. We hear from experienced men that dates hinder cheering, we observe with our own eyes that dates are nix when it comes to cheering, we therefore come to the conclusion that it was the duty of our cheer leader to break up the practice.—R. K. P.

Dear Editor: I wish to register a few thoughts which, at this time might be of value to every student. There too often exists among college students the idea that it is great sport to swipe things of various sorts such as pennants, signs, neckties, freshmen caps, etc. This is a mistake, a false and a dangerous idea. Those who do it seem to think that being in college excuses them, that is a big joke. But surely there is nothing in college life that would make crime a joke. Let it be remembered that "acrimie is a crime and a thief is a thief, even at an institution of learning."

The freshmen caps are here. And the freshmen boys are digging down into their pockets for the sum of $1.10, which is the amount they must pay for these caps. Within two hours after these caps were put on the market complaints were received that a number of them had been "lifted"—to use the polite term for stolen. That is exactly the same thing as reaching down in the pocket of the man and taking the money.

There needs to be developed in this college, as in any other, a public opinion that will not tolerate petty thefts and crime. Shame and disgrace should be on those who would steal or cheat or defraud in any manner. There should be no cribbing either.

Let the truth be your guiding star and honesty be your motto. Let us make the ideals of K. S. A. C. high and Aggie traditions of honesty sacred. Why not do all for the sake of the college and also for our sake? College students, what is your answer?—A student.

The school of agriculture will hold a mixer in the girls' gymnasium next Saturday night. All the school of agriculture students should come and get acquainted.

GREAT DEMAND FOR ENGINEERS

MORE POSITIONS OPEN THAN GRADUATES TO FILL THEM

THE ENROLMENT HAS INCREASED

New Addition to Engineering Building to Facilitate Handling of Additional Enrolment

Not since 1908 has K. S. A. C. been able to supply the positions open to the graduate engineers, declares Dean A. A. Potter, widely known head of the engineering division of K. S. A. C.

There are 558 men now taking engineering. Before the school year closes it is expected that the high water mark of enrolment will reach close to a thousand.

October 1, in the school year 1913-1914, there were 272 candidates for degrees in engineering. October 1, in the school year 1916-1917, the last normal year, there were 329 candidates for degrees in engineering. Then October 1, 1919 is the record breaker with 520 candidates for degrees in engineering.

Two hundred and seventy students are enrolled in farm motors, farm tractors, and other rural engineering subjects.

In the shops there are more than 200 other students who are not engineers, who are taking manual training or vocational work.

The engineering division has been advertised very little until recently. The Kansas State Agricultural college is a standard engineering school. The publicity of the engineering work does not come mainly from the college, but from the alumni and former students who pursued the engineering courses while in this college.

For the past ten years the college has had many more calls for engineers than it could supply.

The war has brought to the attention of the young men, the advantages possessed by one who has had a definite mathematical and scientific training.

Along with the large increase in enrolment the engineering division is receiving a large addition to the present engineering building which will better enable them to handle the increased enrolment.

It has often occurred to us that if a woman would have as much patience with her husband as she has with her fancy work, the divorce courts would soon go out of business.

While Professor Sanders was in Kansas City he bought two new tractors for the college, one Avery 18-36 H. P. and a Rumely 12-20 H. P. He reported all tractor companies over sold for 30 days or 2 months. The tractor plow is scarcer than the tractor, the chief reason being the scarcity of steel, brought about during the war.

The 'shimmie' dance has been tarred from the Kansas Agricultural college," so says the Topeka Daily

And perhaps the said farmers might go to the trouble of showing them a few steps that they hadn't even heard of.

For instance, that new form of the Saint Vitus or some such a kind of dance, that we understand is to be taught this year.

COMMITTEE RESTORE THE FORMER RULING

CONDITIONS CHANGED SINCE SCHOOL OPENED

Student Affairs Committee Gives Right for Men to Call in Late Afternoons as Was the Custom Last Year

Following a formal request from the Women's Panhellenic Council and a number of informal requests from other groups and from individual women students, the Committee on Student Affairs has restored the permission to call in the late afternoon which was withdrawn at the opening of this semester.

It will be remembered that at that time, owing to a misunderstanding of the situation, many of the rooming house keepers, thinking that they were required to place their parlors every day of the week at the disposal of their roomers, were refusing to rent rooms to women students. From every indication it seemed as though the college would be unable to provide rooms for the incoming women students; and there was not time to reach the keepers of these rooms to explain the actual conditions to them. Under these circumstances it was thought best to rule against the late afternoon calling.

Conditions have been modified; and the Committee on Student Affairs has received permission to have its former ruling restored, being firmly convinced that the privilege will not be abused by the students. The college authorities do not wish to encourage afternoon calling and do not expect the owners of the rooming houses for women to keep open house; but they do not object to calling when it does not inconvenience the house mother.

ANXIOUS AGGIE

Editor Collegian: Question—What should be done when a member of the sophomore class stops a senior in main hall and tries to sell him a freshman cap. This is what happened last Tuesday.

I know freshmen are not supposed to know much but when it comes to a sophomore rapping the pride of an upperclassman in such a manner I think something should be done to give the yearlings more respect for their older brethren. Please give us a remedy.—A Senior.

Dear Senior:—I suggest that you deal with the sophomore personally. Why not make him give you the price of a cap, which means almost a fortune this year. Or it might be a good plan to deal with him the same that the sophomores deal with the freshmen who do not wear them.

Editor Collegian: Last Saturday night at the student dance I was called down by one of the chaperons for dancing with my wife in the cheek to cheek style. Now I believe in the motto, "If you do it at home, do it here," don't you?—A Married Senior.

My Dear Senior:—The chaperons called you down, I am sure, because you could not be treated partially even if you are married. And as to doing there as you do at home, I hardly think it good policy. For instance, you surely wouldn't wash your face in the middle of the dance hall, or put your feet on the piano, would you?

The committee on student affairs says it wants everyone to feel at home at a dance—but then you know.

Editor Collegian:—I noticed by the last Collegian that on Friday nights one may be out until 12 o'clock and until 10:30 on Saturday nights. Now when I go to get my date on Saturday night, she is never ready until 8:30 so that makes it necessary for us to go to the second show. So you see it is nearly 11 o'clock before we get home and then there is home to pay, you know what I mean, the house mother or older girls charge admission. What can be done about this?—Anxious Aggie.

Dear Anxious Aggie:—Your question is a puzzling one, especially since I know your statements to be absolutely true. There are two ways of solving the problem, however. Either get your lady fair to arrive on the scene earlier or if she is late, simply don't go to the show. However, I think your question is one for the student affairs committee and not for the Collegian.

Complimentary tickets to the K. U. football games are to be given only to "K" men and their "dates," members of the athletic board and members of Ahoku this year. "There will be no promiscuous giving out of complimentary tickets to football games this fall," announces "Phog" Allen, director of athletics at K. U.

A unique feature of the Ohio University physical education department this year is a class for physically disabled freshmen. Cripples, deaf mutes, and all men suffering from any physical deformity are included in the class.

There will be 23 assistant editors on the staff for the 1919-1920 year book of Oklahoma U.

The Indiana chapter of Theta Sigma Phi will stage their "Billboard Ball" again this year. The ball has been discontinued for the past two years on account of war conditions. The ball, which is to be given October 10, is open to every one on the campus. A similar dance, the "Blanket Hop" is given each year by Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalistic fraternity.

The green caps for the freshman at the College of Emporia have arrived and all freshmen must wear them whenever they appear outside each day of the week excepting Sunday.

An enrolment of 4,000, 3,000 of whom are freshmen, in the English department at Ohio University, has necessitated forming classes in which no theme writing is required. But don't leave and enrol there freshmen, for they also have writing divisions, and the students are all given examinations to determine in which section they must be placed.

The Writers' Club at Indiana University will resume the publication of its monthly magazine, "The Hoosier" this year.

There is a great deal of excitement at Iowa University concerning the resignation of the Kappa Kappa Gamma women's fraternity from the Pan-Hellenic council. Washburn college is planning a publicity bureau for the purpose of sending stories concerning Washburn and Washburn's students and faculty to newspapers of Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska. The publicity bureau, which will be made up of the class in journalism and the Press club will not only send stories to the larger newspapers, but will send stories concerning prominent students to the newspaper in the student's home town.

K. U. students will gain for their alma mater the reputation for having an unusually pious student body if they continue to be as religiously enthusiastic throughout the year as they are at present. The Methodist church of Lawrence took in 200 associate members one Sunday and other churches are said to have a proportionately large number.

Considerable opposition is being displayed at Missouri university to the Student Council's decision that special students must wear freshman caps. "Special students, as a general average, are mature and serious minded men who, due to their more advanced age, have acquired that natural dignity which is not in harmony with the spirit of the kid caps," says an indignant special in a recent issue of the Missourian.

The Y. M. C. A. membership drive at the University of Missouri fell far short of the mark set by those in charge. Lack of preparation and the difficulty encountered in reaching many of the students were the reasons given for the unsatisfactory results.

HOLD SMOKER NEXT MONDAY

WANT MORE MEN TO JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION

JARDINE WILL GIVE TALK

Smoker To Be in Community Hall Monday Evening at Eight O'clock and All Ex-Service Men Are Needed

Plans were formulated for a big smoker to be held at the community house next Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock for all ex-service men, at the meeting of the Pierce-Keller post of the American Legion last Monday evening. The purpose of this smoker is to meet with all of the discharged men of the college and to see what can be done towards getting them to enter the legion.

President Wm. M. Jardine will be one of the speakers on the program. He is strongly in favor of the legion. This alone should be incentive enough for all of the fellows to turn out to this meeting. "Mike" Emerson will also speak.

Other things on the program will be numbers by Lieutenant Streeter, a brother of the author of "Dere Mabel," who is a "bear" on the piano and on parodies; and various other musical numbers and speakers. A boxing bout and a wrestling match have been scheduled for the evening. Cider and doughnuts, cigars, and cigarettes will furnish the necessary pep.

In a college town a better organization should exist than in most places. A real opportunity exists to form a live, active organization and to learn what the legion is doing.

VIEWS BRITISH LABOR PROBLEM

ENGLAND HAS SACRIFICED PHYSICAL FITNESS FOR WEALTH

BEGINNING OF LABOR PARTY

Public Opinion Has Driven Thought of Revolution from Mind of Labor, Declares Hon. A. F. Whyte in Address

The manhood and womanhood of Great Britain has been sacrificed for the past century in piling up wealth, declared the Hon. A. F. Whyte, member of English parliament and editor of The New Europe magazine, in an address on the "Relation of Labor to the Community in General," before the student assembly Tuesday morning, October 7.

"Great Britain was the first country in the world to embark upon an industrial career," said Mr. Whyte, "and in beginning this industrial activity a great many mistakes were made. We are suffering for these mistakes today."

"The physical fitness of the country is not as good as it should be as was found out at the beginning of the war. The country has set out to correct this deficiency and out of this endeavor to correct the condition of the working classes the labor party has sprung."

New Influx Into Industry

"The process of turning industry to war work brought up many new relations between labor and capital. During the war many workmen were taken from industries to the army and there had to be a new influx of both men and women into industry. A result of this was that the old rules of apprenticeship before a man could become a member of a labor union were overthrown. Skilled labor was diluted by the new workmen and the unions resented this action."

"But the government insisted and the unions offered to compromise if the old workmen, when they returned from the army, could take up former positions."

"The higher wages brought on by the war created among the workmen the idea that the wealth of the government was unlimited. They did not take into consideration the fact that the government was living on borrowed money as were nearly all the nations engaged in war."

Slight Revolutionary Spirit

"Some sections of the labor party believed that the present social status must be overthrown and a new form of society formed. The popularity of the Russian revolution tended to create a revolutionary spirit in some sections of Great Britain."

"In the last election of the country the labor party felt that the representatives to parliament would not give the labor question a fair deal after peace has been signed. So the party thought they could force the government to adopt its policies by creating strikes. The threatened general strike, unless the government should take over the railways and mines, withdraw the English soldiers from Russia, and do away with the compulsory military service brought Great Britain to something near a revolution."

Victory of Public Mind

"The victory of the government over labor was not really a victory of the government but of the public mind. The public saw the mistakes of the Russian revolution and with this object lesson before them decided that the Russian form of revolution was not the thing to bring about adjustment."

"The public saw the results of the police strikes and the race riots of the country and as a result has practically driven the idea of revolution out of the minds of labor."

No Definite Policies

"I do not believe that the labor party will have much popularity for some years to come, because it has no detailed policies to pursue. Until labor makes its policies more concise it will not win the confidence of the public. It has no outstanding personalities to give it national vigor."

"I do believe, however, that the liberal party, which has been split since the outbreak of the war, and the labor party will join forces and under the leadership of Lloyd George will march to power."

TIGERS EXPECT HARD GAME WITH THE AGGIE VETERANS

Seldom do the Tigers Schedule Heavy Contests in Early Season

Missouri University, according to the Evening Missourian, is expecting a hard game with the Aggies and is bawling the fact that the contest comes so early in the season.

"The Kansas Aggies will be far from easy work for the inexperienced Tiger team when it reaches Manhattan," says the Missourian. "Seldom in a Tiger schedule has there been such a hard contest so early in the season, and while the Missouri team has developed well in the last few days, going up against a heavier team with fourteen letter men to battle against will mean that the Tigers will have a real job of it."

DR. McCAMPBELL ASKED TO ACT AS JUDGE AT HORSE SHOW

This show is the Leading Society Event of Pacific Coast

High honors have come to Dr. C. W. McCampbell, head of the animal husbandry department, in the form of an invitation to act as a judge at the Night Horse show, held at Los Angeles, Cal., October 25.

This show is the leading society event of the Pacific coast. Some of the best light horses in the country will be on exhibit there. The show gets its name from the fact that it is held at night.

"Doc" says that the trouble in officiating at these society events is that he is continually afraid that he will lose his stovepipe hat. Owing to his poor health of the past few weeks, Doctor McCampbell has not yet decided whether he can accept the invitation or not.

Miss Izell Polson and Miss Ada Robertson spent the week end at the Robertson home in Washington.

GIVE SERVICE MEN CREDIT

FOUR MONTHS' SERVICE IN ARMY
EQUAL TO TWO YEARS IN
R. O. T. C.

Men Will Be Greatly Benefited if Bill
Now Pending in Congress Passes —Effects Many Students in This College

A bill is pending in congress to give any college man who has had four months' service in the army two years' credit in the R. O. T. C. If a freshman has had four months' or more of service he may, if the bill is passed, enrol as a junior in R. O. T. C. Under the present rules a man must enrol in the first year course regardless of previous service.

Men who have seen service and men who have had two years of military science will alike be interested in the advanced R. O. T. C. work. The course is not only desirable but valuable. Compensation to the amount of almost twelve dollars monthly is paid for rations. Five hours weekly is required. The pay is therefore sixty cents per hour.

There are a good many men who have already taken two years of R. O. T. C. who are eligible to advanced work with compensation. These men are overlooking this opportunity to make a little easy money. Better look into this proposition, men.

WITH WAR DEPARTMENT

Would Add Still Another Feature to the Training Given by the College —To Use Old Rifle Range for Practice

Lieutenant Colonel Terrell is negotiating with the war department to have a machine gun platoon organized at K. S. A. C. Fifty sophomores have volunteered to take the work if it is given.

Two hours weekly will be given to machine gun practice and one hour to theory. Practice will be held on Saturday mornings. The work consists of the study of the pieces and the theory of its use, together with actual use on the range. The present rifle range will be used. Four machine guns with necessary equipment will be sent here if the department undertakes the work.

QUILL CLUB HAS ADOPTED NEW PLAN FOR MEETINGS

Various Members of Club Will Submit Articles of Different Type

The Quill club will follow out a new plan at its meetings this year. At one meeting a particular form of writing will be discussed and at the next various members of the club will submit articles of the type discussed at the previous meeting. The sales committee will comment on the articles written and advise the members as to the best field for marketing their productions.

The first meeting was held October 6, the main number of the program being a paper entitled "Marketing of Author's Productions" by Professor Crawford. At the next meeting each member will submit an original manuscript which will be criticised by the sales committee.

Other subjects for the meetings are "The Feature Story," which will be discussed by H. A. Moore; "Humorous Articles," by Prof. H. W. Davis; "Stories," by Miss Ada Rice; "Verse," by Miss Izil Polson, and "Human Interest Epigrams," by Professor J. W. Pearson.

Will Make Experiments

Experiments to determine the value of corn in fattening sheep are being started this week by A. M. Paterson, assistant professor of animal husbandry. Study will be made of the comparative value of different methods of feeding corn. Professor Paterson expects to get some valuable data on the value of the self-feeder in the fattening of lambs.

This experiment will continue for three months and will include 225 head of sheep.

Prof. P. J. Newman was out of town on a business trip over the week end.

SPEAKER GOT RATHER HEFTY WHEN THE PEPSTERS FAILED says It Is Mighty Poor Loyalty to to Brag of not Being There

"The fact that any one was not present at the pep meeting the evening before the Aggie-Baker game was rotten loyalty; but the fact that he bragged about it was darned rotten loyalty," remarked one of the speakers at the pep meeting last Friday night.

This does not seem to agree with the popular sentiment of the students however, if the turn-out at the last pep meeting is to be taken as an indication of their true feelings. About 300 yelling, rooting, loyal Aggies were out to instill that pep into their systems that is necessary to back a football team.

"The time for the rooters to back a team is when it is losing, not when it is winning," said the same speaker. But the time to show the team that you are going to be back of them during the game is not when there is going to be a free picture show after the pep meeting, but at the pep meeting before every game.

Come out and learn the new songs and yells. Get acquainted with the cheer leaders so that you can work in unison with them. Show the team and the coaches that you are back of them all the time.

Miss Sarella Herrick will entertain this week at her home in Topeka in honor of Miss Edith Updegraff who will be married Saturday to Mr. Edward Southward Stephenson of Wichita. Miss Herrick and Miss Updegraff both attended college here and were members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Prof. Hildegard Kneeland of the home economics department, spoke at Wakefield last week on thrift in the home. While there she was judge of the home economics products at the fair.

The extension division of the college will hold a series of meetings from October 13 to 18 in the rest room of the home economics building.

Miss Edna Haw, a freshman in college, enjoyed a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Haw of Hoisington, last week end.

FIRST GAMES UNCOVER STRONG KANSAS TEAMS

Topeka Capital Thinks Aggies Should Have Made Larger Score

The following article from the Topeka Capital will be of interest to K. S. A. C. football enthusiasts:

Every Kansas football team has been in action at least once. The season was opened and in full swing on Friday and Saturday. The results give some definite indications of the teams that will make the best records as the autumn advances.

K. U.'s 42 to 0 victory from Pittsburg Normal compared to the 41 to 12 score of the Missouri-Drury game gives the gridiron followers something on which to base Thanksgiving day predictions. Drury was supposedly slightly stronger than Pittsburg, due to its 12 to 7 win a week ago. From Lawrence comes the word that Coach McCarty's Jayhawkers look decidedly good. There is a feeling that K. U. has the sort of material that will improve steadily as the season progresses.

The low score made by the Kansas Aggies against Funston was a disappointment. Coach Clevenger hasn't the heavy material which K. U. boasts. There are plenty of light, fast backs at Aggieville, but no one set of them looks particularly powerful.

Washburn's decisive 47 to 0 victory from Cooper marks Coach Bear's men as a certain contestant in the conference race. The Ichabods are evenly balanced. Ottawa and Emporia Normal played a tie—the Normal touchdown being made on a fumble and the Ottawa counter coming on a brilliantly executed forward pass to Cochran, probably the fastest man in the conference.

Recent announcement has been made thru the University of Indiana paper of the marriage of T. Matson Collier, star Indiana dash man, and Miss Elizabeth Baird, former K. S. A. C. student.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Baird at Marquette, on Sunday, September 28. Mr. and Mrs. Collier will be at home to their friends after October 15 at 450 South Santa Fe, Salina.

Professor W. E. Grimes also talked to the club on, "What the Tri-K. Needs."

Architectural Club

The Architectural club, which is twice as large this year as last, has elected new officers. The following officers were elected, O. D. Howd, president; E. E. Gilbert, vice-president; T. R. Grist, secretary and treasurer; H. Howard, chairman of program committee.

Pi Kappa Delta

Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity, held its first meeting of this year last Monday evening. The following officers were elected: Ward Fetro, president; M. A. Graham, secretary; and Lawrence Whearty, treasurer. The first meeting of this year was a peppy one and all the men are expecting to get back into debate this year and give debating interests at K. S. A. C. some real help.

Strong-May

The Collegian has received an announcement of the marriage of Ralph W. May, '18, of Williamstown, and Miss Esther Strong, '19, of Riley. The marriage took place in Topeka on September 27. Mr. May has recently accepted a position with the department of agriculture and will be stationed at Moccasin, Mont.

Mrs. Jack, of Big Sandy, Mont., is visiting her brother, George E. Humphrey, a former captain who is taking rehabilitation work in the college.

The Faculty Club picnicked at Wildcat Thursday evening. Bacon, eggs, coffee, and watermelon were the chief articles on the menu.

Mr. Dick Coe has withdrawn from college and will probably not return this year. He is now in New York City from where, in company with his father, Major Coe, he will sail October 10, for Siberia where Major Coe has been sent on a tour of inspection. Mr. Coe is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

President and Mrs. Jardine gave a luncheon Tuesday noon in honor of Mr. Alexander Frederick Whyte of London. The guests were Dean Mary P. Van Zile, Dr. Helen B. Thompson, Dean F. D. Farrell, Dean A. A. Potter, Dean E. L. Holton, Dean J. T. Willard, Prof. J. W. Searson, Dr. J. R. Macarthur, Mr. C. E. Rogers, Dr. Jean

L. Bogert, Miss Elizabeth Rothermel, Miss Ada Rice, and Miss Martha S. Pittman.

The luncheon was served by a group of girls in dietetics, taking dinner work under the direction of Miss Josephine Perry.

It is Rumored that College Profs Gamble on the Big Games

An innocent little freshman with exaggerated ideals of the high-mindedness and esthetic ideals of college professors, was standing by the post office window watching three college professors who seemed to be in a state of suppressed excitement. The freshman gazed at them in awe, supposing of course the learned men had just succeeded in coloring a guinea pig blue, a rabbit green or had made some other wonderful contribution to science which was thus elating them.

Suddenly another professor hurried up to the group with a worried glance toward the bulletin board, which was attracting the attention of a large group of students, exclaimed in a tense whisper, "The students are gambling on the world series. Is it a case for the student council or discipline committee?"

"Betting why of course," replied one of the group of three professors excitedly. "Professor ——— (deleted by censor) and Doctor (deleted by censor) have each placed a dollar and a quarter on the outcome of the world series, and I, although my funds are in a sadly reduced state this month, am interested in the games to the extent of 75 cents. I am betting on Chicago and have been rather worried but today—"

The rest of the interesting dialogue was lost in the confusion caused by the opening of the post office window, but the little freshman is still in a confused state of mind.

SHORT COURSES ARE WELL ATTENDED THIS YEAR

Already Sent Out an S. O. S. Call for More Instructors

Altho it is not generally known on the hill that such a thing exists, the new fall short courses in the division of engineering have started. Professor Carlson has already sent out the S. O. S. call for more instructors, especially for the auto mechanic division. There are now 84 students enrolled in the short courses, including the federal board men. Of the several courses the auto mechanic course is now the most popular, having an enrolment of 42. The rest are divided as follows: Tractor operators, 13; machinists, 8; and miscellaneous, 21.

Professor Carlson says that altho the courses are only fairly started the enrolment is good; the department is looking for a large increase in attendance later in the year. The courses in electricity will start in January but all others start the first Monday in each month. The students may stay as long as they desire but it is advisable to stay at least twelve weeks. Certificates are given to those who do proficient work in extended courses. Mr. Carlson says that as much work can be covered now in one year as was formerly done in two. The tractor men are busy studying the different makes of engines. There are to be several new makes and models added to the department this year, including four Holt caterpillar tank types.

FIRST VALLEY GAME ENDED WITH 6-6 TIE

AGGIE AND MISSOURI TEAMS PROVED TO BE WELL MATCHED

PUNTING SAVED THE AGGIES

Huston's Kicking Was Big Feature of the Game—Missouri Outplayed Wildcats in Line Plunges and End Runs

The crippled Aggie eleven played a six to six tie with Missouri on Ahearn field Saturday. The two teams were well matched altho the Tigers outplayed the Wildcats on line plunges and end runs. Two drop kicks thru the goal posts saved the day for the Aggies while a luckily completed forward pass gave Missouri her six points.

Huston's Kicking Featured

The feature of the game was Huston's kicking. Huston's punts averaged 39 yards to Missouri's 37 yards. Charley Enlow played a great game at end and Gatz starred again at tackle. Ptacek played a consistent defensive game at fullback.

Viner, Tiger fullback, was the best groundgainer for the Missourians. Lewis, Packwood and Schroeder also starred for the visitors.

Punting Game

Both teams were afraid to open up in the first quarter which was a punting duel between Huston and Lewis. Huston's punts outdistanced the opponents but the Tigers returning farther than the Aggies.

First Quarter

Huston punted to Tiger 10 yard line and Lewis returned to 25 yard line. Missouri was penalized 5 yards for offside. Lewis failed to gain. Edwards hit the line but failed to gain. Lewis punted to Burton who was downed on his own 35 yard line. Ptacek made no gain thru center. Hinds went around left end for a five yard gain. Burton failed to gain. Huston kicked to 15 yard line and Stankowsky returned 5 yards. Missouri punted to 15 yard line. Huston punted to Stankowsky on the 30 yard line where he was downed by Enlow and Ptacek. Edwards made a yard thru tackle. Viner hit the line for a 2 yard gain. The Tigers punted to Burton who returns to 18 yard line. Huston punted to Stankowsky who returned to his own 45 yard line. Lewis made 2 yards thru the line. Viner went thru the line for 2 yards. The Aggies held and Missouri was forced to punt. Burton received the ball on 20 yard line and returned 5 yards. Huston punted to 25 yard line. Viner gained 2 yards thru the line but Edwards lost on the next play and the Tigers were forced to kick. Burton was downed on the 35 yard line. The Wildcats punted to the Missouri 35 yard line but a fumble by a Missouri player gave the Aggies the ball. Ptacek and Hinds hit the line in rapid succession for a gain of 5 yards. A wild pass from center prevented Huston from droppingkick on the fourth down. Lewis punted to the 30 yard line and an Aggie fumble gave Missouri the ball. Lewis and Viner made a gain of 3 yards on line plunges and Viner made another gain of 3 yards on a crisscross. The Tigers failed to place kick. The Wildcats kicked to Stankowsky on the 40 yard line and he returned 10 yards. Lewis failed to gain thru the line. Missouri was penalized 5 yards for offside. Edwards made a 7 yard gain around left end. Viner went for a 5 yard gain on a fake. A wild pass from center lost Missouri 20 yards. Hinds and Ptacek hit the line for 2 yards each. The quarter ended with the ball on Missouri's 35 yard line in the Aggies' possession.

Second Quarter

Ptacek failed to gain. Huston kicked a pretty dropkick from the 45 yard line giving the Aggies their first score.

The Aggies kicked to Springgate who returned to his own 30 yard line. Lewis punted to Burton who was downed on his own 45 yard line. The Aggies were penalized 5 yards for offside. Huston punted to Stankowsky on the 25 yard line. Sylvester made 6 yards around end and Lewis made 25 yards around right end. Stankowsky and Edwards gained but a yard thru the line. A pass, Lewis to Stankowsky, netted the Tigers 2 yards. Lewis kicked and Burton signaled for a fair catch on the 10 yard line. Huston punted to Stankowsky who was downed on the 39 yard line. Joe Bogue tackled Sylvester behind his own line. Edwards made 25 yards thru the line. Sylvester went for 6 yards but Edwards failed to gain thru the line. Bogue broke up another Tiger play or no gain. Lewis failed to place kick. Hinds recovered the ball and ran to the Aggie 10 yard line. Huston punted to Tiger 47 yard line. Lewis and Edwards each hit the line for a yard gain. Lewis punted to Burton who returned 5 yards to the 20 yard line. Huston failed to gain. Huston punted to Stankowsky and Gatz tackled him on the Tiger 35 yard line. Enlow tackled Edwards for a loss of 7 yards. Lewis punted to Burton who returned 20 yards to the 30 yard line. Burton was too slippery for the Missouri tacklers. Burton made five yards thru the line on his first down but failed to gain on the second. Hinds made a 11 yard gain. The Aggies were penalized 15 yards for offside. Huston punted to Stankowsky who returned to the 40 yard line. Edwards gained a yard thru the line. Missouri fumbled on the next play and Huston recovered. Huston failed to dropkick from the 40 yard line. Lewis punted to the Aggie 37 yard line. The Missouri line held and the Aggies failed to gain in the next two downs. The half ended with score 3 to 0 in favor of the Aggies.

Third Quarter

The Aggies received at Burton raced from the 5 yard line to the 30 yard line. Hinds gained 8 yards around end but the Tiger line held and Huston was forced to kick. Missouri was penalized 5 yards. Lewis made a 6 yard end run and Viner went for first downs. Viner made another gain of a yard but the Tigers were penalized 15 yards for an illegal pass. Lewis punted to the Aggie 48 yard line. Ptacek made 2 yards thru the line but Burton failed to gain. Hinds made 20 yards around end. Burton made 5 yards but line bucks failed to net the Aggies any gains in the next plays. Huston made another dropkick from the 40 yard line.

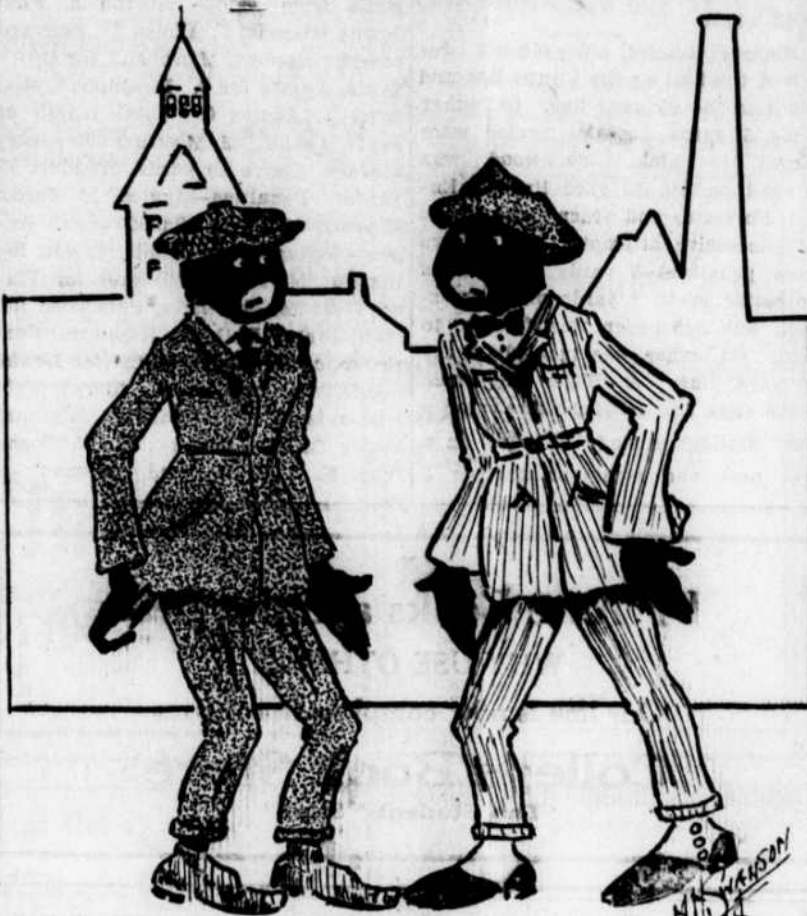

Missouri received. Huston kicked to Edwards on the 5 yard line and he returned to the 20 yard line. Lewis punted to Burton on the 45 yard line and he returned to the 63 yard line. Viner fell on a fumbled ball. Edwards and Viner each made 4 yards thru the line. The Aggie line held and Lewis was forced to kick. Burton returned to 30 yard line. The Aggies failed to gain and Huston kicked to Packwood who returned to 45 yard line. Lewis and Edwards each made 3 yards thru the line. Lewis kicked to Aggie 20 yard line. Gallagher fumbled and Missouri recovered on Aggie 25 yard line. Viner made a yard and Forrester went for first downs. Viner hit the line for a yard but Enlow's tackle prevented Lewis from making a yard. Quarter ended with Missouri ball on Aggie 7 yard line. Score 6 to 0 favor of the Aggies.

The Aggie line held like a brick wall and Huston punted to Missouri.

WHO IS THAT POPULAR PROF

CONTEST CLOSING WITH NEXT ISSUE OF THE COLLEGIAN

WILL VOTE FOR HIM NEXT WEEK

Nominations Must Be to Collegian by Next Thursday Afternoon—Everyone in School is Entitled to Vote

The teachers' popular contest, being conducted by the Collegian, will close with next Friday's issue of the paper. All nominations must be handed in before Thursday afternoon.

Everyone in the school is entitled to vote, whether he is a subscriber to the Collegian or not. A box will be placed in Anderson hall, next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, and students are requested to vote for only one of the nominees. The voter must also place his own name in all letters on his vote in order that the committee in charge will know that one person did not cast two or three votes.

The picture of the most popular professor is to be run in the Collegian. The results of the election will not be given out until the picture can be secured for the paper. Everyone should take an interest in this election.

AUDITORIUM WAS FILLED WITH PEP LAST FRIDAY

Was Largest Pep Meeting Ever Held at the College

Friday night the auditorium was the scene of the largest and peppiest pep meeting of the season, and in fact, of several seasons. The band started it off by playing some snappy selections. The yell leaders took charge for a session. The speakers agreed that the yelling had improved one hundred per cent. Everyone was together and it sounded like real college yelling.

The first speaker of the evening was President Jardine. Prexy was so surprised at the display of Aggie spirit and enthusiasm that he forgot all about being dignified and making a speech full of big words. President Jardine's talk overflowed with pep and all the rooters present caught Prexy's enthusiasm and yelled all the harder.

Floyd Hawkins, president of the Y. M. C. A. and chairman of the pep committee, gave an outline of the committee's plans for the year.

Professor King talked to the Aggie rooter and handed out a few bouquets to the freshman class, in fact the Hobart Fairman, injured football star, who suffered a relapse yesterday, is slightly improved today. Just at present Fairman's condition is not alarming.

Freshmen were the recipients of several bouquets from the speakers but their spirit warranted it.

Mike Ahearn, chairman of the meeting, said the Aggie spirit displayed Friday night was the best he had ever seen, even equalling the famous Yale spirit.

Coaches Z. G. Clevenger and Schulz both gave short talks on the condition of the team and spoke optimistically of the outcome of the Tiger game.

AGGIE'S FUTURE OUTLOOK NOT SPOILED BY TIGER GAME

Wildcats' Chance for the Pennant Is Still as Good as Ever

After witnessing Saturday's game some of the more pessimistic ones thought the Aggies showed weaknesses that would keep them out of the Missouri Valley conference championship race. A closer study of the game will not uphold this belief however.

Fumbles were far more costly to the Aggies than to their opponents. Another kick for three points would have been successful but for a wild pass in the first half. The Tigers made more first downs than the Wildcats but they also used more substitutes than did Coach Clevenger. If Roda had been in the line the result might have been reversed. The fact that the Aggies were not forced to open up with a single new play speaks well for them, Missouri being forced to open up several new plays. Huston's punts averaged two yards more than the Tiger kicker's. The Aggie line held for three downs with the Tigers advancing only a few feet when their goal was threatened in the third quarter.

There was not a single serious injury in the game and all the men on the team are in fine shape for practice again this week. The Wildcats' play last year's Missouri Valley S. A. T. C. champions, Washington U., at St. Louis next Saturday.

Not Even the Price

Owing to the large number of Sunday strollers who have been attempting to gain admittance to the greenhouse, the horticultural department has decided to open the greenhouse from two until five Sunday afternoons. Some member of the horticultural staff will be at the greenhouse during these hours.

Flowers will not be sold Sunday afternoons. "We shall even refuse to quote prices," says Professor Ahearn of the horticultural department.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR Y. M. AND Y. W.

STARTS WEDNESDAY MORNING WITH SPECIAL CHAPEL

EVERYONE IS WANTED NOW

Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Work Campaign Together This Time in Order to Get a Maximum Membership

A drive to enrol every Aggie student in either the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A. will start with a special chapel Wednesday morning and will close Saturday evening. The Y. M. and Y. W. are working together in the drive.

The publicity committee met at the Y. M. building last night and completed the plans for the drive. Miss Mildred Arends is the captain for the Y. W. and Raymond Knox is the leader for the Y. M. These committees will give every student a chance to sign his name to a membership card.

At present the Y. W. has the advantage over the other organization as it has its membership roll from last year while the Y. M. is starting without a single signature. Two large clocks or thermometers will be placed in Anderson hall in order that the students may watch the growth in the membership on the two organizations.

The card which the men are asked to sign says, "Every 'Y' man is expected to attend each assembly and athletic contest; read his own Collegian, raise the moral tone of K. S. A. C., raise the standard of scholarship, remind alumni that K. S. A. C. gave them its best, boost and boast for K. S. A. C., attend some local church, and be willing to help the Y. M. C. A. in its aims."

The aims of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are practically the same. They are to foster loyalty in K. S. A. C. and to develop a good all around manhood and womanhood.

Everyone be out for chapel tomorrow morning when the Y. W. and Y. M. will have charge of the program. And then watch for announcements concerning the two organizations.

HOLLISTER CONFERENCE HAD SOME INTERESTING THINGS

Pictures of Camps and Hikes Shown by Students

Hollister conference re-echoed, in charge of Hettie Carria, took the place of the regular Vesper meeting last Thursday. The pictures, which were divided into three groups, were shown on the screen. The first group of the camp and the surrounding county was explained by Helen Dawley. The second group of hikes, swims, and good times, was explained by Grace Gish. Irene Miller then told of the conference gatherings and study classes.

Hollister songs by the girls who attended were sandwiched in between the pictures. The hall was attractively decorated with autumn leaves.

K. S. A. C. GRADUATES ARE DOWN TO HARD WORK NOW

Johnny Clark Is Busy Teaching Boys Athletics

The following list, compiled by Professor Kent, tells where some members of the class of 1919 are putting in their time. The college in general will be interested to know that Johnny Clarke, formerly K. S. A. C.'s most famous athlete, is following his old line and is in charge of the athletic department of the Montgomery high school.

Alto Mae Adams is teaching home economics in the high school at Hastings, Nebr.

Ruth Blair has charge of the home economics department in the high school at Lindsay.

Lucile Carey has been elected to teach home economics in the Logan high school.

John Clarke has charge of the athletic department in the Montgomery high school.

Edgar Martin is teaching vocational agriculture at Pratt.

Muri Gann is employed at Oskaloosa as home economics teacher.

Rocina Parker is science teacher in the Junction City high school.

Lois Burton has charge of the home economics work in the high school at Milligan, Nebr.

Alice Harkness is home economics instructor at St. John.

Oliver Legerstrom has charge of the home economics department at Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Spink of Manhattan and Jack Jackson of Wichita were dinner guests at the Alpha Theta Chi house Saturday evening.

Alpha Theta Chi announces the pledging of E. L. Bebb, junior in electrical engineering.

The Tiger game was one of the closest games of football that has been played on the Ahearn Field. It also was one of the cleanest games that has been played.

The Tigers came here confident of victory. We were not so sure of ourselves; but we felt pretty much the same way about it. Wonder what Missouri would give for a man that could kick a goal after a touchdown.

The Aggies showed their fighting qualities when they held Viner from making that touchdown when he only had one yard to go.

Ike Gatz just about ran himself down chasing those punts. But somehow he always managed to be there when the ball landed. A noticeable thing about the Tigers' punts was that they were high, thus giving their men time to get down the field, and wait for the Aggie safety to catch 'em.

The quality and volume of noise that came from the north side of the field is one thing that helped the team hold Missouri down. For it is hard to tell what Forrester, who went in in the third quarter, would have done, if the Aggie team hadn't been cheered on. This man proved to be almost as slippery as "Ding" Burton.

Enlow showed a fondness for pulling at the Tigers' shoestrings Saturday. And that is one place that a man hates to be hit, for it sure spills him.

Huston easily demonstrated his superiority over the Missouri booters. The chances are that on a better pass he would not have missed that first attempt at drop kicking.

This week the team will invade the home of Bevo. Little is known of Washington's team, but they have a large number of old men back. The Farmers will show them a few points on how the game is played in what they call the "West."

MORE MEN ARE NEEDED FOR PURPLE MASQUE

The Purple Masque will have a second tryout at 7:30 this evening in F-2. The purpose of this tryout is to secure more men for the dramatic fraternity.

REAL ZIP AND PEP

Aggie loyalty surely came to the foreground in the zip and pep emitted by the rooters at the game Saturday. The first Missouri Valley game brought the old time spirit back to the Aggies and sent them to their feet yelling and shouting. Even when the team was losing ground, the rooters were on their feet shouting, "Fight 'em, men, fight 'em."

The spirit of the people on the side lines undoubtedly helped bring about the final score Saturday.

The freshmen boys deserve a great deal of praise for the spirit which they showed. Some wore their caps and some did not—but every freshman boy was there with the right kind of pep. They yelled before the game started and shouted after it was over. They formed a K during the intermission between halves and gave several yells to the team. That was real pep and zip.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

Who said we couldn't tie the Tiger's tail (tale)?

Who Would Have Thunk It!

Warning: A man heard that dropping a raisin in a bottle of near beer would give him real beer. He put in eight and the bottle exploded, killing the cat and his mother-in-law.

It is a wonder to us that if bank robbing is as easy as it appears to be that there isn't more of it.

Hondo Murphy says that they ought to pass a law against it.

We have been reading of so many cases where men have been awarded the D. S. C. for the capturing of several hundred prisoners, single handed. We have often wondered if such a thing could be possible if the prisoners were unwilling to be captured. It seems that the offer of three good meals every day and employment that paid a dollar a day, clear, besides, must have been quite an inducement.

Spending the dollar before it is earned is just about as bad as eating the egg before it is laid.

Wanted: By a respectable negro woman, a place to wash.

Jack: "What do you mean: have my picture taken before I talk to father?"

Mary: "You may never look the same again."

As Hamlet Might Have Put It
To wear the freshman cap or no: to wear it,

That is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler to arm ourselves

And fight for our lives,
Or heed th' advice of our illustrious faculty.

To concern ourselves with wrangling with our studies
And not take on other troubles
That we know not of.

Judge: "Are you positive the prisoner is the one who stole the automobile?"

Witness: "I was, your honor, till that lawyer cross-examined me. Now I'm not sure that I didn't steal it myself."

Some folks say that dark haired girls marry first, but we differ with them. It is the light-headed ones that do.

Girls look: a new definition for love: "A tickling sensation around the heart that can't be scratched."

We feel for the man in Kansas City who ran into a traffic cop, while trying to dodge a cross-eyed girl on a bike.

Some people have queer ideas of beauty. We overheard a dignified senior say the other day, after getting a bump and a scratch on the nose, "Oh now I'll look like Joe Bogue."

"If there is anything I hate to see it is a boy with his hair parted in the middle." This fact was confided to us the other day by one of the dear young things that infest our campus. Of course we really don't like hair parted in the middle, but, Geraldine, how about those inverted question marks that the female of the species are forcing us to endure?

Lives of Freshmen oft remind me
When I had to run the "line,"
And departing left behind me
Board prints on those pants of mine.

Mrs. A. J. Sleeper of Clay Center was a dinner guest of the Alpha Delta Pi fraternity Thursday evening.

FIRST VALLEY GAME
ENDED WITH 6-6 TIE

20 yard line. The Tigers tried two line plunges for no gains and then

Forrester made downs on a fake. Collins and Viner hit the line for a 3 yard gain but Burton spoiled a Tiger pass which would have given the visitors a touchdown. Huston punted to Packwood and Enlow downed him on 45 yard line. A Missouri pass, Forrester to Ruth, netted the Tigers 35 yards and Viner went over for a touchdown but Packwood failed to kick goal from a very difficult angle.

Missouri kicked off. Hixon received the ball on the 5 yard line and raced to the 25 yard line. Gallagher made 5 yards but the Aggies were forced to kick. Packwood was downed on the 30 yard line by Enlow. Forrester and Viner made downs on successive attempts. The Tigers were penalized 5 yards for offside. Forrester made 8 yards on a cross-back but Schroeder was forced to punt. Gallagher was tackled on the 25 yard line. A Tiger linesman broke thru and tackled Cowell for a loss. Gallagher made 17 yards on a fake pass and went for another 8 yards around an end. Houston attempted a dropkick from the middle of the field but it failed. Forrester returned to the 25 yard line. Viner made 2 yards. Missouri was penalized 5 yards and they punted to Burton on the 40 yard line. Game ended, score 6 to 6.

Five Hundred to Make Noise

A seating arrangement has been planned by the pep committee for the football game. The yelling five hundred, composed of upper class boys, will be seated on the north side between the forty yard lines. The band will be next to them on the west between the 30 and 40 yard lines. The girls' rooter bunch will be on the east of the yelling five hundred between the 20 and 40 yard lines.

The freshmen, poor souls, are to sit on the south side west of the grandstand. Visitors can sit in any place that is left—especially the grandstand. Admission will be fifty cents for that eminent place.

Captain E. W. Skinner of the United well all over the United States but this is the first foreign subscription

ROYAL PURPLE WANTS GOOD SNAP SHOTS FOR THE ANNUAL

Pictures Must Have a Glossy Finish,
Photographic Editor Says

The photographic editor of the Royal Purple is anxious to have a large number of snap shots and photos for this year's annual. There has been a scarcity of good snap shots in the past years. And now is a good time to be taking some good snappy snap shots that will look good in the annual.

The only requirement of the pictures is that they have a glossy finish. It is not necessary to have the negative as often thought. Those having pictures send them to Warren Crabtree, box 57, photographic editor, thru the college post office.

JARDINE CALLS ATTENTION OF STUDENTS TO MEMORIAL

Says We Should Be Careful with the Buildings and Equipment Which Belongs to Every Tax Payer in the State

In a statement issued by Wm. M. Jardine, president, today, the attention of the student body is called to the proclamation of Governor Allen declaring October 9, the anniversary of the Chicago fire, as Fire Prevention Day in the state of Kansas. President Jardine says.

"Let me urge every student to observe this day, set aside by the governor as Fire Prevention Day; to bear in mind the stern responsibility every good citizen faces in order to suppress carelessness that causes needless fires. Our responsibility is especially great because we are using buildings and equipment that belong to us no more than they belong to every tax payer in the state. For this reason we should exercise special diligence towards preventing loss by fire.

"The fire waste in Kansas last year was $4,701,653. The total number of fires was 3,235.

"Carelessness with matches caused 159 fires in Kansas last year and cost the property owners nearly one hundred thousand dollars.

"Fires traceable to cigars, cigarettes and pipes caused 64 fires, at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars.

"The records show that hot ashes and coals carelessly thrown out caused thirty fires in the state during the past year.

"Careless handling of gasoline and kerosene is charged with 244 fires and a property loss of $159,333 in the state during 1918.

"Fires of unknown origin in Kansas last year totaled 698 and a property loss of $1,916,903. A conservative estimate charges 75 percent of these fires to carelessness, or puts them in the preventable class.

"In Kansas there are 9,439 schoolhouses, representing an investment of thirty-six million dollars.

"Last year Kansas paid in teachers' wages and supervision of schools $9,514,587.

"In 1918, 248 new school buildings were erected in the state, at an aggregate cost of $2,928,805.

"Forty Kansas school buildings were destroyed or damaged by fire last year. Loss, $214,082.

These are stern facts, truths that cannot be denied. It is our duty to observe carefully the various preventable causes of fire, which are, carelessness in the use and handling of electrical appliances, defective chimneys and flues, fireworks, hot ashes and coals, carelessness with matches.

carelessness in the use of gasoline and kerosene, rubbish and litter, cigars, cigarettes, and pipes, defective and overheated stoves, furnaces and boilers, and slovenliness."

NINE AGGIE MARINES BACK IN SCHOOL THIS SEMESTER

Two Got Married but None Saw Foreign Service

Nine of the famous Aggie Marines Bandmen, who enlisted June 5, 1917, are back in school this semester, everyone with a clean record.

Quantanamo Bay, Cuba, was the only foreign port reached by these men. For a short time after enlisting they did recruiting work in Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Then they went to Philadelphia. Here they were issued uniforms and instruments to begin their work, playing for Red Cross meetings, community sings, football games, dances and parades.

A short time before the armistice was signed they were billeted on the Hancock to Cuba. In the rifle range work there all but six men qualified as expert rifle men. The band was ordered back to Philadelphia last spring. June 4 this year the men were put on the inactive duty list.

Philadelphia seemed to be a stopping place for some of the men. Frank Dale and Lester Bonnett married girls there before sailing to Cuba. After receiving his discharge O. F. Hanna went back to that city and followed the other boys' example.

Some of the men did not stay with the band all the time. John Gullledge and Frank Dale left the band to go to officers' training school. B. H. Osment received his discharge in August, 1918. Leo Bell and Jessie Packard were put on special duty.

The men who are back in school now are G. W. Fisher, J. S. Gullledge, O. F. Fisher, E. J. Barger, F. T. Scriven, I. K. Landon, Leo Bebb, W. C. Hall and W. M. Knostman.

Do You Read Your Own Collegian?

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: I nominate Dean J. T. Willard for the most popular Aggie professor. He is fair minded, a deep thinker, a man of real scientific attainment, and furthermore he has the human touch. He can appreciate a joke with the best of us. He can hold an audience even when it is used to leaving. He demonstrated his ability in this line two years ago when it was fashionable to leave chapel when it was half over.

He has upheld the highest moral standards for K. S. A. C., even when he made enemies by so doing. For his honesty, bravery and democracy I nominate Dean Willard.—A common student.

Editor of the Collegian: Why hasn't some one nominated Prof. H. H. King? He is a real live wire on the hill, an all round booster for the college, and a friend of everyone. His merits are so many that I take great pleasure in nominating Prof.

H. H. King as the most popular faculty member.—A Student.

Editor Collegian: I'm sure that the only reason Prof. J. W. Searson has not been nominated for the teachers' popularity contest, is that every man expected some one else to do it. There isn't a man on the hill who is more cordial to everyone than is Professor Searson. There isn't an instructor who is as well liked by his own students as Professor Searson. So I wish to nominate him and if possible also elect him as the most popular teacher in K. S. A. C.—A Junior.

Editor Collegian: So far all the teachers nominated for the popularity contest have been men. Now who ever heard of a man being the most popular person in a college? I wish to nominate a person who will carry away the honors without any trouble.

Miss Edith L. Bond, physical education teacher for girls, is the instructor that I wish to nominate. Now if all the girls in the college will get behind this nomination and push, we can easily elect Miss Bond. Remember girls, we are all suffragettes and wish to stand up for our rights. I know that Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob thought women didn't amount to much but we'll show 'em girls—let's elect Miss Bond.—A Senior Girl.

Editor Collegian: I have been reading the Collegian regularly this year and I certainly want to compliment the staff on the manner in which the paper is being published.

Every nook and corner of the campus seems to be covered for each issue. In my estimation the paper is 75 per cent better than ever before.—"Bill" Moser.

Editor Collegian: Allow me to submit the name of A. A. Potter, dean of the division of engineering, in the contest for the most popular professor on the hill. Ask any engineering student who is the squarest man on the hill, the most democratic, the most widely known not only in the college but also over all this section of the country—and he will answer you unhesitatingly with the name of the dean "the human dynamo," the youngest dean, the best scout. Let's select him, fellows, and put our department at the front in this as it is in other things.—An Engineering Student.

Lucille Gramse spent the week end with home folks at Perry.

WILDCATS PREPARED FOR STRONG PIKERS

THE TEAM LEFT FOR ST. LOUIS LAST NIGHT AMID CHEERS

CHANGES IN AGGIE LINE-UP

Washington Has Its Heaviest Team in Years—Dope Shows That Aggies Will Have to Play Good Game to Defeat W. U.

The Aggie Wildcats will play their first out-of-town game when they scrap it out with the Washington university gridiron stars in St. Louis Saturday. The team left Thursday evening amid the rooting of the Thundering Five Hundred. Bogue, Winters, Gingery, Gatz, Hutto, Hoffhines, Huston, Wise, Murphy, Cleland, Fletcher, Enlow, Randels, Burton, E. C. Cowell, W. Cowell, Ptacek, Gallagher, Hixson, Hinds, and Quinlan took the trip.

Washington Has Heavy Team

Washington university has its strongest team in years. Conzelman at quarter is the mainstay of the Piker team. He played a great game on the Navy elevens in 1917 and 1918. Conzelman may play a half back position in the game Saturday. Berger, a star from last year's team, will be at his old position of half back. Captain Griesedieck will play full and Potthoff will complete the backfield. Al Marquard, center, Lippert and Krache, tackles, are linemen sure of their places. The ends will be filled by Joe Hausladen, a 1918 fullback, Dick Kremer, a 1917 letter man, and Dick Drake, a member of the freshman squad in 1917.

Just Some Dope

The only dope available on the Piker team is the alumni game two weeks ago in which they were defeated, and their game last week with Drury in which they piled up 52 points to Drury's 0. The relative score of the Missouri-Drury game and the Piker-Drury game would indicate that the Washington eleven was much the stronger. However Drury was crippled up for the Piker game and was unfortunate in the breaks. The game Saturday with the Wildcats will be a hard fought battle.

Aggie Line-Up Changed

Some changes have been made in the Aggie line-up which gives the team more speed and driving power. The varsity went thru the freshmen for long gains with the new line-up and the new plays. The freshmen were unable to gain consistently against the varsity with the Piker plays. Cleland broke thru and tackled his man in his tracks. Gatz, Enlow, and Bogue, solved the Washington U. plays quickly and soon were throwing the fleet freshman backfield for losses. On the offensive the Aggies were a whirlwind. E. Cowell, Quinlan, and Burton played the halves during scrimmage, Hixson and Hinds being allowed to recuperate this week. Ptacek at full, and W. Cowell at quarter completed the backfield.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS ARE VERY BRIGHT NOW

CLEVINGER IS ALREADY TAKING INVOICE OF PLAYERS

With Seven Letter Men Back This Year, the Farmers Are Ready to Try for the Championship Again—Several Men Not Back

Aggie basket ball prospects for the coming season are looking favorable. Already Coach Clevenger is directing some attention toward winning the Missouri Valley championship again this year. Several members of the squad are working out daily. The Farmers lost several of last year's men by graduation but with the remainder of last year's team and the return of two old letter men who have been out of school for several years things are looking bright.

Last year's captain, John Clark, guard, George Blair, guard, George Foltz, forward, and Kurt Kecker, center, are the men who will not be here this year.

There are seven letter men back for positions, five of them from last year's squad. "Hinie" Hinds will captain the quintet from his position as forward. "Ham" Bunker will play for a forward berth and Everette Cowell and Ship Winter are guards left over from last season.

The center position will be taken care of mighty well. Al Jennings was the first string jumper last year. This fall the return of Bill Knostman and "Slim" Fullington, both letter men of several years ago, makes competition for several berths rather strong.

In addition to these men there are a number of prospective men who played on freshman team last year. So the Aggies are already counting on the cup for the basket ball championship.

VOTE FOR THE POPULAR PROF.

HOLD ELECTION NEXT MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Vote for One of the Seventeen and Sign Your Own Name to the Note—Final Vote To Be Counted by Special Board

The nominations for the most popular professor, the contest which is being conducted by the Collegian, closed yesterday afternoon with 17 names on the list. The vote will be taken in Anderson hall on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

Each student is allowed to vote for only one of the names submitted. When the ballot is cast, the voter must sign his own name at the bottom in order that the committee can tell whether or not the votes are valid. Every student in K. S. A. C. is permitted to vote.

A large box will be placed in Anderson hall and the ballots will be put there. No special form will be printed—simply write the name of the person whom you wish to vote for in the center of the page and write your name in small letters at the bottom.

The following professors have been nominated and will be voted on next week.

Prof. N. A. Crawford, journalism.
Prof. J. G. Emerson, public speaking.
Prof. I. V. Iles, history.
Dr. J. R. Macarthur, English.
Coach Z. G. Clevenger, athletics.
Prof. "Mike" Ahearn, horticulture.
Prof. J. W. Searson, English.
Miss Edith L. Bond, physical education.
Prof. H. H. King, chemistry.
Dr. J. T. Willard, dean general science.

A. A. Potter, dean engineering.

The Tri-K fraternity met at the home of Prof. J. H. Parker at 1809 Leavenworth on Tuesday evening.

Our Teachers

I've pictured them for many years, as monsters, cruel and brusk, with long hair hanging round their ears like corn silk in the husk. In fancy I can see them now, with scowls three inches deep, a glowering storm upon their brow; the thought disturbs my sleep. To see one coming down the aisle, would lose my heart a beat, and should he e'er forget and smile, I'd faint right in my seat. They used to wear wide pantaloons and long cut coats of black; in fact they looked like some buffon, but now they have the knack. They step out in a pea green suit, with cunning pink cravats, and wear loud striped silk shirts to boot and even pumps and spats. Their manners too have changed they say, I doubt not that it's true for at their club they get real gay; they're quite a boisterous crew. No longer do they glare and frown and ply the rod anew. They've worn their reputation down and now they're humans too.

WELL KNOWN TEACHER DEAD

MISS ELIZABETH MACLEAN DIED IN CHARLOTTE SWIFT HOSPITAL

WAS ILL ONLY A SHORT TIME

This Was Beginning of Miss Maclean's Fourth Year in the Kansas State Agricultural College

—Was Well Known

The friends of Assistant Professor Elizabeth Maclean, of the department of English were greatly shocked to hear of her death yesterday, after a brief illness at the Charlotte Swift Hospital. Miss Maclean was taken ill last Friday and went to the hospital on Saturday. Although her case was considered serious by the physicians in charge, it was not considered sufficiently dangerous to require notification of her relatives until Wednesday evening. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

This was the beginning of Miss Maclean's fourth year at the Kansas State Agricultural college. She had received her bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago and master's from the Iowa State Teachers college. From 1901 to 1916 she was a member of the department of English of the Iowa State College at Ames and left there with the rank of professor to accept the position with this institution. Last winter, after the death of Prof. Don L. Burk, she became debate coach and finished the year's work most successfully.

Miss Maclean was a teacher of unusual ability. She was an indefatigable worker and took a warm interest in her students. Dr. J. G. Emerson of the department of public speaking was one of her students at Ames. He said, "Miss Maclean was one of the best loved teachers in the Iowa State college. She was constantly sought by the students for advice and had a wide circle of warm personal friends. She was especially helpful in giving advice to young men and many a one has taken a new hold on life by reason of her kindly counsel." Several of the faculty members of this institution knew Miss Maclean at Ames. Her death is a great loss to the department of English and to the college as a whole.

BIG SISTERS HAVE HIKES AND PARTIES

TUESDAY EVENING ALL FRESHMAN GIRLS HAD DATES

Each Big Sister Captain and Her Group of Big and Little Sisters Had a Party All for Themselves

All freshman girls had dates Tuesday evening! No—they didn't violate mid week date rules, either. All the big sisters got together and decided that it was time to do something to get better acquainted with their own little sisters as well as with everybody else's little sister.

Each big sister captain and her group of fifteen big sisters conferred with their respective patroness and planned a "get-together" for themselves and their little sisters. Some had hikes, some luncheons and some had dinners, but whatever the particular form of function it was well attended and everybody had a good time.

The following big sisters and patronesses entertained with hikes: Elva Price and Mrs. Zahaley; Christine Stebbins and Miss Derby; Ruth Goodrum and Mrs. L. E. Conrad; Mabel Ginter and Mrs. Harry Cave; Ruth Ghormley and Miss Hunt; Esther Andrews and Mrs. R. H. Brown; Marjorie Simpson and Mrs. R. G. Taylor; Adda Middleton and Mrs. A. R. Fehn.

Parties were given by Anna Neal and Miss Machir at the home of Miss Machir; Bly Ewalt and Mrs. Anna Euck at the home of Ruth Willis; Betty Lyman and Mrs. J. E. Ackert at the home of Miss Lyman, and by Grace Smith and Mrs. J. O. Hamilton at 1521 Leavenworth.

Jorda Olson and Mrs. Hugh Durham entertained with a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Durham and Ruth Harding and Mrs. H. W. Brubaker gave an informal luncheon at Mrs. Brubaker's home.

Paul L. Fetzner, president of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, is attending the Sigma Tau convention at the University of Illinois. He will then go by way of Chicago and Cleveland to Indianapolis where he will attend the Sigma Phi Epsilon convocation on October 23, 24, and 25.

ALTHOUSE FIRST TO APPEAR IN SERIES

METROPOLITAN TENOR TO GIVE PROGRAM OCTOBER 27

TICKETS ON SALE MONDAY

Season Tickets for Three Concerts to Cost Only $2.50 for Downstairs and $2.00 for Balcony—Every one Should Attend

The ticket sale for the All Star Artist's Series will begin Monday morning when teams from each women's fraternity, and each girls' literary society on the hill will start on the two days campaign.

Tickets will be on sale in Anderson hall Monday and Tuesday, and the girls plan a through campaign on the campus as well as a house to house canvass of the town. The business girls' club will have charge of the ticket sale in the business section of the town. The ticket selling will not close until the last of the week, but as the seat reservation begins Friday, the main part of the campaign will be Monday and Tuesday.

The campaign is being made under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Hetty Carris in charge.

A girl has been appointed from each of the sororities and girls' literary societies on the hill, and this girl will captain a team of girls from her organization, a team has from six to ten members. The five best seats in the auditorium will be given to the team selling the largest number of tickets.

Organizations Working

The organizations which will be represented in the campaign, and the captains of each team are as follows: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Vinnie Drake; Delta Delta Delta, Juanita Wieg; Chi Omega, Ruby Crocker; Iota Psi, Kathleen Knittle; Alpha Delta Phi, Elithe Kaul; Pi Beta Phi, Anne Wilson; Delta Zeta, Lyle Hoag; Brownings, Gladys Bushong; Eurodelphian, Fay Powell; Ionian, Esther Waugh; Franklin, Edith Muir; Alpha Beta, Ruth Crowson.

All the girls who are to assist in the campaign will meet in the home economics rest room at five o'clock this afternoon. Professor Westbrook, Prof. H. W. Davis, and C. J. Medlin will talk to the girls about the campaign. They will explain the details of the work and suggest selling points.

Season tickets to the All Star Artists course are priced at $2.00 and $2.50. There are three numbers this year, all by nationally famous musicians. Paul Althouse, tenor, who will give a concert October 27, and Arthur Middleton, base-baritone who will appear November 24 are both Metropolitan Opera singers—and it should be remembered that tickets to the Metropolitan have risen in price to $7.50 this year. This means that K. S. A. C. students are virtually being given $22.50 worth of music for $2.00 or $2.50. Miss Florence Hardmann, who will give the third number of the course February 23, is an internationally renowned violinist.

Those in charge of the Artist's Course express no doubt as to the results of the coming campaign. The students of K. S. A. C. have always appreciatively patronized the musical attractions which have been brought to the college, and judging from the unusual pep and enthusiasm displayed this year there will probably not be an unsold seat in the house by Friday when the seat reservations commence.

THE COLLEGLIAN BOARD FOR COMING YEAR ELECTED

Hawkins, Paddleford, Crocker, and Thilston Are New Members

The Kansas State Collegian Board is now composed of new members, following the annual election held in Anderson hall on Tuesday October 14. The following persons were elected to the board: Floyd Hawkins, Clementine Paddleford, Ruby Crocker, and Jack Thilston. Prof. N. A. Crawford, head of the journalism department, is a standing member of the board.

The Collegian Board is a governing body over the college paper. It elects the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the Collegian. The board members are elected by the Collegian subscribers.

S. O. S. CALL SENT OUT FOR DRUM MAJOR FOR BAND

Band Must Be in Marching Trim for the K. U. Football Game

Mr. Wheeler has sent out an S. O. S. call for a drum major who is willing to take charge of the band marches and therefore derive the corresponding amount of glory as a loyal Aggie student.

The band expects to be in full uniform by the time the K. U. game is due and there will have to be a drum major to take charge of the march. This is an important post and it is expected that the competition for the place will be keen. Anyone with experience may make application. The band must be in marching trim for the K. U. game.

CIVIL ENGINEERS WEAR BILL HART HEADGEAR

First Division of Seniors to Don Distinctive Bonnets

The first bunch of Seniors to don their distinctive wearing apparel were civil engineers. Their distinctive dress consists of one of those stiff broad rimmed hats that Bill Hart dolls up in when he goes a sparking in the movies.

All advertisements, magazine covers, and movies always picture the civil engineer protected from the severe rays of the sun by a broad rimmed Stetson such as the dignified seniors have chosen for their distinctive headgear.

Sunday dinner guests at the Acacia house were Dean and Mrs. A. A. Potter, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Murphy of Manhattan.

Mr. W. H. Goodwin, '05, who is assistant entomologist in the New Jersey experiment station, was a visitor here October 5 and 10.

Wayland A. Dunham made a business trip to Detroit. He just returned from a trip to Chicago where he attended a dinner given by the national fire inspection bureau.

C. H. Scholer, testing engineer of the road materials laboratory, will leave the first of the week for an inspection trip through the southeastern counties of the state.

Dr. C. W. McCampbell, head of the animal husbandry department, returned Monday from Hays, where he has been arranging the experiment work for the coming year.

W. J. Wohlenburg, formerly of Nebraska Alpha, Lincoln, and now of Yale, was a visitor at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house Wednesday. Mr. Wohlenburg is grand president of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity.

G. S. Douglas, of Marysville, came down to see the Missouri game last Saturday. Mr. Douglas graduated in civil engineering with the class of '16. He was in the air service during the war, and, after being discharged, spent about nine months in petroleum engineering in the Ranger, Tex., field. He left this work to take up exhibition flying.

C. W. Mitchner is to become affiliated with the animal husbandry bureau. Mr. Mitchner who has been at Beloit for three years, will be connected with the testing department of the animal husbandry bureau. While at Beloit Mr. Mitchner was in charge of the herd of the Holsteins at the industrial school which ranked at the head of the Kansas herds.

MAY TAKE BOXING IN PLACE OF PHY. TRAIN.

OVER 100 MEN ENROLLED IN BOXING CLASSES

Course Is Entirely Voluntary—Boxing Match May Be Held Some Time in Early March

Boxing may be substituted in the place of physical education for the coming college year. Under the present plans, which are being worked out by Major L. C. Davidson, boxing instructor, all men who desire such training can enroll in a boxing class.

Thus far three classes have been organized and over 100 men have enrolled. Other classes will be organized if there is sufficient number of men desiring the instruction.

The purpose of this class is to place one of the best sports in the United States on a proper standing. It is considered to be one of the best courses in physical training that a man can have. It develops mind and body to quickness of decision, quickness in action and it inspires confidence in one's self.

The course is a voluntary one. No one is wanted in the classes who is liable to discontinue the course, upon receiving his first disfigurement of countenance. The instruction is entirely voluntary on the part of Major Davidson. He is introducing the work because he is keenly interested in the sport.

Plans are now being made to hold a boxing tournament some time in March, each class being represented. The victors will probably be awarded a K.

Classes are now being held at the following hours: Wednesday and Friday 2nd hour, Tuesday Wednesday, Thursday and Friday 6th hour.

School of Ag Plays

The School of Agriculture has a football team. Some of you probably didn't know that. And the team will play Solomon on Friday October 17 on the college field. Tickets for the game are being sold by school of agriculture students.

New Plan Presented

The military department has presented a plan to the advanced credit committee to permit sophomores to substitute a class in automatic arms in place of physical education for next semester. The physical education department is willing to accept the substitution. The committee has reported the plan favorably.

The class in automatic arms will study machine guns. This class will be a substitute, not an elective.

All the Young Lady Could Possibly Say Was Me-ow, Me-ow

Several interesting specimens of animalology are living on the hill yet the animal department evidently knows very little of them. If they knew of these animal students they would surely be anxious to get acquainted. Attention has been called to the two canine brothers who attempted to gain unlimited amounts of valuable knowledge from a freshman's analytical geometry by gleefully dissecting the book.

Another canine, by closely observing football tactics, has mastered the art of tackling. As was recently stated in the Collegian, this athletic canine succeeded wonderfully well in tackling and grounding an Aggie who was speeding with a bicycle down the campus hill. But there is another one who is even more interesting because she has developed a keen sense for music. She is that little Aggie with the grey coat who lives in the auditorium. She is quiet, unassuming and mannerly but she is never backward in attending any services in the building. Having a fine appreciation of really good music and lectures she is present on every occasion and listens with a sense of evident satisfaction. Usually she occupies the best section being with the seniors in the pit, but if the entertainment begins to drag she walks quietly about the seats near the stage. Great orators and noisy brass bands have no terrors for her. Her conscience does not hurt her. The only time she has ever caused any trouble was when the great Allen addressed the student body and faculty at the opening of the college. The lady looked up at him, hesitated, and said "Me-ow". The governor stopped, looked, and did not smile.

Plan for Vesper Services
Advisory board members decided at their last meeting to make definite arrangements for attending Vespers. The plans are that the board shall be divided into groups of two members each and that certain meetings shall be assigned to each group. Mrs. W. M. Jardine, Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Van Zile, and other guests attended the last meeting.

Sigma Delta Chi Initiation

Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalism fraternity, held formal initiation in the Hamilton room in gymnasium on Thursday, October 9, for the following: Calvin Medlin, Milton Eisenhower, Byron Dudley, Walter Karlowski, Lindley Binford, and Jack Tillotson.

Prof. J. W. Searson, Prof. H. W. Davis, and Prof. C. E. Rogers, alumni members of the fraternity, attended the initiation.

$55 in Premiums

Premiums to the amount of $55, representing four ribbons, were won by the five Poland China hogs exhibited by the animal husbandry department at the National Swine show held at Des Moines, Iowa, last week.

Competition at this show is always great, and this is the first time that any agricultural college has had anything good enough to exhibit at this fair. The Duroc-Jersey hogs of W. R. Crow of Hutchinson, that won the grand championships at both the Kansas State fair at Hutchinson, and at the Kansas Free fair at Topeka, were unable to place at this fair. Hogs from 33 states and Canada were entered at this show.

Working With General Electric

Selbert Fairman, M. E. 1919, writes from Lynn, Mass., where he is employed by the General Electric Co. on steam turbine design: "My work consists chiefly of proposition work, that is taking desired initial and exhaust conditions and also the desired power. We make a drafting room layout which includes stage pressures, bucket height, nozzle heights, and areas, pitch diameters of the wheel peripheral, speed of the wheel, energy, and energy drop through the stages. It is very interesting and I really like it. I have gotten to the point where, if conditions are favorable I can do a forty stage turbine in a day with perfect ease.

I wish more students from K. S. A. C. could be induced to come to G. E. at Lynn. I believe the experience is well worth while. I have learned more about thermo, since I came than I ever thought was possible for me."

Takes Up Homestead

Riley Morgan, who attended summer school at the college for several years previous to the war, was here visiting this week. He was wounded in France and sent to school in England. After his return home he took out a homestead in Montana. Being a wounded soldier, he will only have to live on the homestead eight months. Mr. Morgan was a Jewett county minister and carried in his study on agriculture here in the summer school.

Miss Mary Ansdehl, Miss Josephine Sullivan, Miss Lucile Gramse, Mr. Herold Woodward, and Mr. Tex Bell visited in Perry over the week end.

Miss Helen Lawrence spent Sunday in Junction City.

Misses Lorna Troup and Susie Kyle spent the week end at their homes in Abilene.

Lillian Stewart spent several days shopping in Topeka last week.

CHARLES DILLON TO TAKE UP CONSTRUCTION WORK IN TEXAS

F. B. Nichols To Be Editor of Capper Farm Papers

Charles Dillon, founder of the industrial journalism department of K. S. A. C. and head of the department from 1910 till 1913 has resigned his position as managing editor of the Capper farm papers to take up constructive work in connection with a large irrigation project in the lower Rio Grande valley in southern Texas.

Mr. Dillon will be succeeded by Floyd B. Nichols who graduated from K. S. A. C. in 1913. Mr. Nichols was a graduate of the journalism department and did much special writing while in college. Before going to war Mr. Nichols was a field man and assistant editor of the Capper farm papers.

Doing Practical Work

Three classes in house wiring in the electrical machinery and construction course lately are doing the most practical work possible along their line.

They made inspection trips to different homes in Manhattan to study the wiring; they traced the street lighting system, studying the transformers and connections. They also visited the city light plant to see the connection and operation of the machinery there.

This same class, some weeks ago, erected a dummy house in one of the barracks. It was a model fourteen room house. They wired it and put in all connections as would be done in a real house. Very good work was done, considering the fact that this was the first work of its kind this year.

To Visit Here Soon

The farm bureau of Morris county is planning a tour to the college October 23. This is perhaps the only farm bureau which makes this tour an annual event. Dean Farrell will cooperate with the members while they are visiting the college.

The four Sunday school classes of college students of the Methodist church are planning a picnic for Friday from five to eight. They will probably hike to Blumont Hill.

One could almost dream that it was spring to see the numerous brilliant colored head gears.

AG STUDENTS TO HAVE A BIG MEETING IN THE GYMNASIUM

Meeting To Be under Supervision of Honorary Organizations

The students of the division of agriculture are planning a booster meeting for better agriculture, to be held in the Nichols gymnasium on Monday evening, October 20. The meeting will be held under the supervision of the honorary student organizations of the division. These are the Saddle and Sirolo club, Alpha Zeta, national agricultural fraternity, the Klod and Kerneel Klub, and the Dairy association.

These organizations are interested in the work of the several departments but are cooperating in this meeting to put forcibly before the new students the interests of the division as a whole and the opportunities that are available in its organizations. Several faculty and out of town speakers will appear on the program. The speakers will be announced later.

Walter Burr, rural organization specialist, gave an address at the Riley county teachers' association last Friday.

Miss Eleanor Schroer who is attending K. U., came up Saturday to attend the game. She was a guest of Miss Gladys Foley.

A. M. Doerner spent last week at Kansas City and Topeka on landscape gardening work. At Topeka Mr. Doerner planned the plantings for the grounds of the industrial school. Frank Roark and Jack Horner, members of the Delta Tau fraternity at Lawrence, were dinner guests at the Alpha Delta Pi house Sunday.

COUNTY AGENTS IN CONFERENCE

COUNTY AGENTS AND OTHER WORKERS IN CONFERENCE

LARGEST EVER HELD AT COLLEGE

Over 150 Persons Attending Conference of Extension Men—Prominent Persons on Program
During the Week

By far the largest annual conference ever held by the extension workers of the Kansas State Agricultural college opened here Monday, October 13. Instead of 30 or 40 members of the division which gathered here four or five years ago, more than 150 persons are attending the conference this time.

In the county agent's department alone, the three men who have charge of the work are almost swamped with petitions for their attendance or help in meeting the problems of the 56 farm bureaus in Kansas. Where, three years ago, there were ten county agents, there are now 48; to say nothing of the fact that the home demonstration department which installed its initial agent only two years ago, has, at this time, eight agents in the field.

The annual conference is called for the purpose of getting acquainted, of exchanging ideas, and learning the newest methods of work in use here and in other states.

Monday's Program

Nonday afternoon addresses were made in the conference by W. M. Jardine, president of the college, Miss

NEW SONGS AND YELLS TRIED AT PEP MEETINGS

PARODY ON "LYZA JANE" AWARD- ED FIRST PRIZE

First Prize Yell, "Chew 'Em Up Aggies," Written by Walter J.
Rogers—Second Given to A. L. Bridenstine.

The prize songs and yells submitted for prizes given by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. were tried out at the pep meeting Friday night in the auditorium.

The song winning first prize was a parody on "Lyza Jane" and was submitted by Prof. P. P. Brainard, of the extension division. Professor Brainard did not intend that his parody should be judged for the prizes and had sent instructions to that effect to the pep committee but when it was submitted to the judges no instructions were given them.

Professor Brainard turned the prize of $15 back to the pep committee for a prize for the best song submitted for basketball season.

Miss Sue Carmody won second prize and first honorable mention in the song contest. Second prize was title of "Smile! Smile! Smile!" She sang on a parody sung to the tune of "Goodbye Broadway Hello France."

Lulu May Zeller was given honorable mention on a parody to "Marching Through Georgia."

First prize on yells was given to Walter J. Rogers and second to Albert L. Bridenstine. R. B. Watson, W. H. Koenig, and M. J. Lucas were given honorable mention on yells.
The committee of award for the songs was composed of Professors

Westbrook, Lovejoy, and Wheeler and the committee on yells of Professors Burns and Cortelyou.

Following is the first prize song and yell:

(Sung to the tune of "Lyza Jane.")

We have a football team right here
Oh Aggie Team!

We'll set Missouri on her ear,
Oh Aggie Team!

CHORUS:
Kansas Aggies,
You hit that line;

Kansas Aggies—
(Grunt) Uh! Hi! that line.

We have Pep and you have none,
Missouri Team!

We'll keep the Tiger on the run,
Old Aggie Team!

CHORUS:

Oh, You Aggies—
K. S. A. C.

Kansas Aggies,
K. S. A. C.

Chew 'em up, Aggies
Chew 'em up!

Beat 'em up!

Scratch 'em up!

Chew 'em, Aggies.

Chew 'em!

Professor Found His Coat After a Six Months Search

"Why, this looks like my raincoat," exclaimed the professor, as he looked over the raincoat which his dean was kindly offering to give him.

The dean had called in the professor who was wandering about in the rain last week without raincoat or umbrella, and offered to give him a raincoat left in the dean's office last spring.

"Is that so?" politely responded the dean, thinking that the professor was trying to make conversation. But the prof. was in earnest. He had lost his raincoat several months before, he thought while out of town, and had never had enough money since then to purchase another one. He examined the raincoat closely. A handbag in one of the pockets bore his initials. He searched farther, and found some literature concerning a convention he had attended shortly before the loss of his coat. Still deeper in the pocket he found some notations in his handwriting.

"My, but I'm glad I happened to be the person you offered this raincoat to," remarked the absent minded prof. and putting on the coat which he had left in the dean's office six months before he trudged out into the rain.

Freshman Class Elects

The results of the freshman class election were quite a surprise to voters as well as candidates. The votes were as follows: For president, Ellis Kimbal 234, E. H. Cooper 171, vice president, Miss Faith Martin 215,
F. E. Vickrey 189; secretary, Miss
Irene Maughlin 196, Miss Francis
Johnson 244; treasurer, I. Riley 184,
Earl Chappel 194; historian, Miss
Louise Rathman 246, Ray Fletcher
183; student council, L. F. Bryan 149,
H. E. Bur on 129, Paul Willis 122; marshal, "Tex" Marshall 275, R. H.
Sanhope 158, Harry Nelson 150; athletics, F. L. Poval 119, W. J. Blanchard 102. There were 484 ballots cast.

Cadets Organized

The cadet corp is now fully organized. All men enrolled in military science are members. The corp consists of two battalions, each of which is composed of four companies.

A basketball team will be organized in each company to stimulate competition. Strong rivalry for the best drilled men, the best marksmen, and the most perfect attendance is developing.

Promotions for battalion and company commanders have been made.

The members of the home economics division are busy this week holding consultations and committee meetings with the county agents.

Miss Brazelton of the music department, who is a member of Theta chapter of Alpha Delta Pi, was a dinner guest at the chapter house Sunday.

Miss Erba Kaul, '16, who is teaching journalism and printing at Meade this year, visited her sister, Miss Elithe Kaul, at the Alpha Delta Pi house over the week end.

OH BOY!

The Collegian's Contest for the most popular professor on the hill is causing considerable comment in the large papers. The Kansas City Star, Topeka Capital, and Topeka State Journal have made favorable comments. We certainly hate that!

BOOSTER CLUB FOR K. S. A. C.

Any college that expects to attain efficiency in the promotion of student enterprises should establish a booster club.

It should be the purpose of such a club to get behind any enterprise and see it to a successful finish. The club should be composed of a group of students, male or female, who have proven themselves enthusiastic or leaders. Election of new members should be by two thirds vote of active members.

Members of such an organization should be moulded into an efficient, enterprising team, anxious to work and always willing to take up any task and do it well.

When the athletic department needs support, when the Purple Masque needs some boosting friends, the booster club is called upon. When money is to be raised or spent, they will be Johnny-On-The-Spot.

Any organization needing assistance, any student enterprise wishing a solid backing, needs only petition the club and immediate action will be taken.

Why not have a booster club in K. S. A. C.?

THE COLLEGE Y. M. C. A.

A campaign is being conducted this week to secure a one hundred per cent enrolment in the college Y. M. C. A. Too many college boys look upon this organization as an unnecessary element, as an association forcing itself somewhere that it is not needed.

But these men have not gone down to the bottom of the thing. The students themselves and the spirit which they show in school, really make the Y. M. C. A. The Y. is behind all college activities, football, baseball, track, debate, etc. When new yells and songs were needed in K. S. A. C. who encouraged the writing of them and who paid the prizes? Who was the biggest help in securing rooms for the boys this year? Who has secured jobs for boys who wish to help themselves thru school? What force has been behind the pep meetings, and all other student affairs? The question is all answered by four letters—Y. M. C. A.

And now that the Y. is asking for members, what are the students going to do?

Leonardo da Vinci, one of the greatest artists that ever lived, has said, "Work is the law. Like iron that lying about idle degenerates into a mass of useless rust, like water that in an unruffled pool sickens into a stagnant and corrupt state, so without action the spirit of men turns to a dead thing, loses its force, ceases to inspire us to leave some trace of ourselves on this earth."

And so it is with the Y. M. C. A. If it doesn't have push behind it, the organization will become useless and stagnant as does the water. And it is up to the students, since they really constitute the Y. M. C. A., to get behind and shove. It is the plan of the Y. to work both with and for the college. Every Aggie boy should do the same thing—work with and for the college.

What two things could be more closely related than the student body and the Y. M. C. A.? Boys, when you are presented a card and asked to sign up for the Y., do it willingly and cheerfully—it doesn't cost you a cent.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor: Gee don't those freshmen look fine! It is a fine thing that the freshmen should be singled out as separate from all the other students; otherwise one would never know them from the seniors. But getting down to facts of the case, the idea of freshmen caps is "kids' play" isn't it? It is in reality a bit of foolishness, for those who are far enough advanced to be in college are supposed to be men and women who have thrown away their childish ways.

The present freshmen, no doubt, are all good enough sports to wear their caps now that the upper classmen have gone to the trouble of ordering them. But wearing freshmen caps should not be synonymous to hazing. There should be no rough stuff this year. Such is not real college spirit, it is not manly. Besides it might be no easy task to force the 800 freshmen to wear caps should they decide not to do so. The sentiment to wearing them is none too strong either.

And how about the girls? Why should they not also wear caps as well as the boys? Some one answer this.—A loyal Aggie.

To the Collegian: Take it from us as straight goods that the Collegian staff is putting out the best Collegian yet. It seems to be getting all the college activities into print in a representative way.—Homer Cross and Gordon Hamilton, '19.

Dear Editor: The bandmen seemed to have their lung capacity doubled at the football game last Saturday. And the increase in the lung capacity was justified by the splendid compliment President Jardine paid the band when he said at the pep meeting Friday night, "the band is in better shape this term at the beginning of the year than it was at the close of last year." Under the very able direction of Mr. Harold Wheeler we are going to have the best college band in the state. The men have demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt that no mistake was made in giving the men military credit for band work.

It has been definitely decided that the band will go to K. U. for the most momentous game of the season. The band is now practicing a line of jazz that will literally jazz the jayhawkers off their feet. So when the time comes for the K. U. game let us all board the special train, the flivver, or the midnight freight and make it one complete, soul stirring, death defying, irresistible jazz to victory for the Wildcats.—A Bandman.

Editor Collegian: The popularity of a professor is necessarily governed by the number of students with which he comes in contact. A great many of the professors already nominated but few of us have ever heard of before. Therefore I wish to nominate a man who is not only known to every person on the campus but also to the large majority of residents in the state. He is a man who just recently has increased the prestige of K. S. A. C. many fold by getting his department converted into a division.

This man is Dr. R. R. Dykstra, dean of the newly created veterinary division. He is a wonderful instructor in the class room, a fine clinician at the hospital and a man of splendid executive ability. The vets, to a man, are strong for "Dyke" and they know that he is strong for them and all other good things in school.

Give Dean Dykstra your vote and we are sure there will be a truly popular man for the honor of "The Most Popular Professor."—A Senior Vet.

Dear Editor: Speaking of popular profs, what is the matter with Arthur Westbrook? So far, practically every department on the hill except the music department, has been represented in the nominations. Is there a man on the hill who is more devoted to his work and who works for the interest of all K. S. A. C. more than Professor Westbrook? Is there a man on the hill who has sacrificed as much to build up his department? Is it that that has made the department of music the largest in the state? Who is it that brings the world's best musical talent to Manhattan? Who is it that provides music for every occasion of note at K. S. A. C.? Permit me to nominate Arthur E. Westbrook as the most popular professor on the hill.—Not a musical student.

Editor Collegian: I have been reading the list of nominations for the most popular professor on the hill. All those nominated so far have been worthy of a place close to first. I offer to the students the name of a man who is always ready to help his pupils in their work, one who is new to the college and whose pep and enthusiasm has not been known to all. He is a young man who can appreciate a joke along with the rest of us—Prof. E. S. West of the chemistry department.—A Freshman.

Editor Collegian: Surely there isn't a better known man at K. S. A. C. than Prof. H. W. Davis, of the English department. In any popularity contest his name should be given, so I am making the nomination. The popular person anywhere is the one every one knows, or knows about, one who is pointed out and recognized wherever he goes. Professor Davis fills all these requirements. He is a well known humorist, an interesting instructor, and a welcome guest at dinners, dances, and all social affairs. He is one of the men I heard about before I came here, and one of the first to be pointed out to me after I arrived. The comment about him are always to his credit.—A Student.

Editor Collegian: Why has Charles DeGuire Christoph been left out of the nominations for the most popular teacher on the hill?

Any man who can make such an impression on the minds of the freshmen students that they can remember him throughout their entire college course, should certainly be considered in any popularity contest, at K. S. A. C. Therefore I nominate Charles DeGuire Christoph.—A Veterinary Student.

Editor Collegian: Upon finding our "shingle" gone from the Phi Delta Tau house one bright Monday morning, a search of the premises was immediately made and tracks which lead down into the neighborhood of the Y. M. C. A. were found. The tracks could be easily followed for there was one toe missing from the right foot of the track of the tall dark haired, dark eyed young lady, and the other track was unmistakably that of a modern Cinderella, one of these with the baby blue eyes and blond hair.

Since the whereabouts of the "shingle" is known and a great sufficiency of time has been allowed for all necessary admiration of the same, its return on some dark night is greatly desired and will be appreciated by those concerned.

Editor Collegian: One name that certainly should be in the list for the most popular professor on the hill is that of Ralph Ray Price, head of the Department of history and civics. His kindness, his rare humor, his distinguished air and appearance mark him, wherever he goes, as an unusual man. He is one of my special favorites.—Junior in general science.

RING LARDNER HAS NOTHING ON THE COLLEGIAN WRITERS

Another New Feature Is Added to the College Paper

The Collegian this year is fortunate in having a number of persons in the college who are talented and who are willing to help the school paper along. Wayland A. Dunham, a freshman, contributes all the humor to the paper—regular stuff like "Life" and "Judge" regularly. And now another new feature has been added. The Collegian will have a Ring Lardner style article in the paper once each week. Watch for the column "Dear Old Hen"—it's worth reading.

Merion Swanson, a sophomore, is contributing cartoons to the Collegian. Mr. Swanson draws for "Life" and "Judge" regularly. And now another new feature has been added. The Collegian will have a Ring Lardner style article in the paper once each week. Watch for the column "Dear Old Hen"—it's worth reading.

Y. M. AND Y. W. ARE STRONGER THAN EVER

SPECIAL ASSEMBLY IN BEHALF OF TWO ORGANIZATIONS

Prof. J. G. Emerson Says That the Y. M. and Y. W. Are Behind Every Student Activity and That All Should Help Them

"Today I see the Y. M. C. A. getting behind every college activity," said J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking and ex-service man, in an earnest address in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. at the student assembly Wednesday morning.

"The Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. are stronger in K. S. A. C. than they ever were before.

Worked in France

"Considerable misunderstanding has been brought about concerning the Y. M. C. A. and its work in France. The organization has constantly been compared to the Red Cross and the Salvation Army without considering the great difference in the work of the organizations.

"The Y. M. C. A. is primarily a peace time organization and was called upon over night to fit itself for work with the army. Wherever the soldier went the Y. M. C. A. followed.

Salvation Army and Y. M.

"The Salvation Army was an organization that worked with the soldier only on the fighting line. The Red Cross is a body of long standing. It is organized for war work. Its officers are permanent and in peace times it has laid plans for action during war.

"The Y. M. C. A. suffered from too close association with the army machine and was too dependent upon it. I am intensely interested in the Y. M. C. A. in college. If the organization is sincere and its work is right I cannot feel that we will allow any bitterness that has been created stand in the way of our wholehearted support."

Doctor Holtz Spoke

Dr. A. A. Holtz, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at K. S. A. C., spoke of the work of the organization in college.

"We are meeting a local situation and running our own show," he said. "We are not responsible to, or directed by any other persons of the Y. M. C. A."

"The work of the Y. M. C. A. here is being planned to meet the needs of the college community, to develop loyalty to K. S. A. C. and Christian manhood. The Y. M. C. A. is your organization. I am only an advisor brought here to help. One of the greatest opportunities of college life is the chance to meet persons. The Y. M. C. A. is your chance to learn to meet and lead men."

Miss Dean for Y. W. C. A.

Miss Irene Dean, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., told what that organization was standing for and striving to accomplish.

"The Y. W. C. A. is striving to supply the needs of the present time," she said. "The Y. W. C. A. grew out of an organization of women in England which helped the women of that country. The first organization of the Y. W. C. A. in America appeared soon after. It is organized in 34 different countries.

"The first student organization of the Y. W. C. A. began in the middle west. We are striving to help every new girl in college to find adjustment. The organization stands for a high standard of womanhood as an individual and in the group. The present time demands a high type of womanhood.

"We try to aid the college in every way possible to make for a better institution. During the campaign for membership if any girl is overlooked we want her to feel free and at liberty to call at the Y. W. C. A. office in the domestic science hall and ask us her questions."

The Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin will grant bonuses during 1919 and 1920 to instructors whose salaries are less than $2,500. The bonuses range from $50 to $200.

The medical students at Indiana University expect to reorganize this year the Skeleton club, a social organization of would be doctors which died down during the war.

An epidemic of stomatitis, a mouth disease which is transmitted by drinking cups, pipes, and kissing, is threatening Penn State college.

A precedent of old standing was broken at Indiana University last week when college authorities decided to allow dates at the freshman-sophomore football game.

Wire baskets have solved the locker shortage problem at Ohio University.

The Athletic association at Oklahoma University is discussing changes in their constitution which will provide for the admission of Oklahoma to the Missouri Valley conference.

The college faculty, Y. M. C. A., and other organizations of Iowa State college have united with various organizations of the town in protesting against the type of shows staged in Ames, and in requesting that the license of one of the local theaters be revoked.

"By order of President Thompson, all 10 o'clock classes Wednesday will be dismissed so that members of the faculty can take the psychology tests" is the notice appearing in the college paper of Ohio University.

One of the pastors at Bloomington, Indiana, sought to gain a large student attendance last Sunday by delivering a sermon on "The Ideal Girl." Letters from various young men of the university giving their opinions on the subject were read as a part of the sermon.

Strollers have so hindered earnest students in their progress at Oklahoma university that university authorities have given strollers permission to walk on the grass.

It is estimated that between $1,000 and $1,500 changed hands among University of Missouri students during the world series in baseball. The bets amounted to over $200 at one fraternity house.

Owing to the heavy enrolment at Purdue this year, the trustees have decided that they must either restrict the attendance or obtain more funds.

The scope of the American College Quill club at K. U. has been enlarged to include English scholarship in all branches, including journalism, public speaking, and dramatics.

The Student Council at Purdue has offered a prize for the fraternity house which is best decorated for the homecoming game.

Miss Helen Taft, acting president of Bryn Mawr college, stated recently in an address before the alumni conference that she wished the professors of the country would organize and strike for higher salaries.

There is still a great shortage of rooms for girls at K. U. It is hoped that the co-operative house which is to be opened soon, will relieve this shortage to some extent.

A prize is to be awarded to the student at Purdue University who writes the best page of roasts for the college year book.

Student government is strongly advocated by the honorary senior clubs at Indiana University and committees from the societies have been appointed to draw up the framework of a constitution.

FRESHMEN OFFICERS ELECTED AND FINALLY INSTALLED

Professor Emerson Elected Freshman Class Sponsor

At last the freshmen have elected and installed their officers. More than 300 of them braved the rain last night, and came to the auditorium where they sized up the officers that they had elected, and did other things too numerous to mention.

President Jardine addressed the freshmen telling them of their duties and responsibilities. His address was heartily appreciated as he gave them much useful advice.

Feeling that they would need the help and advice of a faculty member from time to time, so that they might develop the real college spirit and make no mistakes the freshmen elected Prof. "Mike" Emerson, one of the most popular professors on the hill, their class adviser and sponsor.

Try our sandwiches; they're different. College Canteen.

Mrs. E. J. Brown of Blue Rapids was a week end visitor at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

SPORT DOPE

The Aggie Wildcats will not feed on raw beef all the time. Frank Maxwell of the Maxwell Cafe presented the team and coaches with a twenty pound three layer cake in reward for the splendid work in the Missouri game. "Germany" says the team and coaches, mostly coaches, ate the cake. A few men like Germany, like Gatz, Roda, Huston, Cleland, Bogue, and other Wildcat huskies made that cake look very sick in a short time.

Coach Z. G. Clevenger gives no credence to the report that K. U. has eight varsity men who are ineligible to play in the Valley games. All of the K. U. stars played in Saturday's game. Coach Clevenger has received no authentic information whatever concerning the ineligibility of the Jay-hawker players.

There will be no cross country meet with K. U. this fall. The Aggies have not had a cross country team since the days of lanky Foreman. Although the nucleus for a good team returned to school this fall there has hardly been time to develop a team sufficiently strong to compete with the strong K. U. squad.

The team left Thursday evening to invade the home of the Washington University Pikers. So this Saturday will gather around the bulletin board and watch for the score.

Washington university last Saturday played the Drury Panthers a 52 to 0 game, thus defeating them by a much larger margin than did the Tigers. If the dope counts for anything we are going to have a close game.

The Pikers will have the advantage of playing on their home ground. While the Aggies have the disadvantage of making a long tiresome trip.

We heard someone venture, or rather want to bet that there would not be five points difference in the score. We'll call that bet. For the Wildcats when they get to the home of Bevo, are going to develop a "kick."

Hobe Fairman who suffered a relapse has regained his strength about to the point where he was before the setback. It will be several weeks, though, before he will be able to be up and about.

When we get to thinking of playing Washington U. we are reminded of how we used to beat them in basket ball.

This is the second Missouri Valley conference game for us. Our chances are still good.

The next game on the Ahearn field is a week from Saturday when the Haskell Indians will try to tame the Wildcats.

We read with interest in one of the Kansas City papers where Kansas university is attempting to stage a cross country run as a curtain raiser before the Aggie-K. U. game. Coach Clevenger has heard nothing of the event however, except thru the newspapers.

It seems laughable that K. U. should want to get our track team to try to scale those hills that she is so justly noted for. Nothing but a mountain goat could take those hills on anything above intermediate, and still maintain its self respect.

Carl Roda still has his arm bound up, and the doctor says it will be another week before the bandages will be removed. Watching to see whether Carl will get out in time for the K. U. game is like waiting for the climax in a melodrama.

Whether Roda does or does not play in this game means several points difference in the score. And everyone knows which way that difference will be.

How many of you Aggie rooters are going to meet the team when it returns from Washington U.?

J. H. McAdams, agent for Coffey county, and E. H. Ptacek, agent for

Douglas county, are spending the week at the Beta house.

R. J. Buckley of Chetopa, was in Manhattan Monday visiting his nephew, George Smith.

Doctor Muldoon of the veterinary department of the college was a dinner guest at the Beta house Wednesday evening.

Harry Turner, a Beta from K. U., and Edwin Nagle of Kansas City were guests at the Beta Theta Pi house Wednesday.

Joe McGuire and William Marshall accompanied the football team to St. Louis.

Miss Alma Bauersfeld, Miss Doris Bachelor, and Miss Gladys Gilbreath were Sunday dinner guests at the Delta Tau house.

BURR ORGANIZES LYCEUM COURSE

TO VISIT THE RURAL HIGH SCHOOLS IN THE STATE

Cost of the Five Numbers in the Course Will Be Only $95—
Walter Burr Is The Organizer

Walter Burr, the rural organization specialist of college extension, has launched a rural high school lyceum course consisting of five numbers which will be shown to rural high schools in twenty or more communities all over the state. The events of the course will appear at different intervals from now until the end of the school year. The rural high schools will make payments after each number with the exception of Mr. Burr's lecture which will be given to the rural high schools with cut charge. The total cost of the other numbers will be $95.

Had Experience

Every member of the course has had lyceum experience. Mr. Burr plans to carry forward his work in a popular appeal for the larger support and service of the rural high school.

Mighty Good Talent

Chester H. Guthrie will be a strong number on the course. He is the great song leader of Camp Funston who trained 200 song leaders of the 89th division and was song leader for the 92nd and 10th divisions. He recently led the people in the grandstand at the Neosho county fair in their daily community sings and as a result the officials of the Topeka State Fair are trying to hire him for next year. He makes a return number on the course the second time giving a sing and an illustrated lecture on "The Rural High School Serving the Community."

Francis M. Leaman is a rare humorist and lecturer who will turn his attentions to creating and stirring up community pep.

Oscola Hall-Burr is a student in the college. Her number will be largely Buster Brown and Indian portrayals.

PRACTICAL WORK GIVEN IN HOME ECONOMICS COURSE

Girls Get Acquainted with Pleasant and Unpleasant Sides of It

Keeping "playhouse" or playing "keephouse" is one of the interesting and valuable things which is being taught at the Kansas State Agricultural college this year, having been instituted as an official part of the home economics course for the first time last year. Living in a real house, fitted with all the things which are necessary to a model home, the girls who sign up for this work perform daily, for a period of six weeks, all the pleasant and not so pleasant tasks of the average home.

Practice house work is one of the new ventures in the great system of home economics taught in colleges today. The idea of the work as given in this school is nothing more nor less than its name implies—practical housekeeping. The program in practice house work provides that the student have complete management of the house for a week at a time, during which she is aided by helpers among whom the work is divided equally.

The practice house of this school is located on the corner of Anderson avenue and Fourteenth street but the work this semester is not as fully developed as it will be the second semester when the enrollment in the class will be considerably larger.

Practice house work is a practical application of the things which the student is supposed to have learned in class recitations, lectures, and laboratory research, giving opportunity for the student to find out for herself whether the method which she has learned is the best possible, or if she can work out a better way to do things.

A part of the work is to choose the fittings and equipment of what is supposed to be a model house. This idea is carefully followed and gives the girl students considerable information concerning the cost of house furnishings, and the ability of choosing between good and bad materials for home equipment.

Marketing, house administration, budget keeping, and even the care of children are other important things which enter into this course of training.

The K. S. A. C. practice house, known as the Ellen Richards Lodge, having been named after the great home economics specialist, Ellen Richards, who, for many years, was a member of the faculty of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

This school is planning many additional things for the home economics course, a number of which will be established in the practice house, work thus giving that work added attraction and worth to the student who is interested in home making and the teaching of the subject, which, properly understood and applied, makes housekeeping and homemaking a joy rather than the drudgery which it has too often been.

Haughty Freshman Uses Chin Strap to Hold Cap in Place

A chin strap is the latest innovation for freshman bonnets. The other morning this startling new style attracted attention, when a freshman was seen entering Kedzie Hall with a freshman cap held snugly in place with a quarter inch black ribbon stretched from one side of his head, down around the point of the chin, and up the other side.

It is a well known fact that the caps do not always retain their jaunty position, so why not a chin strap? We have a suspicion that the originator of the new plan is copying somewhat after the fashion of certain army styles that some of us have had to endure.

EX-SERVICE MEN MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

TO FORM AN EX-SERVICE CLUB
AT K. S. A. C.

Refreshments, Entertainment, and a General Good Time in Connection with Meeting in the Community House

A meeting of all ex-service men of the college regardless of whether they are members of the American Legion or not is called at eight o'clock next Wednesday night at the Community house downtown.

The committee elected at the American Legion smoker last Monday night is calling this meeting Wednesday night to form an organization of ex-service men on the hill.

It has been planned by the committee that the organization in K. S. A. C. shall be an ex-service men's club and it will be possible for one to be a member of an American Legion post anywhere and still be a member of the student's club.

Mike Emerson, a member of the committee elected last Monday night argues that every Aggie ex-service man be at the community house Wednesday night. Refreshments will be served and an entertainment and general good time is being planned.

Members of the committee planning the organization of ex-service men in the college are Capt. George E. Humphrey, Prof. R. A. Seaton, Prof. J. G. Emerson, Arthur Lee, Chas. McPherson, W. C. Wilson, and Otto Daly.

JARDINE NOMINATED AS MOST POPULAR TEACHER

But He Is Ineligible in the Collegian
Contest

A letter addressed to the editor of the Collegian says, "The man who is elected as the most popular professor on the hill must truly be a popular one. The men who have been nominated are popular men but they lack much of being the most popular professor. The man who has done most for the benefit of K. S. A. C. students is none other than Dr. W. M. Jardine and I wish to nominate him as the most popular man on the hill."

Doctor Jardine is undoubtedly the most popular man on the hill but as the contest is limited to instructors, he is ineligible.

How Very Cute!

He was a K. S. A. C. graduate in entomology and had recently accepted a position as agricultural promoter for a tractor company, and was enthusiastically discussing his new position with two professors of a department other than entomology.

"What tractor are you promoting?" asked the first professor.

"Why a caterpillar, of course," replied the erstwhile "bug man." "What other kind would an entomologist know anything about?"

Mr. Doling, formerly of Nebraska Alpha chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Mr. Barrett of Kansas Alpha chapter at Baldwin were Saturday guests at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house.

OTHER COLLEGES

Swimming has been abandoned at Ohio University this year owing to the inadequate size of the pool and the lack of showers and lockers. Heretofore freshmen students have been required to learn to swim.

Purdue is worried by the lack of interest displayed by the freshmen of the university toward athletics. One third of the freshmen have not purchased athletic books.

The journalism students, as well as other students interested in journalism have dinner together once every month at Ohio University.

A father and son are in attendance at the University of Wisconsin. The father, A. B. Ames, is continuing his legal studies at the university, while his son, Kenneth Ames, is enrolled in the school of engineering.

The Purdue alumni who live in or near Chicago published a special edition of the paper Chi-Ill-Umni for Purdue's homecoming day last Saturday. Among the alumni expected for the homecoming was George Ade of fable fame. The alumni also offered a trophy cup to the class having the best attendance in the home coming day parade.

The K. U. freshman, Raymond Menze, who led the upperclassmen a chase over the roofs of the university buildings before consenting to wear the fresh headgear, finally put the cap on after being ducked in Potter's Lake. The Topeka Capital suggests that perhaps the reason why he refused to wear the "monkey" cap was because he didn't need one.

The upperclassmen who painted the freshman signs over the campus at the University of Missouri are to be punished if the discipline committee acts upon the suggestion of the student senate.

Indiana University has adopted a new method of assigning various organizations dates on which they may use the student building which corresponds to our new recreation hall, for social functions. Representatives of all organizations which desire to hold functions in the hall during the school year met with the dean of women and the registrar and drew the dates for their parties. This plan prevents a few organizations from monopolizing the building.

Thirty five students at the University of Missouri have formed the Men's Association of the Calvary, Episcopal Church.

Wasburn college boasts five faculty members who are listed in Who's Who in America. There are eight faculty members at Washburn who are graduates of that institution.

Women excel the men in scholarship by three points at Iowa University. The sorority with the highest scholarship is the Delta Zeta which leads with an average of 88.28, three points higher than the average of the highest fraternity, Nu Sigma Nu.

The girl students at the College of Emporia are to be allowed to have dates on Tuesdays and Fridays as well as on Wednesdays and Saturdays hereafter, provided the dates are for college affairs.

The K. U. student directory, which will be out in two weeks, is to be published by the Men's Student council.

Frieda Hempel is to give the opening concert of the K. U. Concert course, October 30.

The freshmen students in the school of engineering at K. U. will be given intelligence tests this week. One section of the tests, which are those added by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education Intelligence, one test will be along intelligence, one tests will be along psychological lines, and four sections will be actual problems.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL FROM NOVEMBER 2 TO 11

Membership Costs Only $1—College
Students Should Join

The red cross roll call begins November 2 and lasts until November 11. The purpose of the roll call is to renew each old member and to secure as many new ones as possible. The membership fee is one dollar.

The American Red Cross is not merely a war time organization. It was an active organization for 32 years previous to the European war confining its work to peace activities, and its drive this fall is for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the peace activities of the organization.

College students liberally donated to the Red Cross during the war and it should not be forgotten in peace times. Ex-service men, especially should be interested in helping to maintain the organization which did so much for them during their service days.

Roger Day has gone to his home in Glasco.

DEBATERS DOWN TO REAL WORK

DIVIDED INTO SQUADS AND TRIAL DEBATES IN PROGRESS

Washington University Has Requested a Debate with Aggies—May Go into State Debating League Later

Rapid progress is being made by the Aggie debaters under Coach Burns. The girls are working hard on the Mexican question for the triangular and the boys are working on the packing question for the Ames debate.

Squads Are Chosen

The debate squads have been chosen and subdivided. The boys are working in one squad and the girls in another. Each squad has been divided into two smaller squads, so that they may get actual debate practice by arguing each other. The debaters are getting three hours of class work each week for discussions and recitations on the question and for special work in voice and delivery.

The girls are working on the question: "Resolved that the United States should establish a protectorate over Mexico." This question will be debated at the triangular between Ottawa and Washburn. The question is a live one and the girls are working hard on it.

The exact time for the contest has not yet been decided but it will probably be held some time in December.

Postpone Boys' Debate

The boys' debate with Ames has been postponed until April 9. This will enable the team which goes from here to Ames to attend the National Convention of the Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity, which will be held at Sioux City, Iowa, April 9 to 11. This will also give the men much more time to prepare for this debate than under the old plan. The government control of packing industries question will be debated with Ames.

Tryouts Soon

Try-outs for new debaters for the spring debates will be held soon. A definite announcement of the date will be made soon in the Collegian. In regard to the try-outs Coach Burns says:

"Those who plan to try out might begin their reading on the Mexican question as worded in the girls' debate as this will be the question for the try-outs. Each speaker should prepare a speech of about five minutes in length on some specific phase of the question.

"Any bona-fide undergraduate is eligible for this contest. Freshmen who have had experience in inter-high school debating are especially urged to try out. Two hours credit will be given for each semester's work in the squad."

Washington university at St. Louis has requested a debate with the Aggies this year and it is being considered by the debate council. Washington university is a strong school and if debating relations are established with them some good debates will surely be the result. A proposal is also being considered by the debate council of entering a debating league of Kansas colleges which is being formed among the colleges of Kansas.

Howard O'Brien, '19, who is taking post graduate work in music, has been appointed by the Manhattan school board to instruct the boys of the senior high school in glee club work two nights each week. Mr. O'Brien will also have charge of the music at the high school chapel.

The glee club for the boys of the high school is a new work and is the result of action taken by the school board at the last meeting. Mr. O'Brien began the work last week.

E. C. DAVIDSON TO WEAR SILVER BARS NOW

15,000 Officers Were Temporarily Advanced During War

E. C. Davidson of the military department is now wearing two silver bars on his shoulders where he used to wear a gold oak leaf. This does not signify, however, that his military value has been lowered.

During the war about 15,000 officers of the regular army were temporarily advanced to higher offices to meet the strained conditions. These men were acquainted with military work and were therefore more able to handle the extra war time duties than were the newly commissioned officers. Now that the army is reaching normal status again these temporarily advanced officers are returning to their former ranks.

Lieutenant Colonel Terrell has not yet received his instructions regarding the matter but expects them soon.

DR. NABOURS IS TO LEAVE FOR EUROPE

WILL MAKE EXPLORATIONS OF
FUR AND AGRICULTURE

This Is His Third European Trip—He Was in Turkestan at the Outbreak of the War and in Russia in 1916

Dr. R. K. Nabours will leave here Friday for Constantinople, sailing from New York some time next week. The greater part of his time will be spent in Persia, Afghanistan, Turkestan, and Russia.

Doctor Nabours will represent the Kansas State Agricultural college and the Funston Brothers and company fur firm of St. Louis in his explorations of furs and agriculture. His leave is granted until September 1, 1920.

This is the third European trip for Doctor Nabours. He was in Turkestan in 1914 at the outbreak of the war. He was again in Russia in 1916 accompanied by Mrs. Nabours.

During Doctor Nabours' absence, Doctor Ackert will be acting head of the zoology department. Miss Martha Denny will have charge of Doctor Nabours' experiments in the greenhouse.

Engineers, Attention

Lieutenant Colonel Terrell is now making an attempt to have a field artillery unit organized at K. S. A. C. This will be confined to students in engineering, to men taking shop practice, to those taking motor mechanics and to vocational men of the engineering division.

EXPERIMENT WITH HOGS IN ANIMAL HUSBANDRY NOW

Try to Find Best Method of Growing Pigs on Barley

The value and best method of growing pigs with barley is the subject of an experiment being made by the animal husbandry department. This experiment includes four lots of ten poor-bred Poland-China hogs.

To date the average daily gain of each lot for the first 90 days is as follows: Lot 1, shell corn and tankage, hand fed, full fed, 73 lbs; lot 2, soaked whole barley and tankage, hand-full-fed, 60 lbs.; lot 3, soaked ground barley and tankage, hand-full-fed, 59.; lot 4, dry ground barley and tankage, hand-full-fed, 64 lbs. In general appearance and uniformity of growth, the lots rank as follows: 4, 1, 3, 2.

"This shows that dry ground barley is apparently most efficient as to uniformity of gain," says H. B. Winchester, assistant professor of animal husbandry, who is conducting the experiment. "This experiment will be conducted for 30 more days. This will probably make a considerable difference in the showing, as the pigs will be older and will be in a better position to make large gains."

Miss Alma Hoffman of Enterprise spent the week end at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

DEAR OLD HEN

Dear old Hen: Well here I am in the Kansas State Agrivision College which is what I heard a fellow call it the other day and I guess he wasn't so far wrong at that. It ain't much like enrolling in old Spiveyville H. S. when you get started in to this place. You get you a number at the door of the nickels gymnasium which I can't see why they call it that as it's a real classy looking place with Civil War cannons to guard the front doors. I guess maybe they are afraid that some of us smart guys from Spiveyville will run off with the doors, Hey Hen? After you get your number you wait for a day or to until your number is called and then you ooze into the gym. Along with the others and they give you a card with 16-count 'em—16 separate different pieces to it like a sheet of postage stamps only bigger and you write your name, address, religion, race, color, creed and condition of servitude on each piece. Then a lady tears off all except to or three of the pieces on your life history and you get a card with your H. S. grades on it and pay a hard-boiled guy which looks like the first sergeant of the Home Guard Co. in Spiveyville what they call a matriculation fee which means a starting fee and it is sure right for you are only starting to pay fees when you pay that one.

Well after you have paid your starting fee you have just begun to get enrolled. Ha! Ha! I have to have my little joke, hey, Hen? Inside the nickels gym, on the basketball court there is placed a lot of tables and you have to go to a certain one to get enrolled in each course. Well, you can bet your bottom dollar I know all about it now, Hen, but I'll give up that I didn't know a few things when I first came to this man's college. I don't remember yet just what I did in that place but I know now that the Home Economics table is no place to enroll for a course in economics and they can't nobody persuade me now that Physical Education will be the greatest thing that ever happened to me like some guy did that day.

Well Hen, I finally got out of the nickels gym and I was a physicist and financial reck and the name of that place should ought to be changed to the $17.50 gym, for that's what it cost me to get out and some wild-eyed guy wouldn't let me out till I paid it either. Just after I got out a fellow stepped up and boned me to be a loyal Aggie and buy a season ticket to the football games. I asked him what it cost and he told me $2.50 and told me it was a saving of $1.50 over paying single admissions and I told him John D. Rockefeller made a saving of 1 squillion dollars by buying two oil companies at once and if it cost $2.50 to be a loyal Aggie I would have to be a traitor because if banquets was a nickel a dozen I couldn't buy too'picks. I have to have my little joke, hey, Hen?

Just as I got through hanging the raspberry on the guy which was selling season tickets to the football games another fellow came up to me and wanted to sell me a season ticket that would admit me to all the things held in the Auditorium. The first thing on the program was a speech by Governor Allen and he said the others would be as good so I bought a ticket for $1.00 and I think that is cheap and I am up here to improve my mind and there is not no better way of doing so than to go and hear great speakers like those which comes to the Student Assembly.

Well Hen I guess I will have to close for this time as I see that Beda Thara is to play at the Marshall Theater tonite and also some Dancing Danties which I don't often get an opportunity to see such high class stuff in Spiveyville and I want to improve my mind in all ways while I am here at college Hey, Hen? The Galloping Goose which is the boys name for the streetcar in this town has just went up the track and it will be back in 10 or 15 minutes if it don't cast a brakeshoe or jar off the motorman so I will have to go put on my silk shirt which I bought at a closing out sale for $3.78. I know its awful to pay so much for a shirt but all the boys up here wears that same kind of shirts and some of them wear awful pretty badges on here shirt fronts but I haven't seen any of them for sale yet but if I do I'm going to have one.

Give my regards to all the fellows and Grtie and write me P. D. Q. which means da-mn soon. And oblige, Your old pal,

Jack Brennan.

Celebrate Independence Day
All of the Chinese students in Manhattan celebrated their independence day, October 10, the evening of October 11, at the home of Miss L. Harris, Eighteenth and Anderson avenue. The Stars and Stripes were displayed, together with the five colored flag—the red, yellow, blue, white, and black.

The table was spread with typical Chinese dishes, which were prepared by the boys themselves. The banqueters sent to San Francisco for the food and decorations for the celebration. Especially prepared rice, beans, and cakes were served and chop sticks were used, as the banquet was served in regular Chinese style.

Six American guests were present. The guests were Mr. Wing Lou, Mr. S. T. Lo, M. N. I. Iuan, Mr. S. F. Cheng, Mr. Foley Kiang, Mr. Poy Lim, Mr. Edward Stutz, Mr. Clarence George, Mrs. J. L. Fuller, Mrs. Jennie Moorhead, Miss Marie Richards, Miss Lucinda Harris, and Miss Florence Harris.

Updegraff-Stephenson
The marriage of Miss Edith Updegraff and Mr. Everett Southward Stephenson took place Saturday at 12 o'clock in the chancel of Grace Cathedral in Topeka, Rev. James P. de B. Kaye officiated. The wedding was very simple. The couple was unattended.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served at the Updegraff home north of the city to a few intimate friends. The dining room was tastefully arranged in a color scheme of yellow and white.

The young couple left Saturday afternoon for a trip through the south and on their return they will make their home in Wichita, where Mr. Stephenson is treasurer of the Wichita Branch of the Nash Motors Co.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson are graduates of the Kansas State Agricultural college and are well known here. Mr. Stephenson is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. AGGIES DIDN'T HOLD THE LEAD

LOST TO WASHINGTON IN FOURTH QUARTER OF GAME

HUSTON MADE A 54-YARD KICK

Cowell at Quarter Made 60 Yard Run for Touchdown—Washington Made Two Touchdowns by Line Plunges

The fourth quarter in the Washington-Aggie game proved to be the losing period for the latter eleven in the Missouri Valley game played at St. Louis last Saturday. The Aggie Wildcats had a lead of 9 to 7 until the fourth quarter when a Washington man went over the line for a touchdown, making the final score 14 to 9 in favor of Washington University.

Washington Lead First Half

The Washington eleven lead the game the first half, the score being 7 to 3. Huston made a record kick by dropping the pigskin thru the goal posts from the 54 yard line in the first half. The Washington touchdown was made by straight football.

Cowell for 60-Yard Run

The Aggie line held like steel at the beginning of the second half and Washington seemed unable to do a thing with the Wildcats. The cold shivers were sent thru the spectators when E. Cowell, who played quarter for the Aggies, broke loose and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. The goal kick failed, making the score at the end of the third quarter 9 to 7 in favor of the Aggie congregation.

Washington Comes Back

In the fourth quarter the Washington team came back with a fighting spirit that was lacking in the third quarter. The entire fourth period was marked by desperate fighting, both the Aggies and Washington teams taking big chances. Towards the latter part of the fourth period Washington's left half was sent over the goal line with the winning touchdown. The goal was kicked, marking the final score at 14 to 9.

In the Missouri Valley games, the Aggies have tied one and lost one. The Washington team is probably the best the Wildcats will meet. Due to the fact that Washburn held K. U. to a 0 to 0 tie, the Wildcats have hopes of defeating the Jayhawkers on November 1. The line up:

Noted Singer Crowds

to See the Results of

the Baseball Series

The enthusiastic crowds who watched the bill boards for latest reports on their favorite in the world series, will find that Paul Althouse, one of the Metropolitan singers who will give a number on the Artist's Course this year, is a baseball fan quite as enthusiastic as the heaviest "backer of the Chicago White Sox or the Cincy Reds."

Whether Paul Althouse chose his alma mater, Bucknell college, because of the educational advantages of the institution, or whether he chose it because his friend and idol, Christy Mathewson, was numbered among the college alumni is not definitely known, but is not unlikely that the young singer was influenced in his choice of a college by his admiration for the famous Bucknell baseball player graduate.

Whatever Paul Althouse's motives were in deciding upon his future alma mater, the day of his decision was a happy one for Bucknell college for a name as well known, and much greater from an artistic standpoint than that of Christy Mathewson has been added to the alumni record since the graduation of Paul Althouse.

And Mr. Althouse has never abandoned the democratic ideals which he displayed in his hero worshipping. He realizes that the great percentage of American people enjoy baseball as well as interpretative dancing, and The Rosary as well as Celeste Aida, so he gives both The Rosary and Celeste Aida places on his programs. The person who shamefacedly admits that classical music bores him, and the more esthetic music lover, may both find enjoyment in the programs presented by Paul Althouse, a musician who, by virtue of his Metropolitan reputation, can afford to be democratic in his song selections.

TRACK MEN ARE TUNING UP NOW

TEN LETTER MEN ARE BACK TO TRY FOR THE TEAM

Not Even the Cold Weather Keeps the Runners from Their Regular Workouts—Winning Team Being Developed

"Oooh, don't they look cold?" gurgled a fair co-ed between her furs as she looked out over the bare, wind swept bleachers of Ahearn field where Tillotson was rounding the quarter stretch on the last lap of a two mile workout. But the little co-ed need not worry, those boys have been out there every evening since the beginning of school and they do not mind a little cold snap.

The Aggie track team, which opened the eyes of some of the larger colleges last spring, is out to take every thing in sight this year. That is the reason those thinly clad tracksters are working out even if it is a little chilly at times.

Ten Letter Men Out

Ten letter men, under the able leadership of Capt. Jack Evans, form the nucleus of the 1919-20 Aggie track team. Jack Evans does the sprints. He holds two state records made during his high school career. Gallagher, the phenomenal dash man and hurdler, is playing football at present but will don the spikes as soon as the football season ends. Gallagher is said to have equalled the world's indoor record for the fifty yard dash.

Watson is working hard on the mile and half mile. Watson ran Joie Ray the race of his life last winter and he may be able to make the eastern boy bite dust the next time they meet. Jack Frost is developing into some pole vaulter and hurdler. Jack is a hard worker and will make some of the other Missouri Valley aerial artists step high to beat him. Ellings, last year's weight man, is back in school this term. Totten, a hurdler, is also working out. Turner, a fast man on the quarter in 1916, is rounding in shape for the winter meets. Tillotson, a two-miler in 1916, has been getting his wind in daily workouts. Nealy, a point winner in the quarter, will be back in school in time for the spring meets, so Coach Schulz says. Beattie, a hurdler, will also be back for the spring meets. Both of these men are veterans and will be a great strength to the team.

Other Material Available

In addition to these letter men there are several promising men from last year's squad which will give plenty of material for a winning team.

Fine Arts

'Twas last year when the flu was on, I heard an awful sound. Of course I was a freshman and hadn't been around but I traced it to the chapel hall and there, Oh Fates believe, I shudder even to recall the sounds I heard that eve. A moan, a pause, and then a la-a-a; a shriek and then a o-o-oh; a rumbling sound, a giggle a-a-ah and then a squeaky do-o-o. A treble voice then took a try, it struck my heart a blow, for she wailed her ails away up high and then away down low. The college infirmary was my best guess; a place to moan your last. Oh what a hall of wretchedness, what a sickening gloomy vast. But now I've learned to hear the shrieks and in my heart rejoice, for the frightful wail, itself, be-speaks the tenor of the person's voice. The rumbling sound and trilling squeaks, were but the artists of the day, preparing for the coming weeks, when they grand operas play. In fact this building is the place where great musicians grow; who cheer the world with magic grace, and charm where'er they go.

BETTER WATER FOR COLLEGE

TO SPEND OVER $12,500 ON NEW WATER SYSTEM NOW

TEST WELL ALREADY STARTED

Being Drilled Close to Old Wells in Order to Save Extra Laying of Pipes—To Use City Water for Present

Between twelve and fourteen thousand dollars will be spent to enable students of K. S. A. C. to drink good college water instead of the highly flavored Manhattan city water. A specimen free from bacteria the city water may be up to the standard, but as an appetizer it is doubtful if it would bring forth a vote of thanks from a man dying of thirst on the Sahara desert.

For these and other reasons the college has always endeavored to give the students good water at least during the time they are on the hill. Of late however the wells on the east side of the campus have failed to function supposedly because they have been filling with quicksand. At such times the water had to be supplemented with city water.

Start: Drilling

The drilling outfit of Geo. Austin of Kansas City is now on the job and will put down a sixteen inch well. Before drilling the sixteen inch well, they will drill one or two six inch test wells to find out just where the best location for the big well is. The big well will be as close to the present well as possible so as to save expense in connecting up the two systems. The pipes of the new well will be connected with the mains of the old one. Another pump house will be constructed over the new well. A sixteen inch centrifugal pump, capable of pumping 250 gallons a minute, will be lowered to the bottom of the well and here connected up.

From previous drillings it has been found that successive layers of clay, quicksand, and blue shale are between the surface of the ground and the five to eight foot strata of water bearing gravel.

In an effort to find good water a previous test well was drilled to a depth of 250 feet when salt water was struck, and of course water of this nature was out of the question.

The work of the test wells was begun Monday and they will be completed in a few days. The large well will probably be finished about December 1st if the material can be procured in a reasonable length of time. At present $12,500 has been appropriated for the work but it is probable that it will take between thirteen and fourteen thousand before the work is complete. The work of installing the new plant is being carried out under the direction of Mr. Jacob Lund of the Heat and Power department.

One Member of the Family is a Funny Affair

You regular college students should not get the impression that the short course in tractor operating is a tame one. Plenty of thrills are furnished almost daily to those who spend their time working on the many engines in the old S. A. T. C. barracks. Recently, there have been several fires caused by faulty ignition in the engines. No serious damage has been done, however. Wednesday, about the chapel time, the smallest member of the tractor family was seen promenading about the campus advertising his work done in the college machine shops. More interest should be shown in the things going on at the north end of the campus. Students are too much inclined to stay in their own little rut and not see the whole of S. A. C.

Rudolph Marganster left Thursday for his home in Salina where he spent the week end.

TICKETS FOR SERIES ON SALE THIS WEEK

PAUL ALTHOUSE, NOTED TENOR, IS FIRST ON PROGRAM

ARTIST COURSE HAS HISTORY

Started Over 21 Years Ago When College Students Took Up the Work Discontinued by the Wareham Theatre

Bright and early Monday morning, one hundred enthusiastic girls, representing practically every woman's organization on the hill, began the sale of tickets for the All Star Artists Course.

Tickets were sold in Anderson Hall yesterday, and will be sold there all day today. They are going fast, and it is expected that before Friday, when the seat reservation begins, practically every seat in the house will be sold. The girls are covering the residence section of Manhattan as well as the college. The Business Girls' club is conducting the campaign in the business district.

Big Feature Here

The Artists Course has been, under the title of lecture course or lyceum course, a feature of college life for twenty one years. The numbers this year, however, introduce a new musical era for the college. The course this year is in the nature of an experiment as to whether or not the college students and townspeople appreciate really good artists.

The Artist's Course has had an interesting history, and the quality of his year's course has been reached only after 21 years of untiring effort on the part of those who have had charge of the course during the various phases of its existence.

Started 21 Years Ago

Twenty one years ago the manager of the Wareham theater decided to discontinue the occasional lectures which had been a part of the theater program during the winter months and the students of K. S. A. C. decided that the lectures continue, decided to take the matter into their own hands. The students of '98 founded a lecture course, which has grown through the lyceum course stage and is now the All Star's course featuring instead of the musty speakers of '98 stars of the Metropolitan Opera company.

At first the numbers of the lectures course were given at the Wareham theater, the students securing the lectures and attending to the business end of the proposition. Soon, however, the "old chapel," which has just been remodeled into the new recreation center, was made the scene of the lecture course programs. A few years after the origin of the course another change was made, and the literary societies of the college took charge of the course, then known as the lyceum. Since the completion of the auditorium the numbers have been given there.

Met With Difficulties

The literary societies met with many difficulties in their supervision of the lyceum course. In order to insure the financial success of the undertaking it was necessary for each literary society member to assume the responsibility for at least six tickets. If he could sell them, well and good. If he could not he was out of luck. This plan oftentimes resulted in students cutting the price of the tickets which they had difficulty in selling.

The difficulty encountered in disposing of the tickets in the early days of the course arose from the fact that the societies were not financially able to secure many good numbers, and instead of adopting the present Artists Course policy of having a few excellent numbers rather than many mediocre attractions, the societies tried to put on seven or eight numbers during the year.

The result was a program which contained perhaps one fairly good number and five or six which no one cared to attend. The saving factor in the lyceum situation in the early days, was that there were not as many competing attractions as now, and that people were willing to go to any sort of entertainment. At any rate there were always enough tickets sold to comfortably fill the auditorium. The line awaiting the chance to reserve seats on the morning of reservation day, is almost as much a part of the regular year's program as the K. U. game, and students are wont to rise as early on the reservation morning as for registration.

Three years ago the literary societies decided that the course was growing beyond them and that the financial responsibility of the series was more than they cared to assume. It was then arranged that Professor Westbrook of the music department and Professor Emerson of the public speaking department should have charge of the series.

Professor Westbrook and Professor Emerson decided to make the future policy of the Artists Course, as it is now called, quality rather than quantity. They believed that with the growing number of mediocre attractions, there was a demand for a few really superior numbers rather than for more mediocre ones. The course has improved greatly in quality under the new management, and the numbers secured this year are really in the nature of an experiment. Those a charge of the course wish to know just how good numbers the student body will support.

The first number of the Artists Course is to be given October 27, by Paul Althouse, a tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company. Arthur Middleton, a bass-baritone who is also a Metropolitan singer, will appear November 24. The third number is to be given February 23 by Miss Florence Hardmann, whose ability as a violinist is recognized all over the world.

STOCK TO KANSAS RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION

Said Boys' and Girls' Clubs Can Help in Many Ways

John L. Prehn, poultry extension specialist in the college, spoke Thursday, before the annual convention of the Kansas retail grocers' association held at Topeka October 8 and 9.

He spoke of the grocer's part in preventing undue losses in eggs and the relation between the grocer and the producer in regard to the handling of eggs. He also called the attention of the grocers to the ways in which the members of the Boys' and Girls' Poultry clubs could help out in improving the quality of both eggs and poultry.

WARD MILES TO MANAGE THE WORK OF AMERICAN RED CROSS

To Complete Semesters Work Before Taking up Duties

Another Aggie gets promoted. This time it is Ward Miles, special student in agronomy, who is the fortunate one. Mr. Miles, who was formerly a lieutenant overseas, has been appointed district manager in charge of the rural work of the American Red Cross, at a salary of $3,000.

This district is composed of eight of the western states, with headquarters at Denver. Mr. Miles intends to complete the work of this semester before he takes up his new duties.

THEY ALL WEAR 'EM NOW

Every freshman boy should be wearing a green and white cap now because the committee has secured a supply sufficient to furnish all with them. Some students still take the stand that it is an imposition on the part of the upper classmen to force the freshmen to wear the rainbow coverings, but most of the students have finally caught the proper spirit.

The freshmen this year are full of pep—we all noticed that at the Aggie-Tiger game. And it is hoped that no forceful means will have to be taken to get the freshmen to don the caps.

THE WEATHER FLAGS

How many of you studious students pay any attention to the weather flags displayed daily on Anderson hall? Evidently not many, else there would not be so many of you caught out in the rain without your raincoat. A large white flag displayed means that there is to be fair weather, while a flag with a dark complexion is a warning of approaching wet weather. You can tell whether the temperature will rise or fall by observing the position of the small three cornered pennant. "Thus, 'fair and warmer' will be designated by the small pennant above the white flag.

DISTINCTIVE STYLES

The idea of students in different departments in the college wearing distinctive apparel is one that should be advanced in K. S. A. C. Many other colleges in the United States use some kind of system by which students are marked off according to the courses they are taking.

Every day some one says, "What course are you taking?"

If journalism students wore their monocles, civil engineers the large hats, home economics students green stockings or something, this question would not be asked. Let's advance the idea, students, and then see how much fun it will be.

FORM COUNTY CLUBS

The organizing of county clubs at K. S. A. C. is one of the most interesting efforts to boost the Kansas State Agricultural college that has ever been undertaken by a body of students and the prospects for the success of this organization are very sure. One of the important reasons why the group of students from Clarke and Comanche counties have undertaken to form a club, besides the fact that it will provide a means of social intercourse for the students from these respective communities, is that many boys and girls in their own counties know but little of the opportunity at this school for the prospective student from the farm.

It is a fact that the Kansas State agricultural college is better known and certainly more appreciated in other states than it is in the state of its location. Somehow the Kansas people take the agricultural college so much for granted and fail to realize that there is an educational opportunity of a lifetime available by attendance and creditable work at this school.

The formation of these county clubs is to have the hearty approval of the college authorities and the faculty and directors of the school will aid in every possible way.

Further announcement concerning club activities throughout the winter will be made later.

Rifle Club Elects Officers

The K. S. A. C. Rifle Club met Friday and elected the following officers: President, D. C. Thayer; vice president, R. E. Marshall; secretary, W. T. Sterling; treasurer, W. D. Scully; and marshal, R. E. Glegg. It was also decided that any student, whether enrolled in the R. O. T. C. or not, is eligible to membership in the club.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: If any of you studious students imagine that there is going to be a let up in these weekly quizzes that we have been having, you will be sadly disappointed. A Collegian reporter was snooping around Anderson hall last week and there he made the discovery that the quizzes will continue. In one large store-room said reporter found thousands of packages of beautiful paper, all bound up carefully for the use in all the departments of the college. A nearby student attempted to count the number of quiz papers in the huge pile but gave it up as a hopeless case. He said, however, that he knew there was enough writing material there to flunk the whole college for the next forty years.

Editor of the Collegian: In answer to the letter from a loyal Aggie published in the "Look Into This" column of the last Collegian I wish to say the freshmen girls would like to wear some badge of distinction be it green stockings, caps, or anything else. We think it a fine idea. In certain other state schools the freshmen girls have been required to wear a felt band with a "K" on it in the colors of the school around the left sleeve of their coats. I believe the freshmen girls here would jump at the chance to wear a brilliant purple band with a shining white "K" on it if the upper class men will only see fit to order them.—A Freshman Girl.

STUDENTS FROM TWO COUNTIES ORGANIZE A CLUB HERE

Will Have Social Gatherings to Promote Interest in K. S. A. C.

Students from Clarke and Comanche counties who are attending the Kansas State Agricultural college met last Thursday night and organized themselves into a county club for social purposes and to create a means for the furthering of friendship between the students here this winter.

Miss Ida Bare, a junior in home economics, was elected president of the new organization and Mr. Foreman was elected secretary and treasurer. A social board consisting of Helen Dale, Dale Lund, Miss McKenne, Leslie Curtis, Mr. Naston, and Miss Dora Dakin were appointed to assist the two governing officers in the club.

While no definite or particular program of activity has been planned for this new organization this group of students will meet at regular intervals throughout the school year in a number of social affairs for the pleasure of the members. At the close of the school year, when they have returned to their respective communities, the students will carry on a social program at home, thus enabling them to hold to the friendships created in college and making new friends for the school.

Last Friday night I stood at the

if I were a chaperon I would get dis-

NEW BULLETIN ON GROWING ALFALFA IN WESTERN KANSAS

Circulars May Be Obtained at Experiment Station Reading Room

"Growing Alfalfa in Western Kansas," is the subject of a new bulletin received by the Agricultural Experiment station from its branch station at Hays. This bulletin gives interesting data relative to growing alfalfa under the conditions existing in western Kansas.

The circular tells of the best kind of land on which to grow alfalfa, how to prepare the seedbed, the rate and method of seeding, and the clipping of alfalfa. It also contains some interesting information concerning the growing of alfalfa in rows on the upland. The insects and rodents that are injurious to alfalfa and the methods of extermination are also given.

Copies of this circular can be obtained at the experiment station reading room in the new agricultural building for the asking.

THEY ALL WEAR 'EM NOW

Every freshman boy should be wearing a green and white cap now because the committee has secured a supply sufficient to furnish all with them. Some students still take the stand that it is an imposition on the part of the upper classmen to force the freshmen to wear the rainbow coverings, but most of the students have finally caught the proper spirit.

The freshmen this year are full of pep—we all noticed that at the Aggie-Tiger game. And it is hoped that no forceful means will have to be taken to get the freshmen to don the caps.

THE WEATHER FLAGS

How many of you studious students pay any attention to the weather flags displayed daily on Anderson hall? Evidently not many, else there would not be so many of you caught out in the rain without your raincoat. A large white flag displayed means that there is to be fair weather, while a flag with a dark complexion is a warning of approaching wet weather. You can tell whether the temperature will rise or fall by observing the position of the small three cornered pennant. "Thus, "fair and warmer" will be designated by the small pennant above the white flag.

DISTINCTIVE STYLES

The idea of students in different departments in the college wearing distinctive apparel is one that should be advanced in K. S. A. C. Many other colleges in the United States use some kind of system by which students are marked off according to the courses they are taking.

Every day some one says, "What course are you taking?"

If journalism students wore their monacles, civil engineers the large hats, home economics students green stockings or something, this question would not be asked. Let's advance the idea, students, and then see how much fun it will be.

FORM COUNTY CLUBS

The organizing of county clubs at K. S. A. C. is one of the most interesting efforts to boost the Kansas State Agricultural college that has ever been undertaken by a body of students and the prospects for the success of this organization are very sure. One of the important reasons why the group of students from Clarke and Comanche counties have undertaken to form a club, besides the fact that it will provide a means of social intercourse for the students from these respective communities, is that many boys and girls in their own counties know but little of the opportunity at this school for the prospective student from the farm.

It is a fact that the Kansas State agricultural college is better known and certainly more appreciated in other states than it is in the state of its location. Somehow the Kansas people take the agricultural college so much for granted and fail to realize that there is an educational opportunity of a lifetime available by attendance and credible work at this school.

The formation of these county clubs is to have the hearty approval of the college authorities and the faculty and directors of the school will aid in every possible way.

Further announcement concerning their activities throughout the winter will be made later.

Rifle Club Elects Officers

The K. S. A. C. Rifle Club met Friday and elected the following officers: President, D. C. Thayer; vice president, R. E. Marshall; secretary, W. T. Sterling; treasurer, W. D. Scully; and marshal, R. E. Glegg. It was also decided that any student, whether enrolled in the R. O. T. C. or not, is eligible to membership in the club.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor Collegian: If any of you studious studees imagine that there is going to be a let up in these weekly quizzes that we have been having, you will be sadly disappointed. A Collegian reporter was snooping around Anderson hall last week and there he made the discovery that the quizzes will continue. In one large store-room said reporter found thousands of packages of beautiful paper, all bound up carefully for the use in all the departments of the college. A nearby student attempted to count the number of quiz papers in the huge pile but gave it up as a hopeless case. He said, however, that he knew there was enough writing material there to flunk the whole college for the next forty years.

Editor of the Collegian: In answer to the letter from a loyal Aggie published in the "Look Into This" column of the last Collegian I wish to say the freshmen girls would like to wear some badge of distinction be it green stockings, caps, or anything else. We think it a fine idea. In certain other state schools the freshmen girls have been required to wear a felt band with a "K" on it in the colors of the school around the left sleeve of their coats. I believe the freshmen girls here would jump at the chance to wear a brilliant purple band with a shining white "K" on it if the upper class men will only see fit to order them.—A Freshman Girl.

STUDENTS FROM TWO COUNTIES ORGANIZE A CLUB HERE

Will Have Social Gatherings to Promote Interest in K. S. A. C.

Students from Clarke and Comanche counties who are attending the Kansas State Agricultural college met last Thursday night and organized themselves into a county club for social purposes and to create a means for the furthering of friendship between the students here this winter.

Miss Ida Bare, a junior in home economics, was elected president of the new organization and Mr. Foreman was elected secretary and treasurer. A social board consisting of Helen Dale, Dale Lund, Miss McKenne, Leslie Curtis, Mr. Nastion, and Miss Dora Dakin were appointed to assist the two governing officers in the club.

While no definite or particular program of activity has been planned for this new organization this group of students will meet at regular intervals throughout the school year in a number of social affairs for the pleasure of the members. At the close of the school year, when they

"Beats any seminar I ever attended" is the verdict of the five hundred engineering students who attended the engineers' hike Thursday evening. At four o'clock the engineers gathered outside main hall and began the march to Hackberry Glen. They stopped at the Union Pacific depot and gave the football team some rousing cheers. By the time the gang reached Hackberry Glen the eat committee had the tables spread.

It was a cosmopolitan crowd that went thru the bread line. Dean Potter stood in line with his forked stick waiting for the hot-dogs and coffee with the rest of the boys. The girls, yes, there were five girls in the engineering department, headed the bread line but they didn't go around for seconds. After everyone had eaten all the waffles and cake he could hold an impromptu program began. "Shorty" Myers acted as toastmaster.

Dean Potter made a short speech in which he introduced D. S. Woolworth, consulting engineer for the war department and former dean of engineers at Lewis Institute at Chicago. Mr. Woolworth made a very interesting talk in which he dwelt briefly on the opportunities and responsibilities of the college student. Professor Conrad of the civil engineering department took first prize on after dinner stories but Professors King, Kammeyer, and Baker were close seconds. Professor Kammeyer's poem was in a class by itself. Kimball, president of the freshman class, made a short talk in which he thanked the upperclassmen for their hospitality. Miss Swensen, Dean of women engineers and general big sister for all engineering students was called upon for a talk but she replied that she did most of her talking in the office.

Wit, humor, and good fellowship were the keynotes of the evening and the engineers went home feeling they had attended one of the biggest events of the year. All the engineering students present have a good supply of after dinner stories, too.

Dean Potter says that he intends for the engineers to hold several mixers and get together meetings thru-out the year.

Boxing Tournament To Be Held Later
In the Year

By the looks of some men on the campus one might think that there was considerable fighting going on but those who bear battle scars should not be judged too harshly for they have been incurred in boxing held in the gymnasium.

The boxing branch of the physical education department is making rapid progress under the instructor, Captain Davidson. The course is not advertised in the curriculum but those who are taking boxing are much enthused over that form of exercise and the progress being made by the classes.

At present three classes are organized with about 30 men each. More classes will be organized if there is a sufficient number interested. Classes are being held in the south annex of the gymnasium and anyone desiring to see some good amateur bouts, can see them in any of the three classes.

The department has sufficient equipment at present and the men are working hard. Plans are being made to hold a boxing tournament next spring. All weights will be represented and the champion of each class will probably be awarded the K.

ALLEN SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

JARDINE ALSO ON PROGRAM GIVEN IN COMMUNITY HOUSE

ORGANIZE AMERICAN LEGION HERE

Governor Allen Says American Legion Will Have More Force than Any Labor Union or Any Other Organization

"The most wholesome note that is being struck in America is being hit by the American Legion," said Henry J. Allen, Governor of Kansas, in addressing the ex-service men at the American Legion smoker held last Monday evening in the community house. Nearly 500 men were in attendance, of whom about 50 per cent were college men.

"The American Legion will become the most powerful organization in America," continued Governor Allen. "It will become more powerful even than organized labor. While fighting in France you have learned patriotism and you are now fighting for those principles. Everybody knows that you stand for wholesome principles, and if you will carry out those principles, the country will rise until it is again at the normal conditions of before the war."

Jardine Favors It

"This organization is going to hold the country in line until it gets back into settled conditions, if you will stick to the principles that you have set forth," said Dr. William M. Jardine, president of the college. "You can see a different atmosphere at the college now."

"I am deeply interested in this organization. I hope that every college man joins. I hope that we have an affiliated post with this one or join the local post here. I would like to have these men help me to direct the affairs of the college—to help me untangle its problems."

Funston Man Spoke

Colonel Johnson, of Camp Funston, showed what the American Legion has done for the regular army by letting them become members. He appointed out that before the war soldiers had no right to vote, but the legion has given them citizenship. He also showed how the Legion was carrying out concrete examples of their principles by quieting strikes and restoring law and order all over the country.

Mr. McCulloch, of the Riley County Chronicle, extended the welcome of the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce. He told how the cities needed men who would push forward. He also showed how the Legion led to good citizenship.

Mike Emerson, the last speaker on the program, suggested the forming of a committee to make plans for a college club of ex-service men. Members of this club will belong to the Manhattan local post or to some other post. In this way the college men can better handle the questions that they would be called upon to meet.

Mr. Duke Turner, '17, of Garnett, is here attending the county agents' conference.

Miss Eleanor Brown spent the week end at her home in Clyde.

Mr. Frankenhoff, '19, spent the week end in Manhattan.

Miss Doris Bachelor spent the week end at her home in Belleville.

Mr. E. G. Kelley, extension entomologist, returned last week from a field trip in southeastern Kansas.

Mrs. Bess (Brown) Neerman, '15, of Tulsa, Okla., is at her home in Manhattan for the week.

Miss Florence Hunt, of the home economics division, spent Friday in Topeka.

Miss Ruth Martin of Junction City was a week end guest at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Mr. A. C. Hancock, '18, and wife, Mrs. Frances Keneaster Hancock, '18, of St. Francis, are attending the county agents' conference at the college this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney Ford of Seneca were Sunday dinner guests at the Acacia house.

Thursday dinner guests at the Acacia house were: Harry Painter of Topeka, James Ely and Randall Shaw of Medicine Lodge.

Lloyd Zimmerman, Hobart May, and Claire Shellenberger were dinner guests at the Alpha Delta Pi house Sunday.

ANXIOUS AGGIE

Dear Editor: Now that the K. U. Aggie football game is drawing near, we are wondering if students will be excused for the game. Now every loyal Aggie should be at that game and back up the team. As every student knows, this is to be one of our most important games, and it is up to every one to be there.

Many of us will have to take side door Pullmans down on the special that leaves here at midnight. Now if a person has five unexcused absences or four or five hours on Saturday, how is he going to back up the college by going to Lawrence?—Anxious Aggie.

Inasmuch as football plays such a large part in our school, it seems only consistent that those students who desire might be excused. So far, this season the principal text preached at college is loyalty. Therefore it is only fair to dismiss school on football days. Any Aggie who will go thru the ordeals of a side door pullman and stay up all night to root for the team should not only be excused from classes but should have his name put on the roll of honor. We suggest that you go to the game, and if any prof be so mean as not to excuse your absence,—well he, and not you will pay for it in the end.

Dear Editor: I have nine cuts; one more and I go marching home to Pa and Ma so say the high authorities of the school. I have been told by some of the wise juniors that if one just bravely strolls into the dean's office, and looks the honorable dean right square between the eyes and says, "I have had six sick headaches, four long distance telephone calls and some more stuff on that day," that the dean will fall for the line hard.

Now what I am writing to you about is to find out if that senior classman was just feeding me a line of salve or if its good stuff. What do you think? I'm desperate, something has to be done.—A Freshman.

The editor can not answer you definitely until he knows just who your dean is. However, if its your luck to have Dean Willard you might just as well pack your trunk tonight and go back to the cows and chickens.

A fresh supply of violin strings just received at Kipps.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

"What are eagle skins used for," said an Aggie professor to a Junior the other day in class.

"To make fur coats," replied the Junior.

Whereupon the professor began to elaborate on the method used in the manufacture of fur coats from eagle skins, when a freshman asked.

"But what do they do with the feathers?"

What a great help Freshmen some times are.

Sophomore: "That man is taking vocational training."

Freshman: "Oh, that fellow can't sing. He's from my home town."

We were reading the other day about a man in New York who has found a way to combat the high cost of living. He claims to have lived on air for the last twenty five years; he is an organ grinder.

That may be alright but we hope it wasn't hot air he lived on.

Annual Cookie Shine

An important celebration in the Pi Beta Phi sorority, wherever its chapters exist, is the annual "cookie shine," which is probably just another name for "spread," although one suspects that sugar coated cookies may figure in the menu.

The Topeka alumni chapter of the Pi Beta Phi sorority held its annual cookie shine last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Mills on Topeka Avenue.

PLAN AGGIE POP NIGHT

GIRLS' ORGANIZATIONS AHEAD OF MEN'S ASSOCIATIONS

TO BE MORE STUNTS THIS YEAR

Big Plans Are Being Formulated for Aggie Pop Night This Year—Y. W. C. A. Has Charge of It Everyone Should Work

Aggie-Pop! Aggie-Pop! Say, what does that mean? December fifth you will find out—It surely is a scream! Funny antics, stunts galore, Songs and dance and then the "drop" Quite a jolly time in store On the night of Aggie-Pop!

If the boys are not careful the girl students of this school will again take the lead in interest in "Aggie-pop" activity as well as the prizes on the night the great show is staged and the prizes are awarded. Last year the cup was won by the Eurodelphian Literary society. Two years ago by the Pi Beta Phi sorority and three years ago by the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Surely this record is challenge enough to the men's organizations on the hill, as well as the individual man, to get in the game and produce some snappy ideas for this contest.

This occasion is held under the auspices of the college Y. W. C. A. and usually comes in the first of the winter months. Always a gay affair it promises, this year, to outdo the affairs of other years, for in every nook and cranny of the campus and college halls, heads are together working on "Aggie-pop" ideas.

Every college student is eligible to try out in this contest. The idea of the affair is to supply ideas for stunts or "acts" which in cleverness, beauty, worth and general quality will stand good material for these stunts and the final presentation of them on "Pop" night has provided much delightful entertainment for those who attended the performance.

October twenty-ninth is the date set by the committee in charge as the final day for tryouts. The hours between four and six will be set aside for the actual try-outs and every student or organization who wishes to participate in this contest should get busy at once and prepare a stunt of some kind.

AG. FRATS. HOLD STUDENT MIXER

ALL STUDENTS IN THE DIVISION OF AGRICULTURE INVITED

Organizations Trying to Develop Spirit of Harmony Among the Students of Agriculture

Plenty of cider and doughnuts. If that wouldn't bring out a crowd of college boys, what would? At least it had that effect Monday night when the honorary agricultural fraternity held a mixer at the gymnasium, for all students in the division of agriculture. The purpose of the meeting was to get the new students of the division acquainted with the different student organizations and their purpose, and to develop a spirit of harmony among the students of the division.

After a get-acquainted half hour during which time cider and doughnuts rapidly disappeared, a program was given. Albert Dickens of the horticulture department was the chairman of the evening. The purposes and the value of the various student organizations were explained, and students were urged to affiliate with one or more of these organizations.

E. E. Gottman, a senior in dairying, and a member of the stock judging team that took first place in the judging contest at Chicago where 14 colleges were represented, explained the purposes of the dairy association.

J. A. Montague, an animal husbandry student told of the plans of the Saddle and Sirolo club; Carl Trace, a student in the agronomy department explained the activities of the Klot and Kernel Klub—the Tri-K—as it is generally known. E. S. Lyons, a member of the Alpha Zeta fraternity, discussed the requirements for membership and the object of the honorary fraternity.

President Jardine gave some interesting reminiscences and incidentally told some "stories out of school" about his experiences with Dean Farrell in their younger days. The president said that the great need of the day was for trained leaders and urged the students to align themselves with one or more of these organizations. He stated that the faculty was back of these organizations, and would endeavor to help them in every possible way.

Dean Farrell chose as his subject, "Better agriculture and better agricultural personnel." "We cannot have the first without the second," he declared, and then told in a very interesting manner the value of college training in business. He suggested that the department might publish an agricultural paper and thought that it might be a good thing to have an organization that would have as members all the students of the division.

FRENCH CROSS TO DEAN HOLTON

RECEIVES CROIX-de GUERRE FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

Worked With the Wounded American and French Soldiers in France—Worked for Six Weeks Near the Front Line Trenches

On Monday October 20, Dean E. L. Holton, head of the department of education, received from the French Republic, the Croix de Guerre for distinguished service in the work of rehabilitation and re-education among the French and American soldiers in France. For six weeks Dean Holton worked among the French soldiers at the front, while for many months he worked among the American soldiers wherever there were hospital centers for wounded men. While in France Dean Holton held the commission of Major.

Major Holton was special agent for the Federal Board of Vocational Education. As agent for the Federal Board he had charge of all this work that was done in France for the American doughboy. He worked in conjunction with the American Red Cross, from whom he chose his personnel for his work in the hospitals among the soldiers, and had his office in the general headquarters building of the Red Cross in Paris.

On November 30, 1918 Major Holton, who was then in Paris received notification that he had been appointed representative of the United States on the "Inter-Allied Committee for the Re-Education of War Cripples". The following letter is ample evidence of the esteem in which Dean Holton is held by the French as a result of the work that he did while in France.

"I cannot let Major E. L. Holton return to the United States without taking occasion to express our high appreciation of the excellent work which he and his associates have done in connection with vocational training.

"Out of something over 200,000 casualties, Major Holton and the board which he represents tabulated some 135,000 and have brought cheer and given a new aim in life to many thousands of our maimed boys.

"The work which Major Holton and his associates have done has been most effective in every way, and I want to tell you how much we all appreciate it. Yours very truly,—Lt. Colonel Geo. H. Burr, Commissioner for France."

A. E. Dyatt, a graduate in civil engineering in 1917, has formed a partnership with H. S. McFadden to do consulting engineering. They solicit work along the lines of general engineering, bridge plans, road plans, reports, and maps. After graduating Mr. Dyatt worked for a considerable time with the state highway department of the state of Idaho. He was in the army and after discharge was employed by the state highway commission of Kansas, but he left this work to go into partnership with Mr. McFadden.

SHIFT BACKS TOMORROW

E. COWELL WILL PLAY HALF—BURTON NOT IN HAYS FIGHT

ALL DOPE FAVORS THE WILDCATS

Hays Normal Defeated the Army Team 3 to 0 While the Aggies Beat the Funston Eleven 20 to 7

The Aggies are not expecting a very hard game Saturday with the Hays Normal. Hays only beat the Funston eleven 3 to 0 while the Aggies defeated the Army congregation 20 to 7 and it was only the Aggies' second game. However Hays Normal has had some very strong teams in the past and may spring a surprise.

Most of the practice this week has been in preparation for the K. U. game, a week from Saturday. Forward passing and breaking up forward passes has made up a large part of the schedule for this week. Some new formations have been tried with great success against the freshmen.

Changes in Line-Up

Some changes have been made in the line-up. E. Cowell's great showing at St. Louis assures him of a half-back position. W. Cowell has been playing quarter while Burton nurses a sprained ankle. "Ship" Winters has been playing tackle in scrimmage. He may be tried out at this position Saturday.

Ike Gatz is being shifted to full on some plays and Ike plows thru for a gain every time. Jack Evans, captain of the track team, has been out for a half back position and he looks mighty good. With Evans and Gallagher, Coach Clevenger will have two of the fastest backs in the country, both of them holding track records. Jack will probably be given his initial tryout Saturday.

Roda Warming Up Roda has been out every evening warming up but he will not be used in Saturday's game. Enlow has not been scrimmaging on account of an injured rib but may play for a few minutes Saturday. Proc. Randels has been playing Enlow's position. Burton has been given a rest also and will probably not be used until the K. U. game.

The line-up Saturday will be Bogue, R. E.; Gatz, R. T.; Hutto, R. G.; Cleland and Murphy, C.; Huston, L. G.; Gingery, L. T.; Randels, L. E.; W. Cowell, C. B.; E. Cowell, Hixson, Hinds, Gallagher, Quinlan, H. B.; and Ptacek, F. B.

The way the Aggie line performed at Washington U. has received favorable comment from several sources. With Roda back in the game the Aggie line will indeed look formidable. All reports indicate that the Aggies outplayed the Pikers but luck was against them.

FELLOWSHIP IS STRONG FACTOR

COLLEGE LIFE DEMANDS IT, SAYS DR. A. E. BISHOP

Western Man Gave Students Some Good Sound Advice When Speaking in Student Assembly—Says All Should Be Thinkers

"Fellowship is the strongest factor in college life," said Dr. Arthur E. Bishop, educator and lecturer of Portland, Oregon, in an address before the student assembly Wednesday morning.

"Fellowship between students and the faculty is the most lasting good that can come of college training. When you are through college you will forget the things you learned here but the thing you will remember longest will be the acquaintance of your instructors and the inspiration they gave you.

"Be a thinker," Dr. Bishop advised. "Learn to think broadly but don't become a book worm or a grid. Learn your library. Follow the thoughts of the great thinkers of the world. Think hard and get to the bottom. Think for yourself. You can do for your mind what you can do for your muscles. Both are developed by use.

"Above all think purely and reverently. Don't leave out of your equipment the spiritual.

"Cultivate habits of action. The most noticeable characteristic of the returned soldier is the erect way in which he carries himself. I would advise you to get into college politics. We get to know people here better than in any other walk of life and it is a wonderful help in after life to get into the game of college politics. Some prominent politicians I know were active in the politics of their Alma Mater.

"Get into a good fraternity if you can. But do not let your membership in such an organization create snobishness.

"And last of all have a vision for yourself. If there is any one in the world who has the opportunity for success it is the college graduate. The graduate from college has 250 times the advantage over the non-college man for success.

"Have faith in your career and prepare yourself for it. Your Alma Mater is pulling for the best that is in you. Have a vision for your state and country. You are a citizen of the world with world responsibility and duty."

ALTHOUSE GIVES SONGS FOR ALL

ADAPTS HIMSELF TO HIS AUDIENCE—THINKS AS HE SINGS

Althouse, Metropolitan Singer. Has Won Much Praise from Dramatic Critics as Well as from Musical Authorities

Complaints that "I couldn't understand a word he said," and "His songs are all so different," are never made by audiences of Paul Althouse who will give a concert here October 27 at the first number of the Ali Star Artists' Course. Mr. Althouse realizes that not all of us have the highest standards of musical appreciation, and he arranges his programs accordingly.

Paul Althouse sings Strauss' "Heimliche Aufforderung," and Verdi's "Celeste Aida" in a manner which makes him a rival of Caruso, but he also sings "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "The Rosary" in a manner which brings tears to eyes which grow unashamedly drowsy over wholly classical programs. He is especially noted for his enunciation, and those who like to hear the composer's interpretation of a song instead of being forced to supply the words themselves are always pleased by his concerts.

Mr. Althouse has won considerable acclaim from dramatic critics as well as from musical authorities because of the feeling and nice dramatic sense he displays in his portrayal of Ruridu, Pinkerton, and other roles which require considerable histrionic ability. It is largely his sense of the dramatic which prevents him from oversinging a song, or making a sentimental song mawkish.

The secret of Paul Althouse's success lies in the fact that he thinks as he sings. As an old lady, of the type to which the term "musical" is not generally applied, remarked at one of his recent concerts, "Isn't he the fine lad! His heart sings in his voice."

Mrs. Willman who has been visiting her daughter, Miss Edith Willman, of the zoology department, will leave Sunday for her home in New York.

The roads and materials laboratory is going to run some tests of chat sent here from Crawford county to determine its value as a material for building hard surfaced roads. If this material proves good the southeastern part of the state will have an abundance of hard surfacing material. Chat is the by-product from the lead and zinc mining.

Homer Cross, a graduate in electrical engineering last year, is working for the Westinghouse Electric company at Wilkesburg, Pa. Mr. Cross is teaching some in the Casino Technical Night School and doing apprentice work with the company. Gordon Hamilton, another last year graduate, is also at Wilkesburg and is rooming with Mr. Cross.

DOCTOR KING WINS POPULARITY CONTEST

CHEMISTRY LECTURER RECEIVES 40 PER CENT OF ALL VOTES CAST

DR. J. R. MACARTHUR IS SECOND

Prof. J. G. Emmerson Third, Dr. R. R. Dykstra Was Fourth and Dean A. A. Potter Fifth—Thousands of Votes Cast

Dr. H. H. King, head of the chemistry department, won the teachers' popularity contest by receiving 40 per cent of the total number of votes cast. Dr. J. R. Macarthur, English, was second, Prof. J. G. Emmerson of the public speaking department was third, Dr. R. R. Dykstra dean of the veterinary division was fourth, and Dean A. A. Potter of the engineering division was fifth.

Doctor King has been an instructor in the Kansas State Agricultural college for a number of years. He became head of the chemistry department at the time that Dr. J. T. Willard was made vice president of the college. Doctor King was absent from the college one year while studying for his doctor's degree at the University of Chicago. He has often been called K. S. A. C.'s most popular teacher and so his large majority is not a surprise to most of the students.

Doctor Macarthur, who received second place, is also mighty well known by all the students in K. S. A. C. His classes in English are always filled, whether the class is an elective or a required subject.

Over 1,000 votes were cast, which shows that practically half of the student body voted. Much interest was shown in the contest which was conducted by the Collegian.

It has been suggested that a contest be conducted to find the most popular girl on the campus and also the most popular boy. This may be done later.

HUSTON KICKS FOR 54 YARDS

LONGEST DROP KICK IN MISSOURI VALLEY RECENTLY

Breaks His Former Record of 52 Yards Which He Made While Playing on Manhattan High School Team

Dewey Huston, tackle on the Aggie eleven, broke all recent records for drop kicking by putting the pigskin thru the goal posts from the 54 yard line at the Aggie-Washington game played at St. Louis last Saturday. The ball made a distance of practically 70 yards.

Huston's 54 yard kick breaks his former 52 yard record which he made while playing on the Manhattan high school team two years ago. The spectators at the game Saturday were so thrilled by the kick Huston made that they applauded him heartily.

Huston, who does all the punting and drop kicking for the Aggies, is one of the best players of his style ever seen in the Missouri Valley. All the teams this year fear his toe. In the Aggie-Missouri game, the latter team did its best to keep the Aggies from the kicking distance. In that game Huston tried a 58 yard drop but it went too low.

ARTHUR BREWER HEADS COLLEGE EX-SERVICE MEN'S CLUB

Not Necessary to Join American Legion to Join College Club

Arthur Brewer, who was elected head of the college ex-service men's club Wednesday night, hit the keynote of the club's purposes in his speech of acceptance when he said: "When we were in France we learned to do the impossible. In like manner let us here do whatever we set our hands to, in no uncertain manner. We accomplished the impossible in France because we were organized and stuck together. So in like manner we must thoroughly organize this club and we must stick together. We must get behind college activities, join literary societies and other organizations and develop leadership."

Every ex-service man in college, is counted a member of this club whether or not he belongs to a regular American Legion post. Let's have every member at the next meeting. Let us make the organization the most powerful on the hill.

Dear Minnie, Dear Cherrie and Dear Bennie in the Mails

Postal cards are certainly funny things but the messages that they sometimes carry are funnier than the method of transporting the notes. The "lost mail" case in the Manhattan city post office gives one an opportunity to witness unusual and oftentimes mysterious messages which were intended to reach someone in a distant city.

Last wee kthere were posted in the lost mail case three post cards which bore, respectively, the following messages:

"Dear Minnie: Manhattan is a nice town. Be a good girl and take good care of the chickens. We will go out to the home tomorrow. Father caught a bad cold but I made him take a good dose of quinine last night so I guess he will be alright tomorrow. I will drop you a line from Kansas City. Lovingly, Ma."

The second: "Dear Bennie: I arrived in Manhattan O. K. I don't know how things will stack up here but a guy told me that the chances for putting through our deal was pretty good. Keep the home fires burning. Yours truly, Pete."

And the third: "Dear Cherrie: Rex met me at the train and we drove out to Fort Riley in the nicest roadster I have ever seen. The dance at the officer's club was a huge success. My dress looked wonderful. Thanks a thousand times for loaning me your pumps. They pinched a little but I guess it is worth it, considering the wonderful time that I had. Goodbye and love, your dearest friend, Bessie."

Is it any wonder the government provides against the misuse of the mails?

RAISE FUNDS AT COLLEGE FOR ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

Want $10,000,000 to Preserve Memory of Late President

A Roosevelt memorial drive is to be put on at K. S. A. C., it was announced by Dean F. D. Farrell at chapel Wednesday morning.

"It is particularly appropriate for students to express their appreciation of Theodore Roosevelt because he was a great student," said Dean Farrell. "The campaign put on by the Roosevelt Memorial Association is for $10,000,000. The funds are to be divided into two parts. One part will be used to erect a fitting memorial for Roosevelt, such as a park at Oyster Bay, while the other part will be used in fostering and developing an ideal of Americanism.

"No one is going to be asked to contribute to the fund. The committee would rather have a large number of small contributors than a small number of large contributors. It is suggested that each student give 25c and each faculty member contribute 50c."

Prof. H. F. Wilson, professor of entomology at Wisconsin University visited the college Monday and Tuesday. Professor Wilson is a brother of Dick Wilson who graduated from this college a few years ago.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

Thousands of dollars have been spent in building concrete walks on the campus yet many absent minded students persist in walking on the grass.

Have you noticed the path that runs from the library to Kedzie hall? It would mean only a few extra steps for one to go around by the walk. Perhaps at noons and evenings the hungry ones can not restrain themselves and so rush for the cafeteria, but if each person went around by the walk there would be no time lost.

Last year wires were stretched across paths on several places on the campus but this year they have been removed. If the students will just use a little discretion about walking on the grass, it will not be necessary to put up the wires again.

Notice to Freshmen

You are informed that the College Canteen is in the basement of Anderson hall and that a complete line of soda fountain drinks, candies, and light lunches are sold there at popular prices.

Carl E. Mershon visited friends in Salina on Sunday.

POCKET FORM OF DIRECTORY OUT

MAY BE PROCURED AT POST OFFICE FOR TEN CENTS

Contains Phone Number and Addresses of Each Student and Faculty Member, and Miscellaneous Information

For ten cents it is now possible to learn the phone number and street address of every student and faculty member on the hill. It is also possible, girls, to discover without any embarrassing questions, whether or not your favorite prof. is married. The directory may be procured at the post office for ten cents.

The directory contains, in addition to the phone numbers and addresses of each student and faculty member, considerable miscellaneous information. A calendar of the college year, campus customs you are expected to observe, rules for student affairs, library information, athletic eligibility rules, information concerning the student loan funds, and stars indicating the married or unmarried state of each prof. are a few of the things included in the directory.

RIFLE CLUB MEMBERSHIP REACHES 100 MARK

Anyone Who Wishes to Join the Club Should See W. D. Scully

The Rifle club of K. S. A. C. now has approximately 100 members and still more are wanted for this organization. It is from the members of this club that the rifle team is chosen. While the principal aim of the club is to develop good marksmen it is also to serve as a sort of a social stag party. There will be week end hikes and also when the rabbits get ripe this winter there will be some genuine old fashioned rabbit hunts.

Men who are just starting in the R. O. T. C. and who want to become expert riflemen will find that unless they get into this rifle club that they will get practically no amount of rifle practice during their first year. Those who want to join the club should see W. D. Scully.

Buy Hereford Cattle

The animal husbandry department recently purchased 124 head of Hereford calves, to be used for experimental purposes. This is one of the best herds of high grade Hereford cattle in the state.

At the International Stock show to be held at Chicago the first week in December, 22 of these calves will be shown in the feeder class.

JOURNALISTS FORM A CLUB

AGGIE PRESS CLUB IS NAME OF NEWEST ORGANIZATION

Officers of Association Elected—All In Press Club Will Wear Monocles So Watch Out for This Latest Fad

The Aggie Press club is the name of the association of industrial journalism students of K. S. A. C., organized at the weekly seminar period last Thursday afternoon.

The association includes the students in all classes of the journalism course. The membership totals over eighty. The journalism students are the first in K. S. A. C. to organize an association of both men and women.

The aim of the Aggie Press club is to get the journalism course in K. S. A. C. before the eyes of newspapermen.

A newspaper service for the state or Kansas is being planned by the embryo journalists to supply news of the college and the wants of the newspapermen of the state.

As a means of distinction on the campus the Aggie Press club voted to adopt the wearing of a monocle by journalism students. Other departments have adopted distinctive dress suitable to their profession, and as a method of showing their literary ability ity and news hound characteristics the journalistic pencil pushers have chosen the one sided eye piece.

A president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and board of directors were elected at the first meeting of the club. Ralph L. Foster was elected president, M. A. Graham, vice president; Clementine Paddleford, secretary-treasurer; and Lindley C. Binford, Lulu May Zeller, and Dora Cate members of the board.

TANK OF WATER TAKES PLACE OF OLD TIME PADDLES

Real Baptism Forces First Year Men to Don the Caps—Clothes and All Take Dive Into Briny Deep

That the old time paddles could take the place of the tank of water is the wish of many of the freshmen boys. The upper classmen have finally found a means of forcing the first year men to don the rainbow roofing.

Wednesday eight freshmen were taken to a big tank on the northwest corner of the campus and thrown in, clothes and all. They came out looking like drowned rats. Thursday afternoon another line of freshmen were dragged to the water and the baptismal ceremony performed.

The few duckings has made a big difference among the freshmen. Every one is wearing his green and white cap now and trying to act as if he liked it.

Prof. Dean Lectures

The "Billion Dollar Insect" was the subject of Prof. George A. Dean's address to the members of the Science Club, at their meeting in the home economics hall Monday evening.

This insect is a corn borer that has come from European countries. It is doing immense damage in our eastern states especially New York and Massachusetts. Our problem is how to get a strict enough quarantine to hold the insect from reaching our immense fields of the middle west. It is extremely hard to control this pest and the loss yearly would easily be a billion dollars, stated Professor Dean.

CAMPUS STYLES

Has everybody noticed the cute little ribbons that all the girls are wearing tied above their elbows? They are only worn when the fair lady dons one of those rainbow-hued sweaters which has sleeves resembling, in their bagginess, the parachute part of an airship? At first this poor scribe thought maybe those ribbons worn above the elbow were the insignia or sign whereby one learned that the wearer had given her heart and hand and wherewithal to a sorority but it seems that these organizations still confine their sign of pledge to the daintier and less conspicuous ribbons badges worn on the left side of the pledge's chest. (Still one never knows—the war changed things so, you know.)

Have you seen Cholly dawncing around the campus wearing his mawnoole? It means simply that he is a journalism student, not that he is really taking to the British style, seriously. This custom has been adopted by all journalism students as a mark of distinction from the embryo farmers, engineers, general scientists, and the like.

Girls—oh just a few, of course—are wearing boys clothes more and more every day. There is one girl on the hill who, when she runs short of clean clothes, dons a military looking sweater and tailored skirt and comes to school. With a black patent leather belt and this overseaish looking regalia she is, to say the least, not quite ladylike in appearance, and it might behoove the S. S. G. A. to proffer some assistance in the way of a girl's sweater.

As yet no one has noticed any green silk hose being worn by the fairer members of the first year class. Was that just a dare which we overheard a few weeks ago or is it intended that it shall be put through? To the knowledge of this fashion note editor there is at least one freshman girl student who wrote frantically home to Father asking for a check with which to buy the much needed article of wearing apparel in case the threat should become a real need.

We saw a lot of fellows going down to Aggieville the other day all wearing wide-brimmed gray-whitish looking hats. Thinking there had been a firesale on hats somewhere we ventured to ask the source of the bargains and were very cryptically informed that they were the sign of the Saddle and Sirlin Club. (Moral. Freshman Don't ask any like questions if you value your life at all!)

We ate in the college cafeteria the other day and while we did not notice anybody trying to drink their coffee while their teaspoon still remained in their cup, we did see two people do something that was probably not intentional on their part but the cause of trouble for the cashier when she tried to balance her accounts at the end of the meal. These two students walked out of the dining room without paying for their lunches, nor did they return to pay for their meal and the result was that the cashier was unable to balance the accounts. Watch this, students!

From the appearance on the campus of so many blue flannel middy-garbed girls there either were a lot of lucky men in the navy or there has been a firesale somewhere. However, it must have been the former in most cases for the nobby looking blouses are the real thing. After all, the war did do a few good things, didn't it for some of us girls do look nifty in middies, don't we?

P. S. Does anybody know where Christoph buys his neckties? Or does he have them specially designed by Erte?

It is only fitting and proper in beginning this new column in the Collegian, that we should mention the ladies first. And that reminds us—what is the first thing that is noticeable when you walk around on the campus?

If you haven't noticed the inverted question marks that the girls are displaying, you must be blind or something of the sort. The process is quite simple. The girl simply catches a small strand of her hair and cuts it off at about the four inch mark. She then applies a goodly amount of Bandoline and then commences curling.

"Would not do to simply have an ordinary curl on the fair one's forehead so the next thing is the process of shaping the curl into a question mark, inverted. This requires very little time and then all is done.

It was not so many years ago that the smart sport was the man who wore his trousers just short enough to show a portion of his delicately colored socks. But not so now. You will notice on the campus that the trousers are rather long—long enough, in fact, to touch the main part of the shoe.

And a man who is seen wearing trousers too short is termed a hick. 'Tis rumored that men intend to wear little frills around the bottoms of their trousers. Or perhaps they will have scalloped edges.

Speaking of styles, what do you think of the new William S. Hart style Stetsons that the senior civil engineers are wearing?

Maybe It's So

After having ridden from the depot to the college in the "Galloping Goose," a visitor in Manhattan has this to say in regard to Manhattan's most famous source of amusement. "It certainly is a great institution, this Manhattan City and Interurban Railroad. I suppose the reason why the cars stop to collect fares is because if they tried to while the car was in motion the conductor would find it impossible to keep the fares in his hand."

Prof. E. F. Ferrin, returned Thursday evening from a Poland China sale held at Effingham last week. He also visited Mr. Ela, a Hampshire hog breeder, at Valley Falls before returning.

Prof. A. M. Paterson, of the animal husbandry department, returned Thursday from Holton, where he judged the live stock at the Holton county fair. The fair at Holton is one of the best county fairs in the state. The live stock men around Holton are also among the most loyal supporters of the animal husbandry department of the college.

There will be other races the length of the pool, one in which the back stroke is used and another the side stroke.

Diving will follow the swimming contests, and then will come stunt relays which Miss Winifred Bartholf, instructor in swimming, assures us will "keep one and all laughing."
These will conclude the program.

The winners of the various contests will receive as prizes a certain number of points for the Women's Athletic association.

Beginning classes in swimming will have meets during their class periods.
Swimming teams will be chosen from

ANOTHER NEW COURSE HERE

AMBULATORY CLINIC TO BE IN-TODUCED IN VET. COURSE

Course is Entirely New in Western Colleges But Has Been Taught in the East for Some Time—
Popular in West Now

A course in ambulatory clinic is to be established in the department of veterinary medicine. The course will be open to senior boys.

Ambulatory clinic is given in a number of schools of the east and is being introduced into the west, where it is becoming popular. K. S. A. C. is one of the few western colleges to take up this work.

An automobile has been purchased to take the boys out in practice on the outside. This gives the boys a chance to see the animals as they are and as they are kept. Dr. Muldoon, who will have charge of the course, thinks that the boys will also have an opportunity of seeing animals that are in a serious condition, and of observing them clinically.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor: In a recent issue of the Collegian there appeared an article on the custom of making the freshmen wear their freshman caps. This article was signed by "A Loyal Aggie."

We can not question the loyalty of this Aggie but there seems to be a failure on the part of some one to fully understand the true spirit in which this custom has been carried on from year to year. The author of that article in question states that such an idea is foolishness because college students are supposed to be men and women who have thrown away their childish ways.

I fail to see any retention of childish ways in the carrying out of this custom which was handed down to us by those who came before us. Can we question the "Kids play" and "Foolishness" of our K. S. A. C. alumni? Can we question the manhood of students in practically every leading university or college in the United States?

If the writer of that article will become more familiar with the customs in the larger schools in the U. S., and the sacredness in which this custom is held, he may more fully appreciate the true value of this one custom towards retaining the true college spirit.

As to the threat that, "It may not be an easy task to force the 800 freshmen to wear the caps should they decide not to do so" there is little doubt but that greater tasks than this have been accomplished by a body of students with the right purpose in mind. We do not advocate the use of rough treatment, except for those few who fail to understand the principle upon which this custom is based.—Another Kind of Loyal Aggie.

Dear Editor: Sunday evening about ten o'clock a girl was heard screaming with laughter in the basement of a certain fraternity house on the east side of the park. A boy's voice could be heard through the racket.

"Let's put it on her lips! Let's put it on her lips."

The noise ceased. The basement lights went out and I, a bewildered freshman, walked on wondering if this was college life and how folks get into the game.—A Freshman.

Dear Editor: We agree with the freshman girl who wrote in the last Collegian, that the freshmen girls were ready and willing to wear some insignia that will designate them. We believe that they are as good sports as the boys. Come on sophomores; what are you going to get?—A Freshman.

Editor Collegian. Why is the dickens doesn't the canteen in the basement of Anderson carry a few pencils and erasers for the convenience of the students? It may be a good idea to have a hash house in the basement of Anderson, but it would be a better idea to have some place to get a pencil or an eraser. Once in a while one will lose a pencil or it will be misplaced during a class. If one could get these articles in Anderson, instead of having to go down to Aggieville, it would be a great help. I suggest that somebody take steps to see that the canteen puts in a line of these articles.—An Indignant Student.

Dear Editor: Sunday canoeing seems to be a popular sport among the gentleman members of the faculty, especially the chemistry instructors. Ask anyone who was in the "Galloping Goose," Sunday evening about 8 o'clock if one certain professor was not enjoying himself trying to keep the oars he was carrying from punching out the eyes of the lady passengers on the car. His lady companion only smiled and seemed to be enjoying the professor's discomfiture. The professor's name is a direction.—A Casual Observer.

Dear Editor: President Jardine announced in chapel last week that inoculations could be given for colds. We now read that the army will soon have a vaccine against cooties. From this we are led to infer that it will not be long until they are inoculating professors against bald heads and horn-rimmed glasses.

Editor Collegian: During the past week we freshmen have been hearing dire threats from the upper classmen. Duckings, paddling lines, and other fitting punishments for freshmen who fail to wear their monkey caps are muttered by the dignified "uppers." In fact we have it that several erring first year men have already made compulsory visits to a certain tank of icy water.

As we understand the rules of the college there is a ruling against that sort of a practice by the upper classmen. If they fail to obey the rules laid down by the proper authorities how can they expect us inexperienced and unsophisticated freshmen to obey their rules?

Suppose the present accommodating class of freshmen become disgusted at the conduct of the few high and mighty "uppers" who are handling the disciplinary process for freshmen and the whole class agrees not to wear caps. You will have some job on your hands, dear upper classmen. It is well to remember that the day of Germanistic and imperialistic autocracy is the day of the past. If the upper classmen insist on using brute force and physical persuasion to compel the freshmen to bow to their will they may find they have a bigger job on hand than they are looking for. We freshmen are not posted on school traditions but we do know that the Aggie spirit does not provide for that kind of a deal.—Nuthin' Loyal Aggie.

Notice to All Classes

Considerable criticism has developed because nothing has been done about the Students' Self Governing association. In the second issue of the Collegian I asked the classes to report to me the members they elected to the Students' Council. So far the Sophomore class alone has fully reported its representatives on the Student Council. The freshman class sent the surname only of their representative.

It seems to me it's up to the class officers to move. I am ready to call a meeting of the council. If I can get the names Friday I will call a meeting in G65 Saturday at one o'clock.

TELLS OF BEST METHOD OF CARING FOR POULTRY

County Agents Are Training Themselves in This Line of Work

"I feel that there is no other line of poultry work that is attracting so much attention as the culling of the poultry flocks," says John L. Prehn, poultry extension specialist in the college, who has just returned from doing culling work in Montgomery, Greenwood, and Lyon counties.

"We find that the average flock in Kansas includes from 30 to 35 per cent of clackers or boarder hens; that is, hens which do not produce enough to pay for their feed. People are realizing this to such an extent that they are calling for help in this line. The number of calls coming in is so great that it is beyond the ability of the specialists to handle them.

"Large numbers of the county agents and other county workers are taking advantage of every opportunity to train themselves for this work so that they in turn can put on demonstrations in culling flocks of hens in their own counties. A number of the county agents took special work in culling while at the county agents' conference at the college."

Free Advertising

Some of the freshmen are using their caps to do a little free advertising with lots of color to it. They are filling in the white spaces with printed matter such as: "Beat K. U.," "Are We Discouraged," "Freshie," "No Hunting," "Safety First," "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity."

Rooms for Research Work

A suite of rooms is being fitted up in the home economics hall for research work in food and nutrition.

The plan is to use one room for feeding experiments with small animals, the other rooms are to be fitted with physical and chemical apparatus for analytical studies in food and nutrition.

This suite is for the use of graduate students and members of the staff in home economics.

Try Own Prescriptions

The girls in the dietetics classes for two days this week have been trying their own prescriptions.

After six weeks of training they were divided into two family groups. Each group made out a menu and for one whole day each group lived on an ideal diet which provided for just the exact amount of calories necessary for their weight and activities.

These girls in a short time will take up marketing and serving under Miss Josephine Perry.

Furs Cause Trouble

Furs that resembled a living animal were the cause of a lively chase the other evening. The girl wearing the furs was about half way to the east entrance of the campus when a dog came running up and began to leap at the furs which were thrown about her neck. She screamed and began to run. This excited the dog and he succeeded in getting a hold and tearing out a large part of the fur. Two men seeing the trouble caught up with her and drove the dog away.

Wrestlers, Swimmers, and Tumblers

According to H. A. Lorenz, Oklahoma A. and M. has challenged us to out wrestle, out tumble or out swim them. In the part wrestling has not been recognized at K. S. A. C. but Missouri Valley schools are beginning to recognize it as a sport, and as we have one of the best instructors in the game here at this institution, it is high time to get in the game and let Oklahoma A. and M. know "the Aggies fight." There will be a meeting of all men interested in these sports Wednesday at five o'clock in the coaches office.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1919

NO. 16

CONSTITUTION NOW READY

STUDENT SELF-GOVERNING ORGANIZATION UP TO STUDENTS AGAIN

ALL REVISIONS HAVE BEEN MADE

Popular Vote Will Be Taken the Last Part of This Week—Students Have Right to Either Accept or Reject It

The organization known as the Students' Self-Governing Association of the Kansas State Agricultural College has finally been formed and the officers have been elected.

A meeting was called by Prof. H. L. Kent in the old agricultural hall last Saturday to perfect the organization. The following persons were elected as officers: Floyd Hawkins, president; Glenn Hoffhines, vice president; and Mildred Arends, secretary-treasurer. On the council were elected the following persons: Seniors, Floyd Hawkins, Mildred Arends, Laverne Webb, Lester Gefeller; juniors, Irene Graham, Glen Hoffhines, E. D. McCollum; sophomores, E. H. Willis, P. Randels; freshman, L. J. Bryan.

The old constitution which was submitted last year failed to get an approval by the state board of administration or by President Jardine but it is expected that this new amendment proposed will be more successful.

In the meeting Professor Kent made this motion, which was immediately seconded: That the original constitution and the proposed amendment be printed in the Kansas State Collegian to give all student organizations an opportunity to make suggestions and recommendations, and that a mass meeting be held.

A meeting will be held the last of this week at which time a popular vote will be taken on the amended constitution.

The original constitution is as follows:

HAZING MUST BE STOPPED

EXPULSION IS PENALTY FOR ONES WHO VIOLATE JARDINE'S ORDERS

BETWEEN TWO LOWER CLASSES

President Says He Has No Authority to Force Freshmen to Wear the Caps But He Urges Them to Do So—Plan to be Made

"Hazing at K. S. A. C. is a thing of the past and will not be tolerated; the penalty for hazing is expulsion from the institution." This was the statement reiterated by President Jardine at a mass meeting of students in the college auditorium Friday afternoon, emphasizing the statement made by him to this effect on a similar occasion a year ago.

The meeting grew out of the ducking of freshman boys by upper classmen for failure to wear the freshman caps, in the confusion attending which a senior was ducked. The purpose of the meeting was to decide what measures should be used to induce freshmen to observe the college custom of wearing freshman caps.

"I desire as much as anyone to see the freshmen wear the caps," said President Jardine. "It adds to school spirit. It conduces to pep. It appeals to me as a feature of college life that student's in later life will look back upon with a good deal of satisfaction."

"All of the older educational institutions of the east have customs and traditions that the student body delight to continue from year to year. In some institutions it is a tug of war and a time is set apart for the contest of strength. But whatever the tradition, ducking or paddling or any other form of hazing as a means of enforcing its observance ceased long ago. In some institutions it is the custom to punish freshmen for failure to observe the college traditions by prohibiting them from participation in student affairs for a certain length of time."

President Jardine stated that he had no authority to compel freshmen to wear caps, but that he did have authority to expel students for hazing; that he would use this authority promptly if necessary, but that he hoped it would not be necessary; that he did not believe it would be necessary if they got together and talked the thing over.

"I am confident that we can work out a plan that will satisfy all," continued President Jardine. "Time is all that is necessary. We must not be so impractical as to expect that we can get one hundred percent of the boys to wear the caps. We already have 450 wearing them and will probably have 600 within the next month and that is a bigger percentage than ever before in the institution. A clash like this can be expected in an institution where there are 1500 or 1600 red blooded boys. There will naturally be contests, but his institution is as free from undesirable occurrences as any in the country. Our students are ready to act upon reason when a proposition is put before them in the right light. We must be patient and level headed and a satisfactory scheme will be worked out."

"In a disturbance like this one," said President Jardine, "it is the freshmen and sophomores that are concerned. The juniors and seniors should be standing around on the side lines to see that the rules of the institution are not abused. I ought to be able to depend upon this cooperation from the upper classmen. It should not become a problem for the president to solve. This is the way it is at Yale and Harvard. There is no trouble like this eliminated before it reaches the president. I have had such cooperation from our upper classmen in the past and I know I can depend upon continuing to receive it. The adoption of the student's self governing plan will help in this matter. Looking after the interests of our school and protecting its good name is a responsibility in which students are as vitally concerned as the president and the faculty. We want to keep the record of our college clean so that it will be a suitable place for our younger brothers and sisters and as many of the young people from the home communities as possible to come and where parents will know it is a safe place to have them come."

The impromptu students assembly ended up in the finest kind of spirit. Everyone present realized that there was a better way of adjusting class differences than resorting to measures that run counter to the rules of the institution as does hazing.

PEP MEETING NEXT FRIDAY

TO BE BIGGEST ROOPER GATHERING EVER HELD HERE

Prepare for Aggie-Jayhawk Game By Teaching K. S. A. C. Students to Yell—Pep Committee Has Big and Fine Program

The biggest rooper gathering every held at K. S. A. C. will be held in the auditorium Friday night when nearly 2,000 students will gather to prepare pep for the Aggie-Jayhawk game. The Aggies want to defeat the Jayhawkers in two ways this year—by having more interest in the game and by bringing home the big end of the score.

The pep committee has prepared a fine program with President Jardine and others as speakers. The speeches will be short and snappy at the practicing of songs and yells will be the big feature of the meeting. A stunt may be given on the foot-cats are going to win. The Aggies for posters this week. Talk K. U. to everyone and tell all that the Wildcats are going to win. The Aggies have saved everything for this game and it must be won.

So everyone be out for the pep meeting Friday night.

K. S. A. C. MAN TO JUDGE CATTLE AT AMERICAN ROYAL

Doctor McCampbell of Animal Husbandry Department, Goes to K. C.

Dr. C. W. McCampbell, head of the animal husbandry department of the college, has accepted an invitation to judge the herds at the American Royal Stock show to be held at Kansas City November 17 to 22.

The American Royal originated as a Hereford show. Today it is the greatest Hereford show in the world. This year more than 1000 head from the best herds in the United States and Canada, have been entered.

There is probably no one who is better able to judge the high grade stock that will appear at this show than Doctor McCampbell. He is known all over the United States as one of the best judges of cattle in the country. Doctor McCampbell is a graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural college, having received his degree as bachelor of science in 1916, and the degree of doctor of Veterinary medicine in 1919.

COLLEGLIAN TO HAVE A FOOTBALL EDITION

The Friday edition of the Collegian this week is a special football publication, printed for the purpose of stirring up Aggie pep. It is a 16 page special with the pictures of the coaches and players. It should be a souvenir to Aggie students. Nearly 1,000 copies are to be taken to Lawrence and sold on the college campus Saturday morning—we hope it will be some help in breaking the jinx that K. U. has had for the past 13 years.

Robert Fairman, of the class of 1919, was a guest at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house Friday. Mr. Fairman is now with the General Electric Company at Lynn, Mass. He was called home on account of the injury of his brother, Hobart Fairman, who is now recovering.

AGGIES WIN HAYS GAME

TWO TOUCHDOWNS GAVE AGGIES THE VICTORY SATURDAY

BOTH PLAYED STRAIGHT FOOTBALL

Hays Eleven Showed Up Might Well in First Half but Aggie Onslaught Was Too Much for Them in Second

The Aggie Wildcats won a rather slow game from the Hays eleven last Saturday by a score of 12 to 0. During the first half the Hays squad held the line mighty well and the half ended with a 0 to 0 tie. But in the second half the Aggie onslaught was so heavy that the Hays line could not hold.

E. Cowell, Randels, Gallagher, and Gatz starred for the Aggies. T. Gross and Lynn Ordway starred for the visitors. Gallagher skirted the ends for a number of long runs and hit the line occasionally for long gains. The Hays eleven had been coached to gang Ike Gatz but Gatz made a number of spectacular tackles anyway.

The Aggies gave Huston only one chance to drop kick and that was in the fourth quarter after they had 12 points to their credit. The ball went to the left of the goal, however.

Through the entire game it was evident that the Aggies were reserving their best for the K. U.-Aggie game which will be played at Lawrence this week end.

SATURDAY WILL BE A HOLIDAY

SCHOOL WILL CLOSE SO ALL MAY GO TO K. U. GAME

WANT 1,500 AGGIES TO BE THERE

But Classes Must Not Be Skipped on Friday, President Jardine Says or the Holiday Will Not Be Given Saturday

Saturday November 1 is to be a holiday in order that all Aggies may go to Lawrence to attend the Aggie-K. U. game, President Jardine announced after meeting with the pep committee last week.

The pep committee wants about 500 Aggie roopers at K. U. to help the Wildcats win the game. The game will start at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A special train, cars trucks and other vehicles will carry the Aggies to Lawrence.

But in order to get the holiday Saturday no classes must be skipped on Friday, President Jardine announced. If Friday classes are missed without excuses, the holiday on Saturday will not be given. So it is up to every Aggie to see to it that he goes to his Friday class or that he is excused from it by his dean.

DEAR OLD HEN

Dear Hen: It's been a wk. or more since I rose you but believe me there has been a lot happen to me since I last rose you. I'll say there has. That's some new slang I picked up here at college and every body uses it and also such sayings like how do you get that way and there's lots of funny answers to that question how do you get that way like overnight and coming at the greasy spoon. Well Hen you half to live and learn and anyhow that's what I come to college for. You know how good a athlete I was in high school Hen and how I hit the ball under my jersey and made the winning touchdown against Hecla and won the county championship for Spiveyville to years ago. Well I went out for football the other night and I had a good workout and got acquainted with the fellows on the Varsity which is the name they have for the first team here but they won't let me play on that team this year nor any other Freshman. I asked the captain Joe Bogue of the first team why not after I introduced myself to him and he said that conditions was peculiar this year as they had so many old men back and they only had one or to years more to play and it wasn't hardly fair to them to let the H. S. stars like myself crowd them off the team because lots of them like Carl Rode and Ike Gatz had been counting an awful lot on playing this year because it was their last year. I agreed with him Hen and the Varsity men are all fine fellows. I just went up to Joe Bogue when I went out on the field and introduced myself as Brennan of Spiveyville and he said what not the Brennan that played on the Spiveyville H. S. team and I said that's me. Then I introduced myself to the other fellows that was out for practise and they all seemed surprised to see me and didn't say much but I guess they was to much surprised at first and when I get better acquainted they will loosen up.

I don't suppose you will know me when I get home Hen for I am getting to be quite fashionable. I always was fashionable at home but the fashions here are different. I told you I got a silk shirt in my last letter but I haven't been able to find where you buy those badges yet. I have had my hair cut so it parts in the middle to for all the keen looking boys here wear there hair parted in the middle. Most of them smoke a pipe to but a fellow told me that they did that because they were planning to go to formal dances this winter and had to save up there money to rent dress suits and pay for flowers and etc and didn't have money enough to buy cigarettes. He said the Greeks were always putting on dog like that but when you get into that classical stuff it's time for me to take the air. The only foreign stuff I know is we and La's french for yes and I used to say it when the girls asked me to teach them how to swim. Ha. Ha.

The studies up here are different Hen than they were in the H. S. at Spiveyville. The profs don't seem to care a awful lot whether you get your lessons or no. They seem to think that school will keep even if 1 fellow fails to hand in his problems. But I guess they keep a little tab on you for I got three yellow envelopes the other day and inside of them was a slip that said my grade for the first 4 wks was F and to come see my dean which is the same as the principle in H. S. I don't see why he wants to see me because a fellow told me that F means fair but I suppose that he wants to tell me to keep up the good work and Im going out to see him tomorrow and you bet I will give the Spiveyville H. S. the credit for the good start I have got in my studies.

I am taking Military Science up here and all the Freshmen are to and some of the Sophomores who were in the S. A. T. C. and I guess you know what that was and to here them tell it is was quite a army and they are nearly all corporals that were in it. I have herd a lot of talk about that S. A. T. C. being a joke but those corporals seem to take what they learned there awful serious and my corporal is a ex S. A. T. C. man and he took my squad out last time and taught us to do right shoulder HUP in 4 counts and also how to do left face HUP. Its very simple for instance when you do left face HUP the corporal says left face and you feel of your hand to see which one is your left side and then he says HUP and you watch the fellow beside you to see which way he turns and then you turn the same way and the corporal says rotten and makes you do it again. Its good dope though and some of the kaydet officers must be awful brave men and thats no dream I suppose you want to know why I think they are brave and I will tell you. If they weren't brave men and not afraid of anything they would not have the courage to go out and wald on such thin legs as they have got and the leather leggins they wear how up their legs awful plain.

Well Hen I must knock off and do some studying and keep up the good record with those 3 Fs and I want to rite home and tell the folks about it and maybe they wont kick so much in the money I am spending but it just goes Hen and I don't know where it goes. Well rite me a good letter and tell me all the news for I am still interested in the old home town even if I am up here circulating around in a larger plain of even s and you wouldn't believe how polished am getting and I guess the old proverb a rolling stone gathers no moss but it gets a hell of a polish is about right, I remain, Your old pal,
Jack Brennan.

Experiment with Sheep

In order to study the different methods of feeding corn for fattening sheep, the agronomy department will begin an experiment in corn feeding. The experiment will consist of four lots of sheep, fed as follows: Lot 1, shelled corn, in self feeder; Lot 2, ground corn in self feeder; Lot 3, shelled corn hand fed; Lot 4, ground corn hand fed. All of these lots will receive alfalfa hay and linseed oil meal as roughness.

ANXIOUS AGGIE

Editor Collegian: The question is, how is the combination of the monocle and freshman cap going to look? We predict an epidemic of smoked glasses, worn by all who have to gaze upon the freshman journalist in all his glory.—Anxious Aggie.

Dear Anxious Aggie—There are so many peculiar combinations to be seen on the campus that the contrast between the freshman headgear and the tortoise shell monocle, won't be so very noticeable. For instance, the other day a certain girl came to school with a big black hat chucked down tightly on her head, a bright green crepe de chine waist came next, while her skirt was a reddish-black one. It is almost deplorable to say that her stockings were black and her shoes white. She wore glasses. Can you beat it?

They shall not be eligible to receive their diplomas until their books have been so audited and the money so deposited with the business office. All outstanding bills against the senior class or the Royal Purple shall thereafter be paid from these funds by the business office upon written order of the proper officers of the senior class or Royal Purple staff.

The surplus funds of each organization shall remain in the custody of the business office until all outstanding claims against the senior class or Royal Purple have been satisfied; after which they shall be deposited with whatever college fund has been designated, until called for to be used for a purpose determined by the senior class. The funds shall then be delivered to the committee authorized to put them to such use.

The senior class shall determine what college fund shall have the use of its balance of funds. If the senior class fails to designate a fund to have use of any balance in its treasury the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs may after twelve months designate what fund shall have the custody and use of such balance of funds, provided that a quorum of the class may at any commencement make a disposition of the funds for some purpose benefiting the College.

Founders Day Banquet

Delta Zeta Celebrated Founders' Day with a formal banquet at the Gillett Hotel Thursday evening, at 7:15. Covers were laid for twenty nine. The fraternity flower, Killarney roses, formed the centerpiece for the table, and place cards decorated with pink roses helped to carry out the general scheme of decoration.

Miss Izil Polson acted as toast-mistress, and at the close of evening the current number of The Lambda Lanterna, the publication of the local chapter of Delta Zeta. Toasts were given by the president, Miss Carolyn Lear, of Stafford, who spoke for the seniors, Miss Hazel Wilson, of Luray, who gave the freshman response, and by Lyle Hoag Jordan, and Miss Ruth Hutchings, both of Manhattan.

Aggie Wildcats Are Ready for Jaybird Big Rooter Meeting Is on for Tonight

PEP MEETING TO BE CORKER

WILL BURY K. U. JINX AFTER ROOTERS HAVE FINISHED

PRESIDENT JARDINE WILL TALK

"Mike" Ahearn Will Be in Charge of the Meeting—That Means It Will Either Be Full of Pep or Be Abandoned

Tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium the biggest pep meeting ever held on the K. S. A. C. campus will be staged. At least 2,000 people should be there and help root and learn the K. U. yells.

The meeting will be in charge of "Mike" Ahearn, and that means that the rooters' gathering will either be full of pep or the meeting will be dismissed.

President Jardine will be one of the speakers. The president always gives a good live speech worth listening to. Coaches Clevenger and Schulz will also be on the program.

The meeting will have many features such as learning the K. U. yells, but the big part of the meeting will be the burying of the K. U. jinx—a stunt planned by Elmer Kittell, a former Aggie yell leader. All lights will be turned off except a bright one which will be thrown on the jinx as it is lowered into the ground. The college whistles and sirens will be tooted—so listen for the weird noises.

And every Aggie be out for the rooter meeting tonight.

K. U. OFFENSE RATHER WEAK

BUT DEFENSE IS PRACTICALLY IMPREGNABLE, KANSAN SAYS

Special Story to the Collegian Tells of Conditions of Team—Lawrence Is Centering All Interest upon the Aggie-K. U. Game

In a special story from the sport editor of the University Daily Kansan to the Collegian, the Kansan says:

Lawrence, football mad as it has been all season, is even more alive this week with discussions of the annual tangle of the Jayhawkers and the Aggie Wildcats on McCook field next Saturday. The scoreless ties of the games with Washburn and Ames have developed the fact that Kansas has an impenetrable defense, but that under some conditions at least, the offense cannot get going.

The backfield to start the game Saturday afternoon will probably be the same one that went against Ames: Tad Reid, overseas man who played a fine defensive game against Ames at full; Mandeville, fleet Oklahoma half who is playing such fast ball this season; and Pringle, who bucked the Wildcat line to such good effect in 1917, at half positions. Walter Wood will probably take the pilot position at quarter. This backfield averages around 165 pounds, with Pringle, 185 pounds, and Wood, 140 pounds, the extremes.

The impenetrable K. U. defense will probably stay the same as it has been through the season so far. Captain Scrubby Laslett and Arthur Lonberg, K. U. kickers, will be on the wing positions, George Nettles, all valley tackle in 1917, and George Kampert, heavier and almost as good as Nettles, will play tackles. Ruble, and Wint Smith, giant overseas veterans, have had the call on the guard positions through the season, and "Red" Hart will hold down the flipping position.

The line, lightened by the two light ends, will not average over 175 pounds, but their sterling worth has been proven in the defensive play of the season to date.

Jayhawk Painters Didn't Have the Luck Aggies Did

"Beat K. U." This age old adage has been painted around town on the walks and in conspicuous places. Some one had put it there as an expression of his pep, and backed by a firm belief that this year it will be done. There it rested in peace, pleasing and inspiring to the eye of the passers by.

But Act II opens and the scene is changed from an Aggie slogan of possibilities to a negative one. Some genius who loved to daub in paints and pigments, added the phrase, "It can't be done." In fact it was while two of them were engaged in placing this last touch to the signs that an Aggie student caught them. He was highly indignant and so clearly asserted his indignation that the two painters called for help. At this four more of them showed up. Then the embryo pugilist showed more discretion, and took a hasty parting, making the remark, "I'll get my gang." And he started in the direction of Aggieville for reinforcements.

A crowd was soon gathered, and by combining all of the detective geniuses they arrived at the solution of the case. Six K. U. students had invaded the Aggie camp and defaced Aggie signs. Upon being caught in the act they left town in their flivver which headed in the direction of Lawrence.

It was suggested that the crowd go to K. U. and show them that we were in earnest when we said, "Beat K. U." Next came a mad rush for paint and brushes. Some one produced a brush from his hip pocket just as though he had been carrying it for that occasion. Paint was a more difficult proposition.

Every one was demanding paint, but few offering valuable suggestions as to where it could be found at that time of night. Suddenly one of the gang said, "Wait! I'm gonna get some paint," and he tore off at a run. He went up an alley, tip-toed to a garage, and cautiously opened the door and switched on the light. After a little searching a pint of the desired hue was found. With this tucked under his arm he ran back to the crowd. "I got it. Let's go," he said.

They went; they returned. They quietly entered the town and did their work. No one in the enemy camp saw them come or go.

But when the haughty six, late of the Manhattan expedition, went sleepy eyed to class the next morning they were horrified to see just how artistic those Aggie sign writers can be. The rest of the student body was just as much horrified, but they did not perhaps understand the real cause.

"Beware of the Wildcats," "Beat K. U. Aggies," "Aggies," and such gems of wit met them face to face as they came in view of their favorite bulletin board Monday morning.

scared this year. A Lawrence dispatch to the Kansas City Star says:

"The call has gone out for 'K' men to come back and aid in coaching the Jayhawkers for the big games that are to come, the Kansas Aggies this week, the Oklahoma Sooners next weeks and then in quick succession the Cornhuskers and the Tigers. Last night Forrest C. Allen, general manager and director of athletics at the university, sent the following telegram to twenty-five or thirty K. U. gridiron stars of other days:

"The Kansas Aggies loom formidable. Will you not respond to your old alma mater's call to return this week to aid in turning the invaders back? Our need is exceptionally urgent. Wonderful material slowly but surely developing. We need the punch. Don't disappoint. Come."

"The game with the Aggies at Lawrence Saturday is the game the university wants to win. What matters other victories if the Aggies be permitted to come into Lawrence and trample Kansas under their cleated shoes on McCook field? The Aggies have a wonderful kicker, probably the greatest scoring kicker in football today, and it will take all K. U. has, going at its best speed, to repel the hungry Aggies.

Coaches McCarty and Lindsey are whipping the team into shape and believe they will have the eleven ready for the Aggies Saturday, but they want to make sure and if the old K. U. players answer the call, as they are expected to do, Kansas coaches say the Aggies will be turned back sure."

THE JINX NOT TO WIN FOR K. U. THIS YEAR

AGGIE STARS HAVE SHOWN MUCH BETTER THAN K. U.'S

1500 ROOTERS TO LAWRENCE

Since 1906 the Wildcats Have Failed to Pluck the Jayhawk but this Year It Will Be Plucked Feather
by Feather

The Aggie rooters will appear on McCook field at Lawrence fifteen hundred strong tomorrow, uproariously supporting the Wildcat team which has concentrated all its energy towards the Jayhawker game.

Ever since 1906 the Aggies have had hopes of plucking that Jayhawk bird. Luck has always been with the K. U. eleven and the Aggies have been on the small end of the score although on several occasions it was only a slight margin.

The big question before the K. S. A. C. student body is, "Is that jinx still following us?"

There is a feeling this year, stronger than ever before, that the Aggies have an even break with K. U. so far as luck is concerned. Pep like that exhibited at the Baker game and the Missouri contest will drive away most any jinx. Aggie enthusiasm has soared higher than ever before and when the time for the final punch comes the Aggie spirit will carry it over.

K. U. Not Showing Up

K. U. is not making the showing this year that she has in years past. Old grads are being urged to return and help with the coaching and help in still the old spirit in the gang. They need it. K. U. has fewer outstanding stars than in former years. Eligibility rules have been bothering the Jayhawkers and they are less confident of victory than ever before.

K. U. has been handicapped in all

K. U. has two strong men in Laslett and Lonberg at ends but the Aggies have three stars in Bogue, Enlow, and Randels, who are dangerous on both the defense and offense. In Gatz and Roda Coach Schulz has two of the best linemen in the Valley. Hutto played a great game at Washington U. and Gingery starred in the Missouri game. Winters has also been showing up well at tackle.

The showing K. U. made against Ames should boost Aggie stock. The Aggies tied Missouri with a crippled eleven and Missouri beat Ames 10 to 0 but K. U. was only able to hold Ames to a scoreless toe. Washburn held the Jayhawkers to a scoreless tie but had great difficulty in piling up a 13 to 0 score against Baker. The Aggies romped on Baker for a 16 to 0 score and used substitutes for a part of the game.

GALLAGHER AND HINDS GET FAVORABLE COMMENT

Kansas City Star Praises Two Aggie Half Backs

The Kansas City Star last Tuesday had the following article:

"In Halfback Hinds Coaches Clevenger and Schulz of the Kansas Aggies have a player who is a powerful factor in a running attack. Hinds, like his teammate, Gallagher, has fine speed, and this, coupled with a shift and excellent dodging ability, makes him a dangerous man. Hinds is one of the Aggies hopes for the game against K. U. at Lawrence Saturday. Kansas also has a player of the Hinds type in Walter Wood, its quarter back."

The Star also gave Gallagher credit as being one of the star players in the Kansas games last Saturday.

WAREHAM HAS ELECTRIC SIGN TO HELP THE AGGIES

Flashes "Beat" then "K," then "U," and then "Beat K. U."

Downtown people are as enthusiastic to beat K. U. this year as the students in K. S. A. C. An electric sign bearing the words "Beat K. U." may be seen from nearly any place in town, flashing its slogan from a high position on top of the Wareham building. The sign has a four circuit flash, first showing "Beat" then "K," then "U," and then "Beat K. U."

The sign was devised by Herbert Huston, brother of Dewey Huston, and was made in the Tri-Electric shops. It is 14 feet high and three feet wide.

Form County Club

Students from Wabaunsee county met October 3, and organized a county club. The purpose of the club is to become better acquainted while in school. When they return home the plan is to continue the social gatherings. In this way the home folks will become personally acquainted with K. S. A. C.

The following officers were elected: President, Franz Maas; vice president, Dorothy Moseley; secretary, Everett Billings; treasurer, Earl McWilliams. Their first social event was a hike to Wildcat. All report a good time with plenty of eats. Prof. E. S. West and Miss Ruth Hurd chaperoned the party.

her games this season by heavy penalties, in some contests the penalties amounting to over one hundred yards. This fact coupled with the failure of the line to plunge together will place the Jayhawkers at a disadvantage.

Aggie Line Holds

"Germany" Schulz has coached the Aggie line until it hits in unison like a huge battering ram. It was this well drilled line that kept Washington U.'s yards gained from plunges below that of the Aggies.

The only outstanding backfield men on the K. U. eleven are Mandeville and Wood, halfback and quarterback. Coach Clevenger has Burton, Gallagher, Hinds, E. Cowell, and Hixson who have all starred in games this year as well as in other seasons. In addition to the scoring backfield the Aggies have another scoring machine in the shape of Huston's toe.

L. L. Comfort Here
L. L. Comfort of Kit Carson, Colorado, the father of Captain Edwin Comfort, one of the Aggie graduates who gave his life in France, was in Manhattan last week. Captain Comfort graduated in civil engineering in 1914. Captain Comfort enlisted as a private for service on the Mexican border. He was awarded a lieutenant's commission at Leavenworth in 1917, and went over with General Pershing. Captain Comfort was awarded the croix de guerre and other recognitions of his bravery. He was killed at Soissons, July 18, 1918.

TO THE JAYHAWKERS

Jayhawks, we come to your school with a good team and a good rooting crowd. It is the Aggie policy to be clean in yelling, football, and all associations.

If the Wildcats are victorious the yelling and pep displayed will be the kind that is commendable. And if your eleven is again victorious, we will gladly congratulate you and extend you a cordial welcome to Manhattan for next year.

If any thing has been said in this special football edition of the paper, that any student in the University thinks is "playing dirty" please let us know. We have made this edition of the paper to help the Aggie spirit along—and we hope it works.

READY—YES!

Are they ready for K. U.? Just watch 'em step. Pep, lots of it. They're rarin' to go. Roda is in there running signals and Charley Enlow is getting those long passes. Is that Stiff out there? No, his brother, Proc, well you couldn't tell the difference. Say can't he get those passes though. They tell me that that young Randels boy played some game on the defense too last Saturday. What was that streak around end there? Gallagher, huh I thought it was a forward pass going low. You say he is a record breaker for the fifty yard dash, well I believe it now. How can that boy twist and squirm so much? It's Burton, oh that explains it. Is that Burton again, it's Hinds you say, well how many of these go getters has Clevenger got? Haven't seen 'em all yet, well I declare where are these other schools getting their football material? Looks like the Aggies have a monopoly. You say E. Cowell made a 60 yard run for a touchdown at St. Louis, why do you call him E. Oh, to distinguish from his "little" brother Warren who is some punkin at playing quarter when Ding is out. Who is that good looking little fellow that goes rip-snorthing thru the line? Quinlan! That fellow Hixson throws that ball like a French 55 doesn't he? Say you don't mean to tell me that fellow thinks he can kick a goal from the 55 yard line, why he did it, what's his name, Huston, well I'll never forget that name. Wasn't it a pretty one? Is that big fellow running down on a punt a dash man too, oh Ike Gatz, well he is a pretty speedy man for a tackle. Looks like those big husky Freshmen ought to stop that Varsity better than that but that old Varsity just naturally has the pep.

HELP THE RED CROSS

For thousands of years the soil of the countries lying about the Mediterranean, "the cradle of civilization," has been under intensive cultivation, but in all that time little has been done to enrich it. Modern methods are unknown; rotation of crops unheard-of. As a result the land has become exhausted. These facts are hardly conceivable to Aggie agricultural students.

In Greece only about a fifth of the land is suitable for cultivation, and much of this is covered with a prickly bush, the phrygana, on which goats, and in some seasons, sheep, are pastured. There are no large farms, some even run as small as a half acre, and the commonest methods of working the land are those that were in use in Biblical times. You don't have to have two hands to be a cheer leader.

Ray B. Watson of Wichita, who is cheer leader for the Kansas Aggies disproves this theory every time the farmers meet an opponent in football or basketball.

Watson who is a junior has only one whole arm but nevertheless he is the peepiest of Aggie cheer leaders. At every college football and basketball game Watson may be seen smiling and yelling.

When he was a sophomore in high school and was just beginning to realize a few of his dreams of football and basketball honors the powder accident happened which blew off his right arm just a few inches below the elbow.

It was not until his second year in college that an ambition to play a part in the athletics of the school again was aroused. He decided to go out for track work with the determination of being a winner.

FIVE K. U. MEN ARE JAILED NOW

NOW RESTING PEACABLY IN AGGIE FRATERNITY HOUSES

ALL GAVE NAME OF SMITH

Smith Family, Mostly from Phi Psi House, Tried to Paint Aggie Walks, but Made Miserable Failure of It

Five K. U. fraternity men, all of whom gave their names as Smith, are now imprisoned in Aggie fraternity houses and will be held there until after the Aggie-Jayhawk game Saturday afternoon. They were caught here last night with paint and brushes, ready to paint the Aggie campus.

The trouble, or rather fun, started when the K. U. men, most of whom belong to the Phi Psi fraternity, didn't keep still when they should. A Manhattan doctor, coming through Lawrence, heard a rumor that the Jayhawks intended to come to K. S. A. C. and paint the walks with "Beat the Aggies" signs. The doctor posed as a traveling man, and the K. U. men proceeded to unfold their plans to him.

A telegram from the Manhattan doctor warned the Aggies to be on the alert. Every fraternity was notified, and the chase started at 9:30. The K. U. attack on the Aggies was so unsuccessful that they didn't even get near the campus—they were afraid to. At 11 o'clock three of the men were caught, taken to a fraternity house and locked up. At 1 o'clock this morning one other man was caught down town and the fourth was caught at 5:30, when he attempted to get away on the train.

About fifty fraternity men guarded the Aggie campus all night and the K. U. men were afraid to attack—it will be the same in tomorrow's football game, watch the Aggies win!

Five other K. U. men succeeded in making good their escape. They stayed hid until the 5:30 train came through on the Rock Island. They caught the train just as it pulled out of town.

Saw Prince of Wales

W. J. Bucklee returned Monday after having spent a week in London, Ontario where he attended the review of the Canadian veterans by the Prince of Wales.

In describing his trip Mr. Bucklee said that the Canadian people were almost outdoing themselves in their efforts to show their appreciation and loyalty. He also said that the Prince himself was almost worn out, due to the many reviews and entertainments given in his honor and that his right hand was temporarily useless on account of handshaking.

Mr. Bucklee is a sophomore in school here and a member of the Sigma Phi Delta fraternity.

Tri K Initiates

The Tri K fraternity held formal initiation services Tuesday evening, October 28, at Harrison's hall for, Professors C. W. Mullen, R. L. Hensel, and R. H. Kenney, Hershel Scott, R. R. Hinde, M. E. Evans, I. K. London, P. C. Manglesdorf, A. E. Cook, Gilford Ikenberry, J. C. Snapp, F. D. Totten, D. L. Signor, Donald Thayer, Ward Fetrow, T. R. Pharr, E. H. Teagarden, and George Gemmel.

Sandwiches, salad, coffee, and cigars were served to thirty eight members, after which talks were given by Prof. C. W. Mullen of the crops department, B. S. Wilson of the soils extension work, and A. F. Turner of the extension division.

That at least one member of the student council can never again frown so sternly on infringements of the ten thirty rule, is the belief of the girls of a certain sorority, one of the members of which was recently favored with a date with a student council member. The student councilman chatted with his date for some time before going home, and the house mother, thinking it high time that her young charge was in bed politely reminded the girl's escort, whom she presumed was a freshman, of the existence of the ten thirty regulation. It is now a rule of the house that a girl having a date with a student council member shall inform the house mother of the fact.

Look Out Jayhawkers

We're giving you a timely warning, you great big husky Jays, our team has gotten used to scoring and is set in all its ways. Just look them over, tip to toe; ever see a finer crew? They make um wild, where'er they go; a shutout is nothing new. Did you hear how they tied old M. U. and made Camp Funston sick? And they'll put the stopper to you too, of you don't do something quick. Ever see our Huston kick a goal from the 54 yard line? Ever hear of Bogue and his splintered pole, if you haven't there's lots of time. We expect to win the game today, but it won't be an easy task. You've got some darned good men to play. Your best is all we ask. When the day is over, and the great game won and to leave you, we don our hats. We'll tell you, you've got a good team—everyone. But they're not quite as wild as the Aggie Wildcats.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1919

TO THE JAYHAWKERS

Jayhawks, we come to your school with a good team and a good rooting crowd. It is the Aggie policy to be clean in yelling, football, and all associations.

If the Wildcats are victorious the yelling and pep displayed will be the kind that is commendable. And if your eleven is again victorious, we will gladly congratulate you and extend you a cordial welcome to Manhattan for next year.

If any thing has been said in this special football edition of the paper, that any student in the University thinks is "playing dirty" please let us know. We have made this edition of the paper to help the Aggie spirit along—and we hope it works.

READY—YES!

Are they ready for K. U.? Just watch 'em step. Pep, lots of it. They're rarin' to go. Roda is in there running signals and Charley Enlow is getting those long passes. Is that Stiff out there? No, his brother, Proc, well you couldn't tell the difference. Say can't he get those passes though. They tell me that that young Randels boy played some game on the defense too last Saturday. What was that streak around end there? Gallagher, huh I thought it was a forward pass going low. You say he is a record breaker for the fifty yard dash, well I believe it now. How can that boy twist and squirm so much? It's Burton, oh that explains it. Is that Burton again, it's Hinds you say, well how many of these go getters has Clevenger got? Haven't seen 'em all yet, well I declare where are these other schools getting their football material? Looks like the Aggies have a monopoly. You say E. Cowell made a 60 yard run for a touchdown at St. Louis, why do you call him E. Oh, to distinguish from his "little" brother Warren who is some punkin at playing quarter when Ding is out. Who is that good looking little fellow that goes rip-snooting thru the line? Quinlan! That fellow Hixson throws that ball like a French 55 doesn't he? Say you don't mean to tell me that fellow thinks he can kick a goal from the 55 yard line, why he did it, what's his name, Huston, well I'll never forget that name. Wasn't it a pretty one? Is that big fellow running down on a punt a dash man too, oh like Gatz, well he is a pretty speedy man for a tackle. Looks like those big husky Freshmen ought to stop that Varsity better than that but that old Varsity just naturally has the pepper.

HELP THE RED CROSS

For thousands of years the soil of the countries lying about the Mediterranean, "the cradle of civilization," has been under intensive cultivation, but in all that time little has been done to enrich it. Modern methods are unknown; rotation of crops unheard-of. As a result the land has become exhausted. These facts are hardly conceivable to Aggie agricultural students.

In Greece only about a fifth of the land is suitable for cultivation, and much of this is covered with a prickly bush, the phrygana, on which goats, and in some seasons, sheep, are pastured. There are no large farms, some even run as small as a half acre, and the commonest methods of working the land are those that were in use in Biblical times. Grape and currant vineyards take up a large proportion of the land. Preserved olives, eaten with bread, form one of the chief articles of food eaten by the lower classes. On an average, the olive tree yields a good crop every three to six years.

Recently the American Red Cross, cooperating with the Greek government, made a survey of the agricultural possibilities of the country. The soil was studied in widely separated localities, and suggestions made for the development of new crops and cropping methods. Plans for schools of agriculture along lines suggested by the Americans are under consideration, and the whole future development of farming in Greece is expected to rest on the findings of these experts. The island of Crete, which has over a thousand square miles of tillable land, was also studied.

This work, which with farming instruction and the supplying of seeds and agricultural machinery, has been part of the Red Cross program in seven other countries of Eastern Europe, is expected to prove of immense value in producing large quantities of food, so that these states may be more nearly self-supporting, and will never again suffer from famine as they have during the recent war.

Herbert C. Helmcamp who graduated from flour mill engineering just before entering the army was a visitor at the college Saturday afternoon. Mr. Helmcamp is now doing federal government work in connection with the U. S. Department of Agriculture with headquarters at Kansas City. His work consists of inspecting mills and elevators for conditions which cause fires and dust explosions.

SCHULTZ IS NEW QUARTER

FRESHMAN TEAM BUMPED THE VARSITY THIS WEEK

Forward Pass Practiced Until It Has Been Perfected—Team at Scrimmage Proves To Be in Best Shape Possible

The Aggie Wildcats have been scrimmaging until dark this week preparing for the game of games at Lawrence Saturday. Coaches Schulz and Clevenger have been after the men every minute putting pep into the bunch and watching every detail of the play. Germany even played center on the freshman squad a quarter in order to give the Varsity a real stiff workout.

A great deal of time was put in on the forward pass. Before scrimmage was over the Aggies had it working to perfection. The art of running interference was drilled into the men. New plays were perfected and straight football reviewed.

The outstanding feature of this week's scrimmage has been the drive and pep the coaches have been putting into the team. Fight and pep appear in every other word or act. Spectators marveled at the great change. Competition is keen for places on the team for the greatest game of the year.

The men on the casualty list last week are all back in their old places. Roda will play his old position of guard. Enlow's rib has healed and he is running down the field in old time form. Hinds will be in tip top shape for the first whistle. Burton will run the team at quarter. E. Cowell will probably be on the line-up.

Coach Clevenger has been taking extraordinary care of his men this week in order that not a single man will be out on account of injuries.

Seventeen men of the freshman varsity are to be taken to Lawrence as a reward for their efforts in putting up a fight against the Varsity. Such men as Schmidts, Marshall, Hon, Sites, Stonberg, Bruce, McGuire, the Bayers, Price, and Gork make up this fighting bunch.

Debate Societies

The Forum society is an organization of debaters which was started here in 1912 by Prof. J. W. Searson, of the English department. To qualify for membership to this organization a student must have obtained at least one semester's credit for work on the squad. The purpose of the Forum is to advance the interest of debate wherever possible and to give its members further training in public speaking.

The Pi Kappa Delta honorary debating fraternity is composed of men who have distinguished themselves in intercollegiate contests. The Zeta Kappa Psi is a similar society of girls. These two organizations do considerable work for all forensic activities.

The eight literary societies of the college, composed of nearly five hundred students, help finance and create an interest in the debates. They are planning this year to have some combined meetings at which plans will be made for getting the whole student body behind the debaters.

APPROVES THE CONSTITUTION

IS RESULT OF AMENDMENT OF PREVIOUS ARTICLES

Should Be Considered and Changes
Sent to Council—Will Be Voted on Soon

The constitution of the Student Self Governing association, which was published in the last issue of the Collegian, is the result of revision and amendment, by the president and Board of Administration of the college, of the constitution which was adopted by the student body last spring.

The president and Board of Administration prepared changes to the constitution which would meet their approval and submitted them to the student council. The council has taken these changes favorably and is now putting the matter before the student body for its consideration.

After sufficient time for the meditation has elapsed, a mass meeting of the students will be called. The matter will be voted upon at this meeting. If the constitution is again adopted by the student body, it will be submitted by the council to the President for his approval. If no radical amendments are made, it is thought that it will be approved by the President and Board of Administration.

The student council desires that all students, and especially the different student organizations—literary societies, fraternities, Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. etc.—carefully consider the revised constitution and submit any changes that they wish to have considered to the student council.

When Mr. Dresser opened the door of his home in response to the ringing of the bell, expecting to meet a friend with whom had an appointment, he was greeted with a lusty cheer by the en-

Rags And Rover Green As Clover Snoozed All Over

For convenience as well as for appropriateness we shall call them Rover and Rags. And be it said in further explanation, they were all that the names imply. They were also of the dog family and of the much despised but nevertheless prolific genus, cur. They came to college, and as a great many others have done, that was as far as they came in all probabilities.

Rover strolled leisurely into the current periodical room of the library, gazed calmly around with an analytical eye and finally decided that the southwest corner of the library suited his particular purpose. In accordance with this decision he continued his leisurely stroll till he reached the desired corner, whereupon, dog fashion, he turned around two or three times in an attempt to arrange the imaginary straw of his proposed resting place, and finally lay down to rest. His empty stomach had no sooner plunged him into sweet dreams of an eternity of meat laden bones than his companion in poverty, Rags, came in and joined in the peaceful slumber.

These two dogs may have been enrolled as special students, but the records have not been consulted. In all points of the law they were vagrants. They were not only loafing but they were occupying perfectly good space in so doing. They were, as a result of their actions, eligible for graduation at the end of a boot.

Now let us consider a praiseworthy element in the methods of these two canines, temporarily sheltered from cruel buffeting of an inconsiderate world. Their praiseworthy element was their absolute frankness of purpose. They did not pretend to be hunting for rats, or searching for a square meal. They were merely after sleep and repose without any attempt to disguise the facts of the case or to camouflage their actions. Now let us look to the moral of our story. Do what you do without any attempt to disguise your purpose or make false footprints. If that purpose is to do nothing then do it with a thoroughness so complete that no one will doubt that purpose. The man who does nothing at least doesn't mess up things for the other fellow to clean up. If you go to class to sleep then take your bed along; if you go to recite then take your head along, and use it.

Eastern football coaches are puzzled as to the reason why so many of the star football players have been put on the disabled list this year. They believe that the boys have either brought too much "Yankee punch" back from France or the hardships of army experience have undermined them physically. Yale has eleven star players unavailable this year on account of injuries and Harvard has three regulars and several substitutes in the infirmary. None of the injuries are serious, consisting largely of pulled muscles and slight bone fractures.

A man discovered, after his marriage that his wife wrote poetry but he couldn't do anything about it then; he had taken her for better or for verse.

NINE cases out of ten, the man who once smokes a WDC Pipe becomes a life member of the WDC club. He can't help it, because a WDC is certainly a man's size smoke. It's as sweet and mellow as carefully selected French briar and expert seasoning can make it. Not only material of the first water, but craftsmanship of the highest order, and designs that are most pleasing—all combine to make the WDC Pipe a smoke of peace, contentment and satisfaction. A man's smoke. Any good dealer will confirm this.

GO TO K. U. ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Eight Hundred Can Go By Special—Others By Cars

Free Shines Will Be Given Away as Fare of Special Train—Road from Here to Lawrence to be Sprinkled with Purple and White

How many years has it been since you had all the laugh you wanted, were as foolish as you could be, had all the pep you wanted, and all the good time you wanted? Probably a good many years but you will have a chance to renew old sensations if you take that special train to the K. U. game next Saturday. It will be a typical college crowd on a vacation with one great purpose, to beat K. U.

The "Go Beat K. U." club has arranged for a special train to leave Manhattan at 8:00 Saturday morning and arrive at Lawrence at 11:00. All tickets are good on the special but the special tickets are good only on the special. Both kinds are on sale at the college canteen. One of the features of the special will be a shining parlor with free "Beat K. U." shines. Of course if you want to give Joe Cooper a dime for it that will be all right. Tickets for the game will be on sale on the train. The band will furnish music.

Byron Dudley is the official pathfinder for the motorists who are going down. Byron will scatter purple and white confetti at all turns to mark the way. The officials of the "Go Beat K. U." club guarantee the pathfinder's ability on that morning.

Tickets for the game and railroad tickets will be on sale at the college canteen. Reserved seat tickets will be $1.50 and a round trip ticket $5.19. Fraternities, sororities, and other organizations have already ordered almost two hundred tickets.

It is estimated that 1500 hundred K. S. A. C. students will see the game at Lawrence. Eight coaches have been arranged for and if the crowd going on the special exceeds eight hundred additional coaches will be obtained. One coach has been reserved for the team.

DEAR OLD HEN

Dear Old Hen: Well Hen I don't feel much like writing tonight but I feel even less like studying and that's the way I feel a hole lot of the time so I guess I will tear off a few lines just to let you know that I am still alive and going strong. I am all bunged up Hen from this fiscal education which several of the bright Sophomores call fiscal tortur and they don't miss it so far at that. If they ever want me to take fiscal education and I don't half to they will half to burn the brush and sift the ashes to find me. I half to take this fiscal education dope twice a wk. And they take us out on the football field in a little pair of white track pants and a black jersey without any sleeves in it and a pair of tennis shoes and teach you how to scrimmage and its hard on your fisc I aint kidding you a bit. Some of the boys gets real reckless and starts to playing like something depended on it and if im playing opposite them I generally get skinned up. Ever since the last time I was out I have been feeling like I had the prohibition fever. I guess you don't know what that disease is Hen but I herd about it at the Marshall vaudevil show and its when your joints are all closed up. I guess thats pretty poor hey Hen.

Well Hen the Freshmans caps are here and the sophs are telling we freshmen to be loyal Aggies for a dollar and a dime and wear the caps but it looks to me like that is a little steep a price for loyalty if them dome coverings is loyalty but they have got a awful nice sweat band in them and they keep you from getting all wet sometimes and I guess I will half to walk up like a little man and spog for mine.

You want to learn how to dance before you ever come up here Hen for thats very day rig gear up here and thats French for being in style like a fellow is when he brings his own hard cider to a party in Spiveyville. Its suprising how quick a fellow can learn to dance. You know I never went to any dances but barn dances in Spiveyville but I went to one here at Jonnies which is where they hold the College dances here and got away in fine shape just like I used to when I had the only Ford in Spiveyville. I asked the girl who works next to me in chemistry lab to go with me and she is a dream and wears her hair in puffs over her ears and bangs on her forehead and a red sweater with a blue ribbon above her left elbow. We went up to Jonnies and introduced ourself to the faculty members who were shaperoning and started to dance and its just like marching in military sience only you count 1 2 instead of 1 2 3 4 and you sometimes get your feet tangled up on the corners. There was a awful crowd up there and several big dubs bumped into me and I would see some one coming at me and I would try to get out of there way and someone else would bump me from behind but I would look at them real mad and they would go on without a word and just laugh about it. I danced 3 dances and was getting along like an Irishman at a wake held before the thirty-first of July but my girl got a headache. She said she had felt it coming on right after we started dancing but she thought perhaps it would improve after we got started but it seemed to get worse and she would half to go home. She was a mighty popular girl and a swell dancer for everybody smiled at her and I asked her to go to the dance with me next wk. but she said she had a date but I got a date with her for to wks. from that time.

Well Hen I have found out where you get those badges to wear on your shirtfront only you cant get them unless you belong to a fraternity which is a kind of a lodge that only college fellows can belong to and it must be a great thing and the fellows that belong to each lodge stand by one another and help them out. Just to show you how they stick together: in one of my classes in trigernometry, which dont have nothing to do with military sience either, three fellows which wears the same badges sit together in a row and we had a quiz the other day and the professor said that the only ones which the 2nd problem right was those three fellows. I guess thats team work hey Hen.

I got some medicine the other day Hen and it says to take it a day and skip a day and this is my day to skip so I guess I will skip out to Georges and get a quart of silinder oil and a couple of spare tires which is what the boys up here say when they want cuppa coffee and a couple of doughnuts. Georges is a fine place and you hear from all the students there when they serve soup. Ha Ha. Write soon and oblige, our old pal,

Jack Brennan.

P. S. I just got an awful blow Hen. I come back from Georges and found a note to call up a place on the telephone and I did and it was the girl I had a date with for two weeks from now and she broke the date because her folks was coming to see her but I hope they are blind. Well I guess theres as good fish in the sea as have ever been caught but im not going to be a poor fish any more and fall for the wilds of the femania spices. I hope to be axfiscated with florine gas if I do.

LOOK INTO THIS

Editor of the Collegian:—A week ago last Tuesday evening at the senior class meeting about one third of the total membership of the senior class was present and seventy-five per cent of those present were of the editorial staff of the class book (Royal Purple). A fifteen dollar assessment was levied on each senior for the class book without a financial report of any kind. The members of the staff that made the motion that that about that amount would be sufficient from each senior.

It is a mystery to all members of the class, except the editorial staff, where all this money goes to outside of the salary for the staff members? Their idea seems to be that the more expensive they make the class book the better the class will like it. A college is a mighty poor place to start a principal of this kind for combating the H. C. L. when the financial status of the members of the student body is unusually low.

If this class book work was a little more widely distributed among the student body and not so much highly paid distinguished few this fifteen dollar assessment would be cut down considerable.—A Senior.

To the Collegian Staff: Congratulations on the new Collegian. It is the "peppiest," "spiciest," "newsiest," and by far the most complete ever produced. My copy is passed on each week to former Aggies here and they pronounce the same verdict.—C. C. Brewer, Chicago Ill.

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 22.—Editor Collegian—As a former student and a present subscriber to the Collegian, I wish to send my congratulations on the splendid paper being published this year. It is better than any of the Collegians of former years, both in general interest and style of make-up. So far, I have yet to see its equal in bi-weekly publications. Here's hoping the good work keeps up and if possible, further improvements follow.—H. W. Alexander.

Dear Editor: Why doesn't the college give a regular weekly dance on the hill for the students? The college restricts the students to dances designated as students dances, but there is only one place and one time in the week that the students are allowed to dance. Now every one that has danced at Harrison's knows that the place is too crowded for those who do go there and every one knows that there are many more students who want to dance and who would dance if they had somewhere else to dance. Why could not the college hold a regular weekly dance at one of the several suitable places on the hill and let the dancers pay enough to cover the expenses? I have talked to a number of students who would like to see some other arrangement for dancing and since the college permits dancing on the campus why would not something like this meet with approval?

Dear Editor: The crying need of the day is proper appreciation of citizenship responsibility by the masses of people.

It is the duty of every citizen to take an active part in community affairs and an interest in community welfare. The person who does not is a citizen slacker. As a consequence of the failure of the masses of people to properly respond to their duties as citizens we have corruptions and graft and inefficiency in the high places of the nation's affairs.

And we will have proper appreciation of the responsibilities of citizenship on the part of the masses only if we have intelligent leadership. The colleges are developing that leadership to a greater degree than any other institution. Loyalty to our college and an active interest in its welfare is the part the students should foster in every way possible. I know of no better way to do this than that of making this a self governing institution. I think that every class should discuss the student self governing constitution, section by section, eliminate the undesirable features and then act. Let us do this now and without delay. The adoption of a student self government plan by this institution would be a great step forward. It would make this college the leader of the mid-western colleges, in the development of leaders. A citizen of K. S. A. C.

Editor Collegian. Many prize cups and other trophies have been won by the different departments of the college this year and in years past. The need is being felt more than ever for a place where these trophies can be exhibited. It has been suggested that trophy cases be put in the new addition of Anderson hall or in a room set aside for such an exhibit.

The agronomy department has over a dozen such cups and the agricultural and animal husbandry departments would greatly swell the exhibit as they have won many contests by their exhibits and stock judging teams. Another fine exhibit could be set aside for athletics.

There are six cups in the dairy hall some of them merely sitting on the top of a bookcase. The dairy department will have three more very large loving cups and will have no appropriate place to exhibit them. The cups were won by the K. S. A. C. dairy judging team which competed with fourteen other states and took first prizes, at the National Stock Judging show held at Chicago. This was a very decisive victory for the college and was the result of much hard and thorough training in dairy judging classes. The symbol of their success should be held before the eyes of all students and visitors of the college.—A Student.

Dear Editor: I have a kick coming. Now you know when there is a football game or other athletic event at the park, each division of rooters has a section of its own. They have put the freshmen on the southwest corner, the "Fighting five-hundred" on the north, and the few married people and the dates on the east end. There are a lot of us who have the extra dollar and therefore we take our dates up in the grandstand. Well, it certainly would be grand up there if it wasn't for one thing. All the old profs, get up there in the grandstand where they can be isolated and where they won't have to root for the team. Every time there is a good play several of us with dates get very much enthused and try some rooting but those profs try to frown down on us, and failing to help us in the noise the thing falls flat. I think measures should be taken to put all the profs together on the west bleachers where everyone could watch them perform and where they couldn't prevent us townpeople and the dates from making a noise.—Ambitious Aggie.

Had Pig Sale

The Manhattan Pig club had a show and sale at the college sale pavilion last Saturday. Nearly a hundred hogs were exhibited by the thirteen members of the club. President Jordine and Dean Farrell made short talks in the afternoon.

Prizes amounting to $73 were offered by the business men of Manhattan and farmers interested in the work of the Pig club. The first prize and silver cup were won by Everett Stahl and the next four winners in the following order: Norman Jones, Edward Hartley, Everett Whitney, and Ruth Davies.

G. L. Oliver of the dairy division in the United States department of agriculture visited the dairy department here for two days this week.

Prof. J. B. Fitch, of the dairy department left Wednesday for San Francisco where he will be a dairy judge at the California international live stock show.

George Hamilton, a senior in mechanical engineering, spent the week end in Topeka visiting friends.

Here Is The Younger Cowell

And Then Comes Hinds

George Hinds, alias Heinie, is a product of Pleasanton. Heinie starred first against Missouri in 1917. Last season Hinds was in an officers training school at Camp McArthur, Tex. Heinie is captain of the basketball team for the coming season.

Dewey Can Kick

Every follower of the gridiron game in the west has heard of Dewey Huston and his record breaking drop-kicking. Dewey graduated from the Manhattan high school in '18. He played on the S. A. T. C. team last season starring against Ames by kicking one of the prettiest drop-kicks in football history. Huston record for the drop-kick is 56 yards. It is Huston's toe that makes the Aggies one of the most feared of Valley elevens. Dewey is taking veterinary, is 21 years of age and lives two doors from Prof. H. H. King. Anything else needed?

Hit 'Em Cap!

Captain Joe Bogue is an old timer to football followers at K. S. A. C. He learned the rudiments of football on the School of Ag team away back in '14 and '15. Joe made a reputation for a fighter in 1917. He is one of the hardest and most conscientious players on the squad. He puts up a regular scrap in every game he plays.

How's Pete?

Pete Hixson was a little shaver in Hiawatha. He graduated there in '16 and made the Aggie squad the following year. Last season he played on the S. A. T. C. team. Hixson is a senior vet. and is 22 years of age.

He Plays Center

Another Army Man

Quinlan is Lyons Best, not flour but football player. Quin graduated from there in '16. He played freshman Varsity that fall. He went into the Army among the first. He was captain of the 353rd regimental team. Later Quin was commissioned and spent the rest of his military career at Camp Green, N. C. Quinlan is a sophomore in E. E. and is 24 years of age.

Only 23!

Hutto is another Manhattan lad. This is the first year of Varsity football but he has played considerable high school football. Hutto was in the army during last years football season. Hutto is a senior in general science. He is 23 years of age.

Chip Off the Block

Proc. Randells is a chip off the old block, the same as Stiff. Anthony proudly boasts of harboring these two youths at one time. Proc. graduated in '18 and played on the S. A. T. C. team last fall. He promises to live up to his brother's reputation. Proc. is a sophomore and is 20 years of age.

An Army Man

Herschel Scott has developed one of the most promising freshman elevens seen here in years. Scott has played enough football at Kentucky to know how it should be played. Scott was captain of the team in '13. He graduated in '15 and came to K. S. A. C. as a graduate student in the fall. He coached the freshman team in '16. He went into the Army early in 1917 and went across with the 78th F. A. of the Sixth Division.

Ike, Ike, Ike

Ike Gatz proudly proclaims that he comes from McPherson, why, we don't know. Ike played freshman Varsity in '16. He was captain of the S. A. T. C. team and was chosen as All Missouri Valley guard last season. Ike is a senior vet and is 23 years of age.

Here Comes Timothy

Timothy Murphy "grewed up" at Halstead, Riley county, or more specifically at Emma Creek. Murphy graduated from Newton high in '17. He played two games on the Varsity last year before going to Camp McArthur, Tex., to become an officer. Murphy is a junior A. H.

Rock the Ship

In Ship Winters' opinion, Lecompton is the hub of the universe. Ship graduated in '17 and came to K. S. A. C. in the fall. He played his first college football on the S. A. T. C. team. He also played guard on the basketball team last year too. Ship was a quarter miler on the track team also. Winters is a junior A. H. and is 20 years old.

Cliff's a Racer

Cliff Gallagher claims Perth as his home town. Cliff starred at Oklahoma A and M. in '16 and '17. He heard of the famous vet course at K. S. A.

C. and promptly enrolled in the Aggie school. Cliff first starred for the Aggies on the S. A. T. C. team in '18. He not only made a name for himself as a fleet football man but also as one of the fleetest track men in the country. Gallagher has equalled the indoor fifty yard record and is expected to break a hurdle record or two before he ends his college record. Gallagher is 24 years old.

He Used to Coach

Carl Roda was a fizzle headed kid on a wheat ranch near Paradise. Carl played on the school of ag. team in '14 and made freshman Varsity in '15. Roda coached the battalion team that tied the Camp Funston team in '18. Roda was champion heavy-weight wrestler of the college when he was only 17 years of age. He made the All Missouri Valley eleven in '17.

He played freshman Varsity in '17. He played on the S. A. T. C. team last season. Ding was catcher on the Varsity ball club last spring too. He is a sophomore in A. H.

He's Bald Headed

"Torb" Fletcher is another Wichita high man but is a little more ancient than Ding Burton. Torb graduated in '14, played at Friends in '14 and '15 and entered here in '16. Fletcher played center on the Love Field, Tex. team last season. He is a junior in farm engineering. Although Torb is about bald headed he is only 24 years of age.

Fat Old Boy

Fat Wise is also a Wichita man of '15. He played freshman Varsity in '15. Fat has been sharing the luck of the 12th Cavalry around Columbus, N. M., for a part of the last two years. Fat is a senior A. H. and is 23 years of age.

All About Leo

Leo Ptacek hails from Emporia high of the class of '13. He played two years on the Emporia Normal prep team. Leo played freshman Varsity in '14. In '18 Leo played fullback on the Navy team at Hampton Roads and was selected on the All Eastern Service Team. Ptacek is a senior in agronomy and is 23 years of age.

"HANK" DRESSER IS AN ALL STAR COACH NOW

Massachusetts Paper Says Dresser Is Making Football in the East Much More Lively Than Ever Before

"Hank" Dresser, son of Mrs. Alice Dresser, and well-known here as a star athlete on K. S. A. C. teams, is now director of recreation for the American Optical Company of Southbridge, Mass.

In a flattering article of over a column, The Gazette gives to Dresser the credit for "bringing back the days of real sport to the old town," the American Optical Company team now being in a fight for first place in the Triangle Industrial League.

"Hank Dresser's ability to develop hard-playing, scrapping athletic teams," it says, "comes from years of just that sort of participation in sports himself. Back in the days when 'Hank' attended Kansas Agricultural college his prowess on the gridiron and diamond earned for him a place on the varsity football and baseball teams for four years, he being captain of the baseball team in 1914, in which year he graduated with the degree of B. S. This was followed by a season of professional baseball, 'Hank' playing in the outfield for Spokane in the Northwestern league.

Coming east in the fall of 1914, Dresser entered Springfield Y. M. C. A. college, where he won a place on the varsity football and baseball teams. He was also appointed to the board of approved basketball officials for New England. Graduating from the Springfield institution in 1917, Dresser entered the aeronautical branch of the naval service and was sent to Seattle, Wash., for training to qualify him as a pilot of heavier-than-air machines. Aside from his regular duties he was given the leadership of physical education work among the men of his squadron, which kept him in trim for the work in Southbridge, upon which he entered last fall upon receiving his discharge from the service."

CORTELYOU STATE CHAIRMAN FOR PEABODY FOUNDATION

Kansas High School Students to Correspond with Youth Abroad

In recognition of his leadership in the field of modern language instruction, Dr. J. V. Cortelyou, head of the department of modern languages, has just been appointed state chairman of the National Peabody Foundation for International Educational Correspondence. His duties are to keep the foundation in touch with all the Kansas high schools where Spanish and French are taught.

Students taking Spanish and French in high school will, as a result of his work, be assisted to correspond with students in schools in Belgium, France, and Spain.

Increased interest in French and Spanish is expected to result from this practical way in which Professor Cortelyou is assisting high school students to improve themselves in the use of these languages.

Look Out Men

Hey, you K. S. A. C. men had better look out for Germany Schultz. The big coach didn't fall for those decorations that you put on the goal post on the athletic field. That black paint worries Germany just like a red flag gets a gentleman cow's "nanny." Any way black doesn't go well with white on the athletic field. Purple might have been a little better but black, never.

"Young Singer, Join a Church Choir" is Advice of Althouse

"Young singer, join a church choir."

This is the advice given by Paul Althouse, the Metropolitan Opera star who will appear here in the All Star Artist's course, October 2, to all youthful aspirants for vocal honors.

Mr. Althouse considers the church choir of any church, no matter how small, an organization which gives the young singer wonderful musical training, and he is enthusiastic in his recommendations of it as a stepping stone to fame.

Paul Althouse, himself, is certainly a wonderful example of the value of training in a church choir. He has been singing in church choirs since he was six years old, and in spite of his Metropolitan opera successes he has never wholly abandoned the organization to which he owes a large share of his phenomenal success.

Just how much credit is due the church choir for the feeling and lack of artificiality in Paul Althouse's singing cannot of course be accurately estimated, but it is certain that the choir's influence has played no small part in his musical career, and that the training he received when he was soprano soloist for Christ Church at Reading, Penn., has played no insignificant part in securing him his present rank among Metropolitan singers.

K. U. READY TO SEAT AGGIES

BUT THE BLEACHERS HAD TO BE REPAIRED FIRST

Doctor Allen, Athletic Director at the University, Says that Ample Preparation Has Been Made for Wildcat Crowd

The Kansan, K. U. official paper, says in a recent issue.

"All McCook Field bleachers, with a seating capacity of ten to twelve thousand people, will be open for the Aggie-Kansas game November 1. Not only will they be open, but they will be so renovated, and replaced and re-inforced that they will be stronger than ever, was the announcement today of Forrest C. Allen, director of athletics, after a complete inspection and planning of bleachers with Professors H. A. Rice and A. H. Sluss of the School of Engineering.

"The examination showed that the south bleachers, erected only a few years ago, were in good condition, and safe for any reasonable number of people, but that the north bleachers were so decayed in regard to supports and railing as to be unsafe.

"Professors Rice and Sluss estimated that by a large amount of replacement of supports and timbers they could be made as strong as any wooden bleachers, as they were only decayed where the exposure was greatest.

"The bleachers will positively be able to accommodate safely the Aggie crowd, Doctor Allen said, without a bit of risk, after this work of innovation is finished."

Father and Mother Had Big Dinner at College Cafeteria

They were an appealing couple, "old and gray" but with that air about them that made you realize that they were "somebody's folks" and you immediately wanted to help them.

It must have been their first trip to Manhattan and certainly their first visit to the college cafeteria for their timidity and uncertainty as to the proper method of action in an institution of that sort was very evident.

They entered the long line through which one has to pass to secure a meal and fumbled for a few minutes around the silver boxes and stacks of trays. After considerable helping each other, laughing, rather shamefacedly over their seeming awkwardness they started to help each other get their dinner.

"Mother" piled things on "Father's" tray until it fairly groaned under the weight of the food it carried. But "Mother's" meal was a frugal, almost scant one. And when she neared the end of the food line she spied the ea pots and exclaimed: "Oh, my, I'm so glad that I can have a hot cup of tea."

When they sat down to their meal almost every one in the room saw the next action and was not a little moved by it. Bowing their heads in humble gratitude they both gave thanks for their evening repast.

"Father" spoke the simple words and his humble reporter heard him say, "God bless this college and these students."

I don't suppose they would do that so I am leaving."

Henze's rebellion against the cap tradition brought about a fight on the roof of Fraser Hall. The ruling made by the senate concerning the investigation of Henze's treatment is the probable cause of the disbanding of the discipline committee. It is rumored that an appeal Henze made to the governor started an investigation by the Board of Administration. Aggie Girls Fall For This Freshie, Don't They Though

Dear folks: I thought that I would write you a few lines to tell you how I am getting along as I know that by this time you are worrying about how your freshman son is prospering.

You know that when I was home, I was always considered quite a ladies' man. Well the girls here beat anything I ever saw. They walk down the street and never even look at a fellow. It seems as though there isn't a single freshman girl here, as none of them ever look lonely or look as though they would like to have someone ask them for a date, as the girls back home did.

One night the churches had a mixer where all of the students were supposed to go and have a good time and get acquainted with each other. Well, I went to one and we played all kinds of games, just as we did at the parties back home. I met one of the keenest girls here that I have ever seen. Beat all the girls back home for class. Of course, I asked to see her home and, oh joy, she consented.

Well, we walked home. She lives on the corner of Ninth and Poyntz, just north of the school house. We sat out on the porch for quite a while and talked about what I used to do on the farm and all about the weather and everything. I thought she must be from the farm too, because she seemed so interested. She told me to be sure to call her up again at this place. Well I phoned several times and could never get an answer. Finally, in despair, I went down to see her personally.

When I got there I immediately changed my mind about her being from the farm because over the door was a sign "American Woman's League." Her folks must be quite influential to have such a sign over the door. I knocked but no one seemed to be at home. Since then I have called several times but can never find anyone at home. They must be popular people to be visiting so much.

Not being able to get a date with this girl I tried to find another. One night as I was going down town I saw two peaches doing down the street. As I had often heard boys at home speak of picking up wild women, I thought I would try it. I walked up to them with my heart in my mouth. When I got up to them I tipped my hat and said, "Hello girls, this a charming evening isn't it?"

They looked at me with an icy glare and said, "I don't believe we know you, do we?"

"Oh, that's all right," I answered, "I'm a freshman up here in college."

They immediately lost all of their hostility towards me, and for a few minutes we had a great time. I told them all about our farm and how much money dad had. I also told them about how all of the girls back home used to think that I was the best fellow in town.

Finally one of the girls said, "Our husbands will be along in a short time and might object if we were talking with a nice young gentleman, such as you are. I'm very sorry that we cannot walk along with you this evening."

Imagine my surprise then when two young gentlemen that I knew up at the college came along and took the two of them to the picture show. I sat behind them in the show and heard them ask these girls what their names were. I wonder if those girls were not married after all.

I heard some boys saying that the place to meet the girls was in a literary society so I immediately joined one. Imagine my delight then when in a few days I received an invitation to a hike by the society and telling me to call on a certain young lady for a date.

I hurried over to her house, to see about the date. But when I got over there she kindly informed me that she had already made arrangements for the hike. She told me to let the committee know and they would get me another one. I wrote them and sure enough they sent me another date.

Well, I called on her in the same way. This one expressed her regret that some friends of hers had arrived in town and she would not be able to go to the hike. She said that she was very sorry, and I am sure she was as she seemed to fall for me at first sight.

One of the other fellows at the house wanted me to go to the picture show with him so I gave up the idea of going on the hike, as you know I couldn't go without a date. The orchestra played, "Home, Sweet Home" down there and you don't know how I thought of you. Of course I don't want to come home, as I am sure that they will soon learn what a real fellow I am yet.

The freshmen are soon going to have a hike. One of the sophomores told me that I would have to have a date for that but as I didn't know any freshman to take he told me that he would get me a date. As it happened, a girl was coming down the street as we were talking. When she got up to us, he tipped his hat and said, "Pardon me, I have forgotten your name, but I want you to meet my friend. He is a freshman and wants a date for the freshman hike." She told me that she would be glad to have a date with me, and she certainly looked pleased. She told me to call on her at her home on Yuma street. I don't know how that sophomore knew she was a freshman, but he sure did know how to get me that date. I sure wish I was a sophomore so that I could get dates like that.

Well, folks, I am going to close this letter now as I am going to call this girl up for a date to the picture show. I am sure that I will get one, as she seemed to fall for me at first sight. Now don't think that I am lonely because I am not.—Your Freshman Son.

MILITARY DEPT. IS TO GROW

ENROLLED IN COURSE NOW ARE 651 MEN—WILL REACH 700

Training Is Divided Into Two Main Parts—Infantry Training Given
Now but Artillery and Machine Gun Work Later

Enrolled in the Reserve Officers' training corps at K. S. A. C. are 651 young men, who, if they complete the course as given in military science and tactics, will be graduated as lieutenants in the reserve corps and will be subject to call to active service at any time.

Only Infantry Training

A present only one form of training is given—infantry. However, an artillery unit has been applied for and a machine gun platoon may be organized later. A variety of training in the military work will stimulate interest among the men, is the opinion of the commandant.

Lieut. Colonel Frederick B. Terrell is the commandant and Captain Lewis Davidson is the assistant. Minor ranking officers are employed for both class work and the practical work on the field. Both Colonel Terrell and Captain Davidson have had a great deal of work in military science and tactics and are well fitted for the positions they now hold.

Into Two Main Parts

The system now employed for the R. O. T. C. will, in the end, turn out better trained officers than were sent out from the many officers' training camps in the country during the world war. The R. O. T. C. course is divided into two main parts, the basic course and the advanced course. The basic course requires three hours work each week, two in practical work on the field and one in theoretical work.

The advanced course requires three hours practical and two hours theoretical training each week. The men in both divisions of training are furnished with complete uniforms. This is the first year that the men have not been forced to purchase their own uniforms. Men taking the advanced military work are required to sign a contract that they will attend a summer camp, the time and place being designated by the secretary of war. During the time in camp, each man gets a uniform, commutation and subsistence and $12 a month.

The military department in K. S. A. C. is gradually growing and it is now recognized as being one of the best equipped departments in the west. It ranks with many of the military academies in the east, too. It is expected that the total enrollment in the R. O. T. C. this year will exceed 700.

"The Thundering Thousand"

The Seneca High School World has the following article:

"Several years ago when K. U. was putting out her Missouri-Valley champion football teams, one of the most important features of the home games was 'The Thundering Thousand.' A large section of the grandstand was set apart for the fellows who were not encumbered by dates but came to root for the team. It was always packed by hundreds of men who, led by energetic cheer leaders, made the air ring with 'Rock-Chalk, Jay-Hawk' and the other old K. U. yells. The team undoubtedly played harder and better football because of the cheers that the division of the grandstand sent thundering across the field. They may have been the deciding factor in some of the close games."

A Tale to a Tale

Once upon a time a cat who prided herself on her wit and wisdom was prowling about the corral in search of food and saw a tall protruding from a hole in the fence.

"There is the conclusion of a rat," she said. Then she crept stealthily toward it until within striking distance, when she made a jump and reached it with her claws.

Alas, it was not the appendage of a rat, but the tail of a snake, which turned immediately and gave her a mortal bite.

Moral—It is dangerous to jump at conclusions.

More Pep for Debate

Debate is to hold a prominent place in college life this year.

Professor Burns, who is debate coach this fall, gave a talk to the members of Forum, the debating society, on Thursday Professor Burns is very enthusiastic over debate and it is his wish that the students take more interest this year and attend the debates. He is going to try to get the literary societies to back debate and if necessary to give up their meetings on the night of the big debates and attend in a body.

The Forum meetings after this are not going to be mere business meetings but debates and interesting talks will be given.

They Acknowledge It

The Daily Missourian, following the Tiger-aggie game, said:

"According to Coach Miller, Huston, star Aggie kicker, to whom is given official credit for the Aggies' ability to tie the score Saturday, is as good a drop kicker, for length of the kicks as the Missouri coach has seen. 'Chuck' Lewis, who has been counted by Missourians as a coming star in the kicking game, was not in his best form Saturday, although Coach Miller feels that Lewis did well in getting his punts off. The Tigers did not guard his kicks well, according to Miller."

"Both scores by the Aggie kicker were made from near the 40-yard line. The other attempt by Huston was made from the 60-yard line."

Glad They Got 'Em

The University Daily Kansan has to say:

"Forty-eight new Varsity football sweaters arrived this morning from Kansas City, it was announced by the Athletic Association today. This finally controverts a 'bear' story sent out that K. U. was financially down and out and that Varsity men would have to wear freshmen team red sweaters."

"We were exceptionally lucky to get these sweaters," said Coach Karl Schladerman. "I just happened to catch a sporting house in Kansas City that had the sweaters on hand. They are the regular blue varsity sweaters with red stripes on the sleeves."

We Don't Get It

The University Daily Kansan has the following to say:

"From the Kansas Aggie, State Collegian—'Pep cannot be raised by tossing people in a blanket. There are other more modern methods of raising pep. When we beat K. U. in 1906 they didn't do it that way.'"

"Ha, ha, and hee, hee! Whence cometh all these ancient traditions, Aggies?"

We don't get the joke to this at all. There surely is no joke to the fact that we defeated them. And there is no tradition, as far as we can see. Perhaps the Kansan used this as "filler."

Prof. N. A. Crawford, head of the journalism department has been asked

OFFICIAL JAYHAWK PAPER COM-PLAINS OF THIS YEAR'S TEAM

WANT NEW MEN ON THE TEAM

K. U. Paper Says Men Do Not Turn Out as They Should Because New Ones Think All the Jobs
Are Cinched

That the Jayhawkers this year do not have a strong backfield, is complained of by the University Daily Kansan, the official K. U. paper. The entire article as published by the Kansan follows:

The K. U. football squad needs more backs. That was the conclusion reached after watching the squad go through their regular practice Thursday afternoon. Only six or eight men with even promise of making backfield material have showed up in uniform with one more, John Bunn, promised out this afternoon.

Simon and Helzer, fullbacks, Pringle and Mandeville, halves, Luper and Webb Wilson, Tad Reid, and Barter, quarterbacks were the backfield men who practiced on Hamilton Field Thursday. About sixteen line men, enough to insure strong competition for every line position, were out.

Want New Men

The scarcity of men ambitious for a football letter by K. U. sport fans is ascribed to the fact that the old letter men seem to have all the positions cinched, and that apparently, a new man would stand no chance to make good, at least this year.

But the team, perhaps on account of the soggy weather is not showing up well. More men are needed, and new men stand a good chance to make the team. Perhaps thirty-five men have checked out uniforms, and showed up on the field throughout the week. Most of them are good men. Missouri, where practice has been held three weeks is reported to have sixty men out.

After a stiff practice of an hour and a half during the drizzle of Thursday afternoon, Coach McCarty sent the men for a half mile run around the field, and then to the showers. Later Coach Lindsay gave the men the first chalk talk of the season. Blackboard diagrams of various plays, with several of the simpler signals, were explained.

Former Stars Come Out

Nettles, all-Valley tackle in 1917, Barter, freshman quarter in 1917, and O'Brien, a new man whom Coach McCarty may use in the backfield, were the new men out. Reid, who starred on a wing position in 1916, was used to hold the end positions against any in the valley.

Walter Wood, star quarter of 1916 was on the field, but an ulcerated foot will make it impossible for him to appear in football togs for several weeks.

Coach McCarty ran a team down the field in practice formations. The most promising formation consisted of Helzer, full, Mandeville and Pringle, halves, Luper, quarter, Laslett and Lonberg, ends, Nettles and Marxen, tackles, Wint Smith and Pete Reedy, guards and Ketchum Gress at center.

Monocles and Big Stetson Hats are Quit the Fad Now

Distinctive wearing apparel for students in different departments is the latest fad for men and women in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Ye good old English days furnished the plot for students in industrial journalism. The boys and girls in this department will don monocles, dangling aristocratically on gaudy black and white ribbons tied about the neck. The girls are finding the fad amusing while the boys discovered that it is rather embarrassing.

The senior civil engineers got their idea from William S. Hart. When that wild man of the movies appears he usually wears a big broad rimmed Stetson hat. So the senior civil engineers here have donned the grey sun shade, making them look more like cowboys than civil engineers. It is a distinctive style, however, and sets them apart from the other students, as do the "vet" canes and as will the journalism monocle.

Colonel Brady Has Cane for a Certain Aggie Football Man

"Is the Colonel here yet, Germany?" Coach Clevenger, of the Aggies, will ask. And if the Colonel isn't there yet, scrimmage may be delayed until he arrives.

No one man is known to the college students who follow athletics as is Colonel Brady. He is the mainstay of Aggie rooters, and when one wants to explain the meaning of spirit and enthusiasm, "Now just look at Colonel Brady" is the way the speech usually is ended.

The Colonel is out to every scrimmage during the week, and has not been known to miss one except in cases of death. And he knows the game of football, too. There is not a man on the field who can slip anything over on the Colonel.

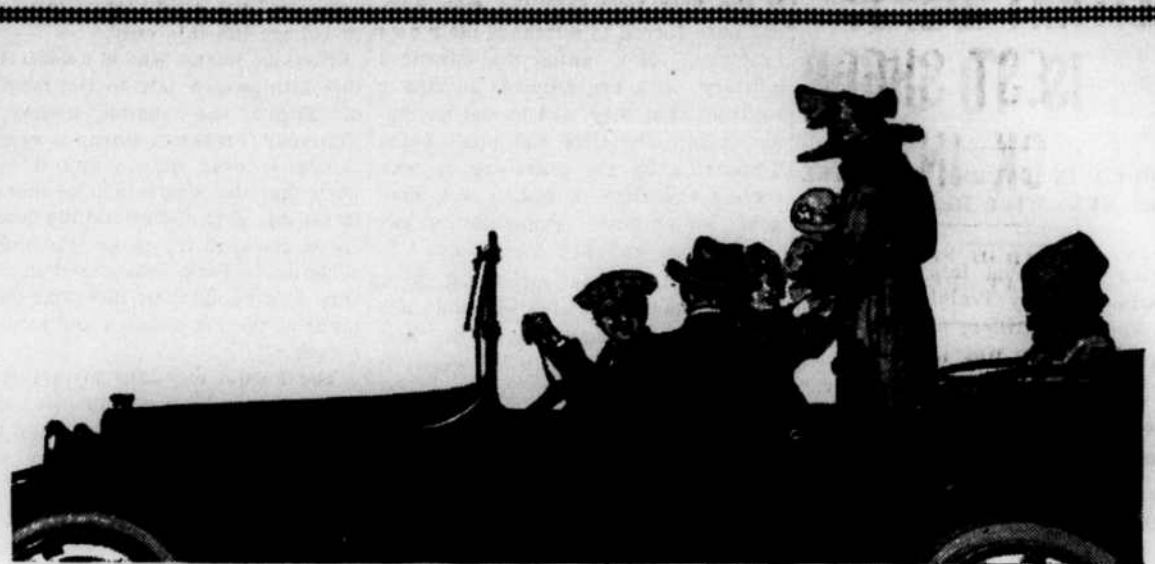

He is plenty big enough to command respect, about six feet two inches and weighing around the neighborhood of two hundred and fifty pounds. When the Colonel starts riding the boys, they come across and give the best they have in them. It's no fun to have the Colonel balling you out for some bonehead. For some reason or other, the Colonel can make a man feel mighty small.

The Colonel has one ambition above all others, though, and each year he hopes to be able to realize this ambition. After the game with K. U. in the year of 1906, Colonel Brady found upon the field a heavy cane, tied with Aggie colors. Nineteen hundred and six was THE year the Aggies picked the bones of the Jayhawk, and the cane found by the Colonel evidently was lost by some Aggie who was a little too enthusiastic in his celebration.

But since that year, the Wildcat has gone hungry whenever he has met the big Jayhawk bird, and each time the Colonel was among those who mourned. The Colonel does all he can, and in view of past defeats, an Aggie victory over K. U. is needed.

And, so, in order to feed the Aggie Wildcat a little ram meat, the Colonel has offered to give, to the captain of an Aggie team who wins from K. U., the old cane found in 1906, the last Aggie victory over K. U.

But, win or lose, the Colonel ever will be in the thoughts of the Aggie students, old and young, the greatest Aggie of them all.

HAS BEST SHEEP FLOCK IN U. S.

OVER 400 HEAD OF SHEEP IN THE FLOCK AT PRESENT

High Quality Is Due to the Work of
A. M. Paterson of the Animal Husbandry Department—To Have Exhibit Soon

The Kansas State Agricultural college has the best sheep flock in the United States. The high quality of this flock is due to the work of Prof. A. M. Paterson, of the animal husbandry department.

When Mr. Paterson took charge of the sheep flock, it contained only a few select and distinguished individuals. By careful feeding and selection, however, he has made the flock one of the foremost in the country. The University of Minnesota, Oklahoma A. and M., and a number of prominent breeders of Kansas and Missouri have recently purchased breeding stock from this institution.

The animal husbandry department will exhibit about 50 head of sheep at the International Stock show at Chicago the first week in December. This is one of the largest stock shows in the country. This exhibit alone speaks sufficiently for the quality of the flock which Mr. Paterson has developed. The entire flock of the college now numbers about 400 head.

STUDENTS OF SUMNER COUNTY HAVE ORGANIZED CLUB HERE

The Purpose Of The Club Is To Promote Fellowship

Students from Sumner county who are attending the Kansas State Agricultural college met last Wednesday evening and organized a County Club.

The purpose of the club is to promote acquaintance and fellowship among the Sumner county students, to increase their knowledge of the county and its relation to the college. Plans are to be worked out for the betterment of Sumner county, the college, and the students. The club will hold a business and a social meeting once each month.

The following officers were elected: President, William I. Turner, senior in agriculture; vice-president, Miss Helen Blair; secretary and treasurer, Clyde M. Boughman; chairman of the program and social committee, Miss Grace L. Turner.

The club plans to hold monthly meetings which shall consist of a short program, together with a business and a social hour. Some of the main features of the program will be informal talks and essays furthering the purpose of the organization.

Bomb Bursts, Type- writer Explodes, All On a Monday Morn

To have a typewriter "explode" under your nose, and a bomb explode under your feet all in one Monday morning, is really too much, thinks a little freshman journalist, and she declares that if she has many more such shocks it will be necessary for her either to return to home and mother, or try out the softness of a padded cell.

The young reporter was scribbling a few lines a la typewriter and marveling at the speed she was achieving by the use of the time honored Hunt and Peck system when, bang! the spring broke. The nature of the accident had to be carefully explained to the young lady however, and it was some minutes before she could be convinced that nothing had hit her.

With her nerve somewhat jarred by her late experience the freshman started for the chemistry building where she had a lecture class. The professor had a soothing voice and she anticipated a cozy little nap. She was just nicely settled and had begun on her favorite day dreams which she reserved especially for sleepy classes when she was aroused by a noise even louder than the one which had disturbed her the hour before.

Dazedly the disturbed napper looked about for the typewriter but none was to be seen. The professor, however hastily offered an explanation. "The boys were experimenting a little on bombs this morning," he said apologetically, "one must have exploded I guess." The professor calmly continued his lecture,—but the freshman declares that her sleep in that class will never again be the same.

Neck Twisted, Back Broken, but Such is Life in College

Perhaps you have noticed a few boys walking around the campus with a very noticeable limp. It is a three to one chance that the most of them have not gained the hobble through any serious mishap but are simply entertaining a few sore muscles as a result of the exertions they have gone through in their gym class.

It has become too cold for the students taking physical training to go out on the athletic field and spend half an hour digging up the earth with their bare shoulders while playing football so they are now put through a series of exercises in the gym that are guaranteed to be certain back-breakers and neck twisters.

The hapless student is told by his instructor that the purpose of the exercises is to teach the victim to have complete control of his body at all times. The instructor illustrates a particular exercise that is designed to teach a student what to do if he should be so unfortunate as to fall off Pikes Peak or the edge of the Grand Canyon. Of course it looks easy to the student so he takes a long run and mounts high into the air over a gym horse and then falls to come down strictly according to rules and regulations. After the unfortunate gentleman has come to and gathered together all of his widely diffused anatomical parts and arranged them properly he gets up and limps painfully away thinking that the term "Physical Cul-

HAVE ANOTHER NEW BUILDING

GROUNDS BROKEN FOR ENGINEERING ADDITION—READY NEXT FALL

TO BE FIREPROOF BUILDING

Structure When Complete Will Make One of the Largest Educational Plants Under One Roof in the Country

Ground has been broken for the new addition to the engineering building and the excavation is well under way.

All of the departments of engineering, with the exception of farm engineering, will be housed under the one roof. The entire structure, including the shops, will make one of the largest educational plants, under one roof, in the country.

The new addition to the engineering building will have a frontage of 250 feet facing south and will join to the present mechanical engineering laboratories, making a total frontage of nearly 400 feet. The central part will be 120 by 60 feet, having three stories and a basement. The west wing will be 116 by 50 feet, having two stories and a basement, and being symmetrical with the present wing which is of the same size.

A Dynamo Laboratory

The present wing will house the laboratories of steam engineering, gas engineering, strength of materials, hydraulics, road materials, fuel, refrigeration, heating and ventilation. The officers of the departments of applied mechanics, machine design, and steam and gas engineering will be located in the present wing.

The basement of the new addition will house the electrical laboratories including a dynamo laboratory, electrical measuring instruments, illumination, telephony, and electrical repairs. A part of the basement will be devoted to students' locker rooms, wash rooms, and for the housing of civil engineering instruments. On the first or main floor of the new addition will be located the offices of the dean of the division of engineering who is also director of the engineering experiment station, the departments of electrical engineering and civil engineering. Several class rooms also will be located in this part of the building.

The second floor will be devoted to drafting rooms and class rooms for the various engineering departments. In the space over the front entrance will be an engineering library. On the third floor will be located the drafting rooms, class rooms, and offices of the department of architecture.

To Be Fireproof Building

In the original plans which were drawn by the state architect, it was planned to have an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500; also additional laboratories for electrical engineering and for instruction in automobiles. The high cost of construction made it necessary to eliminate this part of the central section.

The new addition will be absolutely fireproof of steel and concrete construction. All of the floors will be of concrete except those used in offices, class rooms, and drafting rooms, and these will be covered with a wood top. The wiring will be arranged so that the various laboratories and class rooms can be used for experimental work without having to make complicated electrical connections.

The front entrance to the central part will be quite elaborate and will give a certain artistic effect to the otherwise plain exterior.

While this building will be of immense value in overcoming the present crowded conditions it will not take care of the increased enrolment in engineering and use will have to be made of the temporary barracks until adequate appropriations are available to complete the building. Future plans contemplate the extension of the west part to the north for about 200 feet and the addition of a north wing to the rear of the central section.

The addition will be completed early in the summer in order that the various laboratories, drafting rooms, and class rooms can be used at the opening of the 1920 school year. The cost will be more than $200,000.

Y. M. COMING TO THE FRONT

PLACED 73 MEN IN PERMANENT JOBS, 227 TO ODD JOBS

Over 500 Rooms Were Rented by Aid of the Y. M. C. A. this Year—Helping Students in Many Other Ways, Too

The services of the college Y. M. C. A. during the first weeks of the school year is a creditable one, according to the report issued by Dr. A. A. Holtz, general secretary of the organization. Besides functioning in its usual city duties it has held a contract with the student life that has been invaluable to those who applied to it for assistance.

One of the new things being introduced into the life of the college Y. M. C. A. is the "Knocker and booster" box which has been placed in the local association building for the communication of all students and those connected, otherwise, with the organization.

The report of the association for the first weeks of the school year is as follows:

Seventy-three men placed in touch with permanent jobs. 227 men supplied with 340 hours of odd jobs. Several afternoons, more work than could find men to take. 7 men given opportunity of free room rent for tending furnaces.

Five hundred and sixty-two rooms rented by aid of this bureau.

Telephone calls, averaging 41 a day. Desk service, such as selling postage stamps, passing out stationery, assigning jobs, e. c. has averaged 73 a day.

The gymnasium is used each Tuesday and Thursday evenings by the chamber of commerce; Wednesday evenings by the boy scouts. The building is constantly being used by college societies and committees. Some evenings we accommodate as high as four different organizations.

A definite attempt was made to meet all new students on incoming trains, to advise and guide them. The mixer for men students was considered a decided success and the attendance was estimated between 900 and 1000.

Besides the usual routine, the general secretary has delivered 10 addresses and sermons, and has met with committees 32 times.

Form County Club

Washington County students who are attending K. S. A. C. met last Thursday night and organized a County club. More than thirty students from Washington county are enrolled.

The club was organized not only for social purposes and to make it possible for the students from the county to become acquainted but also for the purpose of advertising K. S. A. C. to the people "back home".

Mr. Ward Fetrow was elected president of the club and Miss Eva Gwin, Vice President. Other officers are: William Lobaugh, secretary-treasurer; Ada Robertson, Chairman of Social Committee; and Bertha Gevin, reporter.

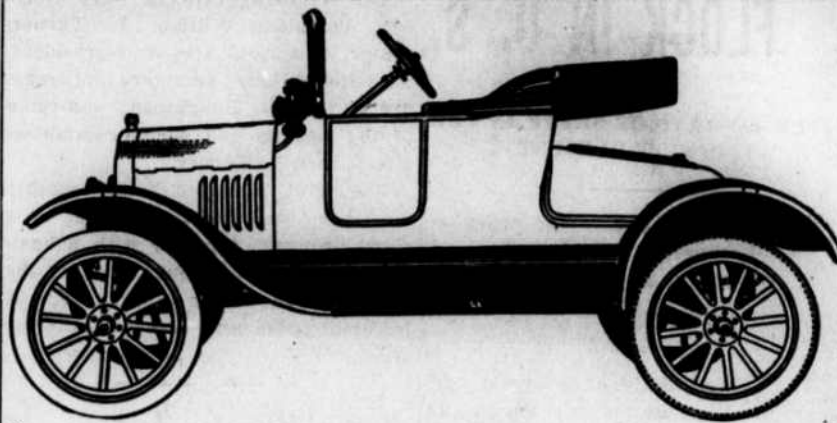

Took First Place

The Alpha Beta literary society won first place in the Artist's Course ticket selling contest which closed Friday. The first seven organizations ranked as follows: first Alpha Beta, second, Eurodelphian; third, Ionian; fourth, Browning; fifth, Pi Beta Phi; sixth, Delta Zeta; seventh, Franklin.

The campaign was conducted by the Y. W. C. A. under the direction of Miss Hetty Carris.

Miss Betty Bradbury and Miss Mildred Fowler spent the week end at the Pi Phi house. They are members of the K. U. chapter of Pi Beta Phi.

K. U. TAKES GAME AGAIN

JAYHAWKS ADD ONE MORE GAME TO THEIR VICTORIES OVER AGGIES

FOURTEENTH DEFEAT FOR AGGIES

Wildcats Put Up Good Fight But Were Outplayed—K. U. Offense Hit Line for Long Gains While Aggie Backs Had to Make End Runs

Hisory repeated itself last Saturday when the Jayhawkers defeated the Aggies by a score of 16 to 3. However, the Kansas eleven was forced to play a much better brand of football than it has played before this season. The Aggies played a good game but the Jayhawkers outclassed them throughout the game.

The day was ideal but the field was a little damp, giving the weighty K. U. team a slight advantage. All the bleachers were well filled and the enthusiasm shown was typical of the great college sport. The Aggie spirit and pep was much to be desired and received favorable comment from townspeople and students.

Aggie students can always be proud of their team. Such a star as Proctor Randels is not to be found every day. Proctor not only grabbed several passes but time after time tackled K. U. backs before they were under way. Cowell did good work on the defense too and made some substantial gains through the line. Gatz and Roda showed up well in the line. Huston and Gingery played an exceptional game. Pete Hixson did good work in the passing game. Huston's kicks did not average as much as usual, the heavy K. U. line hurrying him too much. Pringle and Mandeville were the best ground gainers for the Jayhawkers with Laslett getting away for several passes and playing a great game on the defense. Nettels, Kapert, and Ruble were K. U.'s star linemen.

The Aggies started out in the first quarter with a steady march down the field until they were in kicking distance. The scrappy Laslett blocked Huston's dropkick and the Aggies first chance of scoring was past. The K. U. team bucked up and played in Aggie territory the remainder of the half. In the second half the Wildcats again were in scoring distance and Huston kicked from the 44 yard line. K. U.'s touchdowns were the result of blocked punts and intercepted passes near the goal line. The Aggies were much more successful with the passing game than with straight football.

First Quarter

The Aggies chose to defend the goal. Cowell received the kick on the 5 yard line and returned 25 yards. Line bucks failed and Huston punted 54 yards. An exchange of punts gave the Aggies the ball on the 20 yard line. A fifteen yard penalty and a pass, Hixson to Bogue, netted another fifteen yards but a fumble proved costly to the Aggies. Line plunges by Mandeville and a five yard penalty gave Kansas a second first down. The defensive playing of Randels stopped the K. U. advance. End runs by Gallagher and Cowell, a five yard penalty, a pass, Hixson to Gallagher, and another to Randels for 20 yards gave the Aggies their third first down. Huston attempted to kick from the 35 yard line but Laslett blocked it. Gains by Mandeville and a pass of 11 yards, Pringle to Belle, put the Jayhawkers eleven far in Aggie territory when the quarter ended. Score, 0 to 0. Aggies four first downs, K. U. four first downs.

Second Quarter

Reid failed to dropkick from the 20 yard line. When Huston attempted to punt out of danger, Nettels blocked it and runs by Wood, Mandeville, and Pringle advanced the ball to the 3 yard line and Mandeville carried it over. Nettels failed to kick goal. Score 6 to 0 in favor of K. U.

Nettels kicked to Cowell who returned to 25 yard line. Laslett intercepted a pass on the 37 yard line. Wood and Mandeville made downs and a pass, Pringle to Belle, gave K. U. their second touchdown. Nettel kicked goal. Score 13 to 0 in favor of K. U.

Third Quarter

Huston kicked to Reid on the 20 yard line. An exchange of punts ensued. Pringle broke away for two good gains but a fumble recovered by Gatz stopped the Kansas advance. Two Aggie passes, Hixson to Randels and to Gallagher netted the Aggies a total of 30 yards. A K. U. man intercepted an Aggie pass and the K. U. machine started another advance. Pringle made a 27 yard run but was called back. Nettels punted to the Aggie 1 yard line. Huston punted out of danger and the Aggie line held. Cowell made good gains thru the line but the Aggies were finally forced to kick. Quarter ended with ball in K. U.'s possession.

Fourth Quarter

Long gains by Pringle and Mandeville thru the line and a pass, Pringle to Laslett, put the Jayhawkers far into Aggie territory. Smith made a dropkick from the 15 yard line. Score 16 to 0 in favor of K. U.

Nettels kicked to Cowell who returned to the 30 yard line. Laslett intercepted an Aggie pass on the 40 yard line. Randels' defensive work kept K. U.'s gains low. A K. U. fumble gave the ball to the Aggies. A pass, Huston to Burton, netted 20 yards. Huston and Nettels exchanged punts. Reid intercepted an Aggie pass. The Aggie line held and another punting duel ensued in which Huston was placed near enough to dropkick one over from the 45 yard line. Score 16 to 3 in favor of K. U.

The Aggies received. Quinlan did some good passing but the K. U. backs were always there to muffle it. The game ended with a 40 yard punt by Huston.

The lineup:

TAG DAY NETS OVER $450 TO SEND BAND TO K. U.

Aggie Girls' Loyalty Club Responsible for Sending Band with Team

The Aggie band and cheer leaders were at K. U. due to the efforts of a number of Aggie girls. Beat K. U. tags sold like hot cakes. It is estimated that over $450 was taken in. The Aggie Girls' Loyalty club is responsible for sending the band to K. U. Wednesday was designated as tag day and all loyal Aggie students and faculty members bought a tag.

The girls held a meeting Tuesday afternoon and Ernestine Bibb, head of the Loyalty club talked to the girls. Aggie songs were sung and then Mrs. Molly Smith Moser, who had charge of the tag selling talked to the girls. Miss Grace Hesse, faculty sponsor, talked to the girls about pep and pep meetings.

Two hundred tags were distributed among the captains. The captains of the teams were Jamie Cameron, Christine Stebbins, Anna Neal, and Joe Leith. Each captain had a number of girls working under her. It was necessary to order 500 more tags. The girls canvassed the downtown district, Aggieville, and the campus.

Y. W. Supplies Work

If you want to assist some of our townswomen with their house work in exchange for room and board, or wish house work by the hour to help defray your college expenses, call at Dean Van Zile's office. Room 42, H. E. Bldg., or the Y. W. C. A. office.

Fizikul Edukashon

We came to school to study Greek along with algebra and chem. but we have to get out twice a week and roughly play the game. They dress us in a cheese cloth slip with little rubber shoes and pantalets, the three inch kind, and charge five dollars dues. "Now choose up sides" our dear coach cries. "We're going to have a brawl. Get way down low and keep your eyes forever on the ball. It doesn't matter if you're killed, or break your chin and ears, a few black eyes won't make you riled, don't pussy-foot your fears." And so we do as we are told, and look at us today. This thing of getting bunged is old. Where does he get that way? Our eye we carry in a sling, our knee is bandaged too, our shins are cut and bruised and black, we don't know what to do. We're not the sort to piker out, yet gym suits aren't the thing to wear when one is in a bout. We feel like taking wings. Just why this kind-a-hing's required, the fellows want to know. The very thought of it's absurd and it's causing lots of woe.

FLOUR MILLING POPULAR STUDY

STUDENTS MAKE ENOUGH FLOUR TO SUPPLY CAFETERIA

Also Supply Home Economics Workers—Made Flour for S. A. T. C. Last Year—Part of Agricultural Division

New students, especially those in the agricultural division, should make themselves acquainted with the flour mill which occupies the entire north end of the new agriculture building and consider the course offered by the department of milling. This is the only college in the United States which is offering a course in practical milling. Some time ago Pennsylvania State College offered such a course but it is now given as the work of separate machines rather than a complete working mill.

The course includes the teaching of the milling industry, seed and flour testing and analyzing of mill products which is carried on in co-operation with the department of chemistry. There is a small mill which will mill out completely six or eight samples of wheat of five pounds each in a day. Upon this the students are regularly started. The large mill, has a capacity of approximately seventy-five barrels in twenty-four hours.

There is a three hundred dollar scholarship fund offered to the graduates of the department. This fund is usually divided into three one hundred dollar lots and given to the students considered most worthy of it.

The flour from the mill is used by the cafeteria and the home economics department and was used by the S. A. T. C. last year. A carload shipment was also made to the state reformatory.

"FOOL PROOF FOUNTAIN IS INSTALLED IN MAIN HALL

Originated by Dr. Sleever to Prevent Spread of Disease

Have you noticed the new fountain that has been installed in Main hall?—and isn't it an improvement over the old one? The new fountain, which is called "Fool-proof"—was originated by Dr. Sleever as a sanitary measure in the prevention of the spread of disease.

The stream for drinking shoots high enough so that one does not have to touch the base with the mouth at all. The little streams shooting up around the edge serve as a further guard, and finally in the bottom are little cross-streams that wash away any germs that may have gotten into the base.

Thus, everyone leaves the fountain in as sanitary condition as it was when he came to it. Dr. Sleever thinks it would be a good thing to have these fountains in all the buildings but so far no definite arrangements have been made for any more.

CIRCULAR ON "HOME PREPARATION OF PORK" NOW OUT

Circular Gives The Best Methods Of Butchering Pork

Circular 76, entitled "Home Preparation of Pork," is now ready for distribution by the agricultural experiment station. A. M. Patterson, associate professor of animal husbandry in the college, is the author of this circular.

The circular gives the best method of butchering hogs, methods of cutting up the pork, and recipes for curing meat. The methods here taken into consideration are especially well adapted for the home, where only a few hogs are killed at one time, and where consumption of meat is slow.

Eat Judiciously and Moderately to Keep Out of the Hospital

"Do you know that eating the wrong thing may land you in the doctor's office or in the hospital? It is not so much the high cost of living that should be alarming the American family as the improper and careless selection of food," asserts Dr. L. Jean Bogert of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"People who have acquired a taste for certain foods think they cannot substitute other foods for these. The idea of not being able to digest certain foods we are not used to, is nine-tenths imagination.

"Why not keep well? The easiest road to good health," said Dr. Bogert, "is through eating moderately of the right kinds of food. A little thought, a little self control, and then forget you have a digestion."

"The average man and woman eats much more than is necessary for best health and maintenance. Overeating is a great hindrance to the average American family. People who overeat oftentimes become over stout, unless the person naturally has a nervous temperament. The system becomes sluggish. The brain cannot function to the best advantage. No one can work efficiently when in such a condition. To keep the system from becoming clogged and sluggish one should eat freely of fruits and vegetables, which form the bulk of the food and aid in carrying waste through the alimentary tract.

"The chief supply of calcium, which is building material for the bones and teeth, is secured through the use of milk. If the child does not get a sufficient amount of milk in his diet, his growth will be stunted, and his bones will become soft. Most of the green vegetables also contain calcium. Lack of iron in the diet makes one pale and thin. Foods which contain iron are lettuce, spinach, celery, and milk.

"What should not be eaten more than once daily. Too much protein food causes constipation, kidney trouble and the formation of stones in the bladder. It also causes high uric acid in the body which deposits at the joints resulting in gout. One should remember that the foods which contain much protein—meat, eggs, and fish—are among the most expensive articles of diet.

"Carbohydrates must be included in the diet to give the necessary fuel for the body. An over supply causes fermentation in the stomach and intestines. Fats also help supply fuel. If one overindulges in fatty foods, indigestion is usually the result. Fats, aside from being difficult to digest retard the digestion of proteins and carbohydrates. Fats too are included in the expensive list of foods.

"The varied diet is the best for all people. The diet should be balanced so as to include foods from all the different classes in moderate amounts. People should train themselves to like a number of different foods in each of these classes of foodstuff in order to secure variety in the diet."

Social Hall To Open

There has been much discussion about opening of the social hall. President W. M. Jardine had planned a formal opening to be held soon after the furniture came. The furniture was promised by November 1, and the hall will be opened without it unless the furniture should come before Saturday.

Some of the students have a mistaken idea concerning dancing in the new hall. That there will be no dancing is certainly an incorrect statement, for President Jardine has had a special floor put in for that purpose.

The hall was not opened this last week end as most of the student body were in Lawrence, but by next week surely some of the students will be "trying out" the new floor.

Acts as Chairman

Professor Hildegarde Kneeland of the home economics department of K. S. A. C. has been appointed chairman for the state of Kansas on the national committee on thrift, by the American Home Economic association. Each state has a chairman to represent the home economics movement for thrift in the state and this person is to work with the state war savings committee and also with the war savings director of his district.

John T. Wayland of Missouri is the director of the district that includes Kansas.

Take Inspection Trip

The animal husbandry class, under the supervision of Prof. F. W. Bell, left Friday for an inspection trip of stock herds at Topeka and vicinity. They visited Thomson Stock farm at Dover and Carbonville, and the Caldwell Poland-China farm at Topeka. This inspection work covered all day Friday, and Saturday morning. From Topeka they went to Lawrence for the K. U.-Aggie football game.

Miss Nina Burgess spent several days of last week visiting in Kansas City.

Earl A. Martin of Columbia University has been appointed to assist in teaching in the zoology department during Dr. Nabour's absence. Mr. Martin served as a Lieutenant during the period of the war. He will take up his work at K. S. A. C. November 1.

AGGIES BEAT THEM IN PEP

WILDCATS, 1,000 STRONG, WERE ON THEIR TOES TO THE FINISH

SNAKE DANCE WAS BIG FEATURE

Rooting at the Game Kept Up Until the Closing Whistle Was Blown—Best Crowd Ever Seen on K. U. Football Field

The Aggies had the pep. The Wildcats, 1,000 strong, went to Lawrence early Saturday morning, overflowing with pep and enthusiasm that kept up until the final whistle was blown. At the game the Aggie rooters could be heard above the howling of the K. U. mob which was nearly twice the size of the Wildcat aggregation.

Many K. S. A. C. students went to Lawrence Friday afternoon and put the fear into K. U. by starting a good line of chatter. Then early Saturday morning about four o'clock, four hundred Aggies appeared in Lawrence. They woke the whole town by giving Aggie yells and doing the snake dance. And then when the "Aggie Special," nine coaches packed full, arrived, the K. U. students thought their finish had come.

There was never more pep shown by a visiting crowd at a football game than the Aggies showed at Lawrence. Even when the score stood 16 to 0 in favor of the Jayhawkers, the Wildcats were on their feet screaming. And now the pep is still going—let's bet the Sooners November 22.

J. Farr Brown spent the week end in Marysville.

Miss Hatty Gessner, '19, is visiting here this week.

Irl Johnson is in Sioux City, Iowa, attending to business matters.

Miss Caroline Lear and Miss Ethyl Poop returned Monday from Topeka.

Miss Ada Robertson and Miss Minnie V. Johnson spent Sunday at the Delta Zeta house in Baldwin.

Ralph St. John and Fred Layton, graduates of the college, spent Sunday at the Delta Tau Delta house.

W. B. Honska, C. E. '11, is district engineer in the bureau of public works at Camp Keithley, Larao, Philippine Islands.

Miss Edith Grace Wakefield spent the week end in Topeka where she attended the wedding of Miss Emily Graw.

Miss Nell Dickman refereed a basketball game between Garrison and Oldburg high schools at Garrison on Friday.

Miss Kate Summers entertained over the week end Miss Lois Litchfield, Miss Evelyn Colwell, and Miss Garnet Grover.

Paul Findley of Kiowa, who was a member of agriculture here two years ago, will be in school next semester. He expects to take his degree.

Ensign Lee Haegert, M. E. 1918, has recently been discharged from the navy and has been employed in the paving work at Junction City.

The Morris Cowley Farm Bureau spent Tuesday of last week visiting the agronomy farm looking over the livestock of the college.

Week end guests at the Kappa house included Miss Maude Irene Whitehead, Miss Marian, and Miss Mary Virginia Averill of Abilene.

Dr. Helen B. Thompson and Professor Hildegarde Kneeland of K. S. A. C. spoke at Topeka last week at the meeting of the First District Federation of Women's Clubs.

K. S. A. C. students are acquiring reputation for honesty. Within the last week two pocketbooks were lost and when found promptly returned. The purses contained money enough to mean a considerable pecuniary loss to the owner.

Miss Grace Derby returned Friday after attending the meetings of the Kansas Librarians association, at Pittsburg and the Missouri Librarians association at Kansas City. Miss Derby was on the program at the Pittsburg meeting.

THANK YOU, K. U.

The Jayhawks showed real spirit from start to finish. When the "Aggie Special" arrived in Lawrence, a large K. U. crowd was there to lead a parade thru town. There was no howling of "You couldn't whip a flea" or "Where are your real players?" At the football game, the Jayhawk rooters showed that they were college men—that they wanted to be clean and fair in the game. When an Aggie man was injured every Jayhawk gave him a good hearty yell.

We wish to thank you, K. U. for the fine treatment which every Aggie student received while visiting at your school. And when you come to Manhattan next year, we will try to show you the same consideration.

TRIBUTE TO MISS MACLEAN

In the death of Miss Elizabeth Maclean late member of the faculty of the Kansas State Agricultural College, there is felt by all who had the privilege of claiming her as instructor or friend, a very profound loss. She was, what all of us wish we were, a true friend all the time.

A student who went to Miss Maclean for advice concerning his school work or for personal help, knew that what she told him would be as if it were the gospel, itself, for she was the kind of a friend who knew what was the matter and was honest enough to tell it. Moreover, she always put it up to one in a way that one felt the justice of her opinion and when she had pointed out one's shortcomings she showed the way to rectify the error.

One seldom heard Miss Maclean complain of being tired. Working up to the last ounce of her strength and energy she carried on in a most amazing fashion. Only within the last few weeks had she been known to express the wish for more rest.

A friend in paying a glowing tribute to Miss Maclean said that she was "ever a friend to young men." It can be said of her, as it cannot be said of many other women, that she was most truly a real friend of all women. Living an exemplary life in every respect she was able to judge but the fact that she was so splendid in every way did not make it impossible for her to be human—it only gave her greater power to discern possible shortcomings in women and no fairer judge nor truer friend of women ever was given to a body of girl students than was the case in the presence of Miss Maclean at this school.

UP AND AT 'EM

William M. Jardine, president of the college, is attempting to stop padding and other forms of hazing at K. S. A. C. Every student in the college should deem it his duty to stand behind the president in this determination.

If a student simply can not do as the president wishes, the best thing for him to do is to withdraw from school.

President Jardine takes the stand that hazing gives the school a bad reputation over the state and that, in many cases, it keeps boys from coming to college. In nearly all eastern schools there is no such thing as hazing—the freshmen merely accept the wearing of the caps as a necessary part of the school life and so a 100 per cent crowd of freshmen don the caps.

However, as long as a crowd feels that it is being forced to do something, there will always be a few who will object for that very reason. At the Aggie-Missouri football game, when the cheer leader asked all to rise and give "Jay-Row," a former army man said, "I got all the bossing in the army that I wanted and I won't stand up for anybody now."

Every American feels and knows that we are under a laissez-faire system. He knows that he has a right to do anything that he wishes as long as it is within the law. How then, can a bunch of college students expect 100 per cent of the freshmen to wear the caps as long as the boys in bat class feel they are being forced to do so?

The first year men have expressed their willingness to don the rainbow covering. But there will be a few who will refuse to wear them. What is to be done with these few students? One freshman has suggested that the names of these men be published in the Collegian.

The Collegian will be more than glad to do this.

If there are any suggestions concerning the manner which should be used in getting the freshmen to don the bunnets, the Collegian will be glad to publish them. We are not presuming to impose on the president's business—nothing of the sort, but the Collegian would like to get before all the students a good way to bring about a 100 per cent loyalty among the freshmen.

NEW CHEMISTRY SOCIETY NOW

STARTED BY THE JUNIOR AND SENIOR STUDENTS

Purpose is To Promote Interest in Chemistry—All Upper Class Men Interested In The Science May Belong

A number of junior and senior students specializing in chemistry met on October 20, for the purpose of forming the Willard Chemical Society to promote general interest in that subject, and to help those that are interested in that science.

A constitution and a set of by laws was adopted. The officers elected are as follows: William Barker, President; Claire A. Downing, Vice-President; Nelson Anderson, Secretary; Loren Van Zile, Treasurer; Arthur Walker, Marshal.

Membership to this society is open to all upper classmen who are interested in chemistry and to freshmen and sophomores who are enrolled in any of the three courses offered in chemistry at this school. The next meeting will occur on November 10. It is hoped that a large number will turn out. Announcements will be displayed later regarding time and place of meeting.

NEW HEAD FOR AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT NOW

Doctor McKay Comes from New Hampshire College to Teach

Dr. M. K. McKay will be the new head of agricultural economics, to take the place of Dr. Theodore Macklin who resigned some time ago. Doctor McKay is now head of agricultural economics at the agricultural college of New Hampshire. He received his undergraduate work at Ohio State University and his graduate work at Harvard under Dr. T. N. Carver, receiving a doctor's degree in agricultural economics. He will report for duty here on January 15 in time to take up teaching work at the beginning of the second semester.

As head of the department he will have charge of the investigating work and teaching in agricultural economics. The former includes investigations in cost of production in farm tenancy and in the marketing of Kansas milk.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE IN THE A. H. DEPARTMENT

New Hog Barn, Costing $12,000 Is Being Built

One of the most modern hog barns in this part of the country is now being erected by the animal husbandry department at an approximate cost of $12,000, and will be completed in about two weeks.

The central wing, or body of the building, will be thirty-two feet by forty feet and two stories high. The lower floor will contain an office room, grain room, feed room, supply room, toilet, lavatory, and shower bath. The upper floor will have a bed room for the superintendent, and a feed loft.

On the sides of the body will extend two wings each 32 feet by 49 feet. These wings will each contain 14 permanent pens and six removable pens, giving room for 40 brood sows and their litters. Seven permanent pens will be placed along each side of the wing. Drains will be placed on each side of the temporary pens. The floors will slope 1-2 inch to the foot, permitting a perfect drain.

In each wing the floor of four of the pens will be of cork brick, four pens of creosote brick, and six pens of concrete on hollow tile. The floor of the temporary pens will be of concrete. Many hog breeders object to concrete floors, therefore the floor in his new barn is made of several different kinds of material so that observation can be made of the effect of the materials on the hogs. The pens will all contain farrowing rails.

Concrete ramps will emerge from each of the pens, allowing the hogs an easy exit into the pasture. The building will be heated by means of a hot air furnace in the basement. The basement will also contain a water heater for the shower baths.

Professor Davis Wants 'Em to Use Their Lips More

"When you do to exercise your lips is perfectly all right with me," asserted Prof. H. W. Davis, professor of English, before a class in Business English the other day.

Professor Davis had no more than uttered those shocking words than the young ladies in the class began to squirm in their chairs on the front row, blush and turn longing and appealing eyes toward the young men in the class, whereupon the young men in the class returned those bewitching willing glances of the young ladies, with a smile, and looked more than wise.

"Do not let your tongue become too stiff," further continued Professor Davis. This was the time for the young women in the class to smile and look wise, for that would be one thing they would not have to do.

"Use your teeth more," one of the pretty co-eds thought that the reason people didn't use their teeth more was on account of the H. C. L.

"Now the next time you come to class, I think we shall spend the hour in exercising our lips," concluded the professor at the close of his lecture. Let's all go!

Hallowe'en Party

A hallowe'en party is to be given under the auspices of the women's athletic association in the gymnasium Saturday evening, November 8. The party is only for girls. Prizes will be offered to the girls wearing the prettiest, the most comical, and the most original costumes. Games, stunts, and dancing will furnish entertainment for the evening. Prepare to hear your fate as a mystic fortune teller will be present.

Dean Mary Pierce Van Zile and the women in the physical education department will be chaperons.

The committees on entertainment and cats are hard at work and there will be plenty to fix up that costume and prepare for "one wonderful night."

Gaining Time and Power with Goodyear Belts

The present-day trend of farming is all in favor of power equipment. Machinery is doing the work that yesterday was the portion of human brawn and animal muscle, and successful farming has become very largely a matter of economical employment of power.

Belts play an important part in the modern economics of agriculture. Time spent in breaking in a belt, in re-setting an engine, in re-hanging of belting is money lost—for to nobody is time worth more than to the farmer. Power wasted in transmission is loss of engine efficiency and fuel value. Engine bearings burned by poor belt action are an expense in time, money and labor, all three.

Contrast the advantages of Goodyear Klingtite farm belts. They need no breaking in; they require no dressing. They conform to the pulleys, run freely, and hold with the grip of a true friction surface. Proof against rain and dew, there's no engine re-setting where there's a Goodyear Klingtite.

An example of time saving is furnished by the performance of a 100-foot, 7-inch, 4-ply

Klingtite Belt in use on the Rock River Farm of the McCormick estate at Byron, Ill. The foreman credits a gain of two days in filling their four 14 x 40 silos this Fall, over the time it took them last year, to the uniform, trouble-free action of this belt.

Goodyear Klingtite Belts are standard quality construction. Unstitched, they wear evenly. There is no separation at the plies, no drying out. They last longer than ordinary belts—and they cost but little more in the first place. They are obtainable in all required lengths for every power need on the farm—wood-sawing, feed-grinding, threshing, pumping and lighting.

Students and teachers of agriculture may find much of interest and profit about the function of good belting on the power-equipped farm in the Goodyear Mechanical Goods Encyclopedia. A request by letter to the nearest Goodyear Mechanical Goods Service Station or to Akron will bring you one.

STOCK SHOW TO BE GIVEN HERE

"LITTLE INTERNATIONAL" AN INNOVATION HERE

Purpose To Raise Funds to Defray Men's Expenses on Trip

The "Little International" Livestock show and parade will be held Friday, November 7, under the auspices of the Saddle and Sirolo club. It has been the custom to exhibit the college stock each year before they leave for the International at Chicago, but it has not been done the past two years on account of the prevailing conditions.

The College has an unusually good class of livestock this year and a large number of animals will be sent to the Chicago show November 29. The show at Chicago is the largest of its kind in the world and there are competitors from every part of the United States and from foreign countries.

The College stock will be on exhibition in the pavilion in the morning until ten o'clock and in the afternoon until five o'clock. In addition to this there will be a parade of the stock over the campus between 10:15 and 11:15. The purpose of the show is twofold, first to give the college in general an opportunity to see the unusually good representatives of the various breeds and classes of livestock which the Animal Husbandry department has, and second, to give the Animal Husbandry students practice in grooming and showing the animals.

In connection with the stock show at Chicago November 29 to December 5, there is held a students' judging contest. Teams from all the leading colleges of the United States and Canada compete. The Kansas State Agricultural College will be represented this year with an unusually strong team. A large bronze bull is awarded to the winning team and the chances of the Agges bringing back the "bull" this year are very promising.

There are twenty men out for the team and they are working until after dark every night that a winning team may be put out. Is it right to ask these men in addition to putting in their time to defray all their expenses? The team will leave about three weeks before the show and will work on stock of the leading herds of the Central West. This will make their expenses heavy.

Other schools pay the expenses of their teams the same as they support athletics. In order to show these men that we appreciate their effort the "Little International Ball" will be given in the Gymnasium Friday evening, November 7, and the proceeds will go to help pay the expenses of our judging team. Tags will be on sale next Thursday, November 4. These tags will be one dollar each and anyone wearing a tag will be entitled to dance. Wheelers' six piece orchestra will furnish a variety of highly educated jazz that will educate the most wayward toe.

Get behind this team, Aggie Booster, it represents your school as much as your athletic teams and deserves your support. Get your date now for the "Little International Ball" and help give the team a send off such as they have never seen before. Next Thursday is tag day for every one.

COLLEGE PROFESSORS ON PUBLIC HEALTH COMMITTEE

Are Studying Present Health Con- ditions

A Citizens' Committee to study Public Health and Welfare has been formed among the professional, civic, and functional leaders of Manhattan. The work of this committee is in line with the Nation-wide movement along preventative and constructive lines—studying present conditions and anticipating the future.

The College is represented by Dr. L. Jean Bogert, Associate Professor Ellen A. Reynolds and Dr. C. M. Siever on the Health and Hygiene committee, Dean J. T. Willard and Prof. W. H. Andrews on the Educational committee, and Prof. H. W. Brubaker on the Law Enforcement committee.

The purpose of the Citizens' Committee on Health and Hygiene is to promote the public health by the creation of larger intelligence and more thorough-going cooperation on the part of the citizens and to further and make effective the efforts of public health officials.

NEARLY $250 SUBSCRIBED TO ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL FUND

Aggie Students Responded Freely to Campaign

On Thursday and Friday of last week the students and faculty were given the opportunity to contribute to the Roosevelt memorial fund.

Dean F. D. Farrell, who had charge of the securing of the funds made it distinctly understood that the contributions were to be voluntary and that no student was expected to give over twenty five cents. 866 contributions were received, 112 from faculty members. The sum of the contributions was $245.35. This makes an average contribution of over 28 cents per person. Many students had previously contributed through other agencies.

This money will be a part of a fund now being secured by voluntary contributions from people in all parts of the country for the purpose of erecting memorials that will express in a fitting manner the love and the devotion of the people for Mr. Roosevelt and to establish a foundation which will foster and keep alive the teaching of Mr. Roosevelt in regard to Americanism.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

A writer in one of our fellow college papers, says that nothing looks as bad on a woman as darned stockings. Allow us to observe that stockings which need darning look much worse than darned ones, darned if they don't.

They are talking about inoculating the policemen in Junction City, on account of the dyptheria scare. Leave them alone; they'll never catch anything.

In Abilene the other day a cross-eyed man was arrested for burglary. He was found to be straight even if he did look crooked.

We read in the technical magazines that an antichap toilet cream has been invented. We will vouch to say that it will never become popular with the girls: they are too fond of the chaps.

A man must be pretty sick of work when he throws up his job.

"Do make yourselves at home," says the hostess. "I am at home myself and hope you all will be soon."

An old dinky preacher delivered a rousing sermon that his congregation didn't like and when he had finished preaching he had the hat passed around which returned empty. Taking his hat he hugged it to him and said: "Brethren, I sure is powerful glad to get mah hat back."

The small boy who hangs around the parlor and makes faces at his sister's beau should be punished for contempt of court.

We saw a sign in the dentist's window today. "Teeth inserted for $5." We can go him one better, for our dog at home will do the job for nothing.

A touching incident was noted at the depot the other day when an aged couple bade each other good bye. The old lady kissed her husband fervently several times and he kissed her back.

We all have our ups and downs but we have the satisfaction of knowing that eventually, when we get to the cemetery we will all be on the same level.

The cops in Manhattan remind us in many ways of a rainbow: They never come till the storm is over.

"Did you hear about Mr. Wood and old man Stone?"

"No."

"They met a lady wearing one of those Hoover dresses and Wood turned to Stone and Stone turned to Wood and both of them turned to rubber."

Colonel Roosevelt in relating some events of an African trip to a group of friends, said that the warmest reception he believed he had ever received was in a small village in eastern Sudan where the natives were so friendly and kind hearted that they all wanted to keep him for supper.

The bachelor's refrain: a lass! The maiden's refrain: ah men! Let them no longer refrain.

"There are two ways of making money with a pen," so says an eastern journal, "the ink pen, and the pig pen."

It isn't always the man with the most nose that knows the most.

"You are a liar," explained the first man.

"You are another," retorted number two.

"Calm yourselves, gentlemen," interrupted the third party, "it is quite possible that you both are right."

"I like your cheek," says the indignant young girl as her lover kissed her.

"And I like yours," he answers as he kisses her again.

A Model Young Man

Fussy old gentleman talking to a chance traveling companion.

"Have you any children?"

"Yes sir, a son."

"Ah, indeed. Does he smoke?"

"No sir, he has never as much as touched a cigarette."

"So much the better, for the use of tobacco is a poisonous habit. Does he frequent clubs?"

"He has never put his foot in one."

"Allow me to congratulate you. Does he ever come home late?"

"Never. He goes to bed directly after dinner."

"A model young man. A model young man. How old is he?"

"Just six months."

We notice in the Chicago Tribune that the famous circus bearded lady has passed to the happy hunting ground leaving her wife and seven children.

No longer are spees a thing of common occurrence in our fair land, but just the other day we heard of a man who had a "bird" of a gag; he went out on a "lark"; drank too many "swallows" of "cocktails", and slept in a cage all night.

Parson's wife to her new cook: "Doesn't the pealing of church bells make you sad?"

"No lady, but the pealin' ob dese here Bermuda onions sho do make me weep."

We see how a K. U. student got into a barber chair the other day with a paper pinned around his neck and started to read the towel. We thought we grew them here but they are just of a different variety.

Manhattan journalism students have adopted the monocle as a badge to distinguish them from the students entered in the useful arts. From our experience with journalism graduates, we would suggest the microscope as the more fitting emblem.—Hutchinson, Gazette.

Professor Fred C. Winship is now engaged in welfare work in Minneapolis.

We harp on value

because it's the key-note of our entire Winter stock and not a lost chord that we pick out to talk about.

Certainly, our new Suits and Overcoats are stylish, well tailored and all wool—that goes without saying.

Sure, they are made to fit well, hang smooth and wear long—that's only to be expected.

But on top of all these usual virtues they have an UNUSUAL VALUE—the old fashioned sort of square real money's worth and not the kind that passes the finger bowl before the dessert.

Ghost and Goblin Party
Ghosts and goblins were a common sight at the Hallowe'en party given Saturday night by Eurodelphian literary society and the Websters. The Web-Euro hall was appropriately decorated with autumn leaves and shocks of corn. A cauldron with bones scattered about it gave the platform a weird appearance which was accentuated by the witch dance put on by seven witches later in the evening.

All attending the party came masked. When the doors were opened weird music was heard, the music continuing as the masked merry-makers marched two by two into the hall.

The early part of the evening was spent socially, and in an attempt to guess the identity of the members of the party. A short program was given. Later in the evening ghost stories were told. Refreshments of cakes and cider were served.

SEND TEAM TO CHICAGO SHOW

K. S. A. C. MEN COMPETE AT INTERNATIONAL STOCK CONTEST

SELECTIONS MADE NEXT WEEK

Trophy Valued at $500 Is Presented Each Year to the Winners—No Cash Prizes Are Given

Students in the class in Form and Function in the animal husbandry department are trying out for places on the stock judging team which will judge stock at the contest of the International Stock show at Chicago, November 29 to December 6. To be elected to the International Stock Judging team is considered one of the highest honors in the animal husbandry department.

The International team is composed of five senior members of the class in Form and Function. They will be required to judge several classes of live stock at the International Stock show at Chicago, and give their reasons for their decisions. Students at this contest are graded by a committee composed of prominent stock breeders, and college and government experts. This contest takes the entire first day of the show.

The International Stock show is the largest in the world. About 25 teams compete at this show. These teams represent the leading agricultural colleges of the United States and Canada. It is about the only event in which the students of a college are able to compete with the students of the best colleges from all over the country. In many of the states the International Stock Judging contest takes precedence over athletics, as it does not confine its competition to neighboring institutions.

Men trying out for this team, which will be selected about next week, are doing a great amount of extra work outside of class in preparation for the tryout. The team will go to the American Royal at Kansas City, where they will do preparatory work in stock judging. They will also visit prominent herds in Iowa and Illinois, and the herds of the Iowa State college and the University of Illinois, preparing themselves for the contest.

A trophy valued at $500 is each year presented to the winning team. This trophy can be held until the next year, when it is again presented to the winner. The trophy must be won three times to keep possession of it. No cash prizes are given, and as there is no appropriation for this purpose, the expense of the trip must be borne by the students.

From the material in the animal husbandry department this year, the college has an excellent chance of winning. A dance will be given in the gymnasium tonight to raise the funds necessary to send the team to Chicago. Nothing advertises a state, and especially a college, as much as having a good team at this show. We've got the team, let's advertise the state and college by sending them to Chicago.

Helped in Harper County

While at the Harper county stock show last week, Prof. C. W. Bell assisted the Harper County Breeders' association, which has just recently erected a $20,000 sales pavilion. He also had complete charge of the high school stock judging contest, and judged the stock. One of the features of the show was shorthorn bulls that were exhibited. This class represented a total of $50,000. The exhibit included three sons of Avondale, the greatest shorthorn bull in existence.

The Sigma Nu fraternity, composed of 36 members, has gone 100 per cent in the Red Cross membership drive. Others should follow suit.

MUST OBSERVE HEALTH RULES

PRESIDENT JARDINE ANNOUNCES NEW PLAN TO FACILITY AND STUDENTS

TO WATCH THE SICK ONES NOW

Instructors Will Prepare Absence Slips and If Student Has Been Ill, He Must Have Doctor's Permit to Return to Class

In order to prevent the spread of any disease, plans have been made to watch all sickness among college students. If a student is ill, he can not attend classes and must have a doctor's permit before he returns to class.

President Jardine has issued the following statement in regard to this: "To the Students and Faculty: On Monday, November 10, the new plan for controlling the health situation in the college will go into effect. This plan has been prepared under the direction of the Committee on Student Health and has for its purpose the better protection of the health of the students and faculty. Its chief points are:

"1. Instructors will not be absent from students at the beginning of a class and endeavor to learn from those present which absences are due to illness. The instructors will prepare absence slips for all students absent and file these in the offices of the Deans not later than four o'clock each day. The slips will be collected at four o'clock and examined for notices of illness. The names of students absent on account of illness will be given to the Deans.

"2. Students absent from class on account of illness will not be permitted to re-enter class except upon the presentation to the teacher before the opening of a class, of a statement from a physician to the effect that they are in condition to mingle with other students. Permits for young women who have not been absent on account of contagious disease may be signed by Miss Umberger, Dean Thompson, or Miss Milton. The office of the college physician will be open to students at 7:45 each morning that permits to re-enter class may be secured before the first hour classes. When students return to class they will file their excuses as heretofore and teachers will transmit them daily to the Deans.

"The success of this plan is safeguarding the health of the students and faculty will depend upon the hearty cooperation of everyone concerned. If you will give us your cooperation, we will endeavor to inconvenience you as little as possible, at the same time that we are giving you the greatest possible measure of health protection. By all working together, we shall be able to keep the maximum number of students and faculty on the job throughout the winter.

"The college infirmary is being remodeled and enlarged and will be ready for use soon. It will provide five wards for girls and the same number for boys. A man and wife will live in and have charge of the infirmary. They will furnish meals to students quartered there and any other attention necessary. Quarters will be provided for a trained nurse when such services are required."

AGGIE DEBATERS DOING SOME REAL PRACTICE WORK NOW

Over 20 Men and Women Putting in Three Hours a Week

The Aggie debaters are not only backing the football one hundred per cent strong this fall but they are doing a little real work along their own line. Over twenty men and women have been putting in three hours a week of classroom work besides considerable outside work since the beginning of the school year in preparation for the debates which are to be held this semester.

Ten years six or eight men were coached in debate at K. S. A. C. by one of the English instructors during his spare moments but today a skilled debater and public speaker trains over seventy-five people each college year in the art of debating. Of this number twenty to thirty take part in intercollegiate debating contests with other colleges and universities.

Not the least prominent in debating activities are the girls. Before women suffrage had been thought of for the nation and even before it was adopted in Kansas, K. S. A. C. recognized woman's equal right with man to argue. And for several years as many, if not more women than men, have been trained in argumentation. The home economics girl takes that course that she may learn to make a comfortable home for her future husband and she takes debating that she may be able to hold her own with him in their daily arguments. Now that she has woman suffrage, it fits her to take a prominent part in the nation's politics.

The time for a man to learn debating is while he is in college. The man who makes a name for himself in debate while at college almost invariably makes a much greater name for himself in the world after he leaves college. Former debaters at K. S. A. C. may be found today in legislatures as editors of some of our largest newspapers, and other responsible positions where the knowledge of debating is essential in their daily work. And the most of them will tell you that they owe their rapid advancement to the training which they received in debate while in college.

When an Aggie man graduates, whether he is an engineer, an agriculturalist or what, he is no more than out of college until he finds that he is very much in need of experience in debate. If he has not already had this training and experience while in school.

The debates are coached by professor O. H. Burns, who is a graduate of K. U. Professor Burns has had much training in debate and public speaking which makes him well fitted for the position of debate coach at K. S. A. C. While a student at Kansas university in 1914-6 he took part in inter-collegiate debates with Oklahoma university, Nebraska university and Missouri university. In 1917 Professor Burns was instructor in public speaking at K. U. and in 1918 he came to K. S. A. C. as head of the public speaking department here.

Besides the work of Coach Burns on debate, Professor Searson, head of the department of English, and Doctor MacArthur, also of the English department, spend a considerable amount of their time in helping promote debating interests.

FARRELL WOULD HAVE PRESS GAIN FARM AND CITY FOLKS

Journalists Can Bring These Classes Together, He Says

"There is much misunderstanding between town and country folks because they do not know the facts about each other. This offers an opportunity for newspaper men and women to clear up this misunderstanding by representing agriculture in their writings," said Dean F. D. Farrell of the division of agriculture in a lecture to the students of industrial journalism at a recent seminar.

"The tendency of present day journalists is to substitute human interest for facts, because agriculture, in their opinion, is a dry subject," continued Dean Farrell. "Journalists should be better informed on local news, thus helping to solve such problems as the distribution of food, which is the greatest problem in America today."

TICKET SALE FOR STOCK JUDGING TEAM IS SUCCESS

Sold Tags to Send Men to International Stock Show

The tag day, held under the auspices of the Saddle and Siroin club for the purpose of raising money to help pay the expenses of the stock judging team, was quite successful. The students and faculty, especially those interested in agriculture enthusiastically endorsed and supported the cause.

The parade of the college stock over the campus will be held Friday morning, at regular chapel hour, 10:15 to 11:15. The parade will pass in front of Main hall, where it is expected the largest crowd will be gathered. Additional stock besides that in the parade will be on exhibition at the pavilion until five o'clock in the afternoon.

The Little International ball will be held in Nichols gymnasium Friday evening. The dance will start at nine o'clock. Wheeler's orchestra will furnish the music. Any one wearing one of the tags which have been on sale is entitled to dance. For those who have not had an opportunity to purchase a tag one dollar admission will be charged at the door on the evening of the dance.

EX-SERVICE MEN OPEN NEW HALL

RECREATION HALL OPENS TUESDAY NIGHT WITH PARTY

Will Be Dancing and Games—The Entertainment Is To Be Given by the Ex-Service Men's Club

The first dance to be held in the new recreation hall located in Anderson will be given next Tuesday night—armistice night—by the ex-service men's club of the college.

The affair will be a dance and entertainment, so that those who do not dance need not fear that they will have nothing to do. The entertainment committee promises a lively time for all.

The entertainment is given by the Ex-service Men's club and for the ex-service men. The general public is not invited because the hall is not large enough to accommodate every one. The vocational men are especially urged to be present.

The men are urged not to let the fact that they have no date interfere with their plans to come. The girls' loyalty league will aid in the entertainment.

The hall is to be decorated and the entertainment committee expect to make this first dance one of the best. There will be plenty of punch, games, and eats. Contests of various kinds will be held also.

This will give the ex-service men an opportunity to get together and enjoy as well as make new acquaintances. Many of them celebrated last armistice day in Germany.

AG. ELEVEN WILL TANGLE WITH HIGHLAND COLLEGE

School of Agriculture Won Its First Game from Solomon

The school of agriculture will play its second football game of the season today against Highland college.

The Ags. won their first game from Solomon high school by a score of 19 to 0. It was a harder game than the score would indicate. At the end of the first half the score was 0 to 0. Solomon was outplaying the school of agriculture by using open field work and end runs. They threatened the ag goal twice.

In the second half the line did good work and enabled the backs to push over two touchdowns and to get one field goal. Harris made two successful drop kicks which gave them a decided lead in scoring. Gordon led in the punting all through the game.

A return game will be played with Highland on November 15th. Thanksgiving day the team will play Solomon at Solomon. There is some talk of a post season game with Manhattan high school.

Fall Falls

A companion poem to "Spring Springs" by H. W. D. in the Industrialist of that issue, with profuse apologies to the latter. When flit the leaves And the football plunks, When the gobbler grieves And the punkin punks, Then hear me tell That fall is fell.

When old Oct. croons 'Till the filbert fills, When the sumac shoons And the pickle-lills, Then fol-de-rol For fall is fall.

—Schuyler Craycraft.

REDSKINS ARE LIGHT AND FAST

FARMER LINE AVERAGES MORE THAN HASKELL'S HEAVIEST MAN

THEY CAN'T DENT THE AGGIE LINE

Indians Are Strongest Where the Wildcats Are Weakest—Have Many Fast End Runs and Long Smooth Passes

Light but fast, the undefeated Haskell Indians come here Saturday for their first try this year against a Valley school. The Indians have a fast running attack that not an opponent has been able to stop in spite of the comparative weight placing the Red Skins at a disadvantage.

The comparative weight will be greatly in favor of the Aggies, Saturday, ten or fifteen pounds at a conservative guess. Davis, the star Indian end, is the heaviest man on the Haskell team. He weighs about 180 pounds. The Aggie line will average better than that from end to end.

There is slight chance that the Indians will be able to dent the Aggie line but where the Indians are strongest the Aggies are weakest. The Indians have fast running attack around the ends and a smoothly going aerial attack that the farmer boys are going to have trouble meeting if they are not better than they were in the K. U. and Washington games. The Pikers beat the Aggies on their forward passes and there are some alibi makers in the Aggie camp who assert that the Jayhawkers never would have won but for their second touchdown which was made on a forward pass.

So Schulz's freshmen are trying to imitate the Indian invaders this week to give the Varsity a chance to size up Haskell's attack. Coaches Clevenger and Schulz figure that they can beat the Indians if they can stop Davis and Anderson, the Indian star half back.

As far as the Aggie offensive is concerned the coaches feel that they have at least an even break with the Indians. With better generalship in the K. U. game the Aggies might have made a showing since they were twice far down in Jayhawker territory. Several good forward passes have been mastered and Gallagher and Hinds both are good with the ball where speed and shiftness are desirable qualities.

Then there is Huson, always sure for a count if he gets half a chance at an opponent's uprights. His game left knee received in the K. U. contest will be back in shape for the Indians.

The Aggies are in perfect condition. Hinds, kept out of the K. U. game because he still limped from a sprained ankle, can be used Saturday. Roda, who was in splendid form last Saturday, is expected to be still better by the end of this week. Huson, who got a k. o. in the K. U. contest, was seeing straight again within fifteen minutes.

Coaches Clevenger and Schulz are conservative in their guess about the result of the game. Neither is confident of beating the Indians, although they feel that the chances are even.

The probable Aggie line up for Saturday's game will be:

Winter or Ginery Right Tackle
Roda Right Guard
Cleland Center
Huston Left Guard
Randels or Enlow Left End
Burton Quarter
Hinds Right Half
E. Cowell Left Half
Pateck Full

Teach Technical Questions

Miss Kathryn Duffield, student Field Secretary whose visit to K. S. A. C. was delayed because of illness, will be here November 14 and 15. Her time during these two days will be spent largely in conference with officers and committees on technical questions.

AG—CULTURE

An Aggie professor, after attending chapel Wednesday, made this remark, "It appeared this morning that the only kind of culture the agriculture students have is the ag kind."

While this statement is rather severe, it is, in part, quite true. During the speech of Doctor Suzzallo at chapel, nearly a hundred Aggie boys left the auditorium. It was during the latter part of the address that some of the boys in the balcony became restless and so proceeded to leave.

Nothing is so plain in showing the lack of good training as this act. The address of Doctor Suzzallo was extremely interesting and anyone who paid attention to it, could not help but feel thrilled. Yet nearly a hundred boys left, making a noise like so many lumber wagons when they moved.

No one knows where they all went, after dates, to gym, to Aggieville, and other places. Doctor Suzzallo will carry back to the University of Washington the impression that Kansas Aggie students have not had the proper training.

Let's develop a different kind of culture besides just ag-culture. Of course, the entire school was not to blame for the actions of the one hundred boys, and the rest of the school regrets it. The Collegian has received many indignant statements about their leaving. This article is meant especially for those who left the auditorium.

A COLLEGE SMOKE PROBLEM

Wellesley College is having smoke problems. The trouble, as one might assume when thinking of this school for young women, does not arise from the chimney smoke or from the smoking hall settling from neighboring factories. No, the smoke problem arises from the lighted end of cigarettes and this would not be so distressing were it not that the other ends of the cigarettes find their way to the supposedly innocent mouths of the young women aforesaid. How to regulate the smoke evil has caused Wellesley authorities to issue this bulletin:

"Students may not smoke while living under the regulations of the Wellesley College Government Association."

The New York Sun is inclined to think that this merely bars the girls from smoking on the campus, while resting from workouts in the gymnasium or while going from residence to classroom and vice versa. The ordinary interpretation of the regulation would be to assume that smoking is entirely barred, although the Sun, being nearer the scene of action, may be right in believing that the students may smoke in their own rooms. On the same theory they may chew tobacco if they are to copy the male tobacco habit in its entirety. Also what could be more fetching than a young woman, stalking back and forth through her room, her hands thrust into the pockets of her skirt and a bulldog pipe clenched between her teeth while she gives serious consideration to Euripides or the theories of Political Science?

The old order changeth. Indiana schools of the co-educational variety have been dealing with tame little problems relating to the number of social engagements the students may have in any one week, and whether dancing should be permitted. Meanwhile the east has forged ahead (?)

and old Wellesley is trying to regulate the smoke and the smoker. There need be no surprise at later information from the school stating that some girl has been suspended from the basketball squad because she was found inhaling a cigarette during the training season. If Wellesley girls are going to smoke they must learn to make sacrifices while training is on, for the honor and glory of the college must be upheld in athletics even if some of the old standards do fall.

Miss Mable Jacobson of Sedgwick arrived Wednesday for a few days visiting with Miss Hazel Stewart.

CAMPUS STYLES

Long hair, short hair, curly heads, too,
Bobbed hair, frizzed hair, some fixed up with glue,
Spiffy hair, nifty hair, some that makes you quake,
But oh! you K. S. Aggie girls, you surely take the cake!

Brown hair and red hair, blond and some brunette,
Fussy-fixed and plainly-fixed, golden-toned and jet,
Pencil-rolled and marcel-waved, ear bobs like a ball,
But oh! you K. S. Aggie girls, you surely beat 'em all!

Every color do you have and every shape you try,
Snugly pinned and loosely wrapped, some far—some near the eye, Frizzly locks, they all may claim, or any other make
But oh! you K. S. Aggie-girls, you surely win the stake!

We noticed at the football game recently that few boys complained of the cold while many girls spoke in terms of "being chilled to the bone" (whatever that means, we don't know) but it was very evident that there was a good reason why the boys were more comfortable than the girls. They wore high necked sweaters and long armed sweaters and bobbed around a lot and kept warm. We don't know how it happens that boys have so much sense but they certainly do when it comes to dressing properly for an afternoon's sitting out on the bleachers at Ahearn field.

Yes, this is a girl writing this and she's not peeved because she hasn't a new, nifty winter suit to wear, either—she only wishes that the girls would dress more warmly when they go to the games so that they could have as good a time as the boys have.

Fifteen rahs for the girl who the other day very emphatically declared that she would not buy a winter coat until the prices were cut. If we had a few more lion hearted women it might be possible to boycott the suit-sellers and coatsellers and a few of the others who like to charge one half of a hundred iron men for one winter coat. Surely 'tis true that: "Gone are the days when one could buy a coat,

Two shoes, one hat, a pair of gloves, And other things of note,
A ticket to the K. U. game and railroad fare as well

For what you pay for one coat now Oh, isn't it just—well!"
Maybe the H. C. L. will break soon seein' as how the war is over.

We've noticed a lot of cats around the campus lately and have been wondering what it all means. Do you suppose that they have been attracted by the feminine hair styles thinking they were—oh girls we haven't the heart.

A few years ago it was not hard to determine just what was the thing in men's hair cuts but nowadays the masculine pates are shorn in such varied and strange fashions that it is almost impossible to determine just what is the thing. Some are parted in the middle, some on the side, while a few still follow the pompadour method. Not uncommon is the style which, when done to perfection makes the wearer not unlike an inmate of Sing Sing or Leavenworth. The poor, poor men—they are not to blame for they surely do not have a very conservative example put before them by the fairer members of the sex.

All of the foregoing has sounded pretty snippy, hasn't it? Well, now we'll explain. You see we comb our own hair in a most absurd fashion and are most positively aware of how silly it looks all the time, hence the remarks on other folks' hair. Too, we are wearing our winter before last's coat, hence the few words concerning winter coats. Also we happened to be one of the girls who made the most fuss about being cold at the game the other day, hence the advice to whom it may concern that, nice red flannels are in better order than Georgette waists.

With these few kind words we thank you.

Yes, this is the nicest college we have ever attended but we shall be the happiest when that day shall come when we are sufficiently acquainted with all the baldpated members of the faculty that they will not expel us from school if we write funny verses about their aforementioned bald heads.

DEAR OLD HEN

Spiveyville, October 28.

Dear Jack: I got your letter last week and was sure tickled to find that you were showing those college guys how we do it in Spiveyville. I also got that students' directory you sent along, and I have spent the last few nights looking over the list of names, especially the girls. Of course we don't know 'em, but we just naturally couldn't help making some remarks about some of 'em.

We see the A. H. Dept. (What ever that is) has a prof named Winchester. Wonder what he shoots? Eh Jack!—Also see that there is a prof named Wendt. I suppose that if you went to sleep in his class you would wake up and find him gone. There is a man named Peine in the history department. I don't see why they don't transplant him to the Hort. Dept. May be they will next Arbor Day.

I also understand that there is an instructor named Hurd. But I guess that that is just another one of those rumors. But if Cooke Burns the Rice we will sure have to give him the Dickens.

Last night I looked over the list of just the common students and I see Jack that there is a freshman up there named Crooke. Now you must be careful, and not get to associating with any of them. Of course your good influence might reform him. You might take him to church with you like you used to take the boys here in Spiveyville. Then we see there is a gal named Circle. Bill here says he knows her, and says she's not, but I kinder thought at first that she might be a rounder. There is also a Bachelor there I see, but I bet she isn't. And Jack I'd like to know who gets the Bacon.

There are three Balls attending the Institute, I wonder why they don't go together and hang out there shingle together and start a pawn shop.

Eh? We have been looking over the list of those names beginning with Y. That is where we got so many Young ideas.

I also see that there are a couple of Buttons. They sure would have been handy to have last summer wouldn't they Jack? But I suppose that if I keep pulling this stuff they will have Constable put the Law on me and I will have to have Counsel for my defense. You see that that would be the Worst Deal that a guy could have Hopp onto him.

There are so many Halls up there that any one ought to be able to hire one. How about that Champion, Jack? Was it at a beauty contest or a baby show that it got the blue ribbon?

I don't know how your grub is up there but I see you have Salmon every day. I got tired of that when I was in the home guards. If that fellow Skidmore was Skid-No-More he would make a good tire add. I suppose that Bonesteel is what they are using for Armour plate on those new battle ships.

You can't afford to throw away that old suit or army overcoat when by having them dyed, remodeled or repaired, they will look like new. We can do your cleaning and pressing, also your laundry work.

All Work Guaranteed

A V LAUNDRY

I'd sure like to meet that fellow What stone so I could sharpen my memory. Well Jack ole feller it is getting Winter, and since they have turned the clock back an hour I am getting to be quite a Sleeper. I'd love to Wright Moore to you, but my Ingersoll says that it is time for me to Hyde myself under the Hay.

Now I don't want anything I've said to be Hurd by those college fellers, because they might think that I was trying to Mock them, or they might try to convict me of liable. They might hire one of those city defectives to Weave a Webb of evidence around me. But I would be Quick and Work like a Wolfe or a Fox and Spring Miles away from them when they tried to pinch me.

You can Seright now Jack that if they did get me I would be Mesker than a Lamb in the Fall. But if they sent a Messenger to say that they May Hunt me down, I Wood act worse than if they would Turnbull loose in a china shop.

But as how I am not a Brewer, but only a French Plummer in Spiveyville, I guess there will be no need to strew Flowers over our Green Graves this summer.—As ever, Hen.

HUSKERS USE VALLEY RULES

DEFEND ATTITUDE TOWARD MISSOURI VALLEY

Ask Right to Schedule any Athletic Event under Auspices of any College or University

The following story, sent out by the publicity department of Nebraska university, explains the attitude of the Huskers toward their withdrawal from the Missouri Valley conference. Valley rules prohibit inter-collegiate contests in cities other than those in which either one or the other of the schools is situated. Nebraska defied this rule by scheduling and playing a game with the University of Oklahoma at Omaha.

"Press dispatches and rumors keep coming to Lincoln that the college athletic authorities of the Missouri Valley conference have decided not to schedule any athletic contest with the University of Nebraska athletic department until the University of Nebraska comes back into the conference. The reasons given mislead the public and prejudice the students of the various institutions, as well as to do unwarranted injury to the reputation of the Nebraska athletes.

"These reasons are 'that the University of Nebraska is relieved from playing under the rules of the conference.' Another dispatch stating that the athletic board of Kansas gave as the chief reason for their action in proposing a boycott of Nebraska that 'they feel they are working under a handicap in meeting Nebraska in athletics, as Kansas is bound by the Valley rules and the Huskers are not.'

"Nebraska desires to state that she is playing all her athletic contests under the conference rules and everyone of her athletes on the varsity conforms to the eligibility rules of the conference.

"Nebraska is perfectly willing and desires to have it definitely stated in every contract that the game is played according to conference rules. All that she asks is that she have the right to schedule any athletic event under the auspices of any college or university."

There will be "oodles" of fun for everyone, so don't miss it.

Vesper Services

At Vespers, Thursday, Mrs. Van Zile gave a report of the Field Conference. She told of the plans for 1920's work and of the plan for raising the five million dollar budget. The work is to be divided into three main parts; namely, state, national, and world. The state work is to consist of that of the city and college associations. The world work will be extended in three directions: the orient, particularly Japan; South America; and the war zone of Europe. The plan is to send trained Y. W. workers over to start the work and to train the girls there to carry on the work.

Vesper devotionals were lead by Luella Morris. The Y. W. octette furnished the music.

Look Girls

If girls who want to supplement their private pocket books will give their names to either Miss Irene Dean of the Y. W. C. A., or to Mrs. Van Zile, they will be given something to do as the demand is greater than the supply.

FAMOUS BASS SOLOIST HERE

ARTHUR MIDDLETON, AMERICAN TRAINED SINGER TO GIVE RECITAL

ARTISTS SERIES SECOND NUMBER

Mr. Middleton Made Good with the Metropolitan Opera Company—Gave 85 Performances First Year

(The second concert of the All Star Artists' course will be given at the auditorium November 25, by Arthur Middleton, base-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Mr. Middleton is known as the "made in American baritone," for he is not only an American citizen, but an American trained singer as well, as he has never had a lesson outside of the United States. His success is often cited by musical authorities as an example of what American musicians can do without foreign training.

Mr. Middleton is an Iowan, and a graduate of Simpson college, beginning his musical career as an orator to singer while attending college. For a number of years after his graduation he was employed as soloist at the Oak Park Presbyterian church of Chicago. This position is the highest paid church position that one may hold in Chicago.

Mr. Middleton has scored an unequalled success at the Metropolitan. The first year that he was connected with the Metropolitan company he gave thirty-five performances, which fact in itself shows the great popularity which he has attained in New York. Mr. Middleton makes records for the Edison phonograph.

The appearance of Arthur Middleton November 25 will be one of the most important events of the college year, and the chance to hear him is one that no student can afford to miss.

ARCHITECTS MAKE PLANS FOR CITY SWIMMING POOL

Manhattan Chamber of Commerce Offers $25 Prize for Best Sketch

A prize of twenty-five dollars has been offered by the Chamber of Commerce of Manhattan to the student in architecture who can produce the best design for remodeling the comfort station and installing a swimming pool in connection with it in the city park.

Great enthusiasm is being shown in this work," says Stanley Smith, assistant professor in architecture. "The boys have all turned in their preliminary sketches. For the most part they were very good. I think they would be successful economically and would be a building that the people of Manhattan would be proud of having in their park."

Most of this work is being done on the remodeling of the house. Dressing rooms and all bathing house equipment must be added to it. Most of the boys have suggested having wings built on each side of the house. The size of the pool is approximately 125 by 225 feet.

In order to make this a fair contest the boys are not allowed to see each others' preliminary sketches. These were made and turned in to professor who checked them. Now their finished design must be like the preliminary sketch because the work is no longer secret.

The best design will be turned over to a practicing architect for completion. All the designs must be turned in at five o'clock on the evening of November twenty-sixth.

HOMECOMING FOR K. S. A. C. WILL BE ON NOVEMBER 22

Aggies Will Play Sooners—Is First Reunion Since War

Homecoming day for K. S. A. C. graduates and former students this year is November 22, the date of the Sooner-Aggie game. A greater response from alumni and alumnae than ever before in the history of the reunion is expected at this the first homecoming since the war.

The Wildcats have a mighty good chance to win the game, yet the strong Oklahoma eleven may give them a surprise. Four weeks ago the Aggies tied the Missouri eleven with a 6 to 6 score. Last Saturday the Sooners and Tigers played a 6 to 6 tie. The Tiger team is the only one that both the Aggies and the Sooners have played so close does not give either team the advantage.

So far this year the results of the games played by the K. S. A. C. eleven are as follows: Aggies 16, Baker 0; Aggies 20, Camp Funston 6; Aggies 6, Missouri 6; Aggies 9, Washington 14; Aggies 12, Hays 0; Aggies 3, K. U. 16.

Alumni of the college are being urged to visit K. S. A. C. the week before Thanksgiving rather than to wait until commencement when all the classes will be closed.

FIGHTERS IN SERVICE CLUB

ORGANIZATION OF COLLEGE MEN IS FINALLY COMPLETED

Constitution Formally Adopted Wednesday Evening—All College Men May Enter Ex-service Club Before December 1

The organization of ex service men club of K. S. A. C. was completed Wednesday afternoon when a constitution was formally adopted. The following preamble will give one an idea of the broad purpose, of the high ideals, and of the significance of the club:

We the students and employees of the Kansas State Agricultural college associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To promote fellowship and good will among ex-service men of the college; to preserve the memories and the incidents of our associations in the great war; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by devotion to mutual helpfulness.

To promote more responsible citizenship and a sense of obligation to the college, the community, the state and the nation; and to develop intelligent patriotism and thus safeguard the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy.

The club is organized for the purpose of promoting social affairs as well as business affairs. The constitution provides that not less than two general social affairs shall be held each semester. The first of these social affairs will be held Tuesday evening—Armistice day.

Any ex-service man who is in any way connected with the college is eligible for membership in the club. Those who hand in their names and pays their initiation fees before December 1, will be considered charter members. The officer elected are: Commander, Arthur Brewer; Vice-tant, W. C. Wilson; finance officer, Mr. Peterson; historian, Fred H. Bayer.

IS WEARING MONOCLES BAD ETHICS FOR JOURNALISTS?

Great Bend Editor Writes Article on Newspaper Fraternities

The editor of the Great Bend Tribune upon hearing of the decision of Aggie Journalists to wear monocles as a mark of distinction, waxes sarcastic and writes as follows:

"Possibly there has long been the feeling that something was lacking in newspaper fraternities—that mark of distinction which should at once put at rest any misgiving of one's station. We have known of reporters taking a shot in the arm, a nip of Tennessee drippings now and then, and possibly a pinch of snuff was used occasionally to aid the muse, but what rent many of them to their graves doubtless was their lack of knowledge regarding newspaper ethics—wearing of the monocle."

Pearce Writes Article

A recent number of "Power," the leading magazine of this country dealing with power plant matters, contains a four page article by Asst. Prof. C. E. Pearce of the applied mechanics and machine design department. The article contains a full page "Alignment Chart" for finding the properties of saturated and superheated steam and discusses the use of this chart in the solution of thermodynamic problems.

POP NIGHT DECEMBER 5

SEVEN ORGANIZATIONS TO PRODUCE STUNTS IN AUDITORIUM

ONLY THREE GIVEN LAST YEAR

Euroclaphians, Ionians, Hamiltons, Press Club, Kappas, Delta Zetas, and Iota Psi to Take Part in Contest

Seven different college organizations are busy preparing their "stunts" for Aggie Pop night, to be given in the auditorium Friday evening, December 5, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Large Try-out This Year
Last year only three stunts were given on Pop night. But this year a large number of organizations tried out and the seven best were chosen. The judges had a great deal of difficulty in selecting the first seven as many of those that were not chosen had mighty good stunts.

Following are the seven organizations that will produce stunts: Euroclaphians, Ionians, Hamiltons, Aggie Press Club, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Zeta, and Iota Psi. The judges will be Dr. J. G. Emerson, Dr. J. R. MacArthur, Miss Florence Heiser, Miss Jessie Machir, Dean Van Zile and Miss Winifred Barthoff.

Features Between Acts
The plan now is to have musical features while the scenery is being changed for the different acts. It is also rumored that an all-faculty stunt will be given between acts.

INTERSOCIETY PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN IN CHAPEL

Student Affairs Committee to Be the Goat in the Farce

With the change of the chapel day to Thursday, one of the most interesting programs of the year will this week be presented to the college. Every year the Allied Literary society program is anticipated with the keenest interest and pleasure and from the rumors that have been floating around for the last week or ten days the program which will be given Thursday morning will be the finest ever.

The program will be opened with a song by the Hamilton quartette. Following this will be a reading by Theodore Bayer. The third feature of the program will be the intersociety farce which this year will be a take off on the Students' Affairs Committee.

Miss Mollie Smith Moser is chairman of the program committee.

Known as Good Man

Our esteemed friend, the Lawrence Journal-World, is careful not to be over-enthusiastic in its comment on Dewey Huston, the kicker of the Aggie team. It says: "Huston is probably the best drop-kicker in the valley this year." Ye gods and little fishes! "Probably" is in the valley this year! If there is a better drop-kicker in the world than Huston we never heard of it.—Manhattan Daily Mercury.

Mathematics Shark Is Poor in Use of English Language

"Yes," "no," "water," "father," and "mother," were the only English words known by Constantine Calogieris, when he landed in the United States from Greece.

This Greek, even now none too well versed in the English language, is called by one of his professors "the best student in mathematics that ever attended the Kansas State Agricultural college." He is taking post-graduate subjects in mathematics—integral calculus and differential equations—yet only last semester he was struggling with sub-freshman English.

His home was in the Island of Imbros, off the coast of Greece.

After completing elementary school, young Calogieris was faced with the prospect of being drafted into the Turkish army, as this island was then governed by Turkey. He went across to Saloniki and spent one year in a French-Greek commercial school. By this time he had reached the age of 18, and faced the certainty of being drafted. The idea of serving under the unspeakable Turk was intolerable, so he sailed for America.

After landing in this country Calogieris worked at odd jobs, for some time. While doing janitor work at Princeton university he became acquainted with several of the graduate students, and from them he received the inspiration to go on to school.

One of these men wrote to various western schools for him. The school of agriculture at the Kansas State Agricultural college offered the best inducements. Here he could finish his secondary education and still have the college environment. It also offered chances for self support.

Calogieris has been self supporting while attending school. Until this year he earned a living by firing turn-aces, waiting tables, and doing other tasks of a menial nature. Now he earns his way as a tutor in mathematics and assistant in the mathematics department.

MILITARY HAS FEW ABSENCES

KEEN INTEREST IN DRILL SINCE COMPETITION STARTED

Definite Appointments of Officers Have Been Made by Lieutenant Colonel Terrell—Make Rifle Targets

Remarkable as it may seem, there are fewer absences in the military department than in any other department in the college, according to Lt. Colonel Terrell, commandant. He also states that there is a very keen interest in his department, especially since there has been a little competition introduced, in the way of basketball and rifle practice.

Carpenters are at work now on the targets and doing other general repair work, getting in readiness for the rifle practice that will start soon. The rifle club is already well organized and all are urged to become members.

The following appointments in the R. O. T. C. have been made by Colonel Terrell, to become effective immediately. While some of these are new men most of them had considerable amount of experience. To be Majors, N. Pearson, C. C. McPherson; To be Captains, D. C. Thayer, H. S. Woodard, W. D. Scully, A. C. Ramsey, Floyd Hawkins, C. E. Hutto, E. L. McIntosh, Percy Deputy; To be 1st Lieutenants, M. W. Watt, R. C. Pyley, J. E. Thackeray, R. D. Hilliard, W. B. Carey, Robert Shoffner, C. E. Guy, W. J. Bucklee, W. C. Wilson, William Sterling, W. J. Anderson; To be 2nd Lieutenants, A. A. Graves, G. S. Waldo, A. N. Burdette, P. Kovar, G. C. Bailey, K. C. Frank, R. E. Marshall, H. E. Howard, W. D. Lobough, J. E. T. Boston, H. C. Spencer, T. D. Hampson, F. Cochel.

K. U. GIRL JOURNALISTS WEAR CORDUROY SKIRTS

Aggie Scribes Avoid Argument by Waiting for Girls' Cooperation

K. S. A. C. Journalists have spared themselves a world of disagreement by waiting to decide upon the insignia for their course. The K. U. department of journalism decided upon their distinguishing mark, corduroy trousers, many years ago, when the number of women enrolled in the course was negligible. Recently the women journalists of the university voted to be recognized. The co-ed reporters, however, had an argumentative time before they finally arrived at the decision to wear brown corduroy skirts. Many of the girls argued against the skirts on the grounds of expense, lack of beauty, and lack of individuality, but nevertheless, the co-ed journalist of K. U. who now neglects to wear a brown corduroy skirt from the opening of the football season until Thanksgiving, will be subject to punishment.

Mrs. Rouse Teaching

Miss Alice Skinner, an instructor in food economics and nutrition, who recently returned from France, has been granted an extension of her leave of absence until next semester. Mrs. Myrtle Rouse has been appointed as substitute teacher to fill her place. Mrs. Rouse has a B. S. and A. M. from Columbia university. She has taught in the Oregon Agricultural college, has been head of the department of home economics at the Kirkville State Normal in Missouri; and at the Milwaukee-Downer college of Wisconsin. Mr. Rouse, now on the staff at Fort Hays Normal, is a former graduate of K. S. A. C.

BETTER NOW THAN LATER

R. O. T. C. MEN WILL NOT HAVE TO TAKE MILITARY DRILL AT FUNSTON

But If Bill Before the House Now Goes Through, Men Who Do Not Take Drill for Four Years in K. S. A. C. Will Try It at Camp

Nearly seven hundred students, members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps, are seen drilling each week on the college campus. The regular army appropriation bill calls for one year compulsory military training for all men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-three years, inclusive. Senator Chamberlain, at one time chairman of the military affairs committee has introduced an amendment to the original bill which calls for but six months training or four years training in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. "Some of the students had better wake up to the real facts about this matter," said Lt. Colonel Terrell, commandant of the reserve corps at K. S. A. C. "It is much easier and decidedly more pleasant to take a four year course in military instruction up here at the college with but three hours a week than to spend a year out at Funston."

At present, however, neither of these bills has been passed but it is probable that some kind of compulsory military training will be established soon.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK LEAGUE TO RID SCHOOLS OF "COOTIES"

Intellectual Cootie of Kansas Colleges Should Not Run Loose

"On the tree of knowledge grow many nuts," says a publicity sheet which the Anti-Bolshevik League of Kansas has issued recently. The sheet goes on to explain that the observation is called forth by a recent complaint that Townleyism is being taught or advanced in one of the state schools.

The Anti-Bolshevik League declares that they intend to delouse the Kansas colleges of the "intellectual cootie" type, as they believe that the activities of such persons during the war demonstrated the danger of allowing them to "run loose."

Science Club Is Active

The Science club met in regular session Monday, November 3, in the reception room of the home economics building. Dean J. T. Willard gave an interesting sketch of the early history of the Science club, which was organized in the eighties. The organization met with considerable opposition from some of the faculty and students who preferred to go to the college prayer meeting instead—it being necessary to hold both meetings the same night.

Dean Willard read from the membership roll the names of the men and women, then students, who are now holding important positions in the U. S. Department of Agriculture and in the colleges and universities of this country.

From 1900 to 1908 no meetings were held. In 1909 Dean Potter and four others reorganized the club which has been in progress ever since. Dean Potter stated that the Science Club had done so well in ten years that it had outgrown the institution which was prepared with such great care.

Te officers elected for the ensuing year are Professors L. E. Melchers, vice president; Elizabeth Rothermel, secretary; J. H. Parker, treasurer; and Deans J. T. Willard and A. A. Potter on the executive committee.

Miss Catherine M. Bower, specialist in home economics in the home study service department, has recently been appointed as an instructor in English to succeed Miss Elizabeth Maclean.

REDS SCALP THE AGGIES

DEFEAT WILDCATS BY SCORE 7 TO 3

DEWEY HUSTON KICKED ONE GOAL

Haskell Indians Made Touchdown in First Three Minutes of the Game—Ball in Redskin Territory Most of Time

In one of the most sensational games played on Ahearn field this year, the Haskell Indians defeated the Aggie Wildcats by a score of 7 to 3. Saturday. Haskell's puzzling aerial attack and the speed of their backfield swept the Aggies off their feet and scored them a touchdown in the first three minutes of play. The Aggies' only score came in the third quarter when Huston dropkicked a goal from the 35 yard line.

In Indian Territory
The Aggies kept the ball in the Indian territory more than half the game, going to the Haskell danger zone three different times but failed to put the ball over for a touchdown. Huston tried three times for a dropkick but only one was successful.

Haskell's score came by way of Anderson's 55-yard run and pass from Brace to Davis who scored and later kicked the goal. The remainder of the quarter was played back and forth across the field with the honors divided evenly.

In the second quarter it was also anybody's game. Every brand of football was displayed. Punts were numerous, many passes were attempted, and a few completed. Huston's attempt to dropkick 50 yards was unsuccessful and the period ended, score 7 to 0.

Aggie fans were much encouraged by the showing made in the third quarter when the Wildcats made a steady march down the field. When within scoring distance, however, they lost the ball on a pass, permitting the Indians to punt out of danger. Huston had the advantage in the punting in this period and his dropkick from the 35 yard line gave the home heroes their only score of the game.

The last period consisted mainly of long passes by the Haskellites, many of which were successful. The Aggies had a good chance to score in the final minutes of play when Hinds raced 40 yards on a completed pass, but fumbled the ball when tackled. The Indians were trying hard to make another touchdown when the final whistle blew.

The line up:

RED CROSS

K. S. A. C. may well be proud of the splendid manner in which all the students have enrolled in the American Red Cross for the third time. Every student knows what a wonderful work the Red Cross organization carries on during war and peace times. It doesn't take any talking to get the money for membership from the Aggie student—he simply hands it over with a smile on his face. It is hoped that K. S. A. C. can go over 100 per cent on this third Red Cross drive.

ADVERTISING MAN TALKS TO CLASS

MEMBER OF MAIL AND BREEZE STAFF GIVES SELLING POINTS

Potential Market, Circulation of Paper, Mechanical Equipment, and Editorial Policy Are Main Considerations, He Says

"There is no longer a question as to the value of advertising—it is a question of where to advertise," said C. E. Sweet, advertising manager of the Mail and Breeze, in speaking to the students in journalism at last week's seminar on "Methods in Advertising." Mr. Sweet has worked on a number of country and city dailies throughout Kansas, and speaks from the standpoint of a printer and newspaper man of wide experience.

"In advertising methods of the past it was hard to get the merchant to keep his name before the public," Mr. Sweet said. "Only in the case of a special event would he advertise. Advertising sold on good fellowship and a good front. Circulation and territory were not considered to any great extent."

"Advertising methods today differ greatly from the methods used then. The field of the paper, or the potential market, is the first thing that is sold. The paper itself is next sold. The circulation of the paper and the class of subscribers is talked. The interest and reliability that the reader places in the paper are emphasized. The amount of business carried and the mechanical limitations of the paper also play an important part in the sale of advertising. The editorial policy of the paper always carries great weight."

MEN THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGG NO LONGER A MYTH

Income from Flock of 250 to October Was $1000

Poultry production is becoming a paying industry and is no longer to be considered a side line. The hen that laid the golden egg is becoming a reality among the great industries. One of the cooperators in poultry club work has a flock of white leghorns averaging 250 in number throughout the year. Their income up to October was $1,000. The expense of keeping them, including the cost of extra labor was $300.

Both the hens and the pullets are now getting into good laying condition for the winter. Judging from their present egg production, it is estimated that the income for the rest of the year will be nearly $400, making a total income of $1,400. The expense of keeping them for the next three months will be about $100, making a total expense of $400. The net labor income on this flock of hens will be $1,000.

Professor Cunningham is in Carlyle this week securing the yields on some experimental work on corn.

A. P. Davidson, '14, formerly superintendent of the Nebraska school of agriculture, at Curtis, Neb., will succeed J. W. Zahnley as assistant professor in the School of Agriculture. Mr. Zahnley will succeed C. W. Mullen, assistant professor of crops.

ROOKIES TAKE UP ATHLETICS

MILITARY DEPARTMENT WILL STAGE INTER-COMPANY BASKETBALL

Great Interest Shown by Men—The Coaches Find Good Material for College Team in These Contests

Some great athletic contests will soon be played at the gym if the plans of the military department pan out according to schedule. Last week a large number of men taking drill were given tryouts for basketball. There will be at least one team from each company, and with eight companies competing some keen rivalry may be expected. Already there have been discovered some excellent players who have had previous experience on high school teams. As soon as all the tryouts have been made, the process of elimination will take place and in this manner each company will soon have a picked team.

Some time ago the athletic department had tryouts for track material. There were many relay races held and the men who made the best showing were given a chance to get into the regular training squad for track work. Coach Schulz has found abundant material to work with.

Dear Editor: Observing people will have noticed that the prevailing color on the various campus bulletin boards is "Lucas." And there is a reason for this. Friend Lucas has developed a keen appreciation of really good advertising especially along the line of show cards.

He has a style of lettering which altho not new, is very distinctive. It is a modification of old English block letter type. He knows how to use colors, too, which adds to the attractiveness of the sign. The remarkably large percent of Lucas signs on the hill proves conclusively where the best signs are made. M. J. Lucas is a junior in electrical engineering and is also taking some work in architecture. His home is in Pratt.

Dear Editor: I believe that there might be developed in this college a better spirit of fellowship between the upper classmen and the freshmen. There is nothing particularly bad about the attitude of the upper classmen toward the freshmen now but there is a chance for improvement.

A large number of freshmen have dropped out of school. I think that some of them say that the large majority of these could have remained in school if they had had some upper classmen as their pals, as their counselors. Most of them dropped out because they happened to get poor grades the first part of the term, or were having a hard time to make ends meet. They thus became discouraged. These men are the ones who need "A pat on the back." They are the men who need the counsel of the upper classmen and who if they got it would remain in school and perhaps make the best students.

A right start in college means much to the student. It may mean the difference between success and failure in life. Most of the students who complete the freshmen year continue in college until they graduate. It is therefore very important that right habits in study and in play, and a proper attitude toward the college life, be developed during the year.

This does not mean that the upper classmen seek to run the freshmen class or determine what they should do. It means just opposite. It means helpfulness and friendliness.

To accomplish this object I suggest a movement among the boys similar to the "Big Sister" organization among girls. What do you say?—A Student Citizen.

Dear Editor: The "Physical Torture Boys" are daily limping about over the campus during the week. No doubt we have many times wished that we might have been able to diagnose such cases, hence as it is we have found it necessary to swallow rumors, such as originated from the coppers, that is, "We never did it to 'em—they merely ran into the shingles, or stubbed their toes, and fell into the tank,"—'tisn't quite fair, is it Freshies?

Director Lorenz gives us that information, or evidence that these noble sons have actually been out in the gym togs lugging the old pig-skin across the lines. Lorenz states: "We have a score of well organized, balanced, and flashy teams, some of which would be receiving favorable mention had they been able to try out for the Freshie positions."

This bunch, as a result of regular scrimmages for the past fortnight have numerous scars and bruises, which give them the distinction of being regular heroes. Let's give 'em fifteen rabs, Gang.

H. Umberger, dean of the extension division, V. L. Strickland, P. P. Brainerd, and Mrs. F. E. Alder, and other members of that division, are attending the state teachers' convention at Topeka.

MUST LEARN COOPERATION

LACK OF UNITY DIFFICULTY IN MAKING PEACE

Struggle in Declaring War With Germany Was Friction of Individual Effort and Concerted Effort

Our great difficulty in making peace is to learn how to cooperate as a national unit, is the opinion of Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president of the University of Washington, who spoke before the student assembly Wednesday morning.

"Our task of Americanization is the task of putting into the hearts of men and women democratic ideals," said Dr. Suzzallo. "The essential feature of a democracy is that we must have the strength to execute our ideals."

"There are two kinds of strength in a democracy—the strength of freedom, which gives us independence and opinions, and the strength of men working as a team with their arms about each other."

"Our struggle in declaring war was a struggle of this individual strength against team work. In Germany men were held down by social caste system so they might be easily handled. Germany acted as a unit in declaring war, but France, England, and the United States were weak in cooperation in declaring war."

"The war was won because we had the moral initiative, the product of individual liberty which Germany did not have. Germany was unable to acquire intellectual freedom in two or three years but we were able to learn cooperation in that length of time."

"Today we have a larger and more difficult task than when we entered the war. We are a good natured people and drift along, foreseeing not the danger of social disintegration by the enemy within our country."

"Social reformers are viewing our society from economics and material reconstitution. What we need is spiritual, moral, intellectual and patriotic reconstitution. It is for spiritual reconstitution that I am pleading with the college men and women today, for it must be brought about by reason and a minimum of force and coercion. Russia is an example of the nation who disciplines through force and coercion. The United States is not coercing or intimidating. American college men and women have training, reason, judgment, and education and the ideals held by the American community at large are held a little more firmly by the American collegian."

K. S. A. C. TO HAVE EXHIBIT IN HAY AND GRAIN SHOW TOO

Given in Connection with International Live Stock Show

For displaying the same exhibit as was shown for Kansas at the International Soils Product Exposition at Kansas City, when this state brought home first prize, the college will have a good chance for some of the prizes of the International Hay and Grain show. This show is to be held in Chicago, in connection with the International Live Stock Show, from November 29 to December 6.

Prof. S. C. Salmon, farm crops, attended the meeting at Chicago when the plans for the show were completed. The Chicago Board of Trade is offering some mighty inviting premiums this year; the total premiums of $10,000 are divided as follows: Corn, $4,000; oats, $2,000; wheat, $2,000; barley, $700; rye, $300; hay, $1,000.

Private individuals in K. S. A. C. are urged by Professor Salmon to send exhibits to the show. Each exhibitor is allowed as many entries in as many classes as he wishes. All samples must have been grown by the exhibitor in 1910 and the samples of hay and grain must reach the show grounds not later than Wednesday, November 26.

All applications for entry must be in the hands of the superintendent not later than November 20. They must be made by mail.

Attend Teachers' Meetings

The home economics department of the college was well represented at the State Teachers' association this week. Dr. Jean Bogert spoke before the household arts round table at Salina Thursday on "Modern Aspects of Nutrition." Miss Elizabeth Rothemann and Miss Martha S. Pittman attended the Wichita association which was held Thursday. Dr. Helen Bishop Thompson, Dean Mary Pierce Van Zile, Prof. Hildegard Kneeland, Miss Mary M. McDonald, Miss Ruth E. DECEMBER 5 FOR DEBATES

EIGHT COLLEGE LITERARY SOCIETIES TO MEET IN ANNUAL QUARREL

A FIXED PLAN IS ADOPTED NOW

The Question for Discussion Will Be: "Resolved That the United States Should Establish a Protectorate Over Mexico"

At the regular meeting of the inter-society council last Thursday it was decided that the annual inter-society debate between the eight college literary societies would be held December 6 in the society halls.

Fixed Plan Now

The plan for the debates this year is to have a triangular between the three boys' societies, a triangular between the three girls' societies and a duel debate between the two mixed societies. Each organization will have two teams. The winning team of each triangular and the dual debate will then hold a final triangular debate to determine the winner. Only persons who have not yet made the college debate squad will be allowed to take part. This is to make the contest fair for each society.

The question for discussion will be: "Resolved that the United States should establish a protectorate over Mexico." Regarding the fall try-outs for college debaters Professor Burns, debate coach, says:

"The inter-society debates are now arranged so that every society member who takes part in them will be in good practice for the college try-outs and I hope that each member will try out. A large squad will be chosen for the spring debates and it is desirable to have as many college students try-out as possible."

WHO IS THE WORST NUT

ROYAL PURPLE HAS UNUSUAL CONTEST ON THIS YEAR

Graffers, Nuts, Flirts, Shimmie Dancers, Crap Shooters, Lady Fussers, Pill Venders, and Vamps Get in Class Book

At a recent meeting of the Royal Purple staff, it was decided to give everyone a chance to have a word in this year's class book. In order to make this possible a new section called "Wild Kittens" will be a feature of the book.

Miss Ernestine Biby and A. W. Wilcox have been appointed on the committee and are planning on having ballots in Anderson hall, November 17 and 18. The ballot will look something as follows:

Most devoted couple on the campus..... Biggest grafter..... Biggest nut..... Biggest flirt..... Best shimmie dancer..... Best lady fusser..... Oldest landmark..... Pill vender..... Best crapshooter..... Best vamp..... Best Marshall theatre disciple.....

On this ballot everyone in college will have a chance to write the name of the person whom he thinks is best qualified to hold these various honorary positions. The person receiving the highest number of votes will be declared elected and will have his picture and a write-up in the 1920 Royal Purple.

At the bottom of each ballot there will be a blank space on which every voter is asked to contribute some joke or college scandal.

This contest is not to take the place of the Beauty contest, and plans are being made to hold the annual beauty contest about December 1.

Intersociety Council

In the past, matters which have affected all the literary societies, have been under the control of three boards or councils. These three were the Oratorical Board, the Debate Council, and the Intersociety Council. Last spring the literary societies voted to consolidate these into one central body. This body is the present Intersociety Council.

This Council has complete charge of matters which affect all the literary societies. It holds the same position in regard to the literary societies that the Pan-Hellenic holds to the fraternities. The former Intersociety Council was somewhat of a dead letter but this year it should, with its increased powers in regard to oratory and debate, do a great deal to strengthen and encourage literary work.

A big intersociety mixer and rally has been planned for sometime in the near future for the purpose of stimulating interest in literary societies and to create more of a spirit of cooperation between the different societies.

FIRST FACULTY CONCERT GOOD

MISS LEFFLER, MISS KIMMEL, AND MISS SMITH ENTERTAINED

Next Faculty Recital To Be Given by Miss Ling, Miss Bugbee, and Mr. Wheeler on Sunday, November 16

The first of a series of five faculty recitals was given at the college auditorium on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock by Miss Katharine Kimmel, contralto, and Miss Mabel Leffler, pianist.

The program was well planned and well received. A pleasing feature was the inclusion of several less well known numbers that were especially interesting and charming. The recital as a whole was given in a most pleasing style.

Miss Leffler proved herself to be a pianist of rare interpretative powers. The Nocturne, for the left hand alone, by Scriabine was played with a fine sense of balance between the melody and its accompaniment. Miss Kimmel's voice was revealed to its best advantage in her first number, "Know'st Thou Not That Fair Land?" The inherent grace and charm of the three French songs of the eighteenth century also delighted the audience. Miss Elsie Smith, accompanist, showed fine skill in weaving the accompaniments in with Miss Kimmel's interpretations with grace and nicety.

The concert and recital series as planned by the department of music will without doubt prove to be exceedingly popular with the students and townspeople if the high standard and pleasingness of the first recital are kept up. The series will also go far toward the upbuilding of finer musical tastes in the college and the community, both of which are particularly fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing free Sunday afternoon concerts of such real merit.

The recital for Sunday, November 16 will be given by Miss Edith Ling, Miss Doris Bugbee, and Mr. Harold Wheeler at 4 o'clock. The series will continue until the Christmas vacation, ending with the annual Christmas concert by the choral society, orchestra, and visiting artist.

Has Sudden Change of Heart

"Beginning with the next meeting of this class, I should like to have all the young ladies who are sunning themselves on the front row, take seats on the back row at the rear of the room," said H. W. Davis, professor in the English department, to one of his classes recently.

"The young men in the class who are now on the back row, will of course get up when the young ladies go to occupy these chairs, for these college chairs were not built for two. The men will then occupy the chairs vacated by the ladies."

"Now girls," continued the democratic professor, "I do not want you to think I do not love you, just because I ask you to take seats at the rear of the room. In fact I should much rather look at you than the young men in the class, but I shall have you near me at some other time."

READY FOR AMES TEAM

HUSTON'S TOE WILL PROVE BIG FACTOR SATURDAY

DOPE FAVORS THE AMES MEN

But Wildcats Are Prepared to Down the Dope and Win the Game—Ames and Aggies Are Out of the Conference Race

Even with the dope against them, the Aggie Wildcats will go to Ames Saturday prepared for one of the hardest fights of the season but confident of being victorious. The Farmers are in better condition now than they have been for any game since they played the Funston eleven in the early part of the season.

Out of Conference Race Both Ames and the Farmers are out of the conference race. Ames defeated the Nebraska Cornhuskers by a score of 3 to 0 and the Cornhuskers beat the Missouri Tigers, 10 to 0. In the first part of the season, the Missouri eleven and the Aggies played a 6 to 6 tie. This gives Ames a big advantage, as far as dope is concerned.

The Ames eleven and the Jayhawkers played a 0 to 0 tie, while the K. U. men defeated the Aggie Wildcats by a score of 16 to 3. This also gives the Iowa Aggies a big advantage.

Ready to Down Dope But with every man primed for the Ames fight, the Farmers are prepared to down the dope and win the game. Hinds, halfback, has proved to be a light, fast man, capable of showing Anderson, of the Haskell Indians, a good race. He has played in practically every game this year.

Dewey Huston's famous drop-kick toe is bound to be a fighter for the Farmers in the Ames game. Huston, who was slightly injured in the K. U. and Haskell games, is again ready for action. He has placed a drop kick between the goal posts every game this season except one—that was the Hays game when the team didn't give him a chance to boot the ball. This week in practice, Huston dropped seven out of ten through the goal posts from all angles of the field on the 50-yard line. Due to Huston's kicking, the Aggies have not played a game this year in which they came out without a point.

In the past ten years, the victories for the Iowa Aggies and the Kansas Farmers have been about an even break. Last year the Kansas men defeated the Iowa eleven when they played on Thanksgiving day on Ahearn field.

THROUGH COLLEGE ON LESS THAN $300 EACH YEAR

Valhalla Girl Demonstrates That It Can Be Done

She has demonstrated that a student can go thru the Kansas State Agricultural college on a trifle less than $300 a year, plus a little grit and careful planning. She is not a rice eating Chinese girl, nor a girl who worked part of her way thru college. But Miss Mabel Bentley, of Valhalla, who is just finishing her 4-year course in general science, has gone to college for three and a quarter years and will finish this year, using in all about $1,100.

When Miss Bentley entered school in 1916 she determined that her $1,100 should pay her way thru school. And it has done it, including meals, books, tuition, clothes, and pleasure.

"I have not stinted or starved myself," she said recently. "Because of an accident, which made me stop teaching, I came to college. My food has consisted of a substantial variety, such as potatoes, meat, eggs, beans, and breakfast foods. My mother regularly sends me packages of food. I cook two meals each day in my room but have lunch at the college cafeteria. "I have always had a good time, attending all the college activities. But I have spent very little for shows."

Miss Bentley rooms in a tiny vine covered brick building, formerly used as an office for a lumber yard. "My roommate and I have some grand times here," she laughed. "One Thanksgiving our relatives sent us a load of packages for Thanksgiving dinner. We invited some friends from among the soldiers at Camp Funston and prepared for a big feast.

"On Thanksgiving morning the soldiers sent word that they could not come. There we were, loaded with a table of good eats with no one to eat them. We found that all our friends had gone home for the holiday and so we were alone. "Finally, I went out on the highways and looked for guests. Several boys, raking leaves off a lawn, gladly accepted my invitation to dinner when I explained the circumstances. By evening we had ten guests. While our tiny room would hardly hold us and the eats too, we managed to have a mighty good Thanksgiving celebration."

SENIORS GET PICTURES FOR NEW 1920 ROYAL PURPLE

Royal Studio Is Taking Pictures for Class Book

All photographs for the 1920 Royal Purple will be taken this year at the Royal Studio on the second floor of Harrison's hall. Arrangements have been made to have the pictures taken in Aggieville for the convenience of the students.

Seniors' pictures for the class book are now being taken at the Royal Studio. All senior pictures must be in by November 24. The photographers have arranged to use artificial light, so pictures will be taken in the evenings after dinner if desired. See A. W. Wilcox, treasurer of the Royal Purple and pay your assessment before going to make an appointment with the photographer.

Beginning November 24 the juniors will be given one week to get their pictures, and following them the sophomores will have a week in which to have their photographs made.

Some of the seniors who were not present at the meeting of the class when the assessment was passed have asked, what is to be included in the assessment made for the Royal Purple? The management states that this is to cover cost for space in the book, photographs, and one copy of the book.

The window opposite the post office in Anderson hall will be open every afternoon from 2:30 to 5:00 o'clock to collect senior dues.

EX-SERVICE MEN'S CLUB IS INVESTIGATING NEW PLAN

Prepares to Take Its Stand on Student Self-Governing Association

The first matter of official business undertaken by the ex-service men's club of the college, was to create a committee to investigate the student self-government.

This committee is now engaged in a study of the proposed scheme for student self government and will be prepared to make recommendations to the club in the near future. Members of the ex-service men's club expressed themselves as anxious that the student self government be kept uppermost in the interest of the student body, with a view to a thorough going over of its principles.

The club, which is strictly a college men's organization, feels that it has a direct concern in student affairs, and being committed to the development of democratic principles and intelligent citizenship among college students, feels that the opportunity presented by the proposed self government constitution for training in self government, should be taken advantage of to the fullest extent possible.

VARSITY WAS UNABLE TO SCORE ON THE FRESHMEN

Yearling Squad Made a Remarkable Showing Tuesday

Nine hundred freshmen and as many upperclassmen were immensely pleased when the freshman football team held the Varsity to a scoreless tie on Ahearn field in the Armistice day game.

The freshman team surprised themselves and everyone else by the remarkable showing made against the more experienced varsity team. They made more first downs than the older team and came within a few feet of scoring a touchdown in the second quarter. Several other times they got into the Aggies danger zone while the Aggies never came within scoring distance but once. Even the mighty Huston failed to give them their usual score.

A large number of second string men were used in the first half, but Coach Clevenger ran in a majority of the regulars in the second half in a vain attempt to win the game. The Aggies made their best gains with the forward pass, while the frosh used a shift that was highly successful. The way the frosh got down under their own high punts was indeed gratifying. The feature of the game was Hinds' impromptu shower bath. The referee was Coach Clevenger, the headlinesman, Wilder.

Y. W. WANTS $2,600 NOW

CAMPAIGN FOR COLLEGE ORGANIZATION STARTS NOV. 20

Three Groups of Solicitors to Find Every Girl Student, Faculty Member, and Former Member of the Y. W. C. A.

Thursday, November 20, is the day when every Aggie girl will be given a chance to subscribe to the Y. W. C. A. to help carry on the program for girls in attendance at K. S. A. C. this year. The financial budget this year calls for a sum of $2,600 which will be used in the program of the Y. W. C. A. in its college service.

This year the raising of the subscription has been divided into groups of workers, somewhat different than in former years. One of the groups of girls working on the financial campaign will communicate with the senior Y. W. C. A. members of last year, asking their contribution.

Another group of workers will work among the faculty members, whose subscriptions will also make up the sum needed.

The third group of solicitors will work among the girls of the college and their duty will be to personally interview and solicit the contribution of every girl student at the school this year.

The recent campaign brought the total membership up to 450 and it is believed that a generous gift will be forthcoming from each of these members.

LITERARY SOCIE- TIES IN CHAPEL

GIVE IMPERSONATION OF FACULTY COMMITTEE MEETING

Every Society Was Represented in the Program—Members of Stock Judging Team Were Introduced to Students

A program that was well chosen and sufficiently varied in detail to please everybody was given by the literary societies at chapel Thursday.

An impersonation of the meeting of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs met with great success. Two ladies and six gentlemen composed the committee and, in some instances, gave a surprisingly realistic impersonation of some of our dignified professors.

A past deed of Professor Emerson's was taken up by the committee and thoroughly discussed. Dancing also came in for its full share of discussion and it was moved and seconded that a School of Dancing be established at the college. The committee finally, by unanimous vote, disbanded itself.

The Hamiltons were represented by a quintette of colored gentlemen and a chicken. The gentlemen sang three expressive songs for the glory of the Hamiltons.

The Eurodelphians were represented by Miss Faye Williams who gave a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Adams. For the Websters T. L. Bayer gave a reading, "The Fool." As a prelude to the program the members of the stock judging team, with their coach, Prof. F. W. Bell, were introduced to the students.

STOCK TEAM READY TO GO

EVEN MEN WILL GO TO CHICAGO STOCK SHOW

COACHED BY PROF. F. W. BELL

J. D. Montague, F. G. Welch, P. E. Neale, Nevels Pearson, H. R. Gilbert, W. R. Horlacher, and K. D. Thompson Chosen

The stock judging team that will go to the International Stock show from the agricultural college was chosen last evening by Prof. F. W. Bell who coached the boys. Those selected for the team are: J. D. Montague, F. G. Welch, P. E. Neale, Nevels Pearson, H. R. Gilbert, W. R. Horlacher, and K. D. Thompson.

Bell the Coach The team is being coached by Professor Bell in order that it may be at its best before going to Chicago. He has an enviable record in putting out winning stock judging teams. The ranking of Bell's boys at the Southwest American show at Oklahoma City and the National Breeders' show at Fort Worth, demonstrate his ability as a coach.

For the last seven weeks the men in the animal husbandry department have been working as though no team had ever gone to the Swine show, which was held the earlier part of this year. The coach has had a mighty hard job in selecting the seven men to go to Chicago.

Is High Honor Making the judging team is considered the highest honor an animal husbandry man can attain while in college. A short statement about each man on the team follows:

Montague won 1st place with 88 competing in the annual judging contest held at the college last spring. He was on the Swine Judging team which placed 2nd at the National Swine show this fall and was only 20 points below the high man of the contest. In his freshman year he worked at the A. H. barns getting the knowledge of stock which is essential in all judging.

Welch placed 7th in the judging contest last spring, was 6th at the students' judging contest at Topeka last fall and was a member of the Swine Judging team at the National Swine show.

Neale placed well in the judging contest last spring, was 4th in the contest at Topeka in September and made the trip to the National Swine show at Des Moines. He worked at the A. H. barns in his freshman year.

Pearson was 3rd in the judging contest last spring, tied for 2nd place in the contest at Topeka last fall and was a member of the National Swine show judging team.

Gilbert placed well in the contest last spring, was 1st on cattle and has done very consistent work. Horlacher has done excellent work, and is a consistent judge of all classes of livestock.

Thompson won 6th in the contest last spring, tied for 2nd place at Topeka, was a member of the Swine Show judging team and worked in his sophomore and junior years out at the A. H. barns.

Neal, Pearson, and Thompson had one year of judging work in the school of agriculture in addition to their regular college judging courses.

The Big Hats leave Monday for the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City. Then they visit the leading herds in Iowa, and Illinois, reaching Chicago, November 28.

Attended Teachers' Meeting

Prof. Ralph R. Price of the department of history and civics, attended the session of the State Teachers' association at Topeka. He delivered the address at the annual meeting of the Kansas History Teachers' association. The report from the history round table is to the effect that this year was the most helpful in the history of that organization. Definite steps were taken looking to the co-operation of the History Teachers' association and the State Historical society. Professor Price heads the committee to bring about this co-operation.

THOSE COLLEGE DANCES

In order to call to the minds of the students the rules which govern the student dances, the Committee on Student Affairs has given out the rules for dancing as stated by the Manhattan Welfare board. These rules are published in this issue of the Collegian and should be read carefully by all the students.

FIND NEW WELL.

The test for the new college well has been completed and the new well will be located where the drill stands now. At present the college gets part of its water supply from the city but when the new well is completed and the equipment installed, the new well and the old well now operating will furnish plenty of water for the college.

THE Y. W. C. A.

Every girl in the college should feel a definite responsibility and a certain privilege in the Y. W. C. A. program. The Y. W. is one organization in the college that means more to the girl student than any one other club or organization. A splendidly helpful program of serious and pleasurable things has been arranged by the general secretary, Miss Irene Dean, and if every Aggie girl will get behind the Y. W. and boost a little, it will make a successful and worth while unit in the Aggie girl's life.

The organization wants to raise $2,600 to carry on its work in the college this year. Every faculty member, former Y. W. C. A. member, and every girl will be given an opportunity to join.

WATCH IT, STUDENTS

What in the world is the matter with the students this year, that they are so careless about throwing little scraps of paper all over the campus? Not in years has the campus been such an unsightly place as it has become this fall through the carelessness of certain persons.

A senior student remarked about this the other day and said at the time that not in all the time she had been at this school had there been such a laxness in this respect shown. She also said that maybe the cause of it was that the newer people did not know that they are not supposed to use the campus as their wastebaskets; that there are such things stationed at regular intervals throughout the whole school. This may be the case but we remember distinctly that there was something said about Aggie traditions at the beginning of the school year and in that statement mention was made of the student's responsibility in keeping the campus free from paper and other unsightly objects.

Also on page 61 of the student directory, college encyclopedionary, or whatever you choose to call it, you will find a nice little article entitled, "Campus Customs You Are Expected To Observe" and a thorough and understanding perusal and application thereof of this little paragraph will give you an idea of what your duty is in this respect.

Sold for $1,000 Cash

The animal husbandry department recently sold two Shorthorn bull calves for $1,000 each. One of these will go to a large plantation in Arkansas. The other will head a purebred herd in Jefferson county. Both of these calves were bred by the animal husbandry department and are high class animals.

A large number of the farm bureau members of Lyon county visited the animal husbandry department at the college last Friday.

Aggie Knock-Outs

It is a fact that a young lady attending dances and parties should have a suitable chaperone until she is able to call some chap her own.

A rookie farmer writes to the agronomy department to ask "how long cows should be milked." The letter was handed to one of the sophomores to answer and he wrote "just the same as you milk short cows."

We understand that kangaroos are dying out and that soon, unless something is done, there will be none left. That's no news, they have been on their last legs for years.

Speaking of life's ups and downs; when a person gets down to business he is pretty sure of getting up in the world.

Saloons in Hudson, Wis., are being turned into bird stores. Any nature loving man can go in and get a swallow.

A certain patient in the state asylum for the insane at Topeka, has learned to knit. She has started, she says, to knit a pair of hose for a fire engine.

"Oh," she said, "I think soda water is sodalicious." He took the hint and sodalivencents on the harvest field of love.

Some women use paint as a violinist uses rosin—to aid them in drawing a beau.

The keynote of successful living is B natural.

COLLEGE CATTLE TO AMERICAN ROYAL STOCK SHOW IN K. C.

Stock to Be Sent to International Stock Show at Chicago.

Two car loads of cattle were shipped last Thursday by the animal husbandry department to Kansas City, where they will be exhibited at the American Royal stock show next week.

These cattle include four breeds—Shorthorn, Hereford, Angus, and Galloway. They will be exhibited in the individual classes at the American Royal. These cattle will also compete at the International Stock show in Chicago.

In addition to these two car loads of cattle, two carloads of calves, two car loads of sheep, and 15 hogs will be exhibited at Chicago.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM WAS ENTERTAINING FOR ALL

College Band and Cadet Corps Participated in Events

The armistice day program staged by the ex-service men and college students last Tuesday, November 11, was a big success. The program started at 10:10 with a holiday declaration by President Jardine.

At 11 o'clock a victory parade, starting at the college and going down to the city hall, escorted the ex-kaiser to a safe resting place in the city jail. The ex-kaiser was guarded by a leatherneck, a gob, and a doughboy. Two companies of R. J. T. C. and the Aggie band formed the escort of the parade.

In the afternoon a football game between the Freshman and varsity teams was played on the college field. The Manhattan City band furnished the music.

At 7 o'clock a parade starting at the city hall escorted the ex-kaiser to the auditorium, where a trial was staged. The only person who could be secured to defend him was the devil himself. The counselor for the accused stated that the only reason that he took the case was that he was afraid of losing his job if so worthy a contributor to his cause, as the ex-kaiser, was done away with. After a hearing of the evidence, the ex-kaiser was found guilty, and put before a firing squad.

The feature of the evening was an ex-service men's dance in the recreation center in Anderson hall. As this was the opening of the hall the room was crowded to its capacity.

Captain VanAlken of Camp Funston was a guest at the Beta house Wednesday. Captain VanAlken was a Beta at Purdue university before entering the army. He has been playing half-back on the Camp Funston football team this fall.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor: Students self government is a fine thing but there are many faults with the constitution as printed recently in the Collegian. There should be several amendments to the constitution before it is adopted. The provision that provides that the sophomore class shall select the head gear for the freshmen and determine the method of making the freshmen wear it, is foolish.

I think it is a fine thing for the freshmen to wear a distinctive marking but the method of selecting the head gear, a green—oh—the method of enforcing it, to kind of be left to the freshmen class. This would be the most democratic way and would also be the most effective. Certainly a better spirit between the classes would prevail if this method were used.

I believe that the silent treatment of enforcing the wearing of caps would be better than any other method. If every freshman who did not wear his cap was "shunned" and treated as an outsider by all his associates and his name was published in the Collegian, I am of the opinion that he would soon don the bonnet.—A True Democrat.

Dear Editor: In last week's Collegian someone dussed our duties as citizens and the responsibilities of citizenship. He pointed out the fact that we would get training along these lines through The Student Self-governing association. I think that article pointed out some of the things that we need to learn since we are to be a part of the leadership of the affairs of the nation in the future. So I believe we ought to have some space to discuss subjects of importance even in the Collegian where students might though they don't directly touch on college life. Our paper is very good but if we can find suitable material to expand it with it will be all the better. There is no better way to get things of general interest and concern before the students than through the Collegian which every one reads.—A Student.

Fancy Costume Party

The Woman's Athletic Association gave a fancy costume party Saturday evening November 8, in the Nichols gymnasium. The opening feature of the party was a grand march after which a short program was given. One of the interesting things on the program was a duet dance given by Miss Hortense Caton and Miss Betty Lyman.

Prizes were offered for the two cleverest costumes. Dean Van Zile, Dean Helen Thompson and Miss Edith Bond acted as judges. Miss Larson was awarded the first prize and Miss Fleming was given the second prize.

After the decision of the judges and the awarding of the prizes the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Fruit punch was served throughout the evening.

Miss Frances L. Brown of the extension division, is on a trip over the state supervising the work of the home demonstration agents. She will also attend the teachers' meeting at Wichita.

ARGONNE CLUB IS ORGANIZED

VOCATIONAL MEN AND FEW OTHERS, FORM ORGANIZATION

Last Friday Night Members of the Club Were Hosts at a Halloween Party and Other Men on the Hill Were Guests

The men who have been rooming at the Glenwood dormitory on north Eleventh street have organized and will hereafter be known as the Argonne club. The members of the club, which includes forty men, are all ex-service men, and ninety percent are enrolled in the vocational training section. The purpose of the club is to furnish social life for its members and to promote the interest of the rehabilitation men in the college.

The officers of the organization are: President, F. R. Williams; vice president, V. C. Jones; secretary, Claude Hampshire; treasurer, L. R. Maguire, and main executive, Mrs. W. A. Tibbits.

Last Friday night the members of the club were hosts at a Halloween party. Men belonging to other organizations on the hill were guests of the club.

Sooners Catch Pass Easy as a Baseball, Former Stars Tell

"Homecoming day, the Sooners will make the Aggies step," Hap Johnson, a former Oklahoma star who is attending school here, said recently.

Graham Johnson, another Sooner star, who is attending school here with his brother said, "The boys at home have an open style of playing that will keep the best of players busy. They can catch a forward pass as if it were a baseball and they seldom miss one. They know that the Aggies have a good strong line so when they come here the game will be one of long passing from start to finish."

The Sooner stars would gladly skip classes to attend a football game. They "missed" several classes when they attended the Washburn-K. U. game at Topeka. In fact, the men have attended nearly all the games this season and have sized up the various teams. They stoutly maintain that Oklahoma's team is a "corker" as always but they will concede that the Aggies have some real Wildcats.

The Johnson brothers are doing their best to make the Aggie-Sooner game the best of the season. Many of the men at Oklahoma university will attend one or two games during the season so Graham and Hap have sent boasting statements to the Oklahoma men and urged them to come here for the game.

If you see two men running around together at that fight, one rather short and chunky wearing a red sweater, the other a little taller, just tell your neighbor, "There go those funny Johnson boys, two Sooner stars. I hear they are betting on the Oklahoma team but that they want the Aggies to win. Isn't that strange?"

Chance for Good Meal

Dinner work for the dietetics class began Tuesday. The dinners are pleasant, informal, social affairs, well planned and well served. The dinner work will continue for six weeks, and the meals will be served every day except Mondays, at twelve o'clock. Senior boys desiring practice in carving and serving are invited to come and act as hosts. Six or seven guests can be accommodated every day. A charge of 35c is required to cover expenses. Any senior boy wishing to enjoy one of these delicious meals may do so by leaving his name at Dr. Jean Bogert's office.

Mr. Rader of Caney was a dinner guest at the Beta house Wednesday evening.

K. U. MEN HAD A FINE TIME

SAYS AGGIE STUDENTS TREATED THEM LIKE KINGS

"Those Aggie Men Are Truly Good Sportsmen, Real Men, and Fine Fellows. I'm for Them," One K. U. Man Said

University Daily Kansan: Five K. U. men participated prominently in the annual student ceremony at the Kansas State Agricultural college party when the farmers went through their yearly stunt of attempting to bury their jinx just preceding the football game with K. U. The five men, "Lefty" Farrell, Gus Lauterbach, John Wilhoit, "Jinks" Austin, and Vance Bolik, were captured Thursday night soon after they and eight other K. U. men had arrived in Manhattan to decorate the Aggie campus with appropriate K. U. designs. They were kept prisoners until Friday night and at the jinx burying ceremony were compelled to attend and to make speeches.

"We certainly had a fine time," Farrell said today. "After they caught us they passed us from one fraternity house to another. They treated us as though we were highly-respected guests, took us over to meet the president, Doctor Jardine, and did their utmost to entertain us. They surely treated us royally—but they didn't give us a chance to put up any K. U. signs. Those Aggie men are truly good sportsmen, real men and fine fellows."

CAMPUS STYLES

The girls didn't like what we said last week about their hair and their fixing up generally so we're going to try and be careful today. We might lose our job and that would be fatal for it's hard enough to try to buy a winter coat when you've got a job, not to speak of the horror it would be to try to buy one if one didn't have the money.

There are a lot of engaged girls in the Ionian literary society. Last Saturday afternoon they had a dress parade for the pleasure of the sister members of the organization and each of the prospective brides wore the dress which she will wear on the train when she goes on her wedding trip.

There were some very striking color combinations presented, the particular one that we remember being a red sash on a tan dress with a green—oh a very green—neckband, "to kind of relieve the plainness of the necklines of the dress, donchaknow?"

The boys certainly do have it on the girls when it comes to wearing the kind of clothes at all times which make it impossible for this campus styles editor to have anything that will make copy. About the only really funny combination that we have seen on the man was an ex-service man who was wearing his military science outfit, for it was his drill day. He had a khaki-colored shirt and trousers on, wrapped leggings, a blue serge coat, a Freshman cap which was crowned by a campaign hat. Over one arm he carried a raincoat and under the arm the sign of his freshman-ship, namely, an armload of books.

Lady Fluffley-Frizz, who is an authority on the subject of women's coiffures issued a bulletin the other day in which she said that the most truly beautiful and becoming way for any woman to arrange her crowning glory was to "let it fall in natural lines about the face." As we read the words of our always-before-respected leader we recalled some of the unearthly things we had seen when we went to slumber parties, stayed all night with girl friends and went swimming with them and we could not but have a vision of ourselves in the same thought.

Coming to college has helped at least one girl to economize in a way in which she had not dreamed it was possible for her to do before in the making of a winter hat. The hat which she had been wearing all summer was showing signs of collapse so she ripped the second coat of trimming off it and discovered a velvet covering over the original frame. The brim of this hat she fastened to the crown of winter before last's black velvet hat trimmed with beads, and the floppy brim of the winter before last's trimmed with beads she fastened onto her this last summer's straw front facing hat. On the latter she placed two once upon a time flowers, and called it square. After this she sat down and wrote a 300 word article concerning her feat to the Farm and Home Mechanics magazine and earned a check for $5 with which she paid half of her room rent. Hard times are some account after all aren't they?

Flowery Beds of Ease for Weary Old Automobile

There is a certain girl in this college who is lucky enough to own a car in which she can ride to school. Now this young woman decided not many weeks ago that she'd try to sell the car in order that she might have a little more pin money but the mere decision was not all that was needed as she discovered when she placed the car on the market. After displaying all the splendid qualities of the afore-mentioned means of locomotion, not a soul evinced any signs of buying the car and to say the least this was discouraging for Mary Anne was anxious to get rid of the car.

Determined to be practical and use the car to some good end other than as a means of traveling from one place to another, for this does incur added expenses all the time, you know, Mary Anne decided that she would dewheel the automobile and unseat it as well. The wheels she will plant in the spring time and arrange her flower seeds between the spokes thereby creating a most artistic flower bed. The seats, back and front alike she will turn into porch swings, one for the front porch and one for the side porch and use the mud chains or the "hauling-in" rope for the hanging of the porch swings from the ceiling of the porches.

The steering wheel and some of the screws, etc. will make a nice "kiddy-car" for one of the neighborhood urchins and the honker Mary Anne will treasure from one armistice day until another. The gasoline bills will be laid away in lavender with the rest of the family documents to be shown with pride a hundred years from now to the descendants of Mary Anne.

Dance in Social Room

The first dance to be given in the Social Center room in Anderson hall, was held last Tuesday evening by the ex-service men in the college. A large crowd attended. The couples all stated that the room is an ideal place for a dance.

UNUSUAL OPERATION PERFORMED BY DR. HULETT

First Case of Bloodless Surgery Was Performed 15 Years Ago

A most unusual and interesting operation, from a scientific standpoint, was performed a short time ago upon a child by Dr. Mac F. Hulett, '93, a distinguished osteopath of Columbus, Ohio.

The child who is five years of age, was born with both hips out of place. The hip bones have rested in the larger muscles above the hip socket instead of in the socket itself. Both bones were out of place at least an inch.

The child has been able to walk; but the bones working in the bed of muscles, had produced a decided lameness, which in a short time would have made walking impossible.

The left hip was set and placed in a cast in about forty minutes. This cast will be kept on for about three months. In the meantime, in about two weeks the other hip will be set. It could not be done at the time of setting the left hip on account of the length of time the child had to be kept under the anesthetic.

About 15 years ago the first case of bloodless surgery was performed on the small daughter of Ogden Armour. A specialist, Doctor Lorenz, came from Germany and received a fee of $10,000 and all expenses for his work. The same kind of operation was performed by Doctor Hulett.

Mac F. Hulett attended K. S. A. C. and was graduated with the class of 1893.

Heath-Coover

An interesting announcement of the early winter is that of the marriage of Miss Myrtle Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heath of Kinsley, and Bryan Earl Coover, son of Mrs. D. A. Coover also of Kinsley, which took place Saturday evening, November 8, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Whan, 1630 Houston street.

The Rev. Lewis Jacobson, pastor of the First Baptist church officiated at the service, performing the ring ceremony.

The Heath family made their home in Manhattan prior to their residence in Kinsley and are well known here. Mrs. Coover has been in attendance at the college in one of the short courses this year and is well and favorably known among the student body.

Mr. Coover served in the navy during the war, stationed at the Great Lakes Naval station. Among the out of town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heath and daughter, Gertrude, of Kinsley; Miss Ethel Coover; Mrs. G. E. Wilson and daughter, Ruth, of Kinsley.

Le Cercle Francaise

Students in the various French classes being offered at the college have interested themselves in the international organization, Le Cercle Francaise, which provides a means of learning more of French customs, art, literature, and history than can be had from daily attendance at the recitations and lectures.

Through the kindly courtesy of Professor Cortelyou and his assistants in the French department Le Cercle Francaise is being definitely established in the activity of the college and all students of French will be eligible to membership.

A program will be announced later and it is believed that the existence of this organization will do much to better the standard of work being attempted in this language.

Johnson-Stratton

Miss Gussie Johnson, '19, and Mr. Jay Stratton, '16, were married at the Tahewe club house at 1503 Fairchild avenue on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. D. H. Fisher performed the ceremony. The hostesses were Misses Martie Rone, Frances Johnston, Maurine Aspey, Ruth Robinson, Hazel Stewart, Marguerite Edelblute, Irene Shumaker, Lola Brandt, and Flo Brown.

Miss Gladys Filippo, Miss Irene Graham, and Miss Luna Daniels, all of K. S. A. C., attended the wedding at Abilene.

College Club

Dr. M. C. Tanquary, who was a member of the Crocker land expedition, which explored in the Arctic regions quite extensively in 1912 gave an interesting lecture before members of the College Social club last Monday afternoon. In connection with his lecture, Dr. Tanquary showed a series of slides.

DOPE FAVORS THE SOONERS

BUT AGGIE WILDCATS ARE READY TO PUT UP BIG FIGHT

TO BE HOMECOMING PEACE JUBILEE

Many "Old Timers" From K. S. A. C. Are Expected to Visit the College This Week—Will Be Well Entertained

Homecoming week at the agricultural college is to be a peace jubilee this year. Many former Aggies who saw service in France and are now back into business, will meet on the campus this week end. It will be the first real homecoming since the war started.

The students are preparing to show the alumni a good time. The fraternities and other organizations are planning parties. The school is in full swing and the alumni will be invited to visit the classes.

Dope Favors Sooners

The football game, to be played between the Oklahoma Sooners and the Aggies, is a little doubtful. The dope favors the Sooners in two ways—the Sooners tied the Jayhawkers and the K. U. eleven defeated the Wildcats; the Oklahoma men defeated the Tigers and the Tigers tied the Farmers. Besides these games, the Sooners defeated the Texas eleven, the Texas men defeated Haskell and the Haskell men beat the Aggies.

But with all the dope against them, the Wildcats are preparing to put up a good fight and probably give the over-confident Sooners a surprise.

The Sooner Mentor

This is a remarkable picture of Bennie Owen because it has caught his "game arm" and his famous smile at the same time. He usually smiles when he is mad. Probably he's mad here because the photographer caught his "left wing." When he sees a camera man coming he invariably turns his right side. In spite of his physical handicap Owen has produced winning teams ever since he went to the University of Oklahoma more than a decade ago. The Aggies will face a team Homecoming day that has outplayed Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas this year—a team coached by the best liked and most feared mentor in the middle west. For Bennie Owen is a sportsman and a gentleman.

O. HENRY IS THE POPULAR MAN WITH AGGIE STUDENTS

Kipling, Mark Twain, and DeMaupassant Are Also Well Read

What do young men and young women read and what kind of books do they select when cut off from the popular fiction of the day? It is an interesting question, and the solution is to be found in the library at the Kansas State Agricultural college. None of the popular literature is on file. The only reading is that of the standard authors.

The books of O. Henry, upon investigation, were found to be the most popular. There is a constant demand for these stories, and often students remark to the librarian about the qualities of humanity found in these stories. O. Henry is a real humorist and a real man, they say.

Next choice of these student critics is Rudyard Kipling. Mark Twain, the real American, is third. They still chuckle over the trials and tribulations of the "kids" that are the central theme of the homely tales of Samuel Clemens.

The librarian says that Guy De Maupassant and Honoré de Balzac are kept busy most of the time, and are read equally by both the men and women. The librarian said that the risqué stories of these French authors were more often read by the college professors than by the students.

GAVE SECOND NUMBER OF SUNDAY FACULTY RECITALS

Miss Ling, Miss Bagbey, and Mr. Wheeler Were on Program

The second of the series of Sunday afternoon recitals to be given by the music department this winter was enjoyed last Sunday afternoon when Miss Doris Bagbey, violinist and Miss Edith Ling, together with Harold Wheeler, flutist, appeared.

Among the numbers which were given by Miss Bagbey was an interesting arrangement by Edie Brown, and Miss Ling was very pleasing in a group of three piano numbers.

Mr. Wheeler played an arrangement of the Lieberstraume, his own composition, which was greatly enjoyed.

The three artists played together in the final number in a five number group arranged by Cesar Lui. The program was greatly enjoyed by a large audience.

Mrs. H. E. Don Carlos of Lawrence will speak next week's Vespers. She will tell of her experiences as a cartoon worker in France. Mrs. Don Carlos is a very prominent woman and a writer of some ability.

Come On You Sooners

The hoodoo that we've trailed so long, is going to slink away and the air will be filled with joy and song on the eve of Saturday. For as soon as the Sooners saunter in, we're going to start the fun and won't let up on our pep and vim, till we have them on the run. No, we hardly expect to skin them blue, or play a shut-out game, but we'll hit 'em hard the whole way through and beat 'em just the same. It's our last great chance to come back strong, but it's what we're going to do, we'll show the world they've got us wrong, when we put over something new. The Wildcats are wilder than ever before and the Sooners are wild ones too, but they're going to look tame when the big game's over, cause we'll top the score a few.

ALL IS SET FOR DRIVE

Y. W. C. A. TO RAISE $1,450 THE FIRST DAY OF CAMPAIGN

Under the direction of Miss Marjorie Seiber, the campaign has been planned and will be put through. The amount to be raised from the student members' subscriptions, together with those of the town friends, alumni, and those of the faculty who are interested, is $2,600.

Raise $1,450 Now Of this amount 1,450 is to be raised in the campaign of Thursday, and every effort will be put forth so that everyone in the college who wishes, may make a subscription.

The campaign workers this year have been divided into four working teams. The students will be in one working group, the town friends, the faculty in another, and the alumni in another.

Heads Are Appointed

Captains for the student divisions are Marian Brookover, Georgia Belle Critfield, Dorothy Mosely, Ethel Roop, Florence Mather, Elizabeth Dickens, Alice Mizell, Grace Marshall, Fay Young, Lillian Ayers, Valna Mennerve, and Helva Rader. Each of these captains will have ten girl workers under her direction. Each girl will be asked to give whatever she feels she can afford.

The advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. has charge of the canvassing of the town. Assisting the board will be Mrs. Bamey, Mrs. Brubaker, Mrs. W. M. Jardine, Mrs. Cortelyou, Mrs. L. E. Melchers, Mrs. E. H. King, Mrs. Hull, and Mrs. Paine.

The faculty contributions will be solicited by a committee of four chosen from the advisory board. These workers will be Miss Grace Heese, Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile, Miss McDonald and Miss Jessie M. Machir.

Meeting Wednesday

Wednesday at five o'clock there will be a meeting of all team workers and their captains at which final plans will be discussed for the carrying on of the campaign of Thursday.

OPENS TWO NEW BOXING CLASSES IN PHYSICAL WORK

War Department Is Encouraging Athletics in Colleges

Captain Davidson, assistant commandant, announces that two new boxing classes are to be formed this week in order to give instruction to the maximum number of students. The new classes will meet on Wednesdays and Fridays, the first class at the second hour and the next class at the sixth hour. It is the intention to have a boxing tournament in the spring for members of the boxing classes. A few weeks before this tournament is to take place he will give to the contestants personal instruction so that they may be fully prepared for the tournament.

It is the policy of the war department to encourage athletics in every way possible, and the extended development of mass athletics will produce highly specialized athletes of the few such as the football team, and the base ball team. In an effort to carry out the policy of the war department, Captain Davidson and Colonel Terrill are trying to have a system of inter-class athletics established whereby a large number of students would have opportunity to develop athletic ability and get on the teams of the various classes.

DRILL IN THE COLD WEATHER

WAR VETERANS LIKE TO WATCH THE FRESHMEN DRILL

Roll Call in the Gym on Drill Mornings Resembles a Chinese School-house—Four Companies Answer Roll At One Time

Cold weather will not stop the work of the men in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps—they will keep on drilling outside until the snow banks drive them into the gymnasium.

The veterans of the recent world war who are attending K. S. A. C. seem to derive much pleasure in watching the freshmen learn the intricacies of the manual of arms and the squad movements. It is only after having passed thru these experiences themselves that they are able to enjoy the maneuvers of the other fellow.

Roll call in the gym on drill mornings resembles a Chinese school-house. Four different companies are answering to the roll call at one time. Four first sergeants are yelling the names of the members of their companies at the top of their voices and at the same time commanding the men to answer so they can be heard. The majority of the men are able to overdo themselves in attempt to please the first sergeant and the result is that scarcely anyone can be heard and pandemonium reigns supreme.

PHYSICAL TRAINING BOYS ARE WORKING KINKS OUT

Basketball, Apparatus Work, Running, Boxing and Swimming Taught

The physical training boys are now working the kinks out, and using their soup bones, by using all of the available gym apparatus. Not only is the physical training work a semi-weekly grind, but the working out of these cheerful lads has afforded many surprises to the bystander.

The routine at the present and of the future is a complete cycle. Such work as, basket ball, apparatus work, running, boxing, wrestling, and swimming are the chief indulgences of the boys. This program affords the boys not only the expected interest, but also a sufficient amount of enthusiasm.

Purple Masque Elects Officers

Officers of Purple Masque, dramatic fraternity, were elected at a meeting held last Thursday. Lloyd Hamilton was elected president; Floyd Works, vice president; Ella Stinson, secretary; Harold Woodward, treasurer; Vorin Wahn, marshal; Ernestine Biby, assistant marshal; Blanche Sappenfield, Collegian reporter.

The regular meeting of the Masque will be held at five o'clock of the first Thursday of each month. A special meeting will be held next Thursday afternoon in F 2 on account of special matters of business.

Professor Salmon read a paper before the society on, "Standardization of Field Experiments." He has been on the committee for several years and it has been his duty to study this subject. His paper will probably be published in the Journal of Agronomy.

Professor Call was elected as one of the committee in the National Research council. This council was organized during the war to aid in all lines of research. This work will be carried on the same as during the war.

The Oklahoma tackles, Smoot and Paul Johnson, weigh 204 and 184 respectively, against Winters and Gatz, who weigh 198 and 180, respectively. The Oklahoma ends weigh 175 and 168 against 160 on each wing of the Aggie team.

THREE PLAYS TO BE GIVEN

A DOLL'S HOUSE, HEDDA GABLER, AND MASTER BUILDER, TO BE PRESENTED

DECEMBER 3 AND 4, THE DATES

Will Be Presented in Auditorium Under Same Management as the Artist Series—Giving Plays at the Colleges

Madame Borgny Hammer, the celebrated and distinguished Norwegian actress, will appear at the college auditorium December 3 and December 4. The company will give three of the plays of Henrik Ibsen, "A Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," and "The Master Builder."

Madame Hammer made her first stage appearance at the Bergen National theater of Norway when she was only seventeen years of age. Two years later she achieved Norway's highest distinction,—she was chosen as one of the leading actresses of the National theater at Christiania.

Madame Hammer's acting has even been compared to that of Sarah Bernhardt and Eleanora Duse. This tour of Middle West is a limited one, as she is playing almost altogether under the auspices of schools and colleges. It was only through an engagement which was cancelled at the last moment that it was possible to secure the production for this date. The plays are being given under the same management as the Artists' Course.

AMES WINS BY 46 TO 0 SCORE

KANSAS AGGIES OUTPLAYED IN GAME LAST SATURDAY

Wildcats Held for First Ten Minutes of Play but After That the Iowa Aggies Made Repeated Touchdowns

The Aggie Wildcats were considerably tamed by the Iowa Aggies with a 46 to 0 score at Ames last Saturday. During the first ten minutes of play the Aggie line held the Iowans and a punting duel ensued with Huston's punts averaging about 50 yards. A blocked punt and a fumble gave Ames the chance for her two touchdowns in the first quarter. It also disheartened the Wildcats and made it easier for the Iowa team to make its other points.

Randels was injured in the third quarter and may not be able to appear in the lineup against the Sooners next Saturday. Captain Bogue also was injured but will be in shape, by next Saturday. Quinlan substituted at end and played a creditable game. The remainder of the team came out in good shape and will be ready for the Sooners.

The Ames team is one of the strongest in the Valley and is the best team Iowa State has turned out in some time.

BRUCE WILSON WILL TAKE EXHIBIT TO CHICAGO SOON

Enters Exhibit in the International Hay and Grain Show

Next year it is planned to have an International Grain Judging Contest in connection with the show.

Chicken Imagines

He Is an Ostrich;
Eats 4-Penny Nail

In trying to imitate an ostrich, a half grown chicken owned by the zoology department brought about its own untimely death.

The ostrich is noted for its ability to devour great quantities of brick bats, nails, and other miscellaneous articles without suffering any of those pains common to boys after eating green apples. A chicken, owned by the zoology department heard of this fact. It also heard of the fact that the zoology department was noted for its experimental work. The chicken, however, had never been asked by the department to assist in this work. It therefore decided to do a little experimenting of its own without the knowledge of the department.

Soon after the chicken became sick without apparent reason therefore. Although poultry specialists were summoned and everything possible was done, the chicken died. As the cause of the untimely death could not be accounted for, the consulting physicians, thinking there had been foul play, held a post mortem.

In trying to change its diet to that of an ostrich, the chicken had eaten a 4-penny nail. Upon investigation, about one-half inch of this was found protruding from its gizzard.

Aggie Knock-Outs

If all men were as wise as the busy bee there would be no need of the bone dry law. Once full he flies straight home.

It is generally the case that the woman who expresses greatest objection to the new dances, can do the best grade shimmy in the middle of the street intersection in front of an approaching automobile.

The coal strikers of today remind us of the man who was caught by day. He had been in a fight and the Kansas City police the other luckily was the only participant captured. On being questioned as to what the scrap was about, he said that he didn't know, the fight was already goin' when he got there.

"It's four years now since he left me," said the deserted wife. "I remember it just as well as yesterday—hwo he stood at the door, holding it open till six flies got into the house."

Feet

Feet are the foundation of man. The difference between man and men are the number of feet. Sometimes feet are a foot and sometimes two feet. They are placed under the extremity of the leg to serve as ballast. Some men have more ballast than they really need. They are used to walk on, to wear out $4.00 hose on, and to hold hands with your girl in the show with.

Feet are also used to grow corns on. They cannot be said to be of no commercial value as they furnish work for corn doctors and plaster mills. It is often a good idea to bathe your feet and be kind to them as they are your best friends. They are capable of getting you out of trouble almost as fast as your tongue can get you in.

There are all kinds of feet, from poetic feet to pickled pigs feet. All kinds of animals have feet but women. They will solemnly swear any day that neither one of theirs are a foot. Feet should never be mistaken for features. Often one resembles the other but in most cases they are widely separated. If it is a long way from a man to his feet he is said to be long legged. If it is a short way from a man to his feet he is sitting down. A one legged man can't have but one foot even if his foot is two feet, and it can be said that no man has more than two feet even if he is a six footer.

Minister Raises His Voice and Commands R. O. T. C. Company

Preaching on Sunday, commanding an R. O. T. C. company on Tuesday, teaching on Wednesday, attending college on Thursday, directing board meetings on Friday, and attending to home matters on Saturday is the weekly routine of Floyd Hawkins, senior in the industrial journalism department, Kansas State Agricultural college.

His preaching and teaching pay his way at K. S. A. C.

The Rev. Floyd Hawkins delivers two sermons every Sunday at the Baptist church at Wamego. In the pulpit Hawkins is the same kind of a man as he is everywhere—working as hard as he can. The Rev. Mr. Hawkins says he still has many things to learn about the Bible and so is taking a senior subject called Bible English.

Captain Hawkins has one of the best drilled companies on the hill. He only recently received his commission as captain in the Reserve Officers Training corps. Hawkins took his first drill during his freshman year in K. S. A. C. and later was in the U. S. army.

In college work, Hawkins is both teacher and pupil. He teaches three laboratory classes in typography in the industrial journalism course. He is taking a regular senior assignment in the college.

As chairman of several committees, Mr. Hawkins reigns supreme. He is the head of the student council, head of the Kansas State Collegian board, and head of the pep committee. Besides these positions, Hawkins is president of the Y. M. C. A. and president of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity.

Only one place is Hawkins properly known as Mr. Hawkins rather than Chairman, Captain, Reverend, President or Instructor Hawkins and that is at home. There he heads a family, which is composed of Mrs. Floyd Hawkins and Mr. Floyd Hawkins.

THIRD OF AGGIE STUDENTS ARE INTERESTED IN MUSIC

Large Number Taking Work—More Teachers Secured

Last year nine teachers were able to take care of all of the students interested in music at K. S. A. C. while this year twelve teachers are employed and still there is a waiting list of some forty or fifty students.

In speaking of the overflow in the music department, Prof. A. E. Westbrook, head of the department, said: "The music department comes in touch with probably one-third of the entire student body through the different musical organizations, such as the glee club, the chorus, the band, the chapel choir, the orchestra and also private individual lessons including voice, piano, violin and other musical instruments."

Exchange the Fruit

The students enrolled in the pomology department, have, every fall, an unusual opportunity to become familiar with the fruit grown in the different sections of the country. This year the department has exchanged apples with Illinois university, North Carolina university, Rutgers college, Washington Agricultural college, Michigan Agricultural college, Massachusetts Agricultural college, and Ohio. The schools with which the exchange is conducted are selected with an eye to securing fruit from all of the different sections of the country.

H. G. Schultz, graduate in electrical engineering in '18, is taking work under the Chicago Edison company which has as its purpose the training of students to manage and control plants.

J. F. Towel, superintendent of schools at Elsmore, has just completed a course in grain marketing which is offered through the home study service of the extension division. Two college credits are given for the course.

THIS IS SERIOUS

Dear Family: I haven't written you in quite a long time but I had such a terrible thing happen to me that I will have to write and tell you. First, though, Father, I must ask you to send me some money so I can buy me a new skirt; for I fell off the south steps of Anderson hall and as a result of my sudden precipitation to terra firma my skirt is no more.

You see, it was like this, folks—Mary Smith, who is my chemistry partner, is just too stingy to subscribe for a Collegian, (anyhow it looks like that for she always is eating chocolate ice cream sodas) and she was on her way to the library to borrow Helen Jones' copy when we telescoped at the entrance of Anderson hall and I fell down the steps tearing my skirt in an unfixable fashion. Helen fell too but jumped up immediately, and trying to help me, knocked down "Shorty" Morse, and he stepped on Elbow's foot and Elbow hit Morse in the eye and now Morse can't be the leading man at the enthusiasm conferences which are held before all the football games.

Now you see, family, if Helen Jones had subscribed for her own Collegian, none of this would have happened. I am terribly sorry that Elbow got his foot hurt because it may disable him for foot ball but he is a plucky individual and a little thing like having heavy "Shorty" Morse smash his foot wouldn't make him stay out of the game.

I got 75 in a French quiz the other day but the reason I did was because I couldn't get my mind on the questions, having thoughts only for the pictures in my memory—Emerson, Cardine, Holtz, all baldheaded, sitting up on the row premiere at last week's assembly. Some day when I have time I am going to write a little verse about the baldheaded members of the faculty and maybe the Y. M. C. A. will offer another prize for the music to the words.

This is the nicest college I ever went to. I hope that I can still have that kindly feeling tomorrow. It is hard to tell, though. Life in college is so uncertain. On Saturday night I hate it but after I rest up and get ready for the Monday morning offensive on the western front, namely, the chemistry building or my French class I commence to like it again.

There is a man in college who writes letters for the Collegian and signs himself, "Jack Brennan." I honestly believe that it is Jean Valdant—he always was the sort who had the funniest idea of what jokes were. He had a clever letter in the paper last week.

The popularity contest is about the best thing that has happened in this school for a long time. It is a simple means of giving us students a chance of expressing our appreciation for the human-ness of a faculty member without being suspected of "working" anybody in the hopes of being "let out" of a quiz, or any of the other terrors of daily class life.

I hope that your chickens are doing well, Mother. Give all the neighbors my love. Your loving daughter, Suzanne.

P. S. Father, dear, don't forget the check for I surely am terribly broke

K. S. A. C. Men Conduct Test
C. E. Hansen, assisted by Geo. Hamilton, senior in engineering, and Mr. Bunnell, class of '19, made a test on an Avery tractor at the farm of E. A. Selig at Silver Lake last Saturday. The test was made in the presence of an Avery representative from Kansas City, and one from Topeka, and several neighboring farmers. The K. S. A. C. men found that the tractor was developing 15.2 h. p. while pulling all of the plows. The tractor would probably have developed more power had more plows been added. Mr. Selig and the representatives were very highly pleased in the way that these men conducted the test.

THE motor truck dealer was right when he advised me to use pneumatics on my dairy farm. The Goodyear Cord Pneumatics are good snowshoes for the truck. They plow right through snow and mud. I am never delayed on account of slippery going. The Goodyear Pneumatics are right in every respect for my dairy farm work, winter and summer, and that means they are tough."—Mr. Paul J. Grube, Mountain View Dairy Farm, Plattsburg, New York

ONCOMING winter, with its snow and ice, will bring no thought of frequently delayed milk deliveries to the owner of Mountain View Dairy Farm, near Plattsburg, New York.

When the photograph above was taken last January, Mr. Grube's motor truck on Goodyear Cord Pneumatic Truck Tires was covering its 25-mile route daily just as it had done during the preceding summer.

Under similar conditions, Mr. Grube had known solid tires to spin and get stuck, and on one occasion he had used his Goodyear-Cord-equipped truck to pull a solid-tired truck out of a miry place.

Further, the big Goodyear Cords were saving two hours in the morning, formerly spent in getting the horses ready; they were saving much time in collecting milk from neighboring dairymen and, then, in delivering it; and they were saving considerable money under the cost of keeping horses.

Now more evidence of the economy of the Goodyear Cords is afforded in their record of 22,000 miles to date, with all four still on original air and still rugged looking.

This latter fact supplies a very important reason why the general city and rural adoption of Goodyear Cord Pneumatic Truck Tires has proved so uniformly successful.

Dear Editor:—Did you know, Mr. Editor, that there are two boys in this school who can run 70 miles an hour?

That's a fact, two fellows, fraternity men too, have demonstrated their ability as speeders and holders of this fabulous record. It was after the K. U. football game at Lawrence. The two fellows were standing near the tracks at the Union Pacific station, when the Rock Island flyer flew by.

The two Aggies, bewildered over the results of the game and the condition of their bank account, mistook the whizzing flyer for their train. Lawrence and the game had lowered their spirits about 100 per cent and they were resolved to leave the town immediately. So, they lit out after the disappearing tail-light.

Over the ties they sped at a tremendous speed, faster and faster until they reached the back coach of the train. But for some unknown reason they were unable to climb up onto the platform. 40 miles, 50 miles, 70 miles, faster and faster they went. The boys manipulated their feet to the tune, "We'll get home before morning."

There is always an end to every tragedy, but in this one we are only nearing the climax. Summoning all their courage the boys dropped to earth. I should say they let loose and the drop came eventually. One of the boys landed in a weed patch where the seat of his best Sunday trousers was eliminated. The other boy took a header into a cinder pile where he buried his head and his pink and white complexion.

Picking themselves up the humble followers of the cinder trail slowly ambled back to Lawrence. Who are the record speed breakers? We never will say for that would be telling. Just a tip to the wise though, Mr. Editor, we think Germany should be advised to get "Chick" and "Kelly" out for track practice this spring.—One Who Knows.

Editor Collegian:—It seems there has been some misunderstanding among the vocational men of K. S. A. C. in regard to the Vocational Men's club. This club was formed to promote good fellowship among the vocational men of the college. We are 100 per cent American. This club is for all vocational men of the college and every man is asked to join. Anyone wishing to join see Chas. Dailey, Geo. T. Nicholson, R. E. Fields, or C. P. Rose.—A Vocational Man.

Dear Editor:—What do you think of a gang of so-called intelligent Aggies who persist in applauding the stage hand whenever he comes out on the stage to raise and lower the piano top, to move or remove chairs and other furniture, or to do any various other matters that are connected with his duties. When a fellow is smart enough to be admitted into the Kansas college he is supposed to know how to behave himself when he goes to a public gathering or entertainment. Applauding the stage hand is small town stuff, and such outbreaks which have been so common on chapel days and at musical entertainments not only show ill manners and roughneck stuff but suggest to the onlooker, "Well, why don't you pull something new?"—A Student.

CAMPUS IS UNDERLAIN WITH A NETWORK OF "CATACOMBS"

Over 4,000 Feet of Tunnels for Steam and Water Pipes

How many college students know that the campus of the Kansas State Agricultural college is underlain with a network of tunnels?

The first tunnel was built in 1894.
It was four feet wide, seven and a half feet high, and extended as far south as the present site of the auditorium and as far north as the old agricultural building. From this time on the tunnel system has been gradually added to, as necessity required, until now it reaches every building on the hill.

There are really three principal tunnel systems. One runs as far south as the gymnasium with branches running to each building passed in its course, one runs to the east terminating at the horticultural building, and the newest one runs north terminating at the agricultural building.

The tunnels are built of different materials but the principal construction is of concrete with a comparatively small portion built in brick.
The main tunnels and branches all join each other in such a manner that a person can go to any building through this underground passage.
The total length of the present tunnel system, including all branches, is over 4,000 feet, or longer than ten city blocks. Each year many persons make an excursion through the tunnels.

MAY LENGTHEN DRILL PERIOD

NEW PLAN WOULD HAVE DRILL
THREE HOURS EVERY MONDAY

Change, If Made, Will Go Into Effect the Second Semester—Would Be One More Hour Than Required at Present

If plans which are being formulated now are put into effect, the cadet corps of the college will have the distinction of destroying the reputation of Monday as the most celebrated "morning after."

Make 'Em Double Time

Students who fail to make their first hour classes on Monday morning will find themselves paying a penalty of double time fatigue duty on Saturday afternoon, because the first hour class on Monday morning, the second semester, will be military drill.

If the changes in schedule go into effect, the two hours of drill work which are now taken separately, will be combined and one more hour added. The extra hour which it is proposed to add is one hour more than is required by the war department.

Colonel Terrell believes that this change in the schedule will enable he cadets to get some real practical benefit out of the course. Under the present system fully 40 per cent of the time is used in getting equipment, calling the roll, and in making announcements.

Sergeant Lenz Coming

Sergeant Arthur H. Lenz, formerly assigned to the University of Denver at Denver, is being sent here by the war department. Sergeant Lenz is to take up his duties here immediately. This will make four regular army instructors for the R.
O. T. C.

LIVING EXPENSES COST ONLY $22 EACH MONTH

Tabew Club Proved Successful for Eleven Aggie Girls

How to have all the freedom and advantages of home at a reasonable cost while attending college, was the idea of the girls who started the Tabew club at the college.

These eleven girls have their cooperative club worked out on such a basis as not only to have all their living expenses for $22 each month, but the work is so well planned that it is very light for each one.

The girls take turns, two working together at the different tasks. No outside assistance is given these girls. They rent a furnished house, rent a piano and pay all the bills the first of each month.

The girls belonging to this year's club are: Bess Burkdoll, Lane,
Charlotte, Lillian, and Agnes Ayers,
LaHarpe; Ruth Harrison, Jewell;
Conie Poole and Esther McStay,
Downs; Helen Sloan, Independence;
Marcia and Opal Seber, Great Bend;
and Margaret Mason, Belle Plaine.

Mr. Lee King and Mr. C. G. Grover were dinner guests at the Delta Tau house on Sunday.

Phil Neal, Marion Howard, and Gus Welch left on Monday to attend the American Royal Stock show in Kansas City. From there they will go to Chicago with the stock judging team to attend the International Stock show.

Welcome Home

We're going to pledge a rousing cheer to you, old friends of ours. Come, drink with us, our love sincere to that Alma Mater of yours. But when you've drunk that toast, dear friend, just thank your lucky stars, your college days came to an end before the reign of Mars.
What e'er it was, somehow, somewhere, there came an awful change, the pros, get all hard-boiled and rare, now don't you think it's strange. The teachers that we used to bluff, have changed and now it's you that get the blame for all the stuff you cut and didn't do. Imagine a hard shelled English prof., it's even hard to try, who raves, when you leave your written stuff,
"Come back here. Dot that 'I.' And should we even think to cut, we hear another beller, "If to your classes you don't strut, you'll K. P. in the cellar." Yes, life has changed for us poor fools, who came to school for fun.
No longer can we play our roles, I fear our joy is done.

COUNCIL TO REWRITE THE CONSTITUTION

CONSTITUTION IS TOO LONG TO BE EFFICIENT

STUDENTS TO SEND SUGGESTIONS

New Constitution Will Be Published in the Collegian—Students Vote on It at the Next Assembly

The constitution of the Students'
Self-governing association is too long and complicated. At least that is the conclusion that the students' council has reached.

The constitution is going to be rewritten. It is to be simplified and shortened. The work on the new constitution will begin at once, according to the president of the Students' Self-governing association.

Send in Ideas

The association is anxious for the students to give new ideas and advice. They have asked students to send in suggestions for the constitution during the next week. Suggestions on any phase of the work will be appreciated.

As soon as the new constitution is written it will be published in the Collegian. The following week it will be voted on in the students'
assembly.

TWO VALUABLE HORSES ADDED TO COLLECTION

Mare Won First Prize at International Stock Show

Two valuable Percheron horses, a stallion and a mare, have been added to the collection of horses now owned by the animal husbandry department. This makes the stud of the department one of the best in this part of the country.

The mare, an imported Percheron, has won first place at every state fair where she has been shown, including the state fairs of Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. She was also a winner at the International Stock show at Chicago.

The stallion has also been a winner at several of the state fairs. He took first place at the Iowa state fair.
Prof. F. W. Bell has charge of the horse department. He came here from the Texas Agricultural college, where he was in charge of the horse department and coach for the stock judging team.

H. J. WATERS TO INDUS- TRIAL CONFERENCE

H. J. Waters, former president of the college, has been appointed by President Wilson as one of seventeen persons in the United States to attend the New Industrial conference, to be held at Washington, D. C., on December 1. This announcement came to Manhattan by wire today.

Mineralogist Now Picks Tinfoil and Papers from Gutters

To Kansas State Agricultural college students he is nothing but a rag picker and tinfoil collector, but a few years back he was recognized as one of the best authorities on mineralogy in the country. And while his daily travels now take him only around Manhattan, in his younger days he visited every state in the union, as well as every country in the world except Alaska.

This man, H. L. Stein, is now 77 years of age and his 77 years have brought him a big variety of experiences. For over forty years he was employed by the Smithsonian Institute as a specialist in mineralogy.
His time was not all spent at Washington however, for his work took him to many different countries.

In his trips to other countries, Mr.
Stein was always received heartily by scientists for his knowledge of mineralogy, archaeology, chemistry, paleontology, and other ologies was always accepted as authentic by these scientists.

But his receptions by noted scientists are ended—he gets a nightly reception now from the matron of the Odd Fellows' home, about two miles from Manhattan.

HAVE DANCES ON HILL NOW

TO BE GIVEN REGULARLY UN-DER AUSPICES OF STUDENTS

Saturday Night Is Preferable, Council Says, But Dances May Also Be Given on Friday Nights on Certain Occasions

Dances are to be given regularly in the new hall in Anderson, under the auspices of the Student Council.
The council decided that Saturday night would be preferable for the dances but that many students would also like to have dances on Friday nights. The council expects to give the dances on Friday nights for one month and then on Saturday nights the following month. These will be alternated monthly.

The Student Council is taking charge of the dances upon the request of the Student Affairs committee.

The student dances at Harrison's hall will still be given.

FACULTY MEN ARE QUOTED BY LEADING SCIENTISTS

Research Work at Agricultural College Gets Increasing Recognition

The research work carried on at the Kansas State Agricultural college is receiving increasing recognition.

In a new book, "Physical Basis of Heredity," by Dr. T. H. Morgan of Columbia university, quotations are made from the research papers of three agricultural college faculty men. These quotations are from the papers of Dr. Robert E. Na-bours of the Zoology department, on "Heredity in Grasshoppers," Dr.
Herman Ibsen of the animal husbandry department, on "Tri-Color Inheritance in Guinea Pigs and Cats," and Prof. William A. Lippincott on the "Inheritance of Blue in Poultry."

In the recent third revised edition of "Heredity and Environment," by Prof. Edwin G. Conklin of Princeton university the work of Dr. J. E.
Ackert of the zoology department, on "Selection in Paramecium," is quoted.

"The Only Girl" Is Managed By Same Group as Middleton

Arthur Middleton, the bass baritone who is to sing at the college auditorium Tuesday evening, is un-

Marshall theater on Monday evening.

Paul Althouse, first number of the Artist Series, is also under the same management, the Horner-Witte, as was the "Thirteenth Chair" which played at the Marshall recently.
Horner-Witte is staging some of the best entertainments of the year

Sooners Only Fear of the Aggie Wild-Cats Is Huston's Toe, Oklahoma
Daily Says in Telling of Aggie Team

Tomorrow's game with the Oklahoma Sooners marks the end of this year's football season. The homecoming game is always well attended and so it is expected that a large crowd will be on Ahearn field tomorrow.

The Sooners do not fear the Aggies on the offense, but they are afraid of Huston's toe, the Oklahoma Daily says. The Sooners will try to keep the Aggies out of kicking distance of the goal.

The probable line-up is:

Aggies	Sooners
Bogue, Captain	R. Johnston
Winters	P. Johnston

Cleland	C. Hamm
Huto	Deacon, Capt.
Gatz	Smoot

"Lift Up Your Voices" Is Motto to Follow in The Shouting Contest

On the morning of November 26 it is probable that Kansas State Agricultural college and Mt. Holyoke, one of the prominent girls' colleges of the east, will stage a gigantic shouting contest. The subject of the shouting will be the concert to be given here November 25 by Arthur Middleton, bass baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company. Holyoke has had a general challenge open in regard to such a contest ever since last spring when Arthur Middleton sang at the eastern college town.

Apparently the far famed glibness of the female tongue has "scared out" other colleges from accepting the challenge, but Kansas State Agricultural college students with the reputation they have for cheering until the end of the game, can doubtless outcheer an all girls' college.

TO GIVE $25 IN PRIZES FOR BEST TICKET SELLER

Member of Faculty Wants to See Ibsen Plays a Success
Twenty-five dollars in cash prizes has been offered by an interested member of the faculty to the girls selling the largest number of tickets for the Ibsen plays to be given here December 3 and 4 by Madame Borgny Hammer and her company. In addition, the management has arranged to give several season tickets as prizes.

Madame Hammer and her company will give three of Henrik Ibsen's plays, "The Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," and "The Master Builder." The plays are unconventional in plot and have aroused storms of comment from dramatic critics in the United States and on the continent.

MANY MEN ARE TAKING EN- GINEER'S HOME STUDY COURSE

Work Is Sent Out by Mail—It Consists of Seven Lessons

Six hundred and seventy men are taking the home study course, offered by the extension division, in stationary engines. These men, many of who could not leave their work to attend school, are seeking to realize their ambitions to become stationary engineers by studying at home in the evenings.

The student engineers of a locality gather together into study groups and do their work collectively. In this way they are benefitted by discussion of the work given.

The course consists of seven different lessons. 4,690 lessons in the stationary engineering course have been mailed to students in Kansas.

SAYS PHOTOGRAPHY IS PART OF WRITING GAME OF TODAY

F. E. Colburn Talks on Subject to Journalism Department

If the pen is mightier than the sword, the camera is almost as mighty as the pen. This, at least, is the opinion of F. E. Colburn, photographer of the agricultural college.

Manuscripts without pictures submitted by students at the Iowa college were resubmitted to the same editors with pictures and their relative value gathered from the various editors. The average of the experiment showed that the manuscripts were enhanced 33 per cent by photographs.

Mr. Colburn quoted this experiment in his lecture to students of industrial journalism last Thursday. He showed how a knowledge of the art of photography was almost essential to success as a writer for the farm press of today.

A. C. Hartenbower, superintendent of institutes and extension schools, is spending the week on his farm near Perry, Okla.

Everybody complains of his gas bill, and yet it is a light expense.

We may not love the barber but we want to be next to him.

Prof. C. E. Rodgers says that his youngest can beat any expert billiard player—he can bowl without even a cue.

The landlord may be a square man but on rent days you can always count on him being round.

Adam after all is like the rest of us—he was married on his wedding Eve.

Why Is It?

That a legless man can "put his foot in it?"

That persons who are "consumed with curiosity," still survive?

That frequently a sinking fund is used to meet a floating debt?

That straining the voice is not the proper way to make it clearer?

That we speak of a stream running when the only way that it can flow is wet?

That wives should expect their husbands to foot the bills without kicking?

That we talk of some people going "straight to the devil" when one has to be crooked to go there?

Retribution is something everyone is eternally hoping will overtake someone else.

Waldo (looking at fraternity jewelry catalogue): "Say, Kike, it says this pin is chase silver."

Kike, (spontaneously): "Must be something like Roman gold."

I sit alone in the twilight Forsaken by God and man.

And murmur over and over "I'll never eat onions again."

The human head resembles the cabbage, in respect that it may be improved by cultivation.

If such is the case we would like to suggest that several people of our acquaintance take up agriculture.

Are you supporting your school paper? It needs you, even if it has a staff to lean on.

One young reporter to another—both unmarried: "What! you don't know what a camisole is? Why you poor fish, it's one of those things they cook scalloped potatoes and spaghetti in."

Young Wife: "I want to learn to make jelly, is it hard?"

Matron: "Gracious no, it's soft."

"Have you heard the story of the dirty shirt?"

"No."

"That's one on you."

Heard in a dairy class: "You say that your brother has three cows and a hundred acres of pasture?"

"Yes, that is what I said."

"Why, he should go into the pasturized milk business."

1913-1914 when the members of the English practice class of Prof. Carl Ostrum, a former member of the English department, decided to form an organization for the purpose of cultivating better literary expression. The members of the class and a few others who were interested in literary work obtained permission from the K. U. Quill club to use the same name for the K. S. A. C. organization.

Later in the year the K. S. A. C. society was invited to become the Beta chapter of the American College Quill club which the University of Kansas Quill was soon to organize. The invitation was accepted and installation services were held in the latter part of May, 1914.

The charter members of the society numbered 43. At present the number of active members is not quite that large. The aim of the society has never been to have a large membership, but to have a few members, all of whom are genuinely interested in writing.

It has been the custom of the club to give an annual banquet honoring Gutenberg, the German printer. This year the banquet will be given in honor of William Caxton, the first English printer. The banquet will be held December 19.

Prof. R. E. Getty, department of orange crops at the Hays experiment station will be a visitor at the college Saturday, on his way to Chicago to attend the International Live Stock show.

Genial Young Man Can Do Everything But Double Timing

That old adage "Laugh and grow fat," is fully exemplified in the person of a round-faced, rosy-cheeked, amply built young freshman of K. S. A. C. Nature has dealt generously with him in the matter of avoirdupois. This young man fully lives up to the idea that fat people are always happy.

At the beginning of the year some trouble was encountered in finding a gym suit that he could get into without the aid of a shoe horn and in which he could feel a reasonable amount of safety. While it was still warm enough to hold the gym classes on the athletic field it would sometimes happen that Fatty would find himself occupying the eleventh part of a football team. He was a tower of strength to his side. It was absolutely useless for his opponent in the line to try to go thru him and by the time he could get around him the backs would be away with the ball.

In military drill any officer who gives Fatty's company a little double timing immediately falls into disfavor with the genial young man. That form of exercise is not at all popular with him and if continued for any length of time he shows his displeasure by dropping out of ranks and sitting down. Wherever he goes Fatty always contributes very largely to the fun of the occasion.

KANSAS ENGINEERS ARE AIDED BY THE COLLEGE

Hear Lectures From Specialists—
May Take Correspondence Course

Kansas is the only state in the Union which has a state college working in connection with the state branch of the National Association of Engineers. This work in Kansas is conducted by Prof. H. H. Fenton, Dean A. A. Potter, Prof. J. P. Calderwood, and G. R. Pauling, all of the engineering division of the agricultural college.

The agricultural college started the work of cooperating with the Kansas branch of the association nearly five years ago and the work has continued ever since. It is the intention of the college committee to have someone visit every branch in the state at least once every three months. Helpful lectures to the engineers will be given by these college experts.

As the college lecturers can not possibly reach the various stations in the state often enough, a series of lessons is carried on by mail. These lessons are sent by letters, one letter dealing with problems concerning boilers and another concerning engines. Two lessons on each subject are mailed every month.

FORMER AGGIE MAN USES MOVIE IN CHURCH SERVICE

Myron S. Collins, at K. S. A. C. in 1912, is Pastor at Burlingame. Motion pictures are used to illustrate the sermons of the Rev. Myron S. Collins, a former student of K. S. A. C. who is pastor of the First Methodist church at Burlingame. Mr. Collins quit school as a senior in 1912.

A community sing is held and pictures are shown in his church every Wednesday evening. No admission is charged but a free will offering is taken to cover the film rental. The large crowds that attend show appreciation of the minister's efforts to provide wholesome amusement. Pictures are shown at the Sunday school hour and on Sunday evening. The subject of the evening pictures is related to the sermon.

Mr. Collins has recently been engaged in an investigation of the work of the state motion picture censorship board. Governor Allen appointed him to spend thirty days in studying the situation and to make suggestions for improving censorship conditions in Kansas.

Elect K. S. A. C. Men

At the recent convention of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, held at Champaign, Ill., two K. S. A. C. faculty members were re-elected to the grand council of that fraternity. These members are Stanley Smith, assistant professor in architecture, and H. H. Fenton, assistant professor in home study work.

CAMPUS STYLES

THE WIND ON THE HILL

The wind did blow, the day was cold
Our fondest hopes did fall,
We wished to wear our crapedasheen,
But not in such a squall,
For going out the north of Main,
The wind is just a fright,
And skirts do blow clear to the sky
And one is soon a sight.

So early in the cold gray dawn,
Warm clad in serge we ventured forth
But ten o'clock brought quiet calm
And we were mad without a doubt.
For it was not a day for serge,
Why crapedasheen was just the thing,
Our heart did sink, we wished to die
For death would be without a sting.

Oh, weather men, please make some way
That us poor girls may know
The wind won't blow past ten o'clock
Nor will it rain or snow.
So we may wear our crapedasheen
If that's the one we wish
And not be blown clear to the skies
And feel just like a "fish!"

Gray ones, blue ones, pink ones, and brown—scarfs and caps alike—why the campus is just ablaze with hem. Fuzzy and smooth, large and mall, they all go to make up a part of the chic costume of the Aggie girl this winter. Warm, doubtless, and evidently, quite the thing and certainly they must be purchased at nominal sum.

At the same time about half of the student body is wearing colored glasses and the eye doctors are all buying 1942 models of the Willis-Cavaller. Girls, have a heart! Doncha know that those wild colored head wrappings and shawl fixings are hard on a man's eyes?

Has anybody noticed the cute little flowerettes that we girls are wearing on our left chests these days? We all think they're pretty nifty but Clem gives us her word for t that they are absolutely not the thing unless worn on an evening dress. This is a quite a shock to us, seein' how we can't afford real flowers (and nobody'll send us any) o we don't know just what we're oing to do about it. Some of the irls wear'em on their furs, others n their coat collars while still othrs of the fair crowd wear them with lain blue serge dresses. Good form r bad form we like them and hope hey do not offend.

We know a girl in this school who wears a pair of brown oxfords that are a perfect fright. We know that they haven't been shined in a month of Sundays, the ties are the awful-lest things we ever saw and the heels—unspeakable. The aforementioned oxfords belong to the writer and they are no more, she having burned them in the furnace so that she would never dare wear them again.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1919

STUDENTS GO ON VACATION TOMORROW

NO SCHOOL AGAIN UNTIL MONDAY MORNING, FIRST HOUR

MANY STUDENTS WILL GO HOME

President Jardine Sends Personal Communication to Students in the Agricultural College Through the Collegian

College will close at noon Wednesday and no classes will be held until the first hour Monday morning. It is expected that nearly all the students will go home for the holidays. President Jardine in a personal communication to the students through the Collegian, says:

"With the return of the Thanksgiving season it becomes our pleasure as well as our duty to pause from the various activities that engross us and reflect upon our blessings. We need to remember that Thanksgiving is peculiarly an American institution and that we have not observed it fittingly and completely unless we take thought of the national welfare and resolve anew to protect and defend the freedom which our forefathers secured to us with so much toil and privation and which our own brothers fought and died to preserve. We are profoundly thankful that war has ceased with victory to the forces of freedom. We rejoice that the boys are back from France and that so many of the Aggies are again enrolled in college completing their preparation for life's work.

"As students of the Kansas State Agricultural college we should remember with gratitude the pioneers who took early steps to provide opportunity for higher education to the state's young people commensurate with the growth which they had faith to foresee, and those who have safeguarded and carried forward the work so well begun. We should be deeply thankful for the opportunity that is ours to secure free education in a free country and a type of education by which it is possible to maintain contact with life while preparing for life. We must not forget the obligation imposed upon us to make the best possible use of our time while here to the end that we may be prepared to return for value received service in fullest measure.

"I bespeak for students and faculty alike a pleasant Thanksgiving and forworking and living."—W. M. Jardine, President.

FACULTY RECITAL WELL ATTENDED

THIRD PROGRAM GIVEN AT COLLEGE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Was Rendered by Miss Vina Brazelton, Pianist, and Miss Helen Hannan, Violinist

The third faculty recital of the department of music was held in the auditorium on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, the program being given by Miss Vina Brazelton, pianist, and Miss Helen Hannan, violinist. There was a good attendance and the program was well received.

Miss Brazelton exhibited a delicacy of execution well adapted to her numbers, especially to Schumann's Papillons, a series of sketches. An interesting feature of the program was her playing of two numbers composed by her brother, Edgar A. Brazelton.

Miss Hannan's first number was a Faust Fantasia, an ambitious composition by Alard, the variations of which bristle with technical difficulties. In her rendition of this selection Miss Hannan exhibited sound musicianship. On her second appearance she played a group of four numbers: a dreamy Romance by Sebald, a showy Scherzo, by van Goens, a brilliant Wienlawski Mazurka.

The gem of the afternoon was the Martini-Kreiser Andantino, an exceedingly beautiful composition of deeply devotional tone which was admirably performed.

Miss Mabel Leffler accompanied Miss Hannan with great taste and tact.

Owing to the Thanksgiving vacation there will be no recital on November 30. The next regular program will be given on December 7 by Miss Elsie Smith and Mr. Arthur Westbrook.

The "Aggie Cow" and the "Spotlight" Made Appearance

Two so-called scandal sheets made their appearance on the campus Friday and Saturday of last week. The first one "The Aggie Moo" was mostly mo-o-o, for that was about all there was to the paper—outside of a few names faked on the Royal Purple contest for "Wild Kittens." Who ever put out "The Aggie Moo" ought to have cleared a pile of money because all the type setter had to do was set an M and then drop in a few o's and the paper was finished.

The "Spotlight" was a little more like a real scandal sheet—tamed down considerably. Now the question is, who put the things out?

STUDENTS WILL JOIN RED CROSS

REGULAR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NOT TO BE MADE, HOWEVER

Subscriptions to Be Received At Postoffice and at Dean Holton's Office—Faculty Members Join, Too

There is not to be a Red Cross membership campaign put on at the Kansas State Agricultural college but there is going to be an opportunity afforded to all those who wish to join to do so.

Dean E. L. Holton appealed to the students at chapel Thursday to join the Red Cross. He said, "Ask the overseas men whether to join or not. If he says so, do it. If he says not to, don't."

Subscriptions will be received at either the postoffice or Dean Holton's office. Members of the faculty, who wish to join, will be given cards to fill out.

Vet. Men Met
The Veterinary Medical association held its regular bi-monthly meeting Monday, November 18, at the veterinary building.

Dr. C. R. Helper, sanitary officer of Riley county, was the principal speaker of the evening, giving a talk on "Practical Sanitation." Papers were presented by W. J. Ritter, and J. E. Williams, and were discussed by the club members.

Mr. Emery was elected to membership in the association. The next meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. the first Monday of December.

Miss Birdseye to Talk
A talk will be given by Mrs. Birdseye to the home economics department Saturday, December 11, in the auditorium.

Mrs. Birdseye is in charge of the home economics specialists in the extension division of the country with headquarters at Washington, D. C. She has been in Kansas for two weeks on an inspection trip. While here she will talk on the work being done by the home economics specialists in different parts of the country.

Governor Allen Says It is Fine
Governor Allen, in reply to President Jardine's telegram concerning the willingness of the Aggies to help mine coal, says in a telegram, "Your wire of 21st—greatly appreciate the spirit manifested by your student body. Kindly convey to them my hearty thanks."
HENRY J. ALLEN, Governor.

Thanksgiving

Not only is this day, a day to loaf and feed your face, but a time the world should kneel and pray to thank their God for grace. No longer do the lusty Huns, with bloody sword and lance, proclaiming power from seven suns, parade the hills of France. No longer do we have to ship, our lads across the sea, to make those fiendish gluttons skip, who fight democracy. So, as we eat our fatted duck and round about our feast is spread, let's pause and thank God for our luck, that we no longer eat WAR BREAD.

DEBATE TRY-OUT WILL BE DECEMBER 11

ALL PERSONS WHO HAVE HAD ANY EXPERIENCE ASKED TO TRY

PROFESSOR BURNS IS IN CHARGE

Question for Debate Is, "Resolved That the United States Should Establish a Protectorate Over Mexico"

Whether or not the United States government should establish a protectorate over Mexico and set up a stable government there, is the question which will be debated December 11 and 12 by all men and women trying out for the college debate teams.

All Should Try Out

This try-out which will be held in A 50 is for the purpose of choosing men and women to take part in the inter-collegiate debates to be held next spring. Professor Burns who has charge of the try-outs says:

"I hope that every college student who has had any experience in high school debates or who is interested in debating will take this opportunity to try-out for the college squad. A large squad will be chosen as several debaters will be needed for the intercollegiate debates to come next semester."

Each contestant will be required to give a five minute speech on any issue of the above given question. Each speaker will also be required to give a two minute rebuttal speech on points of the opposing side which will be handed him at the try-out.

MANY GOING HOME BUT OTHERS WILL SPEND THANKSGIVING IN MANHATTAN

Shouts of joy have been resounding from many rooming houses at all hours of the day and night for the last two or three days as belated special delivery letters were read by students whose fond parents had written to the effect that they could come home for the Thanksgiving holiday.

But always at the holiday time there are those who cannot go home and on their account there is a tinge of sadness about the general festiveness of the occasion. But the different college organizations this year are planning informal jollifications for their members who will spend the Thanksgiving days in Manhattan. So the entire week end will not be making the next best record will receive free tickets to the plays. The fifty girls who have been chosen by the management to conduct the campaign met Monday evening in K57 and plans for the campaign were completed.

Since the Thanksgiving vacation will break up this week, the campaign must be started today and Wednesday, and completed after the vacation. It is hoped that as many as possible may purchase their tickets this week.

No college student can afford to miss the three Ibsen productions, "A Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," and "The Master Builder," which Madame Hammer and her company are to give here. To hear Ibsen is always a treat, but when the Ibsen plays are interpreted by an actress whom the fellow countrymen of Ibsen pronounce one of the greatest exponents of the histrionic art, and a rival of Mrs. Fiske and Alla Nazimova, the opportunity is indeed an unusual one.

PROFESSOR OLIN HAS BEEN TEACHING FIFTY YEARS

Old Grads Raising Money to Buy Him a Present

Former K. S. A. C. students who attended college between 1886 and 1889 are being asked to contribute to a fund which will be presented to Prof. O. E. Olin who taught in the department of English here at that time. Professor Olin, who is now vice president of the Municipal university at Akron, Ohio, is teaching his fiftieth year.

D. G. Robertson, '86, and Roy S. Kellogg, '89, are in charge of the campaign.

College Women Leaders

"We want college women for leaders," Miss Eleanor E. Hamilton, superintendent of the Research Hospital of Kansas City, said in her address to the young women students of Kansas State Agricultural college in the home economics rest room Wednesday afternoon.

"Nurses are much in demand today, at present the call is as great as it was during the war. College women especially are wanted because they have the ability to lead out in their chosen work."

Miss Hamilton is the first of a series of speakers, that Dean Van Zile has arranged to have come and talk to the girls this winter.

Dr. H. H. King has consented to give a paper at a meeting of the Kansas City section of the American Chemical society at Lawrence on Saturday afternoon, November 22. The topic of his paper will be "The Surface Tension."

Blonde, Good Looking, That Will Never Do: He Must Be Brunette

"And she told me that he was to be a blond, terribly good looking. Then too he had lots of money and that we were to be married within the next year."

The mere man that was just arriving on the sorority porch to start his weekly argument with the Fair Young Thing hesitated for two reasons—one to hear more of the news before he was discovered by the group of girls and the other reason was—he was a brunett and not good looking and he was sure that he did not have lots of money, he was positive of the latter.

It was the Fair Young Thing speaking, so the world was taking a rather gloomy appearance for him. And then he was discovered.

"Oh! John I am so glad that you came early because I want to have my fortune told again. I had it told this afternoon and I did not like it and I understand that for another dollar the fortune teller will look farther into your future and it might show up different. Shall we go now?"

Rather than disappoint the little lady, the mere man thumbed his last two dollar bill over again and they started out.

But the law had interfered—the two clairvoyants that had taken in over fifteen dollars from one of the sororities in town had been arrested by the Manhattan police, were fined $7.50 and costs and given twenty-four hours to get out of town.

MIDDLETON IS HERE TONIGHT

CONCERT IN AUDITORIUM STARTS AT 8:30 O'CLOCK

Only a Few Tickets for Concert Are Left and They May Be Procured At the Manhattan Furniture Store or Co-op Store

The second number of the All Star Artists course, a concert by Arthur Middleton, the celebrated bass-baritone of the Metropolitan, is to be given at the auditorium tonight. The program will start promptly at 8:30 and the management urges that everyone be on time as the doors will be closed at 8:30. Persons coming in late will not be seated by the ushers.

George Clammer, one of the prominent lawyers of Manhattan, was a college friend of Arthur Middleton and he is enthusiastic in praising the singer.

There are still a few tickets for the concert left, and these may be procured at the Manhattan Furniture store downtown or at the Co-op Book store in Aggieville.

COLLEGE PRINT SHOP NOW HAS LINOTYPE MACHINE

Collegian Type Now Set on the Campus

A linotype machine has been installed and is now in operation in the college printing office.

By the addition of the machine all work on the two college papers is now done in the college printing office. The Collegian until this year was printed at one of the downtown offices. Until the linotype was installed, the type was set in downtown offices.

The machine is a model eight with three magazines and is one of the best on the market.

The Advisory Council of the Alumni association held a meeting Saturday, November 22. Dr. Belle Little, Mr. H. W. Avery, and Mr. D. C. Wheeler were here to attend the meeting. They also attended the homecoming game.

Have you all noticed those men wearing those big yellow glasses? And its not because they want to protect their eyes from the girls' brilliant apparel, either. They just want to show us that they are students in chemistry and they choose this method of identifying themselves.

SOONERS WIN FROM AGGIES BY 11 POINTS

TWO FORWARD PASSES GIVE SOONERS THE VICTORY

WAS LAST GAME OF THE SEASON

Aggies Put Up Mighty Good Fight Against Oklahoma Who Outweighed Them—Forward Passing and Punting the Feature

By superiority in both aerial and line attack, the Oklahoma Sooners defeated the Kansas Farmers last Saturday by a score 14 to 3. The game was the homecoming event for the Aggies.

Passes Netted Touchdowns

The two touchdowns of the Oklahoma eleven were due to long passes, one for thirty-five yards, and another for forty yards.

The line plunges by Boyle and Swatek, combined with the end runs of McDermott, and the work of Luster, a substitute who earned his letter in Saturday's game, featured the Sooner attack. The punting of Huston was the most spectacular part of the contest. His punts, which totaled 830 yards, averaged forty-five yards.

In the first quarter an exchange of punts occurred, but the Oklahoma eleven secured the advantage when a pass, Swatek to M. Taylor, placed the Sooners on the Aggie 15-yard line. An end swing by Luster gave the Oklahoma men their first touchdown.

Huston Kicked 65 Yards

The second quarter found both teams fighting desperately, the Sooners getting the advantage on passes and runs, and the Farmers returning with long punts by Huston. One kick was for a distance of sixty-five yards.

The Aggies came back strong in the third quarter. Huston kicked to Davis, who fumbled and Quinlan recovered and raced to the 27-yard line. Following several Farmer gains, Huston drop-kicked from the 25-yard line. The remainder of the third and beginning of the fourth periods gave neither side the advantage.

The Sooners made their second touchdown in the fourth quarter by completing a forward pass for forty yards. Lineup:

Drawing Exhibit

There will be an exhibit of scientific drawings by S. Fred Prince, the college artist, in Miss Hollman's rooms in Anderson hall. This exhibit will be given the week after Thanksgiving vacation.

The drawings are pen and ink work, wash, and water color work. They were made mainly for illustrative purposes.

Glen Oliver left Sunday for his home at Howard, where he will spend the Thanksgiving vacation.

GOODBYE FOOTBALL

The Aggies' football season is closed. The games which were played this year were all good, even if the Wildcats did bring home the small end of the score a number of times. At any rate, the Aggies certainly gave everyone a surprise last Saturday. Dope had it that the Farmers would be defeated by at least 40 to 0. But the score was only 14 to 3 and the Sooners had to fight mighty hard to get that.

But the Aggies made a name this year—a new name, and that is the name of being the peppiest school in the Missouri Valley. Papers everywhere are commenting on the fact the Aggies, even when the team was losing stood on their feet and howled—yes, shrieked, until the game was over. Never has there been so much pep in the K. S. A. C. students as there has been this year. Let's keep it up, folks, and next year we'll show 'em who we are.

THOSE SOONERS

When the Sooners came to Manhattan last Saturday they expected to have an easy game and to be able to run up a large score; but they found a team much stronger than they had anticipated. The Oklahoma boys were fine sports and they played a clean and speedy game from start to finish. We give them the game without animosity and will welcome those Sooner boys back to Manhattan again.

K. S. A. C. Shops Famous

The little tractor built at the Kansas State Agricultural college shops, which most of the students have seen being run around the campus, has attracted widespread attention and curiosity. Mr. W. L. Coggins of Keene, N. H., wants one of the tractors and has written Professor Carlson asking that one be built for him.

Miss Rea Robertson of Topeka, was a week end guest at the Chi Omega house.

Miss Moselin Campbell of Hutchinson, was a week end guest at the Chi Omega House.

Miss Fayne Bondurant, 19, who is teaching this year in Ransom, spent the week end at the Chi Omega house.

Miss Prudence Stanley of Topeka, formerly a student of Kansas State Agricultural college spent Sunday at the Chi Omega house.

Mrs. H. E. Don Carlos of Lawrence, who delivered the address to the girls at Vespers Thursday, is a guest at the Machir home.

When President Jardine Called for Volunteers To Go to Coal Mines and Work, 1,500 Men Students Came to Their Feet

Fifteen hundred men in the college are ready to don overalls and go into the Kansas coal mines, providing all other means to secure labor fail. This announcement was sent to Governor Allen in a telegram from President Jardine Saturday.

In student assembly, when the president called for volunteers, practically ninety per cent of the men rose to their feet. To the men who go to the coal mines, if they do, full credit will be given them in their academic work in the college.

The coal situation in the college isn't as bad as it is in some schools but it is bad enough. President Jardine announced that there was enough coal to keep Kansas State Agricultural college heated for another month but after that the school would have to close.

The American Legion in Kansas is also ready to go to the coal fields to don the overalls and so the Manhattan members of the organization are ready to go. Governor Allen has

From Leland Stanford

Over 111 students from 54 colleges in the United States have enrolled with advanced credits this year, according to figures compiled by Miss Jessie Machir, registrar.

Two seniors, thirty-three juniors, thirty-seven sophomores, and thirty-nine freshmen have advanced credits this year. Of these, there are three classes—those whose change of residence have necessitated the change of schools, those whose course demanded a different school, and those who were attracted by the superior courses offered by this college.

The Kansas State Normal is represented by twenty-one students, then of these are people who attended normal immediately after graduation from high school in preparation for teaching the next year. Five students have enrolled with advanced credits from K. U. One student is enrolled from the Leland Stanford university.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

We note that several of our friends were entertained by another of our friends at a dinner early the next morning and that after the said feat, the younger set of the afore-said congregation, put on an original stunt. Now we are wondering just what "original" means in this case.

And also, who were awarded the prizes and for what the prizes were awarded and why unbiased judges form without were not invited.

Such might make an interesting feature story.

Professor Crawford says he guesses he wasn't supposed to understand everything but he would like to know how the instructors of engineering classes ever expect to teach their pupils how to build bridges by letting them chase all over the campus, one hiding a stake and the other fellow trying to find it with a telescope.

Isn't it odd how many of us have reference work to do at the library, evenings.

And how often it's the case that two-thirds of the round trip is consumed on the way home?

Anyhow the library does contain a lot of interesting and instructive things—especially evenings.

Lots of interesting facts to read, 'n everything.

But, really, one can often read worlds in a pair of lovely soft brown eyes.

Editor's Note: An alliterative poem, author unknown, supposed to have been sung in "M" flat by Major Marmaduke Muttonhead to Miss Madeline Mendoza Marriott.

DEAR FAMILY

Ma chere Famille, mon pere, non mere et les kids: I cannot for the life of me understand why you do not write me. I met Mary Smith in the chemistry building this morning and she told me she had had a letter from her mother and that her mother had said that you were so busy taking care of your sick chickens that you couldn't write to anyone. Now, Mother, I know how anxious you are over those chickens but don't you think it's pretty poor when mere fowls of the air come between a mother and her fond and affectionate daughter Mon dieu!

If it were not that I am making a manly attempt to become a proficient student in French I think that I could bear it. This morning I stopped at the judgment seat of the French classroom and ask in faltering tones and abated breath my standing in French. Le professeur de francais looked up and smilingly told me that I "vibrated between a 'p' and an 'm'" which means, mother and father dear, that I am not gone yet but that I am, as it were, in the afternoon of my chance to make a passing grade in the language of the people who held the line when the Germans thought they would pass.

Well now I will tell you the news. On December 5 the college is going to give a show. They call it Aggie-pop night but it means only that a number of the college organizations appear in original stunts and according to their beauty, cleverness, and originality they are judged and silver cupped.

I am going to be one of them. Now, father, don't think that it is a vaudeville show or that it will revive any of my old longings to go on the stage. I don't believe that I will be an actress now, they say dieticians make lots of money, especially if they go out on jobs for drainage engineers, etc.

They are having a peculiar contest in school now to find out who is the biggest nut, the best craps shooter, the best shimmy dancer, and other items like that. Yes, father, I know you don't quite understand but I will explain it all when I come home at Christmas.

And, father, I am nearly broke--will you send my check a little early, please, mon cher? You see there have been two tag days since you sent the other one and potatoes and gravy has gone up two cents at the college cafeteria so together with having loaned Mary Smith $2.00 to subscribe for the Collegian I am really embarrassed every time anybody looks at me in the tone of voice which sounds like, "Suze will you loan me $5.00."

Speaking of tag days reminds me. I have decided that if I am to carry out my intention of being loyal to every Aggie need I'll have to rearrange my financial budget. So I am going to meet with the S. S. G. A. or the Students' Council of the Y. W. C. A. or somebody and ask them to put on a tag day for my assistance so that I can go through Main hall with a free conscience every time somebody jumps from behind the service flag and says "twenty-five cents, please, tag day for the benefit of something or other, you know."

I must tell you that a member of the faculty stopped me the other night as I was going home and told me that it was absolutely not the thing for a young lady to whistle on streets. Yes, mother, I was whistling "Everything Is Peaches Down in Georgia" and I know that it will hurt you for you hate that tune, but I love it—I am sorry—and the lady teacher asked me why I indulged in such manlike sport. And I told her that I was afraid to walk home alone and whistling helped me to keep up my spirits and I sure made a bad move then for she insisted on accompanying me home acting as it were as a sort of a duenna.

As I have often said before this is the nicest college I have ever gone to and being a freshman I guess I ought to know. I wouldn't go to K. U. if they'd give me an E plus E plus E in French and would choke the man who invented algebra and chemistry. This is a good school, mother, and when you see me at Christmas time and find out how much I know why you will realize that I have made myself a credit to your early teaching.

I hope that this long letter will serve as a gentle but firm reproach to all of you for not writing to me for a whole week. I almost wish that one of the chickens would die so you'd be punished for neglecting a loving child to give attention to a mere feathered biped. But anyhow I am, your loving, struggling to keep from flunking.—Enfant Sussanny.

Poison the Gophers

Through experiments at the Kansas State Agricultural college it has been found that the best and most practical way to combat pocket gophers is by poisoning. It has also been found that the best time to poison them is during the fall after frost and before freezing, for at this time the pocket gopher is storing food for the winter and takes the bait more readily than at any other time. The zoology department has formulated a poisoned oat bait which has proved very successful in eradicating the gophers.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor:—So that was homecoming?

I am a freshman and for a long, long time I have been hearing about homecoming and in my sub-conscious mind I had been holding for weeks and weeks a glorified idea of what that week end would be and when Sunday night came and I realized that "Homecoming" had come and gone I could not but feel a keen sense of disappointment, quite as a person would feel who had been promised an enjoyable time and had then been deprived of the good time.

Perhaps I expected too much but somehow I thought it was going to be a great day. I had visions of a very definite program for the honored band would meet the train. I thought there would be a special chapel service for them with songs of welcome to the men and women who are out showing the world what K. S. A. C. teaches them to do.

But somehow the whole thing slumped.

The game was a good one and I enjoyed it a lot but the homecoming atmosphere was a minus quantity if any of the ideas I have always entertained concerning it were true at all.

Here's hoping that next year something will be done to make the homecoming day program so attractive that not a single graduate who can possibly come will be able to resist it.—A Freshman.

Dear Editor:—One of the first things "Prexy" said this year was that he did want the school divided into cliques either by the frats, literary societies, or other organizations, and any loyal Aggie will second his suggestion. But, here's the way it works out.

A certain literary society votes an amendment into their constitution eliminating the members of a certain sorority. A name comes up for membership and is voted down merely because she is expected to pledge to this sorority.

The ones who railroaded this vote through were camouflaging personal reasons commonly known as spite.

Such actions destroy spirit, college organizations, and the college itself.—An Interested Aggie.

Dear Editor:—If a student self-governing plan is to be successful it must be truly democratic; it must represent every faction of the student body. That means that there must be a strong central organization that is large enough to be truly representative.

In my estimation the constitution as printed in the Collegian should be entirely rewritten. It is loosely drawn. It does not provide for a real democratic governing body; therefore, would not get the intelligent interest and cooperation of the entire student body. As I see it this is the biggest object of the plan.

A good constitution should be brief. It should provide for machinery of government only and should not deal with matters that should or might be subjected to later legislation. The present constitution violates both these requirements of a good constitution.

The student council is now the representative. Let it know your ideas regarding student self government.—A Student Citizen.

Dear Editor: The invitation dance given in the social center last Friday evening was enjoyed by all who attended but some of the people could not figure out where all the money taken in was spent. As the college does not permit anyone to make profits from dances given on the hill they know that the money was all spent toward the dance; but could not figure the cost quite that high. Probably they didn't figure on the advance in the H. C. of running a dance hall.

IN COLLEGE SOCIETY

Wild West Dance

The Sigma Nu fraternity entertained Friday evening, November 21 with a wild west dance in the community hall in honor of their alumni.

The room was most realistically decorated in representation of a western dance hall of the "Klondike" period. The bar, the gambling den, and the appropriate signs on the walls all made the scene a fitting background for the costumes of the dancers. Typical western girls and dance hall "queens" were the guests of "cow-punchers" of various types.

The guests were provided with huge rolls of money with which they bought refreshments and gambled freely. Dame Rumor says that several million dollars changed hands during the evening.

Several members of Sigma Nu from K. U. and Oklahoma university attended the party. The chaperones included Prof. and Mrs. H. H. King, Mrs. Meade, Professor Emerson and Professor MacArthur. The music was furnished by the Haley orchestra from Kansas City.

AGGIE MEN TO THE COAL MINES

FARMERS LAY AWAY THEIR MOLESKINS

LAST SEASON FOR SEVERAL GRIDIRON HEROES

RODA'S LAST YEAR WITH TEAM

Hixon and Pateck Only Backfielders to Leave—Nucleus for a Strong Eleven Left—Basketball Season to Start

Aggie moleskins have been laid away in mothballs until another Thundering Thousand takes up the chant of Beat K. U. The passing of the 1919 football season witnesses also the passing of several Aggie gridiron heroes.

Roda's Last Year

Probably the hardest place to fill on next year's squad will be the one left by Carl Roda. For two years this Aggie man was known throughout the Missouri Valley as the premier guard. Carl graduates this spring and will begin farming at his home near Paradise. Schmidt, a big guard on the freshman squad will probably get a chance at Roda's position next fall.

Bogue and Enlow Leave

Capt. Joe Bogue and Charley Enlow both leave this year and Coach Clevenger will have to hunt up two good ends. Quinlan showed up well at end in the last two Aggie games. Sites, star end on the freshman squad will be a strong contender for an end position next fall.

Ike Gatz is another graduate whose place will be hard to fill. Ike was an All Valley tackle in 1918. Marion Stauffer, Williams, and Tex Marshall from the freshman squad will offer strong competition for a tackle position. Hutto is another lineman who will not be on the Aggie lineup next fall.

Loss Backfield Men

The only backfield men Coach Clevenger loses are Pete Hixon and Leo Pateck. Leo played fullback for two years. He was one of the best defensive men on the squad and could hit the line for a good gain in a pinch. Geork, a whirlwind fullback on the freshman squad, will be able to step into Pateck's shoes. Pete Hixon was a running mate of the fleet George Hinds and will be missed in that combination. Price, a freshman back, will be able to step with the fastest of them next season.

Misfortune in the early part of the season prevented the Wildcats from making their usual good showing but it gave Aggie rooters a chance to show their spirit and the Tiger and Jayhawker games were no disgrace to the rooters. K. U. enthusiasts were overwhelmed by Aggie pep and have a wholesome respect for the Farmers.

Basketball Soon Starts

With the basketball season approaching and indoor track to begin Aggie sport will again assume the limelight in Missouri Valley circles. For several years the Aggie basketball squads have won the championship or have been runnersup. The prospect for a winning team is even brighter this year than in years past. Other Missouri Valley schools must look up to the Aggies when the great indoor game holds sway.

Indoor track is another branch of sport in which the Aggies excel since the addition of Gallagher, Frost, Evans, Watson, Neely, and some fleet freshmen. Last season the Aggie tracksters traveled all the way to Chicago to give an exhibition of speed. "Germany" Schulz is planning even greater conquests for his proteges this year.

AGGIE POP NIGHT TO COME NEXT

ANNUAL STUNT NIGHT TO BE HELD DECEMBER 5

Beside Stunts Given by Different Organizations, "Between Acts" Will Be Presented by Various People

There are all kinds of pops in the World, some to drink and some to love; but Aggie Pop guarantees a good laugh and a good knock for every one.

Friday night, at eight o'clock when the curtain rises on "The Spirits of Dawn," Aggie Pop will be here in earnest. Just what the Spirits of Dawn will do on a cold winter evening no one seems to know except the Ionian Literary society.

The Hamiltons will present the one bachelor stunt of the evening, which is "The League of Nations in 1940." How interesting to see the Hamps dressed in the styles of the forties. Likely they will be grumbling and arguing over the peace treaty even at that future date.

For the Eurodelphians the future is too vague and uncertain so they will present, "Our Yesterdays." One of the professors of the school has suggested that "Our Yesterdays" referred to the days before the war when there were a dozen men to every girl. But perhaps he is wrong. Anyway, Friday night will tell the story.

The Aggie Press club will put on "The Last Quarter." Everyone knows that a journalist is always stretching that last quarter to the limit so the name is very appropriate. It may however refer to the fatal ending of a football game; but how all the young lady journalists could play a role in a stunt like that makes even the wisest wonder.

The Delta Zetas are giving "Peps Choice" and it is whispered about that Pep is the name of a dog; but you never can tell. Anyhow it's a clever stunt for one of the Delta Zeta girls was over heard saying to one of her fraternity sisters, that it was keen.

The curtain rises for the last time on a doll shop. It is then that the Iota Psi girls will show how clever real live dollies can be.

Between the stunts music and solo dances will be given. The McDowell club and the Sigman Uu quartet will both furnish music.

The Chi Omegas will give their far famed Minstrel which is a real side show from Yuma street. The cleverest girls of the fraternity will put on the grimest colors and the blackest paint and make merry on dishpan and trombone.

Miss Edith Bond will give a solo dance. Miss Martin and Miss Hortense Caton will give a duet dance.

Merton Swanson has also consented to appear. But just like a man he won't tell what he is going to do. Perhaps "Swede" will give one of his Dutch readings.

After it's all over, then comes the judge's decision. Everyone is breathless. The judge gives the answer. But who gets the cup?

Founders' Day Banquet

The Delta Delta Delta sorority gave their Founders' Day banquet Monday evening at 7:30 at the Gillett hotel. Covers were laid for 35 guests. The fraternity colors of silver, gold, and blue were carried out in the menu, and the place cards. Baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums tied with blue were used in the decorations. The dining room was lighted with blue and gold candles. The banquet toasts were given by Miss Doris Bachelor, Miss Mildred Sterling, and Miss Elizabeth Graham, with Miss Juanita Weist acting as toastmistress. Fraternity songs were a feature of the evening.

The H. C. L. Today

Before the scrap across the pond, I bought all kinds of foolish traps. I blew my coin on Jake and Lee and lots of other 'round town chaps. But now I can't make out what's wrong. I'm earning less more wheels this year, and yet each time I write a song, I'm broker many times, I fear. I wear 'round a flannel shirt, instead of silks of green and pink; yet coin sifts through like so much dirt, till none is left to buy my ink. My shoes leak water at the sole; my trousers have a tissue seat; my old gray coat boasts many a hole, where fleets of lusty moths did eat. In sooth, I'm in a bankrupt state, yet why this trick of circumstance? I'm not a foolish squandering jake, I plan and save at every chance. I think I'll pawn my dancing shoes, and hunt me up some desert isle; some unknown, unsung rendezvous, and bide my time in peace awhile.

FIRST IBSEN PLAY TO BE GIVEN DEC. 3

"A DOLL'S HOUSE" WILL BE PRESENTED FIRST

TWO PLAYS GIVEN ON THURSDAY

"Hedda Gabler" and "The Master Builder" Will Be Played Thursday—These Are Among Ibsen's Best Productions

Madame Borgny Hammer and her company will be here Wednesday to put on the three Ibsen plays, "A Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," and "The Master Builder." "Hedda Gabler" will be given at the matinee Thursday. "A Doll's House" will be given at the evening performance Wednesday and "The Master Builder" will be given at the Thursday evening performance. The evening entertainments will begin at 8:15.

The plays which have been selected for presentation here are among Ibsen's best known productions. "A Doll's House," which is probably the most popular of the Ibsen plays, deals with the crime which a woman made as a sacrifice for her husband, and the blind fury of the man when he discovers her act. "How often is a sacrifice understood or appreciated?" is the question raised by the play.

It is said that considering how modern a play "Hedda Gabler" is, the number of actresses who have failed to successfully interpret the title role, is surprisingly large.

Madame Hammer, however, has been most successful in her interpretation.

"Hedda Gabler" is a play about a woman who discovers her limitations, and overcome by the tragedy of her discovery sends a man to his death in an effort to test her personal power.

"The Master Builder" raises the old, old question "What are the wages of sin?" The "Master Builder" is an architect who has achieved his greatness by using the genius of others as a means to his own success. In the end his house crumbles about him—yet his life has been made beautiful by the ideals of a young mountain girl.

It is a strong play with a stirring message of joy and courage to every man and woman in every walk of life. Rolf Hammer and Madame Borgny Hammer star together in this production.

No one can afford to miss the opportunity of seeing as great an actress as Madame Hammer playing in roles as great as those of Ibsen. It is not often, even in a large city that Ibsen plays are given, and it is quite possible that such an opportunity as this will never come again for the majority of students in the college.

Madame Hammer and her company are making a six weeks' tour of the greater universities and colleges of the middle west before making their New York debut.

Miss Oma Bardwell of Excelsior Springs, Mo., spent Thanksgiving week visiting at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Miss Wilma Ashbey, Miss Louise Rathman, Miss Juanita Weist, Miss Florence Haack, Miss Gladys Scott, Miss Rowena Turner, Miss Effie Hendricks, and Miss Margaret Dow were dinner guests at the Delta Tau house Thursday evening.

No other word has been received concerning the wrecking of the coal miners' train but it is supposed that the wreck was caused by the strikers.

Men students in the college are still signing for work in the coal fields and it may be that more men will be called for. The following statement has been issued by the president: "The Governor has asked for volunteers to work in the mines and will pay $5 a day and expenses. The boys that volunteer are asked to furnish rubber boots, overalls, and gloves. They will be reimbursed for these articles when they reach Topeka. Those wishing to volunteer call President Jardine or offices of the deans."

The coal situation at K. S. A. C. is better than it is most places. At present the college has enough fuel to last until the Christmas vacation. If no coal is secured by that time, it is a possibility that oil burners will be installed in the furnaces.

A rumor on the campus this morning said that the University of Kansas is to close because of the lack of fuel.

JUDGING TEAM PLACES THIRD

AGGIE TEAM FINISHED 60 POINTS LESS THAN WINNER

Stock Judging Contest at Chicago Was One of Biggest Events of Its Kind Ever Held—Montague High on Aggie Team

The Kansas Aggie team placed third in the judging contest at the International Live Stock show, held at Chicago from November 29 to December 6. The judging was done last Saturday and a telegram from one of the boys states that the Aggies placed third. J. D. Montague was high point man for the Aggies.

The Texas Agricultural college team placed first. The telegram from Chicago did not tell who took second but stated that the Kansas men lacked only 60 points of tying for first place.

The team left K. S. A. C. Monday, November 17, going first to the American Royal Live Stock show at Kansas City. From there, the men went to the Missouri university, then to the Iowa State college. They also visited a number of well known stock farms.

Mr. Mark Upson spent Thanksgiving week visiting friends in Wilson.

Roy Kilmer, 10, and Mrs. Gertrude (Weber) Kilmer, '12, spent homecoming week end in Manhattan.

WHEN WILL THE FUEL SHORTAGE END? AGGIE MEN WILL AID IN SOLVING IT

The Kansas Aggie men who have volunteered to go to the coal fields the men who volunteered for war are patriots in the same sense that were patriots. They are ready to render a much needed service—ready to face hardships and certain dangers that accompany all such labor troubles.

Manhattan is already suffering from the lack of fuel. The college is a little better off, but not much. Everywhere there is a call for fuel—residences, fraternity houses, schools, business houses, and all. All theatres and picture shows have been closed in the city. It is planned now that all dances will be stopped later. In fact it is a possibility that all places of amusement and business houses that are non-essentials will be shut down.

So grit your teeth, Aggies. Do just half as much as the boys who are going to the fuel beds, and we will get along fine.

CHALLENGE SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Certain representatives of church schools have at times charged the state schools with a serious lack of religion. Many facts might be cited to disprove this assertion, and to any doubters we are pleased to submit the following information as one case in point.

Prof. Ralph R. Price, head of the department of history and civics at the Kansas State Agricultural college, is teaching a class of college girls in the Methodist church at Manhattan. The day after the K. U. Aggie football game, though many students had gone to Lawrence the day before, Professor Price had 91 girls actually present in his Sunday school class. The average attendance of this class for the month of October was 94, and since then it has shown a marked growth. On November 16, there were 134 girls present, and the attendance for November 23 was 147. This is certainly a high class record, and it is still going up. We challenge any church school to equal the record already established here at the agricultural college.

Halford E. Lucecock's "Studies in the Parables of Jesus" is used as the text in this course, and one hundred copies of this book have already been bought by the class. One characteristic of this class is the marked regularity of attendance. Not only are the girls greatly interested in these studies, but the class itself is very much alive and is having a marked influence for good on the college life.

LITTLE LETTERS TO A BOY AT COLLEGE

Dear Dick: I have been waiting rather anxiously for your letter which came today and I'll confess that it was something of a disappointment to learn that you went to the dance Friday evening instead of to the pep meeting. I saw Roger Ames the other day. You know that since the time he was Wildcat center he has never lost his enthusiasm for football and of course he had to go back for the homecoming game. Roger said he was disappointed in the school spirit shown. He noticed that the students went to the dances rather than to the pep meetings. I had been hoping that you would put the school first and at least go to the big meeting before going to the dance. When I went to school I know that we placed school above everything else.

The other day I read the statement of a man who said he owed allegiance first to the organization to which he belonged and second to the state in which he was a citizen. Well, he's a poor citizen. I think that you fellows who feel the pull of your crowd to be stronger than the pull of your school, are not loyal students.

A few minutes ago a friend remarked that he believed to create democracy is to make men wise enough and good enough to be willing to do the thing that is best for common good.

I hope Kansas State Agricultural college is still turning out the men who are willing to do things for a common good. And take it from me son, get down to work and catch that real school spirit. Lovingly, Dad.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Collegian. The crowd at the game Saturday was deprived of the pleasure of seeing the stunt that the girls had prepared for them all because some of the men forgot their manners and filled in the space reserved for the girls where a block "K" had been laid off. The requests of the girls reserving the section were disregarded and the men crowded in and filled 15 yards just east of the band. Everyone knew that that space was reserved for the "Aggie Girls' Loyalty" club but it seems that some of the boys here have forgotten their manners. An Objector to the Request has been granted.

Dear Editor:—Did you go to the football game last Saturday? If you did you saw some boys selling some "Spot Light Scandal" sheets. It seems to me that that was pretty poor loyalty to the Pep committee and in that way to the school. The Pep committee had worked hard to push the pep and had spent time and money on programs for the game. The Spot Light cost a dime. That time and the attention of the rooters should have gone to the programs and to the team. What we need here is more "pulling together" and less little group affairs going on when college affairs are on hand.—One Who Would "Put the Aggies First."

Dear Editor:—What has become of the "can't-scare-me" gang? Evidently they can't live up to their name, or else they have come to the conclusion that it does not pay to advertise.

It is rumored that the paint daubers were caught one evening before Thanksgiving when they were endeavoring to paint one of our crispy prof's new bungalow steps.

Now just what the young prof. did to the night rounders he won't say. But he gives us to understand that they did not live up to their reputation. He also hinted that they are off duty for the future.—The Profs. Secretary.

Dear Editor:—What is the matter with the clocks around this institution, anyhow? The one in the library is no more, or is in the repair shop, we don't know which; the one in the gym lost one of its hands last week; and the only way one can find out in Anderson hall what time of the day it is, is to peek through the postoffice window. We ought to have a community clock.—A Student.

Miss Leula Cory came Monday to take a position as General Assistant in the library. Miss Cory was graduated from K. U. in '16, and since then has been teaching English in the high school at Leavenworth.

TWELVE ELECTED FOR QUILL CLUB

FORMAL AND INFORMAL INITIATION, DECEMBER 8

Interest the Contestant Would Take in Writing to Sell Was Considered as Well as Merit of Manuscripts

The Beta chapter of the American College Quill club will initiate the new members chosen in the recent contest Monday evening, December 8. There will be both a formal and an informal initiation and all members of Quill are urged to be present.

The interest in the recent contest was very satisfactory to the membership committee and a large number of manuscripts of merit were submitted.

As the membership of the club is limited, not only the merit of the manuscript was considered but also the interest the contestant would take in writing to sell, as one of the purposes of the club is to encourage the selling of manuscripts. Nearly all the persons elected to membership have sold articles to various publications.

The William Caxton banquet will be given December 11, three days after the initiation.

The initiates are Prof. Walter Burr, Prof. C. E. Rogers, Miss Cecilia Burr, Miss Blanche Lea, Miss Paul Rorabaugh, Miss Sue Carmody, Mrs. Dorothy Finley, Miss Orville Bourassa, Milton Eisenhower, C. E. Briggs, L. E. Robinson, and Wayland Dunham.

The next contest will be held in the spring and will close April 1.

Prof. R. A. Seaton addressed the Topeka Engineers' club on Wednesday, November 19, at Topeka. His address was on "Mechanical Engineering in the War," the subject matter of the address being based on his personal experiences and observations as a captain in the ordnance department at Washington during the war.

Those Chapel Dates

When the chapel bell is tolling Its peals across the campus green; Then off for Johnnies and the like, The chapel dates may oft be seen.

But when winter blows his breath, And dates are wrapped in muff and tunic blouse, The same devoted pairs and twos, Hasten towards the friendly green-house.

There 'neath the dating palm, Or the banana's spreading leaves, He tells her a wild, wild line, A line which she often believes.

Don't blame the lad, young and foolish, He is doing what he can.

To throw the old, old line, Is the sacred right of any man.

Threshing, Feed-grinding—and Goodyear Belts

Those who plan to use their tractors for feed-grinding are one of the largest purchasing groups interested in Goodyear Klingtite Belts. Their interest in Goodyear Klingtite is due to the same conditions that brought about such a wide use of this belt by threshermen this year. Like the threshermen, they realize that old style belts slip too much, stretch too much, have to be run too tight, cause too much trouble, and waste too much time making repairs.

Modern high speed machinery needs modern high-speed belts. Goodyear Klingtite belts are modern high-speed belts—unstitched. They are flexible and hug small pulleys closely. They do not require hours of breaking in, but run sliplessly from the first minute that they are put to service.

Their friction surface grips the pulley face, even when the belt is very loose. Ross Diehl, near Chillicothe, Missouri, reports that he has run his Klingtite so loose that about six feet of it touched the ground, and yet there was no slip.

The threshing outfit of Mr. Askins, near Winfield, Kansas, reports that because Klingtite runs sliplessly, even when very loose, it was much easier to set up his outfit—and he doesn't have to set it up so often. Threshing outfits everywhere have found also that Goodyear Klingtite is permanently water-proof, and stays water-proof without any painting or dressing.

Because of this water-proof quality, Goodyear Klingtite does not shrink when exposed to rain, dew, or snow. It does not stretch because of heat or dryness.

You can buy Goodyear Klingtite Belts from the Goodyear Mechanical Goods Service Station Dealers. They buy direct from the factory, so that they can sell you this high-speed, supple, friction-surface belt for just about the same price as that charged for ordinary belts. They have both endless and other belts in stock and can sell you any length in all standard widths. If you want more information about Goodyear Klingtite, either for feed-grinding and other all 'round uses—or for threshing and other heavy duty—ask for the Goodyear Farm Encyclopedia. All Mechanical Goods Service Stations have it, and you can also get copies direct from Akron.

MERMAIDS FORM SWIMMING TEAM

SIX GIRLS WILL BE CHOSEN FROM EACH CLASS

Girls Can Not Belong to Both Swimming and Basketball Team—Class Teams Will Give Big Meet in Early Spring

If you can swim, girls, here is a chance for you to make 50 points toward that "K" sweater.

The physical training department has again instituted something new. This time it is swimming teams for girls.

Six girls are to be chosen from each class to swim on the team. The tryouts for the team will begin in about two weeks, according to Miss Edith Bond.

But there is a choice to be made especially if you happen to be an all-around athlete. No girl can be on a swimming team and at the same time be a member of a basketball team.

It is hard for a girl who likes to swim and play basketball both to make the choice. One girl was heard to say:

"It just makes me awful mad for I wanted to do both."

After the six girls for the various teams have been chosen, the girls will elect their own captains. The weeks to get in good trim for the big swimming meet between the classes.

At this meet the girls will be judged on form in diving, form in swimming, speed and the variety of strokes and dives which they are capable of doing.

Since school began this fall twenty girls have learned to swim. Many of them are planning on trying for their class team.

Miss Winifred Bartholf will have charge of the swimming teams and also of the big swimming meet which the teams will put on later in the season.

EX-GOBS OF THE COLLEGE TO HAVE DANCE SOON

Will Also Form Club Similar to Ex-Service Men's Club

"Hey Jack," says one sailor to another when he wants to attract his attention. This is what the ex-gobs of the college are saying to each other now in an attempt to get the gang together and have an all sailors dance at the Community house December 12.

A few of the men have had a meeting and decided on a plan for the dance. The Community house to be decorated to represent a man-of-war. The windows will be made to look like port holes. The entrance will be made into a gangway and everything will be "shipshape" for a good time.

In order to reach every goby in college the committee is going to have a registration in Main hall next Wednesday afternoon, December 3 and all day Thursday, December 4. The committee asks that every man bring his discharge paper, service record, or release when he comes to register.

A meeting of all registrants will be held in F 3 Thursday evening at 5 p. m. Plans for a permanent organization, something like the ex-service men's club, will be discussed at this meeting.

A Music Portfolio Lost—Artist Can Not Appear Tonight

"Wasn't it fine? Why, I enjoyed it even more than I did the Althouse concert," and "Wasn't his voice great?" were the exclamations of the crowd as they poured out of the auditorium Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock.

A few minutes before, Prof. A. E. Westbrook had appeared before the waiting crowd who were growing just a trifle impatient over the delay.

"If it were not that I knew what splendid people you are," he began, "I would dislike very much to tell you what I am about to say. But I am sorry to inform you that due to the fact that Mr. Middleton is in very bad voice this evening and in a bad game this afternoon lost three of his songs, he cannot find it in his heart to appear and give an unsatisfactory program. However he promises to return at some time in the near future."

"I hardly know how to dismiss such an audience as this," Prof. Westbrook went on, "Unless I have you stand and sing the Doxology."

But the crowd only laughed a big, hearty laugh, and concealing its disappointment, went generously home conceding to the artists of the realm of music the right to disappoint an audience for the simple reason that three songs were lost because the music portfolio had been used for a card table, and then left on the train by accident when the card game was over.

The hours I've spent in thee, old gym, Are as a dream of agony to me.

I count them over, every one a knock Oh misery, oh skinnedup knee!

Each hour an ache, each ache a groan, No dates at all, just stay at home.

Oh, lovingly, I thee would kill If I but had a chance, old gym.

Having inquired into the price of shoe shines and individual boxes of shoe polish we feel that we can now speak with authority on the subject of shoes and their shines or the lack of shines. A shine is valuable to have attached to one's footcovering. Strange as it may seem to say this one first looks at a man's or woman's feet and if they like the looks of their feet they will not hesitate an instant to look for the smiling and certainly pleasing countenance of the shod one. But if the shoes are unshined, run down at the heels, laces all crooked, 'neverything, it is not likely that the wearer will hold the attention of the passerby.

No one can accuse the girls of Oklahoma university of being behind the times. "Ears sink back to bad repute" says an Oklahoma daily headline, and we learn further down in the article that "Ears are going out of style."

A recent contributor to the Evening Missourian, has this to say about gambling conditions at the university: "Playing poker as a gambling game is one of the worst curses that has ever struck this country. It is also one of the worst curses that has ever struck the University of Missouri. If all the gambling that goes on among the students of the university were revealed it would indeed be a startling revelation. The general public, the students, and the members of the faculty have no conception of the amount of gambling that goes on. The city police force is somewhat better acquainted but even they cannot realize the full significance of it."

I Should Say So!

Holidays are always too good to last forever and like all other good things they can't come twice in succession so the real joy of the holiday had a little shadow cast over when the necessity for a number of students going to the coal fields arose. IKE GATZ IS CAPTAIN OF 1920 AGGIES

EIGHTEEN LETTERS AWARDED TO FOOTBALL MEN THIS YEAR

TO LOSE MEN BY GRADUATION

Roda, Enlow, Ptacek, Hixson, and Hutto Will Graduate This Year—Gatz Has Only One More Semester

Ike Gatz, veteran Aggie tackle, was elected captain of the 1920 football team at a meeting of the letter men Wednesday evening. Gatz received 13 of the 18 votes that were cast on the first ballot. Gatz, whose home is in McPherson, is a senior in veterinary medicine but will be here one more semester after this year.

Gatz started his college football career in 1916 when he played guard on the freshman varsity. He was captain of the S. A. T. C. team last year and was also chosen as All-Missouri Valley guard last year.

18 Letter Men

The letter men elected by the athletic board were Bogue, Enlow, and Randels, ends; Gatz, Winters, and Gingery, tackles; Roda, Huston, and Hutto, guards; Cleland, center; Burton, E. Cowell, Hinds, Ptacek, Hixson, W. Cowell, Gallagher, and Quinlan, backfield men.

The maximum number of eighteen, established by a long standing precedent by the Aggie board, was selected. There is no set rule of merit for awarding the "K," the board judging according to number and eligibility of the men.

Lose Five Men

The Farmers lose Roda, this year's All-Missouri Valley second team guard, Enlow, end, Ptacek, veteran fullback, Hixson, halfback, and Hutto, lineman, by graduation this year.

BASKETBALL MEN START TRAINING

SEVEN "K" MEN ARE ALREADY WORKING FOR TEAM

Coach Urges Freshman Men to Try Out—Season's Game Schedule to be Arranged Friday at Missouri Valley Conference

Capt. George Hinds led his basketball squad out on the floor of Nichols gymnasium for their first workout of the season Monday evening.

Seven "K" men have reported for practice already. Never before has there been such keen competition for places on the team. The majority of the men are in fine condition to begin heavy workouts and within a few days the training grind will be started in earnest. The schedule will be arranged Friday at the Missouri Valley conference.

"Germany" Schulz is urging every freshman basketball man to try out. A strong freshman squad is needed to give the Varsity some genuine basketball practice. The intercompany games and the interfraternity games should develop some stars.

Varsity men who are working out are Hinds, E. Cowell, Winters, Bunker, Knostman, Fullington, and Jennings.

Wareham Was Much More Inviting Than Library and Studies

Her coat was blue, her hat brown, her cheeks red with the sting of the frosty air, her eyes alive with the enthusiasm of a conqueror.

He, of the part-your-hair-in-the-middle-club, followed, as, with a tripped her way into the chummy backward, beckoning glance, she seats at the library, sighed happily, re-adjusted her sweater, smiled her thanks as he deposited her note books, and, again sighing, she fastened her gaze upon her foods tables for the space of one whole minute.

"Frank," she whispered in pleading childish tones, "does my ear show?"

Convinced by his ardent avowals that no ear was visible and that if such a bit of tiny seashell pink were visible it would only add to her charm, she smoothed her hat a bit, and again followed the lengthy tale of "what would and would not cook in such and such a time."

"Ah-oo-oo" she suddenly cooed, "How good looking. It's a new one, isn't it. Do let me see it. Can I try it on. Which finger do you suppose it would fit."

"Ohoo—no!" she gurgled in answer to a whispered sentence he of the parted hair addressed to the bob over her ear, and, leaning her face against the back of a dimpled hand, she slowly shoved back the ring.

For a full fifteen minutes she worked, then, closing her book with a slam, she shuffled her feet a few seconds, brought Frank from the realms of electrical engineering by a twitch of his sleeve, and with pouting lips and dancing eyes she sighed:

"Oh, Frank, let's do sneak off to the Wareham—we can beat 10:30 yet—"

Gathering their books with a rush, they tiptoed from the room and, glancing back at the grinds, disappeared behind the closing door.

WILL SUSPEND POOR STUDENTS

FOUR AGGIES HAVE ALREADY BEEN DISMISSED

Skiping of Classes and Indifferent School Attitude Are Proving Serious This Year—Jardine Takes Action

The skipping of classes and careless work in school are proving a serious proposition this year. President Jardine has already suspended four Aggie students who skipped classes without excuses. One freshman agriculture student was sent home, one freshman mechanics engineer was dismissed, one home economics student and one student in the housekeeping course were suspended.

This action shows how serious it is this year for students to skip classes. Missing of classes without good excuses will not be tolerated, President Jardine says.

Many students have already realized the importance of getting down to work in the college. Better work, in general, is being done in the college now.

AGGIE GIRL FIRST TO VOL-UNTEER FOR GOAL MINES

Graduate of Home Economics to Superintend the Cooking

The first woman to volunteer for work at the coal mines is Miss Neva Colville, a graduate of the home economics division of the state agricultural college. Miss Colville, who has been engaged in Y. W. C. A. work for the past five years, has volunteered to go to Pittsburg and superintend the cooking for the volunteer miners.

Miss Colville says that she has offered her services not as a strike breaker but in the interest of aiding in the relief of suffering from the lack of coal. That she will be able to handle the cooking situation is quite evident from the efficient manner in which she managed the cafeteria in the Y. W. C. A. hostess house at Camp Dix where thousands of soldiers were fed daily.

Test Road Materials

The past year saw the beginning of the actual construction of hard surfaced roads in Kansas under the provisions of the Federal Aid Road act. During the year the road materials laboratory at the college did a lot of work testing samples of the stone, sand, gravel, and miscellaneous materials for county and other officials who were prospecting for available local materials suitable for the construction of roads and bridges. The laboratory is also cooperating with the Kansas Geological survey in making a survey and test of all available local roadbuilding materials in the state.

THIRTY-FOUR DELEGATES TO GO FROM HERE

Student Volunteer Movement Is Growing—Meeting Is Held Once Every Four Years—Jardine Will Go Too

It is to be held at Des Moines, Iowa, from December 31 until January 4.

Held Every Four Years

Every four years the Student Volunteer convention is held for the purpose of giving college students an opportunity for considering their responsibility in the world program. The convention brings together delegates from all colleges in the United States, Canada, and other countries.

Thirty-four men and women will represent the Kansas State Agricultural college. Members of literary societies, clubs, religious organizations, and both the men's and women's Pan Hellenics will be represented.

The delegation will be led by President Jardine and faculty members who will go are Dean Mary P. Van Zile, Miss Irene Dean, and Dr. A. A. Holtz. The student Y. W. will be led by Miss Marcia Seeber and the Y. M. by Floyd Hawkins.

Other delegates will be as follows: Arnold Englund, Athenian; S. R. Johnson, Hamilton; Ernest Hartman, Webster; J. Oscar Brown, Alpha Beta.

Student assistants who will go will be Mrs. Floyd Hawkins and E. J. Jelden of the Baptist church; V. S. Crippen, Congregational; C. E. Hutto, Methodist; Laura Loomis, Congregational; and Luna Daniels, Methodist.

KENT WILL ORGANIZE AG WORK IN COLORED SCHOOL

In-titute Is So Crowded that Dormitory Can't Accommodate All

The Western university of Kansas City, a vocational school for colored people, has asked Prof. H. L. Kent, state director of vocational education here to organize their work in agriculture.

The school has also asked Miss Alice Lloyd Jones to organize the work in home economics. Mr. Cushman, the regional agent, came from Denver to inspect the work in trades and industries.

Monday and Tuesday of last week were spent in inspecting the school.

EVERY STUNT IS NEW, DIFFERENT, CLEVER FOR AGGIE POP—ON TONIGHT

Tonight is the night for What? Why for Aggie pop.

And Aggie pop stands for bright bubbles, doll dreams, masked women, and fairies. Sometimes this appetizing drink from the cup of cheer is seasoned with plain everyday things within between stunts to add a touch of spice.

This year every stunt is different. Some are funny, some are pretty; but as one of the Aggie pop committee puts it, "every stunt is ducedly clever."

All day yesterday and today the tickets have been selling like hot buns. Every Aggie has two tickets, one for himself and one for his lady

There are 400 students enrolled this year. The last three years the school has increased from 150 to the present number.

This makes the school extremely crowded as it lacks sufficient equipment. The dormitory is so crowded that there are four girls to sleep in every bed. Every day some one is turned away who has come hundreds of miles to attend the school.

W. W. WIGHTMAN IS SUCCESSFUL

WORK IN EDUCATION CORPS RECEIVES MENTION

Was Particularly Successful with His Work Among Colored Troops—H. Holmes, General Field Supervisor Praises Work

W. W. Wightman, a former student of the college, has received mention in the magazine "Success" for his work with the American Educational corps overseas.

At the beginning of the war he was assigned to the position of assistant superintendent of "Y" work in a Paris district. Here he organized and was superintendent of post schools in and near Paris.

When the army took over the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. he was made an officer in the newly created corps. Along with his other duties he had the selection and supervision of fifteen teachers and has taught personally some 1,500 men with a high measure of success. One phase of his work in which he was particularly successful was his work among the colored troops.

H. Holmes, general field supervisor, army educational corps, said, "Mr. Wightman made a great success of his work, and secured fine results with his classes."

RABBITS MAKE A FINE THANKSGIVING DINNER

Students Who Didn't Go Home Had Good Time Anyway

There are all kinds of nice ways to spend Thanksgiving especially if one is not fortunate enough to be able to go home because of the lack of a home or because it is too far away. But one of the most unique kinds of a holiday was that which was enjoyed by K. S. A. C. students who are members of the Comanche-Clark county club. The men members of the club spent Thanksgiving day rabbit-hunting and at the end of the day "brought home the bacon" to the Students' Inn where the feast was prepared for their enjoyment through the kindness of George Scheu, proprietor. The girl members of the club were the guests of honor and the dinner party was one of the gayest affairs of the holiday week end.

MAY RELEASE AGGIE MINE WORKERS SOON

K. S. A. C. BOYS ARE WORKING IN SCATTERED GROUPS

REGULAR MEN BACK ON JOB

Governor Allen Says College Is To Be Complimented on the Physique, Appearance, Spirit, and Discipline of Its Student-Miners

The seventy-five Aggies who went with the second contingent from the agricultural college to the coal fields are

Austin, A. L. Burns, H. K. Betz, Perry Bayles, B. B. Baughman, C. M. Brown, J. O. Brown, John F. Briscoe, E. A. Barnes, Hugh Bailford, Paul Curtis, L. C. Carson, P. B. Cool, V. W. Cleland, R. E. Carmean, Dale Constable, T. Deal, L. B. Divilbliss, N. Deshazer, B. F. Ellsworth, V. Fuller, R. Ferree, R. Fleming, R. L. Giman, G. A. Getty, M. R. Hartman, H. E. Hartman, C. Hoffman, P. Honeywell, J. W. Hendrix, J. J. Hake, R. A. Hagans, P. A. Hampton, T. D. Hopp, E. Kain, Ever Kovar, P.

The 117 Aggie miner-soldiers who went to Pittsburg are down to work digging coal, a message from Walter Burr says. But the boys may be released in the near future. The telegram says:

"Aggies not housed in Pittsburg but near mines in scattered groups. Faculty members could not assist Governor says plan to release students as fast as regular men come in. Large numbers of such arriving. Boys are well. Address their mail to Mining Contingent, Headquarters, Silver Hotel, Pittsburg, Burr."

No New Volunteers

It is not probable that any more volunteers will be called upon as the regular men are going back to work in small groups. Letters from several of the Aggies say that they are doing some real work. A favorable comment by Governor Allen about the Aggies is:

"Kansas State Agricultural college is to be complimented on the physique, appearance, spirit, and discipline of its students passing through Topeka en route to coal mines. I look for them to set the pace for other volunteers."

Schools Won't Close

With the coal coming from the mines in car loads, the universities which faced a coal famine will easily be able to "pull thru" until the holidays. The volunteer workers have undoubtedly saved a serious situation.

THREE IBSEN PLAYS WERE PLEASING TO STUDENTS

Doll's House, Hedda Gabler, and Master Builder Given

One of the best series of plays ever given in the college auditorium were the Ibsen plays presented by Madame Hammer and her company Wednesday and Thursday. The auditorium was packed leaving only S. R. O.

The first, "The Doll's House," was splendid, especially the closing scene in which Madame Hammer had an opportunity to display her wonderful talent. The plays "Hedda Gabler" and "The Master Builder" were appreciated as much as the first.

Look, You Professors

The department of English is endeavoring to develop a taste for fine art, good music, and good drama. Doctor MacArthur, of that department, finds it rather difficult to interest some of his practical minded engineers in these works. He took some of his rhetoric classes to see the Berger Sandzen art exhibit. In order to induce the same students to attend the Ibsen plays rather than see the Mack Sennet "Bathing Beauties" he gave the following assignment Wednesday, "Those who attend the Ibsen plays need not outline the lesson for Friday, those who see the 'Bathing Beauties' please bring outlines to class." He says that if his experience on the California beaches is worth anything the "beauties" are not so beautiful as they might be.

Four other girls sold a sufficient number of tickets to get $5 each. They finished in the contest in the following order: Lenora Rude, Mable Troutfetter, Mrs. Mollie Moser, and Laura Loomis.

Three other girls finished high in the contest but did not receive prizes. They are: Ella Stinson, Blanche Sappenfield, and Sue Carmody.

ELMER T. PETERSON SPOKE TO JOURNALISM STUDENTS

Peterson Is Editor of the Wichita Beacon

Elmer T. Peterson, associate editor of the Wichita Daily Beacon, addressed three classes in Journalism in Kedzie hall Thursday. These talks were informal and students of the department were given an opportunity to discuss various questions in regard to the newspaper field. Mr. Peterson represents one of the best Kansas dailies and also one of the best in the middle west. His editorials are especially good. The one he wrote on the Liberty Loan was considered the best in America. The department of industrial journalism is fortunate in having so many good speakers for the seminar hours each week.

WHY KICK?

Many students in the college are kicking because the college does not close until after the coal shortage is over. That would be foolish.

To these students the question, "Why did you come to school?" should be asked. If the college has enough coal to keep the rooms warm until the Christmas vacation, it is certainly the thing to do to stay open that long. If colleges were to close one day every week the result would be that no work would be accomplished.

K. S. A. C. is fortunate—mighty fortunate—to have enough fuel to keep the school going until Christmas. It shows that the persons who have charge of the fuel buying had some foresight. So let's go to school and be glad of the chance!

HAMILTONS GIVE UP THEIR STUNT FOR AGGIE POPSTER

Men Go to Coal Fields in Group—No Players Are Left

The coal famine is affecting more than one thing. The Hamilton Literary society had to give up its stunt for Aggie Pop night as a number of the men who took part in it, left for the coal fields. The Hamiltons assert that their stunt was the best of the bunch and that they are making it easier for the others by withdrawing.

This leaves five good stunts to be given. The Kappas withdrew several weeks ago.

Play Hockey Games

The junior girls' class team lost their first hockey game in three years, Monday evening, November 23, when the freshmen won with a score of 1 to 0.

The junior girls have been called the all victorious class as they have never until this fall lost a hockey or basketball game.

Friday evening, November 20, the junior eleven played the sophomores. The only goal of the game was made by the juniors during the first half when they made goal after eight minutes of hard fighting. At the end of the second half the game still stood in the juniors' favor with a score of 1 to 0.

Tuesday evening, November 24, the seniors and sophomores tied in a match game with a score of 0 to 0.

There are only two games left to be played this hockey season. One will be played this evening between the juniors and seniors. Wednesday evening the freshman and sophomores will play the last game.

The captains for the various class teams are: Freshman, Rena Rosenthal; sophomore, Edna Chapin; junior, Jessie Evans; and senior Anna Neal.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

I came to college from the sunny plains.
Of western Kansas where it seldom rains.
'Tis the land where the wind blows,
'Tis the land where the wheat grows,
'Tis the land of hobos in harvest time.

Now the hobo arrives on the side door car,
He comes from near and he comes from far,
He has heard of high wages and plenty of chuck,
And he is now, as always, just trusting to luck.
He is three weeks too early but what does that matter?
'Tis a land of great plenty and a good place to batter.
And the hobo is settled till the harvest time comes
Then he concludes it's a bad place for bums.

Now in college I expected no hobos to find.
But in three or four weeks I changed my mind.
The hobo in college is different you see,

But his business as always is sponging from me.
He borrows my pencil and doesn't give it back,
He uses my typewriter and laundry sack.

During chapel he suggests a smoke by the gate,
And his lack of the makin's is all due to fate.

Just 'fore the quizz he hasn't a book,
He begs mine for a second to just take a look.

One look calls for two, three or four more
And he is such a good fellow, I don't dare get sore.

He erbs in the quizz and stalls in the class
He only gets by on an abundance of gas.

Oh the hobo question is a problem, you bet.
And if I must solve it, it is unsolved yet.

They grow so quick,

'Cause I'm forever paying barbers
Cutting stubbles from my face.

"Are you sure you love me?" said a pretty girl to her fond admirer.
"Love you!" echoed the smitten one, "why darling, while I was bidding you goodbye on the porch last night your dog bit a hunk out of my leg and I never noticed it until I got home."

should be used. When a young lady wishes to kiss a man and the man thinks it foolish, a question mark should follow. Always supply "kiss" before "leaving" and after "quarrel" but it is never satisfactorily used as understood. It is hard to decline and is more common than proper. It is not very singular in that it is generally used in the plural.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1919

NO. 26

GIVE OUT THE 1920 LIST OF VALLEY PLAY

NINE GAMES IN BASKETBALL SCHEDULED FOR AGGIES

ANNOUNCE FOOTBALL LIST, TOO

Oklahoma Admitted to the Missouri Valley Conference—Will Compete for the Prize for First Time Next Year

The Aggies will play nine basketball games this year. The schedule was made out by the faculty members of the Valley conference at the meeting held in Kansas City last Friday. The football schedule for next year was also made out.

The basketball schedule is as follows:

January 16-17, Grinnell at Manhattan.
January 23-24, Oklahoma at Manhattan.
January 30-31, Missouri at Columbia.
February 6-7, Kansas at Manhattan.
February 13-14, Ames at Manhattan.
February 20-21, Oklahoma at Norman.
February 25-26, Kansas at Lawrence.

March 4-5, Missouri at Manhattan.

Oklahoma in Conference

This is the first time the Aggies will compete with Oklahoma under conference rules as the Sooners were just admitted to the Valley conference Friday. At the meeting in Kansas City last year Oklahoma made application for entrance into the Valley organization at the time Grinnell college was taken in but owing to the fact that the Sooners sports were under control of the student body the school was refused admission. But now the Sooners can compete for the Valley championship.

Football Schedule

The 1920 football schedule for the Aggies is as follows:

October 16, Washington U at St. Louis.
October 30, Kansas at Manhattan.
November 6, Missouri at Columbia.
November 13, Ames at Manhattan.
November 20, Oklahoma at Norman.

Tentative.

The awarding of the annual track and field meet and the tennis championships to Ames was the only other definite action taken by the faculty board. The track and field games will be held, May 28, and on the same date the title play in tennis will be staged.

The eligibility of students in regard to the 3-year term, proposed at the meeting here last year, was discussed by the faculty yesterday but no change was made in the present ruling, which requires a student to attend school a year before being eligible to compete with varsity teams. The 3-year term would allow a student to enter school in January and be eligible for football in the fall.

Those who attended the faculty meeting were:

Dr. G. W. Manly, Missouri; M. F. Ahoara, Kansas State Agricultural college; S. W. Byers, Ames; Dr. W. E. McCourt, Washington university; C. C. Williams, Kansas; Dr. D. W. Moorehouse, Drake; D. D. Griffith, Grinnell; Professor Reeves, Oklahoma.

OTHER COLLEGES

So many aviators attended the homecoming game at Iowa university that it was necessary for the aviators to make reservations for their planes in advance. Among the visitors was Anita Snook, Iowa's only woman aviator.

Corsage bouquets of violets and yellow chrysanthemums were worn by almost a thousand co-eds at the University of Washington's Thanksgiving game. Washington's colors are purple and gold.

Iowa university students who did not go home for Thanksgiving were out of luck, for the students were required to observe the mid-week ten o'clock rule on Thanksgiving night and no parties were allowed.

The "eternal triangle" made its appearance at Ohio State Wesleyan recently when Blanche Davidson shot and seriously wounded her "rival," Gladys Racey. The shooting occurred while Miss Racey was ascending the chapel stairs, and caused no little excitement in college circles.

McCoy Hall of the John Hopkins university was destroyed by fire November 28.

Two hundred and thirty-one Princeton men received 287 citations and decorations during the war.

The Y. W. C. A. at Iowa State are to sell Christmas presents, including Japanese prints and other novelties.

The Washington University Chess club is to compete in a tournament with the Iowa university team.

On account of the fuel shortage at K. U. it was necessary to stage the Sigma Delta Chi banquet in a cold hall. "Two of the chaperones were so numbed they were hurried home at 11 o'clock to prevent possible frostbite."

The University of Oklahoma expects to be in the Missouri Valley conference next year.

Twenty-five hundred arm bands have been ordered for K. U. students to aid in the "K. U. First" movement which is being carried on there.

The freshmen were allowed to burn their caps at the pep meeting before Washington university's last game of the season.

FRATERNITIES START GAMES

INTER-SOCIETY BASKETBALL STARTED LAST WEDNESDAY

Kappa Sigmas, Pi Kappas, Delta Taus, and Betas Were Victorious in the First Four Games Played

Interfraternity basketball started last Wednesday evening when the Kappa Sigmas met the Acacia five in the college gymnasium. A long schedule has been worked out and the team that takes the championship will be given a loving cup. The Kappa Sigs defeated the Acacias by a score of 20 to 7. It was the first game, being played Wednesday evening.

Saturday afternoon the Sig Alphas were defeated by the Pi Kaps by a score of 14 to 10. At the end of the first half the Sig Alphas led by one point but in the second half the Pi Kaps poured in a series of goals.

The Delta Taus and the Alpha Pals played a close game. It ended with a 13 to 13 score but the teams agreed to play until one made a goal. The Delta Taus succeeded in getting the ball in a goal first.

The Betas defeated the Sig Eps by a score of 25 to 9.

The standing of the teams is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Aver
Kappa Sig	1	0	1.000
Delta Tau	1	0	1.000
Pi Kappa	1	0	1.000
Beta	1	0	1.000
Sig Alph	0	1	.000
Acacia	0	1	.000
Alpha Psi	0	1	.000
Sig Ep	0	1	.000

COLLEGLIAN IS GETTING MORE NEWS THIS YEAR THAN EVER

Elizabeth Dickens Is Leading in the Journalism Contest

The record for news turned in to the Collegian is higher this year than it has ever been before at this time.

Miss Elizabeth Dickens is holding first place with a record of 553 1/2 inches. Miss Dickens took the lead at the beginning of the contest and has steadily held it.

The possession of second place is hotly contested for. At present it is held by W. A. Karlowski with a total of 323 1/2 inches of news. Donald Ballou is running a close third, with 314 inches.

A cash prize of ten dollars will go to the winner of the Collegian contest when it ends Christmas.

All journalism students except the Collegian editor, assistant editor, sport editor, and feature editor are eligible.

She Shot a Foot Into the Air, She Landed Oh, Tell Me Where

She shot a foot into the air. She hit the earth most anywhere. No matter how swiftly was her flight. The whole durned campus saw the sight.

Did this happen to you, pretty little coed? No? Well then you are lucky for most of the Aggie sisters have had experience.

It sounds thrilling but they say it isn't for no one is ever there to pick you up.

Just imagine starting down the main drag with the keenest fellow in school, then—it's true too, but we will just suppose it happened, that both of the maiden's feet shot three feet into the air.

A terrible scream, the laughing campus turns its head, toward the miserable one, and softly laughs.

I suppose you think the maid is still in the air. No, by this time both she and her spirits have dropped to the earth about fifty feet from where they started.

She blushes, gets up, and hobbles on trying not to look embarrassed. Then she hoarsely whispers to the only boy:

"John, no one saw me, did they?"

WILL BURN OIL AT K. S. A. C.

COLLEGE WILL RECEIVE FOUR CARS OF OIL EACH WEEK

But State Board of Administration Says for All State Colleges to Keep Going—Vacation Two Weeks Off

K. S. A. C. will not be bothered by the coal shortage after tomorrow morning. The furnaces have been rebuilt in order that fuel oil may be used instead of coal.

The college will receive four car loads of fuel oil each week and this will be more than enough to keep the school heated. Monday's cold spell came rather unexpectedly so that the rooms were cold in the morning, but the temperature has been satisfactory since then.

All public schools in Manhattan have closed and will not open until after the Christmas vacations. All theaters are closed, churches can not burn coal, and business houses are open only from 10 a. m. in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening.

A telegram from the state board of administration says that all state colleges will be continued. However, it is only two weeks until the Christmas vacation so the college will be closed for two weeks then.

Professor Holton Honored

In addition to receiving the Croix de Guerre in recognition of his distinguished services in France, Prof. E. L. Holton has just received an additional honor. This time the honor comes in the form of an appointment as United States editor of the Revue Interalliee, or the Inter Allied Review, published in Paris for the study of all questions relating to the reeducation and rehabilitation of wounded soldiers. Professor Holton was chosen to represent the United States on the editorial board of the Review in recognition of his personal work among over 300,000 wounded soldiers in France.

Miss Mildred Merserve of Ellis, spent the week end with her sister, Velma Merserve, at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

FARMERS COMPETING WITH JAYBIRDS IN MINING COAL—AGGIES ARE LEADING

The old fighting spirit between the Kansas Aggies and the Jayhawkers at Lawrence is evident even in the coal fields. A telegram to Manhattan from one of the Aggie boys says:

"Aggie bunch number one netted two cars of coal today, beating K. U. record for first day. Aggies are after the record.—McPherson."

A tabulation is being kept of the amount mined by the Aggie men as well as the amount of coal mined by the Jayhawkers. But instead of a hard line plunge, or a run around right end, the men are digging, dig-

SUE CARMODY PRODUCES THE WINNING PLAY

AGGIE PRESS CLUB STUNT TAKES FIRST PRIZE AT AGGIE POP

DELTA ZETAS PLACE SECOND

Over 3,000 Persons Attended Most Successful Aggie Pop Ever Held—Between Stunts Pleased the Audience

"The Ionians took third place, the Delta Zetas second place, and the Aggie Press club took first."

This was the announcement made by the judges to over 3,000 persons at the end of the Aggie Pop night program held in the auditorium last Friday night. The Aggie Press club is an organization of all journalism students and was just formed this year. So this is the first time the club ever competed at Aggie Pop.

Miss Carmody Playwright

The play was written by Miss Sue Carmody, feature editor of the Collegian. Miss Carmody is a young woman of exceptional ability and this is only one of the things she has written this year. The stunt was entirely original. Miss Carmody making up all the takeoffs on the faculty members.

The Scandal Collegian was written by Milton Eisenhower, editor of the Collegian. Over 2,500 copies were given away and still there were not enough for all.

Pep's Choice Second

The Delta Zeta sorority produced an original stunt called "Pep's Choice." It appealed to the audience splendidly as it dealt with the athletic spirit in K. U., M. U., and K. S. A. C.

The Ionians took third place by giving a stunt called "Spirits of Dawn." The costumes and dances were beautiful and took well with the audience.

The between act stunts were also cleverly given this year. One person was heard to remark, "Huh, if those Ibsen plays had some of these between things I would have appreciated them more."

The Y. W. C. A., the organization for which Aggie Pop was held, realized a large sum from the entertainment this year. Miss Irene Dean, secretary of the Y. W., presented the loving cup to the Aggie Press club.

NEW NATIONAL CLUB FORMED

SADDLE AND SIRLOIN NOW MEMBER OF BLOCK AND BRIDLE

Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri Have the Four Charter Chapters—Montague Elected National Vice-President

The Saddle and Sirloin club, an honorary organization of K. S. A. C. students who are connected with the live stock industry has been dissolved. The members of the club have joined the national organization, the Block and Bridle club.

Block and Bridle was organized about a week ago when four local clubs from Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, and Kansas decided on a national constitution. The chapters from these four schools are charter members of the organization.

A. E. Morse of Missouri, was elected national president, E. Mills of Iowa, was elected secretary-treasurer, and J. D. Montague of this school was elected national vice-president.

To become a member of the Block and Bridle club, one must be a junior or senior in college and must be interested in live stock industry.

MIDDLETON IS HAVING HIS VOICE REPAIRED

Will Give His Recital Here Sometime in January

Arthur Middleton, the Metropolitan bass baritone who was scheduled to give a concert at the auditorium November 25 but was prevented from doing so by the condition of his voice, is now having his voice treated at a Kansas City hospital. Mr. Middleton hopes to fill his engagement here sometime in January.

The third number of the All Star Artist's course will be given February 23 by Miss Florence Hardmann, noted violinist.

K. S. A. C. HAS GOOD EXHIBIT AT INTERNATIONAL

K. G. Thompson Was High Man for Aggies—Stood Fifth in Judging

K. G. Thompson won fifth place in the stock judging contest at the International Stock show at Chicago. This gave him first place on the Aggie team.

The Kansas State Agricultural college scored heavily in the fat steer classes at the International Live Stock show. Fancy Rupert, the yearling Hereford steer, won the championship in his class.

The college Hereford herd took first.

The college hogs also made a good showing. The Duroc barrow won first as also did the pen of Duroc barrows.

The carload of college sheep won first.

In the Shorthorn classes Envious Dale, junior yearling steer, from the Kansas college, stood first; Matchless Type, also from Manhattan, third. The Kansas college won third and Missouri university fifth in the senior yearling steer classes.

The students' judging team from Texas A. and M. college won first place, Nebraska second, Kansas third, and Missouri ninth.

Kansas alfalfa won third and fifth at the International Grain and Hay show. Dozens of bales were shown, among them specimens of nearly perfect alfalfa. D. C. Stephenson and George T. Fielding and son, Manhattan, were the Kansas Prize winners.

Four hundred dollars in cash prizes was won by the agricultural college cattle exhibited at the American Royal Stock show at Kansas City.

Shorthorns, Herefords and Angus were exhibited in 13 classes. They won three firsts, five seconds, four thirds and one championship. The competition in the fat classes was the strongest at this show this year that it has ever been.

Fancy Rupert was the champion senior yearling steer. This Hereford has never been defeated in any class in which he has been shown. Both his dam and grandam were bred on the college farm.

THERE IS NO STOPPING TO THE MILITARY WORK

Lieut. Colonel Terrell Keeps the Rookies Going All the Time

Bad weather will not prevent the Aggie rookies from participating in their usual amount of enjoyment for the military department. Lieut. Colonel Terrell has begun the usual routine of lectures on military tactics. The first lecture given to the first battalion on Tuesday was on the organization of the United States standard fighting unit—the infantry division.

As soon as conditions will allow, the military students will not be compelled to grind thru the usual manual of arms and close order drill but will be given an opportunity to try out some of the new tactics.

Forrest Stout of the Phi Kappa Psi chapter at K. U., was a guest at the Beta house Saturday and Sunday.

AGGIE MINERS WILL SOON BE WORKING

TO RETURN TO MANHATTAN IN GROUPS OF TEN EACH

FARMERS BEAT K. U. MINERS

Walter Burr Says K. S. A. C. Men, While They Are Working Under Unfavorable Conditions, Are Doing Fine Work

The 117 Aggies who went to the coal mines will soon be back in school working at their studies again. The first contingent of about ten men is expected to arrive in Manhattan Wednesday. The men will be released as others take their places.

The Aggies, while they are working under unfavorable conditions, are in the best of spirits and are doing fine work, according to Walter Burr who has just returned from the mines where he helped the boys in many ways. They have turned out a great deal more coal than the men who went from K. U., Mr. Burr says.

Whiskers a half foot long are no uncommon sight in the mining camps. The boys have no means of shaving so beards and mustaches are in style there. The men are turning out many carloads of fuel.

CHOOSE GIRLS' DEBATE TEAMS

BUT DEBATES WILL NOT BE HELD UNTIL AFTER HOLIDAYS

Question For Debate Is "Resolved That United States Should Establish a Protectorate Over Mexico"

The girls' triangular debate team has been chosen. The following girls made places on the affirmative side: Irene Graham, Lucrétia Scholer, and Jewel Sappenfield. Gladys Addy, Mable Bentley, and Christine Cool were chosen for the negative team.

The question for debate is: "Resolved that the United States Should Establish a Protectorate over Mexico."

The time of the debate has been postponed until after the holidays because of the closing orders.

The affirmative team will debate here with Washburn and the negative team will debate in Ottawa.

USTON MADE RECORD OF A GOAL IN EVERY GAME

Scored More Than Third of Points Made By Aggies

Dewey Huston, Aggie dropkicker, selected as All-Missouri Valley guard, has a season's record for booting field goals that probably is not equaled in American football this year.

He scored more than a third of the points registered by his team in the season just closed, counting 27 of the 72 points made by the Aggies. It was an average of one to a game. As a matter of fact he kicked a couple in two different games and failed to register in two others thus evening his average of one to a game.

His average kick was 39 1-3 yards in length.

Huston's record distance kick was 54 yards which he succeeded in putting over the Washington crossbar. He kicked one 50 yards in the Camp Funston fray. During the season he booted a couple each from the 45, 35, and 25 yard lines, and one from the 40 yard line. Huston tried two from 60 yards but they fell short.

His nine goals were made from 15 chances, giving him a kicking average of .600. All but two of these were close. One was blocked in the K. U. game and one scooted along the ground in the Missouri contest.

Miss Ruth Eppler was a week end guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Harry M. Furman, of Ardmore, Okla., was a guest at the Beta house last Thursday. Mr. Furman is a Beta of Oklahoma A. and M. chapter.

One-Handed Miner Puts Out Coal By the Big Carloads

With one hand, Ray Watson says he can mine coal as fast as any two fisted union worker. Watson's right arm ends just above the wrist where it was cut off in an accident several years ago. But he's digging coal at Pittsburg, and reports from the mines say he is doing as much as any of the other 115 Aggies who left for the coal mines the fore part of the week.

Watson was one of the first students of the agricultural college to volunteer his services. He is the only K. S. A. C. student from Wichita who was accepted for service. But no wonder—Watson is college cheer leader and holds a record in track, qualifying him for that undergraduate title of "Prominent Student."

SIEVER ISSUES A WARNING TO ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS

Says Use of Same Towel by All Will Cause Spread of Disease

"Individual towels are for individual use and are not to be used collectively by one person; nor is one towel to be used by a number of persons," Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician, gives this advice on the use of the towels which are provided by the college.

Cooperation with the custodian in this matter will not only prevent the spread of disease, but will save laundry bills and provide a decent towel for everyone. Doctor Siever says. Roller towels are outlawed and should not be used in any public place.

Enrolment in Freshman Class Shows That They Appreciate Education to realize the advantage of higher training. The reason so many war veterans returned to college was because they saw the advantage the trained men had and this made them all the more determined to go through college. I think a large proportion of this year's freshman class will graduate, and that in time to come the new classes will increase."

A few figures of interest to students. There were 16 federal board men enrolled in the short course during the months of November and December, and 63 other men in the same period. There is evidently much interest in these courses which start the first Monday in each month, as the enrolment shows. The tractor and auto mechanic courses are the most popular.

NINE cases out of ten, the man who once smokes a WDC Pipe becomes a life member of the WDC club. He can't help it, because a WDC is certainly a man's size smoke. It's as sweet and mellow as carefully selected French briar and expert seasoning can make it. Not only material of the first water, but craftsmanship of the highest order, and designs that are most pleasing—all combine to make the WDC Pipe a smoke of peace, contentment and satisfaction. A man's smoke. Any good dealer will confirm this.

Salvation Rose Is Still Making Good Doughnuts for Him

That the way to a man's heart is through his stomach is again proved. Dr. M. C. McLeod, of the department of veterinary medicine, first met his wife in France as a Salvation Army lass.

She gave him a pie. Doctor McLeod was in France fourteen months with a veterinary corps. Mrs. McLeod was in France and Germany for fifteen months and most of that time was spent right up near the front lines. She has spent a great many nights in dugouts with shells dropping near, after a day spent making pies and doughnuts. The largest number of doughnuts that she made in one day was 3,500 and usually she made from 150 to 300 pies.

At the time the armistice was signed, Ensign Symmonds, now Mrs. McLeod, was making doughnuts in a Salvation Army hut in Ansaerville, France. The only demonstration made there, was the ringing of the town bell for the first time, except for gas alarms, since the beginning of the war.

The hut was an abandoned barn, that had had the roof blown off. The floor was part dirt and part cement, and there were shell holes in the walls. It was the oldest Salvation Army hut in France, having been the first building to be used for that purpose.

Mrs. McLeod was in Germany four weeks before getting orders to sail for home. She was at Coblenz and Meudt.

A medal has been awarded to Mrs. McLeod by the Salvation Army. The inscription on the reverse side is: "World War, for heroic and faithful service to Ensign Symmonds—The Salvation Army, 1914-1919." The front of the medal bears the figures of a doughboy and a Salvation Army lass in relief.

The doughboy, former Ensign Symmonds says, is Doctor McLeod.

DEAR OLD HEN

Dear Hen:—Well Hen here it is two weeks since I have written you but I could not help it as we have been having the mid-semester quizzes and those are quite a strain upon a fellow who has such a good record as I to keep up with those 3 F's I made in the three-week quizzes. I hope I get through as good this time as I did the last time but I am doubtful if I will for some of these instructors on the Hill are awful chuckle headed and that's no lie. The other day in Botany Hen just to show you how hard skulled some of them are, I drew a picture right out of the text on to my lab notebook and the instructor came around and looked at it and then took my text and showed me the picture I had just drew and said that my drawing should look something like that. I guess that was a joke on him, eh Hen? I told my roommate about it and he never cracked a smile but he said "Is that a joke?" and I said "Yes it is a joke" and he said "Well I guess that when you tell a joke after this you had better hold up two fingers when it is time to laugh."

That was pretty near the last straw Hen and I have been thinking for some time that I would have to get a new roommate so I come right back at him and said "Is that so?" All he could think of to say was "Yes that's so." This roommate of mine Hen is a sophomore and he is sure lucky to have me in with him. If it wasn't for me and my clothes I guess the poor fellow would have to appear on the hill on nawterel, as the French say, which means on the half shell. If he ever steals the drawing of my pajamas again on a cold nite Hen I am going to take what President Wilson calls drastic measures and I mean what I say, for safety pins are liable to come unhooked and cause a fellow to experience akute fiscal discomfort.

Well Hen a fellow up here has great opportunities to cultivate his mind and get a venter of culture. I went to hear Arthur Middleton, the great singer of the Metropolitan Opera company last week, but I got a good moral lesson instead for he had been playing cards on his music case, and he lost it, so Professor Westbrook of the music department, said, he didn't say who won it, but a music case is my idea of the last thing on earth to play cards on or for and if Mr. Middleton had of left cards alone he would of been able to give his concert.

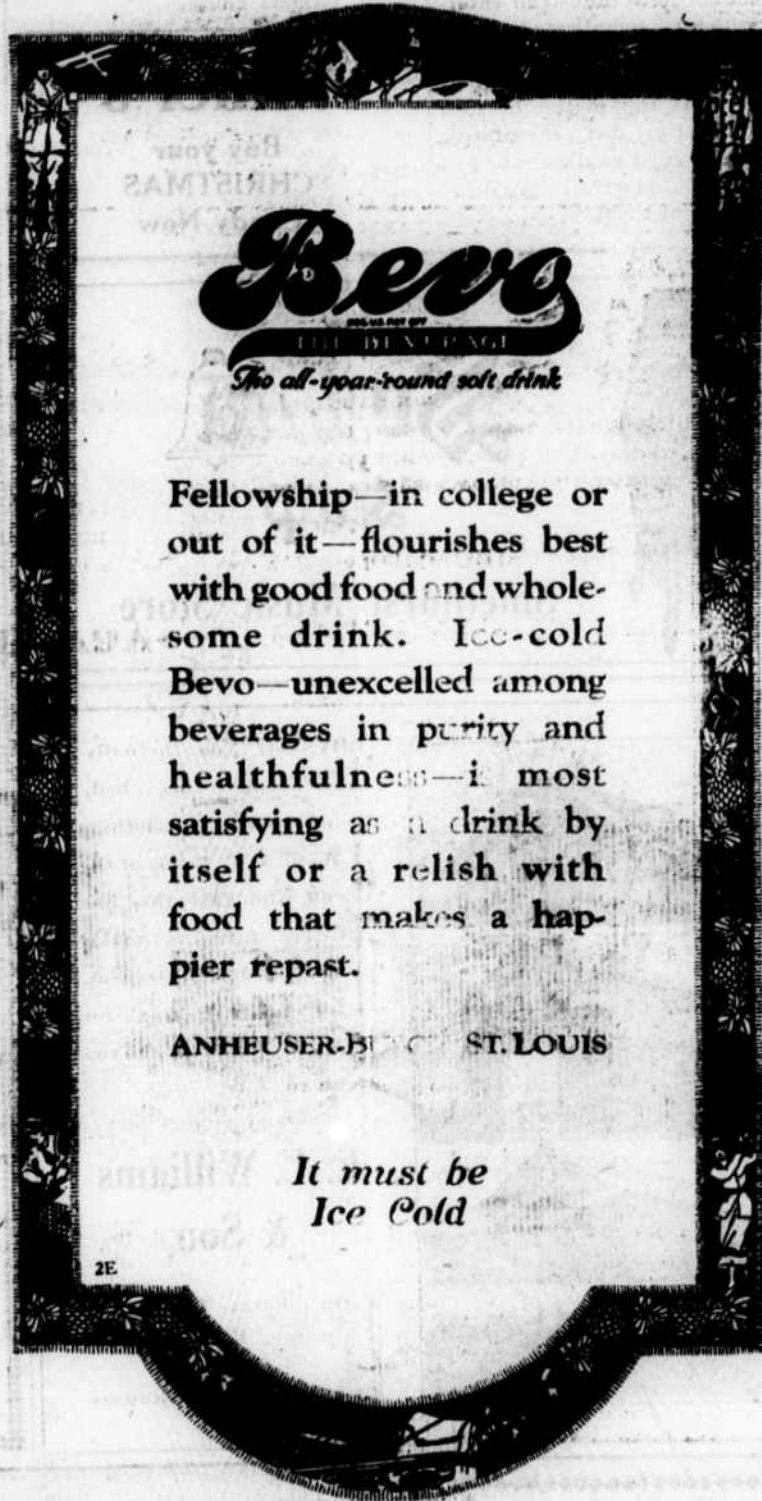

It has been snowing up here lately Hen as I suppose it has at home and the coasting is dandy. I and a bunch of fellows borrowed a bobsled and some girls the other day and went out on Leavenworth avenue at the top to coast, but there wasn't room for me on the sled so I took a Flexible flyer away from a little kid and had heaps of fun, but the kid bawled so much that I give him back his sled after about half an hour. I stood out on the sidewalk waiting for the fellows and girls to come back with the bob and watched the other bobs go by and I got so interested in watching them that I didn't notice that smart roommate of mine and the rest of them come back and he tried to pull some deep stuff on me. He said, "Did you come out here to coast or did you come for the same reason that the bear went over the mountain?" But I come right back at him and stopped him in his tracks. I said, "How do you get that way?" Well Hen I must stop this here thing before it gets beyond my control.—Jack.

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industries and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.

Illustrated bulletin, Y-863, describing the company's several plants, will be mailed upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 43, Schenectady, New York

An employment bureau for the men of the college is now being carried by the Y. M. C. A. Any boy desiring work may leave his schedule at the office and work will be found for him.

People wanting work done apply to the office for help of all kinds. By referring to the boy's schedule, work is arranged for him during his vacant hours.

The Y. M. C. A. has placed 98 men in touch with permanent jobs. They have supplied 589 men with approximately 7,216 hours of odd work. 19 men have through the aid of the Y. M. been given the opportunity to earn their room rent by tending furnaces.

Carrying on an employment bureau is only one of the many things which the Y. M. C. A. does for the college boys. The building is used at specified times by seven fraternities and ten local clubs, for basketball practice.

The chamber of commerce uses the Y. M. gym Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The School of Agriculture plays its basketball games there and the Manhattan high school team will play its regular games there.

DELTA ZETAS IN NEW HOUSE

FIRST WOMEN'S FRATERNITY TO BUILD OWN RESIDENCE

Was Also First National Women's Fraternity To Be Installed at K. S. A. C.—Sigma Alpha Epsilon First for Men

The Delta Zetas are moving this week to their home at 1111 Blue-mont avenue. The house has been practically finished for more than a week, but moving was not begun until Saturday.

Delta Zeta is the first women's fraternity to build its own chapter home and the house is one of which they can well be proud. It is a frame structure, 38 by 42 feet in dimension, not including porches. A ten foot porch, of brick and concrete, goes along the front of the house and down the east side. The foundation is of moss brick, matching that used in the porch.

The house has seventeen rooms, not including sleeping porches, halls, and bathrooms. There is a concrete floored basement under the entire house. The house faces the north. A French door entrance on the east leads from one of the living rooms onto the open porch.

Delta Zeta was the first national women's fraternity to be installed at K. S. A. C. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was first men's fraternity to be installed, and the first to build. Two of the men's fraternities, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Acacia, have built their own houses.

The girls who are to occupy the new home are: Carolyn Lear, Izil Polson, Ada Robertson, Lois Litchfield, Nelle Baker, Grace Baker, Edith Wakefield, Opha Babb, Ethel Roop, Marian Clarke, Netta Dubbs, Garnet Grover, Hazel and Ella Wilson, Madge Price, Ila Knight, Gertrude Ramsey, Marjorie Babb, Evelyn Colewell, Bertha Dubbs, Geraldine Noffsinger, and Elza McGraw, Miss Araminta Holman, of the applied art department, is living at the house until the matron, Mrs. David Bice, of Des Moines, can reach Manhattan.

Fifty men were enrolled from Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas. These men represented about twenty creamery companies. No entrance fees were charged. The men were sent to the college with all their expenses paid by the creamery companies which they represented.

Laboratory work in milk and cream testing was carried on in the first part of the week and work in butter judging during the latter part of the week.

Friday night a social banquet was held in the Gillett hotel for all the men who were here to attend the short course.

COLLEGE CLUBS STAGE CONTESTS

EIGHT TEAMS ARE ON BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Games Played on Percentage Basis, the Team Winning Two Out of Three Being Winner of the Tournament

Eight college clubs have arranged a schedule for basketball contests. The games are being played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and no little amount of interest is being shown in the games.

The clubs entered are the Co-operative Lone Star, Glenwood, Elkhart, Miami county, Y. M. C. A., and the Boomerang. The club from 1018 Laramie failed to appear for the first game Tuesday and it is not known whether it has dropped out of the league or not.

The rules governing the tournament provide that no games will be postponed and that any team not appearing on time will forfeit the game 2 to 0. Games will consist of twenty minute halves, played on a percentage basis, except the finals between the two groups. The team winning two out of three being the winner of the tournament.

The schedule of the remaining games is as follows:

Dec. 11—Y. vs. Miami at 7:30; Laramie vs. Boomerang at 8:30. Dec. 12—Co-op vs. Glenwood. Dec. 13—Y. vs. Laramie at 7:30; Boomerang vs. Miami at 8. OKLAHOMA GETS NATIONAL CONVENTION NEXT YEAR

Sigma Delta Chi Holds Annual Session at Illinois University

Ralph Foster, senior in industrial journalism, represented the Kansas State chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, at the national convention held at Champaign, Ill., on December 5 and 6.

Mr. Foster, who is president of the Aggie Press club and secretary of Sigma Delta Chi, gave K. S. A. C. some mighty fine advertising at the convention. While Foster asked that the convention be held at K. S. A. C. next year, it was finally given to Oklahoma university.

Twenty-nine of the 31 chapters in the fraternity were represented. A big banquet was held Friday night and Saturday night, Paul S. Mowrer, war correspondent for the Chicago Daily News, made an excellent address.

Miss Velma Meserve, Miss Eleanor Brown, Miss Doris Crandal, and Miss Mildred Meserve were Sunday dinner guests at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house.

SIGMA DELTA CHI TO PRINT A MAGAZINE

COLLEGE PUBLICATION WILL APPEAR IN NEAR FUTURE

TO HAVE NO SLANDER IN IT

Magazine To Be Similar to Those Printed by Other Colleges Except That This One Will Be Issued by a Journalistic Fraternity

To show that they are really journalists in the making, the members of the Kansas State chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity of K. S. A. C. are going to edit, publish, and print a comic magazine.

Copy is being prepared for the publication now and the first number will appear in the near future. The type will be set by journalism students in the college printing plant. It will be a college magazine containing college news and other things pertaining to college students and faculty. Absolutely nothing but the truth will be printed and no slander of any sort will be tolerated.

Plans for the publication of such a magazine were started before the war by the journalism fraternity but on account of nearly all members leaving college the plans were laid on the shelf for future reference and were brought to light again this year.

Sigma Delta Chi is a national professional fraternity of journalists. The fraternity is made up of 31 chapters in schools over the country. The Kansas State chapter at K. S. A. C. has 11 active members besides those in the faculty. They are, Floyd Hawkins, Harry A. Moore, H. T. Enns, Ralph L. Foster, H. Byron Dudley, Calvin J. Medlin, Walter Karlowski, Milton S. Elsenhower, Lindley C. Binford, Jack Tillotson, Clevie S. Briggs, Prof. N. A. Crawford, Prof. J. W. Searson, Prof. H. W. Davis, Asst. Prof. E. T. Keith.

This chapter believes in making itself known as a journalistic body in a journalistic way hence the magazine publication. The magazine will be a 16 page booklet resembling the "Sour Owl," a Kansas university publication and the "Green Gander," a comic publication of the Iowa State college.

FIND COAL VAIN NEAR CITY—BRING IN FIRST TRUCK LOAD

Is About 50 Feet Wide and Eight Inches Thick

Aggie miners may have a chance to work close to Manhattan. A small coal vein, about eight inches thick and 50 feet wide has been discovered on the Anderson farm a few miles from Manhattan. The first truck load was brought in from the miniature mine Monday. It was mined by Union Pacific employees. The coal is of good quality, the men say.

TWO WEEKS' VACATION STARTS DECEMBER 13

WILL REOPEN MONDAY FOLLOWING CHRISTMAS

ADVANCES VACATION A WEEK

Gives Just Two Weeks—Closing Not Due to Lack of Fuel As Enough Is on Hand to Run Until Christmas

School will close Saturday noon December 13, after all classes are over for that day and will reopen on Monday, December 29. This official announcement was given to the Collegian by President W. M. Jardine late last evening.

The college is not being closed because of the lack of coal for there is still sufficient fuel in the college bins to keep school going until the Christmas vacation. This is in accordance with the statement made by the president more than a week ago.

By closing on December 13 and opening December 29, the students will get just two weeks' vacation, the same that they would if school were to close just before Christmas and not open until after New Years. But the college is being closed now for the following reasons:

There are 120 Aggie boys in the coal fields that are missing school by helping dig fuel. By closing the college now these boys will be able to be here at the end of the vacation and so will get over a week's more school.

During the vacation the college will be able to store up a sufficient amount of fuel to keep school going all the time. And a large amount of oil can be stored up, too. While the furnaces are being changed to oil burners, the boilers will necessarily have to cool, and this could not be done while school is in progress.

Many of the fraternity and sorority houses, as well as many of the boarding houses have very little fuel on hand so that they will have time during the two weeks to store up a large amount of coal.

The closing now will not injure anyone and will give all a chance to catch up in their work. The boys who have been in the coal fields can make up their work and all places that are short of coal now will be well supplied by December 29.

James A. Kimble, who does the purchasing of fuel for the college, is to be complimented on the excellent manner in which he has handled the fuel situation. He already has contracts that will be filled during the vacation so that the fuel bins will be filled soon.

All Get Home

The president has made arrangements with the railroads in order that the students will be able to get home. While there are a number of trains that are not running now, the railroads will prepare specials in order that students may get home.

Wasn't It Good That The Whole Tragedy Was Behind Curtains

"She's dead. She's dead." The little old lady who had been sitting rigid as a poker sank with a sigh of relief far down into her seat.

"Oh I'm so glad Matilda that it all took place behind that curtain," she whispered audibly to her grey haired companion.

The little lady she was sitting by opened her eyes dazedly and looked about her.

"My dear, my dear, what has happened? Where am I," she gasped as she tried to bring her drowsy senses into action.

"Oh yes, now I remember we are seeing Hedda Gabler."

"Yes, yes," replied the excited little lady. "But she is dead now, so let's go home, Matilda." "Oh the poor dear. The poor dear, she is dead."

Love May Be Blind But She Was His Little "Song Bird"

"My little Songbird, My dear little Songbird," cooed Torvald to his wife Nora, as she stood towering above him. Then bringing her head down to a level with his own, he kissed her brow. Most dolls are small and dainty but Nora wasn't and she played lead in the "Doll's House," but they say love is blind and Torvald was a good husband.

So he called her his little Songbird, but the Ibsen plays are over now and Madame Hammer is gone. K. S. A. C. is back to the grind again with the same good serious students who are changed a little for the better by the morals rung from these nerve racking plays.

To the Students and Faculty: It has been deemed expedient and practical to begin the Christmas holidays at noon, Saturday, December 13, and to open college on Monday, December 29, instead of January 5, as scheduled in the college catalog. This adjustment in the college calendar will result in no injury but in many advantages.

I want to take this opportunity of expressing on behalf of the student body and faculty the appreciation felt by all for the patriotic, self-sacrificing service being rendered by the Aggie boys in the coal mines and the readiness of hundreds of others to perform a like service.

I want to take this last opportunity of expressing to the students and faculty my appreciation of the splendid spirit they have shown and the unstinted cooperation extended on every hand during the months of the school year that have passed. I believe we never spent three months at college more earnestly and to better advantage. You deserve a vacation and I sincerely hope you will find it an enjoyable one and that it will send you back 100 percent strong with renewed enthusiasm and vigor for the resumption of work on December 29.

Wishing you all a Merry Christmas.—W. M. Jardine, President.

Superintendent Wagner, of the branch agricultural station at Garden City, is here this week conferring with the departments of the college on the work of the branch station.

Prof. O. H. Burns has received the announcement that owing to fuel shortage, the intercollegiate debates for December 18 will be postponed until after the holidays. He declares the debating teams are in excellent shape for a fine contest and that they will make good use of the delay.

"Kansas Literature" is the subject of a special bit of research being carried on by Miss Annette Leonard, instructor in English. She will present the result of her research to the University of Kansas in part fulfillment of their requirements for a master's degree.

NOT A NIGHT SCHOOL

The agricultural college is not a night school. Yet there are some students who seem to think that the college professors should stay up all night in order to give them information.

One night last week a dean was called out of bed at twelve o'clock. When he answered the telephone a student asked him if it were true that school was going to close. And then the student didn't even thank the dean for his answer.

Aggies should use a little discretion about calling professors at night. If it is an important question that can't be answered during the day, the instructors will be glad to help the student, but if the question can wait until the next day, save it until then.

TWO KINDS OF 'EM

There are two kinds of students—the first class is sent to college and the second comes to school. There is all the difference in the world between the two.

Have you ever noticed the boy or girl who is constantly looking forward to a holiday, who thinks school work is a bore, and who is constantly receiving little yellow flunk slips from the dean? Nine times out of ten that student is sent to school by his parents.

And then have you ever noticed the student who is always working sincerely, who doesn't want school to close every other day, and who does his best to get the maximum good out of school? That student is usually the one who came to school of his own free will and in many cases the one that is making his own way.

Dan J. Cupid Causes Aggie Men to Soak The New Fall Bennie

Dan J. Cupid certainly keeps the Aggie men hustling to keep up with the latest heart smashing inventions.

Last fall the most modern lovers bower was the motorcycle and its attendant bathtub attachment, or else one of these running gears of a Ford built up like a submarine, a jazz baby, or a top heavy bullet.

Old Man Winter and his son, Jack Frost, have put these fall whizzers out of the running completely. Now pretty Miss Yellow hair can not so much as bother dating a fellow who hasn't a six foot coaster or at least a part interest in a bob sled.

But then what can be more blissful than for him to slip up or down as the case may be to his sweetie's home in the falling twilight—twilight must always fall to make the scheme successful. There he may tinkle out a love sonnet on his sleigh bells while the aforesaid sweetie lies on a nifty new coasting hood which Aunt Emma gave her last Christmas. Hitherto it has been about as useful as a book on how to spear Tasmanian whales.

Finally after much sliding and slipping they reach Moffit's hill. The little girl seats herself on the rear end of the snow skimmer. He gives the sled a big push, jumps on in front and they are off.

She realizes perhaps she has made a mistake and so does he; but it is too late.

Down the street they tear, and pedestrians scatter before the onslaught. The hard boiled street loafer, who sneers at speeding trucks and defies openly the most fearsome motor cars, with their shiny bumpers, loses his temerity when he sees the snow demon approaching.

Through the crowded streets they skim, heading triumphantly for yonder drifted ditch. Then buried deep in the snow, safe beyond the scope of prying eyes, the Kansas Aggie woos and wins the fair one. That is nine times out of ten.

It is not alone the old wanderlust and the extra beat of the heart that cause Harry and John to pawn their new tickers, and soak their fall bennies to get one of the speed wagons; for little Dan Cupid is back of it all.

CAMPUS STYLES

Styles! Styles! Styles!

Girls are raised on the word. There is a period in every girl's life when the way she dresses and looks is more important than anything else in life. She would rather be dead than out of style.

No difference how unbecoming, or how ugly anything is, it must be worn if it is the style.

Perhaps the style that is the worst at present is the foolish, idiotic, deforming mode of hair dressing, plastered low on the forehead with immense cinnamon rolls over the ears. From the amount of scrupulous care girls take to keep their ears from being seen, one might easily come to the conclusion they were deformed.

An observer from Mars would probably make some such report as this of Aggie girls:

"One sex of the young of the human race on the earth appears to be very flat-headed, with immense projections or horns on each side of the head. These either disappear entirely or diminish in size as they grow older."

Very few women unless they belong to the wealthy class ever buy a complete new outfit at once. They buy part at a time as they think they can afford it. Along about August first an entire summer costume is donned for church. One feels very cool and summery in the thin white dress, with hat, gloves, shoes, and parasol to match. It really seems as if going to church that morning is to leave nothing to be desired. You follow the usher down the aisle towards the front and then notice that you are almost the only woman present who hasn't on a wool suit and furs. You are nearly shivering with the cold by the time you reach home although the August sun was never hotter.

Too many women and girls are unable to distinguish between fads and styles.

Style is taking the late ideas and adapting them to one's individual needs in order to bring out all the best lines and features of the wearer.

Following fads is wearing anything placed on the market no matter how unsuited it is to the individual wearing it, or how out of place or season it may be.

Sam Simpson had an attack of appendicitis Friday but is reported much better.

The animal husbandry department has opened its timber plots on the A. H. farms north of town to the public. Anyone wishing wood may get it for the cutting and hauling. Already about 70 cords have been taken out.

LOOK INTO THIS

Dear Editor:—What does Aggie Pop stand for? As I understand it, the occasion calls for stunts presented by different organizations on the hill for the purpose of winning a prize and pleasing a majority of the people in attendance. If it is a "popularity" stunt I think the awarding of the prize should not be decided by out of town judges but by the students themselves. I suggest that every one who buys a ticket to Aggie Pop next year be permitted to cast one vote for the stunt that pleases him the most, and the stunt which gets the most votes be awarded the cup. I am a member of the Aggie Press club and am pleased that this organization was so successful in its initial enterprise, but I think the decision should be left with a majority of the students. Then the Pop night will be a "popularity" one indeed.—Critical Aggie.

Dear Editor:—For the sake of shivering humanity we would like to suggest to the manager of the Wareham theater that he remove or have removed the beautiful Palm Beach scenes that are so ably depicted on the Aggieville bill boards. We imagine that Mack Sennett's bathing beauties would prefer a more temperate climate in which to perform.

Dear Editor:—The 1920 presidential campaign has been started in Manhattan and the newest Wood-for-president club has been inaugurated. Twenty members of a Laramie street boarding club split on political affiliations last week with the result that much strife has ensued. Since the democrats were in the minority and the most radical, the G. O. P. took it upon themselves to give each member of the opposing party a thoro ducking, using methods similar to those in the freshmen-upperclassmen scrap. After an indecisive encounter the Wood-for-president club retired from the field and the democrats continued their radicalism.—A Student.

Dear Editor: Dame Rumor circulated two reports about the men with the large brown glasses. Neither was strictly correct. Altho the colors of tam and scarf worn by the fair codd are more varied than the present weather conditions and more brilliant than Mr. Crabtree's last recitation in Microbiology, they were not bright enough to cause a group of economical Aggie students to separate themselves from one Kopek to purchase a pair of dimmers.

This is the truth about the brown glasses. The men who wear them are students in chemistry, but they do not wear them to symbolize the fact that they have a dark outlook on life. They wear them in order that they may look on the Flaming Delta. The men are members of a professional chemical fraternity organized some time ago.

The members of Pi Rho Sigma are juniors, seniors, and graduates who are taking work which will qualify them to follow chemistry as a profession.—J. Wm. Barker.

QUILL GETS 14 NEW MEMBERS

INITIATION SERVICES WERE HELD TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Two College Professors Taken in with Others—Short Program Given by Newly Initiated Members

The Beta chapter of the American college Quill Club held initiation services for the new initiates elected to membership as a result of the recent Quill Club contest.

The services were held in the journalism offices Tuesday afternoon. Prof. N. A. Crawford, the national high chancellor of Quill, acted as master of ceremonies.

The formal initiation, which is a beautiful and impressive service, was preceded by an informal initiation calculated to strike terror into the hearts of the initiates. After the initiation services light refreshments were served, and then a short program was put on by the new members. This was in the form of a stunt by all new members, and was entitled, "How We Got into Quill Club."

Those initiated were Prof. Walter Burr, Prof. C. E. Rogers, Miss Oceola Burr, Miss Orille Bourassa, Miss Sue Carmody, Miss Blanche Lea, Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, Mrs. Dorothy Sharrell Finley, Mrs. Bernard Ulrich, Milton Eisenhower, C. E. Briggs, Leroy Robinson, Wayland Dunham, and W. J. Bucklee.

COLLEGIAN IS AFFECTED BY THE COAL SHORTAGE

Advertising Makes Big Drop—Paper Has Only Four Pages

As long as the coal shortage lasts, the Collegian will probably have only four pages each issue. The advertising has dropped considerably, due to the closing orders in the city. There is practically as much news in the four page edition as there was in the six pages, however.

The Collegian is now using a different style type that will make it possible to get a great deal more news on each page.

GIRLS' TRIANGULAR DEBATE IS POSTPONED INDEFINITELY

Again the Fuel Shortage Affects the College Activities

The girls' triangular debate which was to have been held on December 13, has been postponed indefinitely. This is due to the shortage of coal. The college is making every effort to close all the buildings by six o'clock and to keep them closed until the following morning. So all practices that are usually held in the evenings, are now being held in the afternoons.

The class book for this year will be on sale for two weeks beginning next Monday. A prize of $50.00 will be awarded to the organization selling the highest number of books, $25.00 as second prize, and $15.00 as third prize. One copy of the Royal Purple will be given to each individual selling 25 books.

To Be a Contest

The sale is to be in the form of a contest between the organizations of the college. A prize of $50.00 will be awarded to the organization selling the highest number of books, $25.00 as second prize, and $15.00 as third prize. One copy of the Royal Purple will be given to each individual selling 25 books.

A small folder is being sent to each student, faculty member, and business man of the town explaining what the 1920 Royal Purple will contain. All orders for books must be in by January 20 so orders can be placed with the printers. This is necessary on account of shortage of materials.

It will be necessary to pay only $2.00 down and the remainder when the book is delivered. Plans are now being made to hold the popularity contest in the near future, but the staff members will not make any statement as to how it is to be conducted.

TWO SCHOOLS HAVE INCREASE

K. S. A. C. ONE TO HAVE JUMP IN VETERINARY ENROLMENT

Now Stands Fourth Among Colleges in United States in Size of Enrolment in the Veterinary Division

A census has been taken of the enrollment of all state and private veterinary colleges of the United States. These statistics show that there are only two institutions that have an increase in enrollment for this semester. K. S. A. C. is one of the schools showing an increase.

The veterinary department has a total number of 84 students, 28 of this number are freshmen. Last year there were only seven freshmen enrolled in the course.

The K. S. A. C. veterinary department stands fourth among colleges in the number of students enrolled in the course.

General Harbord Is Mighty Hero In Eyes Of His Little Niece

There's not a prouder little girl in Manhattan this week than little 7 year old Faith De Baun. All the other children envy her. You would not wonder at that if you saw her face crinkle up in a smile no one else could ever copy.

But little Faith doesn't know that her smile is adorable. She only knows that "Uncle Jimmy" is spending a week at her house with grandfather and Aunt Martha, and that the other boys and girls wish he were their "Uncle Jimmy" too.

For Uncle Jimmy is a real general and people come in to see him and call him General Harbord. And he's a former Aggie student too. The greatest war hero of Kansas is even a greater hero in the eyes of little Faith De Baun.

"Why doesn't Uncle Jim ever take off his coat in the house?" queries Faith.

"Because it's according to army rules that he may not," answers the little white haired grandmother, now almost 78 years of age.

"And he never gets to show off his shirt, then?" But little Faith is hushed for the general is busy writing many letters and must not be disturbed.

Faith sits by in silent wonder at this big handsome man, as he pounds his typewriter, but she is happy for she knows that when the last letter is written he will take her for a walk up around the college where he was a student thirty-five years ago.

"Uncle Jimmy brought me the sweetest dress," she explains. "He brought Aunt Martha a red Armenian fox fur for her neck, and grandmother some Armenian lace. Oh, but it's pretty."

CHINESE STUDENTS OF THE COLLEGE FORM NEW CLUB

Professor Limper and Miss Harris
Elected Honorary Members

The Chinese students of K. S. A. C. have recently formed a club, named the Chinese Students' club which is affiliated with the Chinese Students' Alliance in the United States.

At the last meeting, held on December 21, Foley Kiang was elected president; Phillip Young, vice-president and publicity secretary; Wing Lau, Chinese and English secretary; Newton Quan, treasurer. Professor Limper and Miss Harris were elected as honorary members.

The purpose of this club is to give the American public a correct interpretation of Chinese questions and to promote good fellowship among the Chinese students.

Nu Year Rezolushuns

Again the time has come to sigh, and think of blighted aims; once more, the chance is ours to try to live up to our dreams. Last year we vowed to never tell a lie of any hue, but in a day or two we fell—with lies the air was blue. Our wives, we promised ne'er to flay and always to be nice, but e'er the sun had sunk away, gone was our paradise. Now once again, this is our prayer, this first day of the year, "Grant us this time, that we may wear a halo on our ear. May we not pull our rival's hair, or steal our neighbor's Ford; teach us to play the game four square and live in one accord."

Sooners Have a Number of Good Bas-

First Game Will Be With the Aggies

Norman, Okla., Dec. 29.—(Special.)—Facing for the first time an opportunity to compete for the Missouri Valley championship, Bennie Owen's Sooners basketball squad is showing keen competition in races for team positions.

Practice opened two weeks ago with six letter men ready for work and at least twenty other younger candidates eager to start work. Competition for every place on the squad is the keenest ever seen here.

Oklahoma's first Valley game will be with K. S. A. C. at Manhattan, January 23 and 24. Captain Dorsey Boyle, center and forward, one of the most consistent men on Owen's team for the last two years, doubtless will place for the center job. Maurice Bass, also with two seasons' training, and William Cox, second year man, forwards, are back in practice.

Hugh McDermott, third year man, Albert Briscoe, and Leo Waite, guards, will fight for the safety positions. Both Briscoe and Waite have had considerable experience in training against the varsity in former years.

GENERAL STUDENT ASSEMBLY
TO BE HELD ON JANUARY 16

New Constitution, Which Is Being Written Now, Is to Contain Good
Parts of First Two Attempts

A general assembly of the entire student body will be held on January 16 for the purpose of adopting the new constitution of the students' self-governing association. The recently elected cabinet is now at work revising the old constitution. The work is about half done. The plan is similar to the national constitution, emphasizing a strong central government.

"We hope to have a much better plan than was embodied in the old constitution," said Floyd Hawkins, president of S. S. G. A. recently. "In the old regulations the chairman of the finance committee had more power than the president himself, and there were many similar inconsistencies. The first draft of the new constitution was also inconsistent and cumbersome, containing details that were not of general interest or concern, but we are confident that this final draft will be a successful one."

Suggestions are wanted by the committee, and all students are urged to help in every manner possible to make the new students' self governing association an effective organization.

NEW NATIONAL CLUB FORMED

ASSOCIATION OF JOURNALISTS IS COMPLETED HERE

K. S. A. C. Is One of Few Colleges
Given Privilege of Forming Associate Chapter of the Organization

An associate chapter of the National Association of Journalists has been formed by the journalism students in K. S. A. C. Practically all the students in the department joined the organization.

Prof. N. A. Crawford was elected president, M. A. Graham vice-president, and Prof. C. E. Rogers secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the organization is entirely educational and does not resemble a labor union in any way. K. S. A. C. is lucky to be one of the few colleges that are given the privilege of organizing associate chapters in this association. Only people actively engaged in newspaper work are eligible for an active chapter.

NO MORE LOVE FOR TENNISITES

THE "DEUCE" TOO HAS DISAP-PEARED FROM THE GAME

Association Makes Change in Rating
Regarding Points in Popular Summer Game—New System
Decided Upon

They've taken the "love" out of tennis.

The "deuce" too will leave the court deck, along with the old scoring vernacular.

No more will the cry of "love 15" be heard on the Aggie courts, for the supreme council of tennis has ordered it out.

Tennis has been decreed a man's game by the powers of the court and it will be scored in a man's manner. The executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association has voted in favor of a new scoring system of numerical designation known as the "one, two, three" system.

Here's Loveless Ruling
The new rule speaks for itself.

WILL HAVE NO MORE INTERRUPTIONS FIRST SEMESTER—AGGIE MINERS BACK

Now that the college is running again and the students are down to work, there will be no interruption by a holiday on New Years. There are just four weeks, including the present one, until the end of the first semester, so that there is a great deal of hard work to be done by many of the students.

Students will be allowed to attend parties on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. Many fraternities and other organizations are giving New Years' dances.

With the 117 Aggie men back from the coal mines, the college should run smoothly until the close of the first semester. There will be two days for registration for the second semester, school starting again on noon of the third day.

"If the server wins the first point, the score is called 'one in.' If the receiver wins the first point the score is called 'one out.' If each player wins one point the score is called 'one all,' if the server wins the next point the score is called 'two in.'"

"If the receiver wins the next point it is called 'one, two.' The scoring is continued in this manner until either player has won four points. The game then is called for the player until the other player has scored three points; when the score is called 'four, three' or 'three, four,' as the case may be, and the game is then scored for the player who first thereafter gains a lead of two points.

Hazy wording of the old foot fault ruling also has been cleared up in a substitute clause which provides that the server must keep both feet back of the line until the racquet strikes the ball.

Radical revision also has been made in the method of handicapping. A simple table replaces the elaborate computations that have been required for the handicaps of the past.

FIRST GAME IS ON JANUARY 16

Aggie Squad Has Been Practicing—Freshmen Have Good Material
This Year and Are Bucking
Varsity Strong

With the opening of school again basket ball practice has been taken up with renewed vigor. The first conference game will be played here with Grinnell January 16 and 17.

This will be the first time for the Aggies to play Grinnell. That school is reported to have a strong basketball team. This promises to be a big year for the Aggies in basketball. They play sixteen games, and ten of them will be at Manhattan.

The team has been practicing daily since the close of the foot ball season, and has been scrimmaging with the freshman squad. There is an unusually strong bunch of freshmen out for the game, and they will give the varsity some good practice between now and January 16.

TWO SHORT COURSES TO BE GIVEN FOR TWENTY-FIVE

Only Limited Number Can Enrol in Grain Work

Two short courses have been arranged for by the departments of agricultural economics and milling industry. One is a course in grain marketing, the other is a course in grain elevator accounting. The courses will be given during the month of March and will require from ten days to two weeks time.

The courses were offered to the first 25 people making application. Applications have already been received from more men than can be accommodated in the first class and there is a waiting list of applicants for a repetition of the courses.

Dr. W. M. Jardine, Pres. — I am writing to tell you how much I appreciate the services of the Agricultural students who came to us as volunteer laborers during the coal mining operations at Pittsburg. Too much cannot be said in praise of the wonderful spirit with which they did their work. They encountered the severest obstacles in the way of weather, bad conditions in the mines because of previous neglect of machinery, imperfect living conditions; but they overcame all of these obstacles without a murmur. They showed a spirit of service and self sacrifice as fine and eager as any men may exhibit under emergency. I want you to know that I most deeply appreciate their work. Without the fine spirit with which the volunteers entered upon this work, the success of the effort would have been impossible. With deep obligations to them I remain, Yours sincerely, H. J. ALLEN, Governor.

GIRLS DOWN TO HARD PRACTICE

OVER 150 TRYING OUT FOR BASKETBALL

Freshmen Have 82 Girls Trying for Positions on the Teams—Coach
Is Busy Picking Best Players

Over 150 girls are out for basketball practice this winter. This is a larger number than has ever signed up for the tryouts before.

The freshman class has 82 girls trying for places on the team. More than half of these girls have played on high school teams. The sophomores have 35 out, the juniors 23, and the seniors 11.

Now that the holidays are over practice is to begin in earnest. At the practices the basketball coach is going to watch carefully all the players in order that only the best may be chosen to play on the teams.

In a couple of weeks the teams will be chosen and the game schedule arranged.

The time for practices are as follows: freshmen, Friday evening at five o'clock; sophomores, Tuesday evening; junior and seniors, Friday evening.

"THE SHOVEL" WILL MAKE ITS APPEARANCE ON HILL

Coal Miners Prove that They Can Do
Two Things at Once

Have you seen "The Shovel?" No? Then open your eyes wide, brother, for on Wednesday morning the campus will be covered with the most attractive little green "shovels" you ever saw, heard, read, experienced—or most anything else you care to name the action which accompanies the idea.

It is the result of the labors of the literary sharks of the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity and is proof of the fact that men can do two things at once, namely mine coal and produce a little bit of everything that is snappy and interesting.

Get hold of a "Shovel" tomorrow and show your "colors" by having it with you all day. The "Shovel" is to be on sale Wednesday and the proceeds will be used for defraying the expenses of publishing the paper.

OLD CLOTHES REDUCE H. C. L.

In dear old "Lunnon" there has originated a movement to beat that pestiferous pest, H. C. Living, by glorifying the wearing of patched trousers and repeatedly half-soled shoes. Even frayed collars, cuffs, and pant legs are sought to be made marks of honor and respect. The laundryman figures in the movement. He is said to be charging five cents for washing and ironing an ordinary stiff muslin collar. Think of it! You used to be able to buy that kind of a collar for ten cents. Take notice K. S. A. C. students!

Prayed pantlegs do not scratch one's legs; the shoes and stockings prevent such a catastrophe. Wearing a frayed collar, however, is much like surrounding one's swanlike throat with a length of best quality barbed wire and because of this discomfort it is not to be assumed that the wearing of frayed collars will ever become as popular as the wearing of patched pantaloons may be.

But the Old Clothes clubs are not going to permit the laundryman to get by unscathed. They will get him and his five cent laundry fee in another way. Members will wear either the soft collars which have become very popular in recent years and which ma, wifey, or the family laundress can wash as easily as she can a sock, or they will turn to the collar stiffened with pyroxylin which they can wipe clean themselves with a piece of wet cloth.

It is to be hoped that the Old Clothes clubs will not drive all the deserving dealers and laundrymen out of business, for they too must live. However, in a situation such as now confronts us, people must save the living costs wherever they can. The dealer and the laundryman must take care of themselves as best they can by finding some one else at whose expense they in turn may cut expenses or by increasing the family wet wash business thus helping to do away with the pestiferous "wash-lady" who is now demanding everything but the kitchen stove for a day's work.

Good is bound to come out of the movement, for as the circle widens and more trades are affected by the economies, prices generally may be forced down and everybody more or less equally benefited in the end.

PUNCHES WILL ENLIVEN GAMES

BOXING BOUTS TO BE STAGED AT BASKETBALL CONTESTS

Some Real Knockouts Will Be Made Too — Captain Davidson Asks That Boxers Be Awarded Some Form of Insignia

Real boxing matches with real knockouts are to be staged between periods of basketball games this year. Captain Davidson, who has charge of the boxing classes, will have several fighters on the floor for the first game in January.

There are over 100 men taking boxing. Captain Davidson has picked his men so that two good men will be put up against each other. Every man is given a good physical examination so that there is no danger of anyone being seriously injured.

But there will be some real k. o's. In fact someone is knocked out nearly every day in the boxing classes.

These fights will carry over the expense between games at the basketball contests. Captain Davidson has asked that the athletic board award some form of insignia for the men who are best in the punching game.

Why Are They Coming—To Learn To Run Daddy's Farm

"I'm going to go on Dad's farm next spring and I want to learn a little something about scientific farming before I start," writes the prospective short course student to H. L. Durham, assistant to Dean Farrel of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

These young fellows are, for the greater part, well in their twenties, and are coming several hundred strong to enrol for the eight weeks' agricultural short course, beginning January 5, and ending February 28.

The men in the four-year course go out as research men, instructors, or as heads of experiment stations, or county agents. Few of them are looking forward to actually running a farm of their own.

On the other hand the short course men are of that class who own their farms and operate them. They are determined to dignify farming by placing it more firmly upon a scientific basis.

It is the men who will accomplish these results, the college wants and is anxious to induce to enrol in the short courses offered. There is plenty of room for the man who is going to run Dad's farm, and the place for him during the coming eight weeks is in the agricultural college. The course closes February 28, in time that he may heed the first call of spring and be ready on the job to begin farming the first day of March.

DEAR OLD HEN

Dear Jack: Your letter last week was sure appreciated by the community at large and that is no joke. I reckon I better tell you about it. You know Jack, there was a big strike at Pittsburg an they quit having church for a while. Now I don't know why they shud quit havin' church on that account but I don't care because I was able to sleep a lot better in bed anyhow. But it seems that these minors got grievances and they're always talkin' about their place in the Sun, an they want it an all that bunk. I don't think anyone elts wants their place so what are they kickin' about? Besides if they're goin' to dig around in a dirty old hole they can't expect the sun to come down an shine in the hole can they? An I see in the papers that they only get $1 and 10 cents a ton for diggin' cole. Ye gods, Dad paid $9 and 75 cents for the last he got an I bet he wood be darn glad if someone would pay him $1 and 10 cents just to go an get it out of a hole, only I gess I woodn't be so glad because I'd probly haf to dig it and heed get the $1 and I might get the 10 cents an the exercise.

But that reminds me Jack I was aimin' to tell you about the community bein' at large which they sure are. Well its this way. Seems as how people all over everyplace are gettin' sympathy for the minors just like last winter when I had the toothache my left ear got sympathy with it and it sure hurt awful but it didn't help it a bit. Only in my case that poor tooth needed some sympathy. But I can't see, Jack, why the mayor here has got any call to get sympathy with the minors way back east in Pittsburg. Anyway he did an now he won't let nobody sell cole to anybody xept his speshal frends. Well you see Jack, we ain't speshal frends of the mayors but we had about 6 tons of cole ever since I shuvel'd it into the seller last Sept. an it was sure hard work.

An there is a lot of other people that ain't speshal frends of the mayor an they been comin' to our hous awful freakwint of late and I bet he ain't goin' to be elected next term because he is gettin' to be about as popular as a skunk at a wedding. Anyway the upshot of the hole thing is that the community that ain't got any cole is at large an they are largely at our hous most of the time. I been thinkin' some of strikin' myself an to quit bildin' the fire but I don't want any place in the Sun all I want is to keep my place in the bed.

I don't gess you hear from your fokes very often, Jack, so I'll have to tell you that your dad and hogs has the mesles an the cholera respectfully an you better not come home after the first semester or you'll haf to bild the fire at your hous if you got any cole which I don't know if you have or not. On your other hand tho, Jack, I guess you better come home as soon as you can safely. Because your girl is been also borrowed by that red headed Jones kid only he didn't borrow a bobbed as hez got a new one an its his. An I askt her for a date thinkin' I could keep her from goin' with this kid so he woodn't get your place on the sofa but she woodn't let me have it an I don't think she shows very good taste. I don't mean that as a sler on you tho Jack. Anyway I bet I don't ask her for another date this wek. an you better come home an tend to your own family troubles. Well Jack, this is all the knews I know. Write to me next wk. sure.—Your old Hen.

OTHER COLLEGES

Professors and instructors in sixteen New York State universities and colleges have organized a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and have issued an invitation to their colleagues to join the organization.

Platinum valued at $10,000 was recently taken from the chemistry building at Missouri university. There were 2,500 grams stolen.

The Iowa State chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, will provide a trophy to be used as an award in connection with the country newspapers short course which will be held at the college some time this winter.

Students at Missouri university are never quite sure as to whether or not their taxi will get them safely home from the dance. The reason is that when Columbia went dry, the drinkers of Columbia shipped liquor in and threw the tell-tale bottles into the street. Hence the broken glass, and hence the numerous punctures in taxi tires.

Increases in salary ranging from $400 to $600 a year have been awarded to teachers in the University of Oklahoma. The raise becomes effective July 1, 1920.

Oil stoves and portable stoves of other types which Kansas university professors had brought to their rooms in order to keep warm during the recent coal shortage, were immediately banished by the superintendent of the grounds and buildings. The superintendent's contention was that as the state carries no insurance on state university buildings the extra fire hazard could not be permitted.

A snow covered, electric lighted tree, carols, sung by members of Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs, all of whom carried lighted torches, and five gaily costumed troubadours gave a festive appearance to the Christmas tree at Iowa State. Yuletide carols were played on the campus chimes, and short talks were given. This was the fourth Christmas celebration to be held on the campus. It was attended by about 400 students who had remained in town for the holidays.

Delta Zeta has been awarded the scholarship cup of the sororities at Ohio State. Chi Omega was awarded second honors.

While Dean Van Zile is being sent a set of instructions on "How to Beat Eggs Fluffily."

PRIZE MANUSCRIPTS WRITTEN FOR QUILL

Twelve K. S. A. C. students were elected to Quill club this year. To gain admittance, one must write an original essay, short story, or something of the kind and it is judged by a board. The following, entitled "Hills," was written by Miss Blanche Lea. She submitted two other articles along with this one:

"HILLS"

It was almost noon. The day was warm. And, as I walked along the narrow path leading from the village, I tossed my bonnet off my head to get a breath of fresh air. My path grew steeper and I could see that it led up to a hill. I was tired; so I took a seat upon a stone which was near by, and rested in the shade of a pepper tree. I had traveled half way across the United States to get to this place and then, when I took my first walk into the country, I was confronted by a hill.

After a little while I decided to finish my walk so I left the shady seat and began to climb the steep hill-side. There were many stones and roots in my path and often I stopped to look back. Each time when I turned to face the hill again, I would say to myself, "What is the use,—is it worth the energy that it takes on this hot day?" My steps became slower, my breath shorter; but as the village clock was striking twelve, I reached the top. I turned to the east, and the cool breeze fanned my face. Suddenly I saw a picture. The little city all green with trees lay before me, and just beyond,

JUST AFTER CHRISTMAS

Aggie professor to student's father: "That son of yours is doing some fine work in the college. You want to keep a good watch on him."
Disgusted father: "Yes, I bought him an Elgin for Christmas and he has pawned it already. Now he's making a New Year's resolution never to do it again."

the great blue ocean made a background for the town.

An hour before, I had been down there on those streets. I had been one of the busy travelers; but now I was looking upon the whole scene, as if it were yesterday, or last year; and seeing what I could not have seen from the valley.

I watched the people as they hurried here and there about their work. A little fishing-boat came in to the bay. I saw the man unload his nets, then I said to myself, "There is one man at least, who has no hills to climb." But it was only a little while afterward that he left his boat, and walked along the shore a short distance. Then he began to climb the path that I had found. Presently, he turned to the left, and in a few more minutes was near a little cottage. I heard him laugh, for down the walk ran a happy child. He climbed the hill; but I believe he was repaid.

I came back to the valley more satisfied than I had left it; yet today there is a hill.

A few months ago, I arrived in Manhattan. After a hasty breakfast, I grabbed up an arm full of books and hurried off to school, only to find upon entering the campus that there was a hill to climb before reaching the college.

And so it has been through all my life. For the most part I am happy, but all along the way, there is a parting of the ways; and every few miles there is a turning, and at every turning, there is a decision to be made. Every decision is a hill.

When I was in high school, I asked myself the question, "What is to be my life work?" It was then I believe that I started up the hill. After several years, I am still asking myself the same question. I do not know that I am any farther up the hill than I was then. Some lines of work I have eliminated; but the road does not become easier, and with the years the load of responsibilities becomes heavier.

Sometimes I think I see the poet's way-side cross that "points to the span and bridges the waters safely for man." Then the next instant there is a wall, with no opening before me.

This has been my one problem. I care not what the work may be if it is right. I want to find my place and fill it. Today I dare not turn back from the way that I have started. I can only "... lift mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help."

I. E. Taylor, '13, has resigned his position as assistant drainage engineer at the college and will go to Beloit as resident engineer on Federal Aid Road Project No. 1. This project consists in the construction of 11½ miles of hard surfaced roads in Mitchell county.

"I save two to two and one-half hours daily on a 22-mile milk route with Goodyear Cord Pneumatic Truck Tires and find milk travels in better condition than in my solid-tired trucks. Three teams would be required to do the same work done by the pneumatic-tired truck."—Frank Leibel, Farmer, Newbrighton, Minn.

MANY farmers, like the one quoted above, know that a pneumatic-tired truck saves much time, drudgery and expense.

They know that this is a very valuable saving in these days of high labor costs and when markets must be reached more promptly than ever.

For pneumatic tires free a motor truck from the handicaps imposed by solid tires; they give it utmost traction and cushioning for all-round utility.

Rural users of Goodyear Cord Pneumatic Truck Tires load in the fields, reduce market-hauls by hours and get top prices for perishables and livestock, sometimes injured by slower, harder transport.

By helping other power-driven farm machinery to work to capacity, Goodyear-Cord-equipped trucks enable farmers to secure the full benefit of motorization.

While pioneering the development of pneumatic truck tires Goodyear has widely investigated the benefits secured by farmers employing them as above.

Consequently, further information concerning the use of pneumatic-tired trucks on farms may be obtained from The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, at Akron, Ohio.

MAJOR - GENERAL HARBORD GIVEN BANQUET BY SCHOOL

Graduated in 1886 — Joined Army Shortly Afterwards as Private and Climbed to One of Highest Positions Possible

In terms that indicated that it was "a grand and glorious feeling" to come back to K. S. A. C. after such a long absence, Major General James G. Harbord expressed his appreciation for the privilege that was his in visiting his home town and Alma Mater during the Christmas vacation. Major General Harbord spent the Christmas holiday week with his mother and sister, Mrs. Effie Harbord and Mrs. Martha Foreman.

Liked His Visit

"It has been wonderful to be here," said General Harbord. "For this visit has renewed the precious memories I have carried all these years. I am glad to see K. S. A. C. standing out in all things worth while and I am proud of the record made by the school during the war."

General Harbord was a graduate of the class of 1886 and shortly after the completion of his work here he enlisted in the army as a private. Years of faithful service and ability have brought him to the high place which he now fills, a leader of men in one of the greatest needs the country has ever experienced. His old associates at the agricultural school were happy to find in his return to Manhattan, "the same old Jim," and they, in their reminiscing together brought to light many of the college day pranks which prove to any of the doubtful that boys were boys even in the good old days when major generals were in the making.

Gave Banquet

At the banquet given by the college in honor of General Harbord President W. M. Jardine spoke representing the student body and expressed the disappointment that would be experienced by them upon their return when they would be informed that it was impossible for General Harbord to extend his visit in Manhattan.

VALLEY FIGHT FOR ORATORY WILL BE HELD

INTERCOLLEGIATE CONTEST TO BE STAGED IN MARCH

JARDINE GIVES $50 PRIZE

Five Colleges Will Be Represented in the Missouri Valley Oratorical Contest — K.S.A.C. Tryouts This Month

The Missouri Valley intercollegiate oratorical contest will be held this year. Dr. J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, wants students to begin working for it immediately.

President Jardine is doing his utmost to obtain a $50 cash scholarship for the student who represents the Kansas State Agricultural college in this contest. This is done with the idea of placing intercollegiate oratory on a better standing among college activities.

The contest, which will include K.S.A.C., Drake, Nebraska, Missouri, and Washington, will be held sometime in March. The tryouts to select the K.S.A.C. representative will be the last of January. Every student in college is eligible to this contest, whether a member of any literary society or not. The orations must not exceed 1,700 words. Beyond this there are no other restrictions. The winner in the tryout will receive the $50 scholarship. The winner in the final contest will receive a gold medal, as in former years, and the one placing second will receive a silver medal, the one placing third a bronze medal.

K. S. A. C. has taken third place in these contests twice and was prepared to enter last year had there been a final contest. Miss Mabel Bentley was the representative.

"The orations used tend towards the informal type and make for a very splendid but practical style in oratory," said Doctor Emerson, "and I am very anxious that the students of this college avail themselves of this opportunity for development."

SWIMMING IS NEW CONTEST

GIRLS WILL SWIM FOR HIGH HONORS NOW

First Time in History of College that Class Swimming Contests of Any Kind Have Been Held

Tryouts, for class swimming teams, in the form of swimming meets will be held in the girls' gymnasium, about the middle of January.

This is the first time in the history of the college that swimming teams representing each class have been planned. Any girl is eligible to tryout for the team if she can plunge, swim using the back, breast, or crawl stroke, or dive.

The pool will be open for practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays the eighth hour.

Fifty Woman's Athletic association points will be awarded to each girl on the teams.

"I Feel Fit As A Fiddle For Anything To Come"

It was midnight on New Year's eve when the old year of 1919 was giving way to the new 1920, the time at which all animals and machinery are given the gift of speech for ten minutes, that a low grumble was heard in the auto mechanics department.

"To think that I will soon be running and will feel the cool lubricating oil running over my bearings again as I roll over the dusty roads around Manhattan with my owner," The Cadillac was speaking to the entire assemblage of old cars that were being overhauled. "I have had a varied experience in my three years of life. When I first was unloaded at Kansas City I was very proud of my elegant limousine body with its plush upholstery and the tiny vase for flowers. I was sold to a man in Junction City who used to show me off to all the neighbors every nice day.

"Then came the war and my owner left for France and his patriotic wife donated me to the ambulance service. My limousine body was removed and a heavy ambulance body substituted and I was driven hard and fast over rough roads for two years with very little care and at the end of the war I had gone to pieces and so was sold to a second hand man. After a few weeks there I was purchased by the head instructor in auto mechanics for instructional purposes. Now I am all overhauled and rebuilt into a speedster by one of the army vocational boys who was wounded in France. I will soon be on the 'roaring road' and you can depend upon it I will give my new owner all of the speed that he will want because all of my bearings, pistons and in fact all of my insides have been rebuilt and I feel fit as a fiddle for anything to come. I will be—"

But the ten minutes were up and the big speedster settled back into silence for another year.

BAND CONCERTS WILL BE GIVEN

AGGIE BAND IS ONE OF BIGGEST ASSETS OF COLLEGE

Five Numbers Will Be Given, Offering All Jazz Music But Keeping Several Semi-Popular Pieces

Among the most interesting of the year's musical programs will be the series of four band concerts which the college band is planning for this winter. The first concert will be given January 10, the second will be given February 20, and the remaining two in March.

Semi-Popular Numbers
A program of unusual interest has been made up for the first number. The numbers are not jazz but are of the semi-popular, semi-classical variety such as Niv's "Narcissus," "Bady Parade" by Pryor, "Fantasia" from Carmen, and selections from "The Only Girl."

The K. S. A. C. band is one of the greatest assets of the college. Our band is recognized as one of the best in the country. This was shown at the outbreak of the war when the Aggie band was one of the few bands chosen for patriotic duty.

The money derived from the four concerts will be used in purchasing music and instruments for the band. At present the band is in great need of additional funds, and will be dependent on the proceeds of the first concert to purchase the music for the second.

Lost, Strayed Or Stolen—One Good Coach—Big Reward

Lost, one good coach. If found please return to Coach Z. G. Clevenger at the athletic office.

Germany Schulz left to spend the holidays at Ft. Wayne, Indiana, and other points in the east. No word as to his whereabouts or his conduct has been received since his departure.

Aggie sleuths have failed to unearth any crime he has committed and are at a loss to know of any reason why he is ashamed to return to K. S. A. C. Some have advanced the theory that he was married, and is on a honeymoon trip.

Still others believe that he has met with foul play and may be stoking a freighter to some far off South Sea island.

Any one having a clue as to where Germany is will be rendering the college a great service by turning it in to the authorities.

Miss Daphne Carey has withdrawn from college on account of eye trouble.

Miss Florence McCall of Salina, spent several days of last week at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Miss Ruth Lambertson and Miss Ruth Garvin were vacation guests of Miss Evelyn Glenn, in Medford, Okla.

AGGIE ROOKIES WILL TRAIN IN SUMMER CAMP

DENVER, SAN FRANCISCO, AND MINNEAPOLIS PROPOSED

AUGUST 1 TO SEPTEMBER 10

Over 700 Aggie R. O. T. C. Men Are Already Making Plans for the Summer Encampment in Western Location

Aggie rookies in the R. O. T. C. will go into a summer encampment from August 1 to September 10. The summer work is entirely voluntary on the part of the men.

Have Fun
Much enjoyment, recreation and general good times are anticipated by the 700 rookies of the Aggie R. O. T. C. when they go into summer camp next August. The usual lecture hour on Tuesday was turned over to a general discussion of summer camps with Colonel Terrell and Captain Davidson leading the discussion. The time decided upon was from the first of August to the tenth of September, thus enabling the students to return to Manhattan in time for the regular college semester.

Will Go West
It is not known definitely yet as to the location of the camp. The military department has given a list of camps from which three to five choices are made. Among the camps named are Presidio, San Francisco; Fort Snelling at Minneapolis, Minn.; Fort Logan, near Denver; Camp Taylor and other eastern camps. The Aggie rookies chose the first three in the order named. It might be added that Camp Funston was on the list but was unanimously voted out of the running for obvious reasons.

A large number of the military students expressed willingness to attend the summer encampment providing it was not to be at Funston.

BASKETBALL IS IN LIMELIGHT

COMPANY A. R. O. T. C. WON TOURNAMENT

Another Basketball Tournament Is Being Held at Y. M. C. A.—Successful Season Ahead for Aggie's

Basketball has stepped into the limelight. The interest shown in the intra-mural games would indicate a successful season for Aggie basketball.

The R. O. T. C. tournament, held before the holidays, was won by company A. The number of close scores, and the few forfeited games indicate the amount of good basketball material at K. S. A. C. this year.

Company A won every game, either by forfeit or by a hard fought victory. Forwards were E. Bradley and M. Bradley; center, Keykendall, guards, Kerr and Kibler.

Another tournament that has attracted considerable interest is being played on the Y. M. C. A. court. Clubs on the hill have organized into two groups. Group one is composed of Co-op, Glenwood, Lone Star, and Elkhart. Group two is composed of the Y. M. C. A., 1018 Laramie, Boomerang, and Miami county. The Elkhart club is leading the tournament in the six games that have been played.

HE LAUGHS BEST WHO LAUGHS LAST—SAYS COLLEGE WETHER

Blue Ribbon Winner Snickers Up His Wool at Judge

Judges are queer things, and a certain sheep at the college barns is rather undecided about what he thinks of certain judges at the International Stock show in Chicago.

The sheep in question is a grade wether, and was entered in the open class. Evidently he was not feeling well, or his head was drooping or something, because the judge for the class did not more than look at him, and zip, down to the bottom of the class.

Maybe sheep get mad, anyhow when this same sheep was entered in the Clay, Robison College Special class, things were different. He made some showing. The judge was different, but when the new judge handed out the ribbons the college wether came out with the blue one firmly attached to his being, and also the title of Champion wether. As if this was not sufficient cause for enjoyment, the college wether had to rub things in, as he not only took first prize but topped the wether that took the Reserve Champion Wether prize for the show.

FIFTY PER ON NEW AIR SLED

AGGIE ENGINEERS MAKE A NEW SNOW MACHINE

Arcoplane Propeller Will Pull Big Sled Over Ground at Rate of 50 Miles an Hour—to Go To Topeka

Oh, for another good snow storm with just a bit of sleet on the top of it! That is the wish of all the members of the auto mechanics short course because they are going to surprise the college with something new. But one of the snooping journalists has discovered their secret so that the world will know now what to expect from the engineers.

"It" is an aeroplane sled that will make fifty miles per hour on snow or ice. The sled has been built in the shops by the shop practice students, a high speed automobile motor has been installed and the wood working department is building the five and one-half foot arcoplane propeller that will pull the sled.

Trial Trip to Topeka
The first trip that the sled will make will be a trial run to Topeka and back with a large banner "telling the world" that it was made at the Kansas State Agricultural college by the students. The machine will be run around the capitol grounds and the "ground aviators" will make a visit to the governor at the state house. A test run around Manhattan will be held as soon as a snow arrives. So you can see why the engineers are watching the sky and hoping for cold weather.

DEBATE TRYOUTS WILL BE HELD NEXT THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Debaters Should Make an Appointment with Professor Burns

The debate tryouts which were to be held December 11 and 12 but were postponed on account of Christmas vacation will be held next Thursday and Friday, January 8 and 9. Professor Burns announced the first of this week.

The tryouts will be held in A-60 from 3 to 6 each day. Each person who wishes to tryout should call at Professor Burns's office, A-66, for an appointment.

Tell Us Where Our Money Goes—for Nobody Ever Knows

"That's where my money goes To buy my babies' clothes." The Beta's no longer hum this old tune. For where their money goes is a mystery even to the boys themselves.

When sixty dollars elopes with a blue silk shirt in the middle of the night and doesn't return, even the Betas began to sing "Oh where our money goes, nobody ever knows."

But when during the next night thirty dollars and a pink silk shirt steal mysteriously out of the second story without giving even a day's notice, the owners are truly puzzled.

In order to prevent similar midnight elopements the Beta freshmen are going to take turns doing midnight guard duty.

Of course it is possible that the silver dollars and the rainbow shirts were chartered by some competent light fingered individual of uncertain origin. If this is the case, whether it be a man or woman, the next time they call at the Beta house they will be heartily welcomed with a shower of hard lead.

HAVE HEAVY SCHEDULE IN BASKETBALL

TEN VALLEY GAMES TO BE PLAYED BY AGGIES

THE FIRST GAME JANUARY 16

May Arrange Game with Camp Funston Team for Sometime in the Near Future—Freshman Squad Good

This year's basketball schedule calls for ten Missouri Valley games. This is the heaviest schedule ever attempted at K. S. A. C. but the showing that Aggie teams have made in the past and the material at hand this year has justified the schedule.

Grinnell and Oklahoma are two teams not often seen on the Aggie court. O. U. only recently being admitted to the conference. Coach Z. G. Clevenger says "a game with Camp Funston will be arranged soon—possibly next week."

12 Men for Varsity

Twelve men are out for the Varsity. More men are expected to be out soon and competition for places on the team will be keen. Fullington and Knostman are out of town but the remainder of the squad have been having stiff workouts with the fast freshman aggregation, coached by Herschel Scott. Chalk talks have been on the schedule this week too and the work of whipping the team into shape for its heavy schedule has begun in earnest.

Buy a Ticket

Season tickets will go on sale Monday. The "K" fraternity will have charge of the ticket sale. The old price of $2.50 holds good on tickets this year. With ten Valley games, a possible track meet, and several non-conference games, a better bargain could not be asked for. The Aggies have always been leaders in Missouri Valley basketball and every game will be a real exhibition. Any "K" man can supply your wants or tickets can be secured at the Coach's office.

Herschel Scott has a great aggregation of freshman basketball with three All-state high school men appearing in the lineup. Most any evening and exciting game between the Varsity and freshmen can be seen in the gym.

The Schedule

The Aggie basketball schedule: January 16 and 17, Grinnell at Manhattan.

January 23 and 24, O. U. at Manhattan.

January 30 and 31, M. U. at Columbia.

February 6 and 7, K. U. at Manhattan.

February 13 and 14, Ames at Manhattan.

February 19, Phillips at Enid.

February 20 and 21, O. U. at Norman.

February 25 and 26, K. U. at Lawrence.

March 4 and 5, M. U. at Manhattan.

Another will be played either on the M. U. or K. U. trip.

Faculty Leap Year Party.

One of the prettiest dancing parties ever held on the campus was given in the recreation hall New Year's eve by some of the unmarried women of the faculty. The dance, which was formal, was in the nature of a Leap Year party, the hostesses even going so far as calling for their dates in taxis and sending them buttonhole bouquets.

The hall was decorated in Japanese style. A large Japanese parasol filled each corner of the room and the Japanese effect was carried out in the color combination and in the decoration of the windows, pillars, and lights. Wheeler's four piece orchestra furnished music for the dancers.

As the hour of twelve approached, streamers, whistles and other reminders of the approaching new year were given to the guests. Promptly at twelve the lights were turned out, the chimes sounded the New Year, and the guests celebrated with whistles, bells, and other noise making contrivances.

Punch was served during the evening, and at 12:30 a luncheon of cake, ice cream, and coffee was served. The catering was done by Mr. Kittell, the girls of the Iota Psi sorority assisting in the serving. The luncheon was served at dinet tables which were decorated with pink candles and ferns. Mrs. Fishback chaperoned.

The hostesses were Miss Florence Helzer, Miss Marian Williams, Miss Vera McCoy, Miss Edith Bond, Miss Grace Hesse, Miss Winifred Bartholf, Miss Josephine Perry, Miss Dora Otto, Miss Mary McDonald, Miss Alice Lloyd Jones, Miss Mary Wooster, Miss Elizabeth Rothermel, Miss Ruth Sankey, Miss Marie Headrick, Miss Vina Brazelton, Miss Ethel Ling, Miss Mabel Leffler, Miss Edith Willman, Miss Izil Polson, Miss Corey, Miss Avis Blain, and Miss Helen Hennen.

The guests were Mr. Williams, Mr. Marshall Wilder, Prof. N. A. Crawford, Prof. O. H. Burns, Prof. R. W. Conover, Dr. N. D. Harwood, Mr. O. Scott, Doctor Case, Prof. Thomsen, Prof. Arthur Peine, Mr. C. E. Auel, Mr. Hile Rannels, Mr. Roberts, Doctor Frick, Mr. Munson, Mr. Atkeson, Mr. Ambrose Johnston, Mr. Hal Harlan, Mr. Bellis, Mr. De Rose, Dr. J. G. Emerson, Prof. C. D. Christoph, and Captain Robinson. Special guests included Prof. and Mrs. H. W. Davis, Prof. and Mrs. Z. G. Clevenger, Prof. and Mrs. J. P. Calderwood, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Cave, Mrs. W. M. Jardine, Prof. and Mrs. Cochel, and Dean J. T. Willard.

WILL BEAUTIFY AGGIE ATHLETIC FIELD NEXT

Trees Will Be Grown Along North Side

A new entrance decorated with trees and flowering shrubs is being planned for the college athletic field.

Approximately 50 red cedars, 50 pin oaks, and a few cottonwood, maples, and elms have been planted along the ditch on the north side of the athletic field. The ditch has been cleaned out considerably and more work will be done there next year.

The entrance has been decorated with arbor vitae and a few flowering shrubs. However, the work can not be completed until the athletic department decides on the final plan for the entrance. A few arbor vitae have been placed around the approach to the concrete bridge northeast of the field.

George Vander Veen resigned his position in the chemical experiment station of this college to take up chemical work in Riverdale, near Chicago.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1920

WRITTEN BY THE DIRTY
NINE AT ONE OLD MINE

Aggies Are Miners as Well as Noted Poets

Here is a poem that was sent to the Collegian by the "Dirty Nine" of the Reliance Mine near Pittsburg. While the coal war is over and the boys are back in school, the poem is still readable:

In pensive mood on an army cot
I sit and try to muse.
I count my blessings, which are not,
But I haven't got the blues.

For haven't we a monkey stove
Which smokes to beat the band,
And when we crawl in bed at night,
We find a quart of sand.

Now whether we take Ag or Vet,
Or hope to engineer,
When it comes to pick or shovel
We are devils, never fear.

"Pat" Cleveland may have been a gob,
You'd o'ter see him sail a pump,
As he sits like a chicken with the pip,
In the rain stop of the dump.

"Striker" Bailord may sling hash,
For proof go ask George Scheu,
But on the steam hoist, he's a whang,
Why 'Cause there's naught to do!

"Pretty" Constable, our ladies' man
Writes letters by the score,
When'er he thinks of another girl,
He runs and writes one more.

Dale Carmean has that winning way,
But on the end of a Stillson wrench
At a dirty job of pipe fitting,
He can swear to beat the French.

"Tubby" Charles, our farmer lad,
Is with worry turning gray.
"Boys," he says, "in the S. A. T. C.
Things didn't go this way."

We're thankful lots for "Mama"
Happ,

He tends our every need,
From fixing fires to loaning soap.
Which a blessing is, indeed!

Vernon Ellsworth may a fireman be,
But on a rainy day,
He says, "The boss can't bulldoze me!"
And in our tent he'll stay.

"Louie" Deal, a freshman bold,
With skull cap and rubber boots,
May not look much for speed but watch
When that noon whistle toots.

"Scrubby" Turner may or may not be
A bold, bad miner man.
But you'll see he is no poet
If once these lines you'll scan.

We all have whiskers on our chins,
There's coal dust back of every ear.
But don't they have to have the coal
To keep up school this year?

So when you sit in some dry class
Or dance in Johnny's hall,
Don't forget these would-be miners
May all be back next fall.

P. S.—And we hope a whole lot sooner. Coal—dirtily yours, The Dirty Nine.

AGGIE KNOCKOUTS

K. S. A. C. Buds
We are straight from the towns and the country;
We come from our homes far and near.
We echo the voice of the woodland;
We come like a fleet footed deer.
We come to the halls of vast learning.
We enter wideeyed at the door,
We struggle and grasp at the door case,
To keep from falling down flat on the floor.
We gaze on with unabashed wonder.
We stroke the bird's wonderful wings.
We feel of the bears and the lions;
The museum is full of such things.
We hurry and scurry and flutter.
We rush like we've ne'er rushed before.
We reach the old class room all breathless
The professor is closing the door.
We can't be composed and sedate like,
We're new to the run of the cogs;
But really we're not very stupid
Though some of us look like dense logs.
We admire the august, dignified seniors,
So complacent and cool all the time,
They roll o'er the hill like the senators.
If they smiled they'd commit a big crime.
The Juniors laugh when no one is looking—
They try to look brilliant and cool,
To see a junior walking through Main hall,
You would think that he owned the whole school.
The sophs are nothing to speak of.
The air in their heads fairly hurts.
They giggle, they're crabbed and simple,
Their brilliancy comes by small squirts.
They forget that they were once freshmen;
And as green as the hills in mid June.
(There's nothing more pitifully comic Than to see a sophomore trying to spoon.)
Every one laughs and pokes fun at the freshmen,
But I'm sure that you all will agree,
If it were not for the "green, grinning freshmen"
What would become of old K. S. A. C."

Are You One of the 57 Varieties?
"The way of the transgressor is hard"

Quite right it is often said,
We see that the wood alcohol fiends,
Now number 57 in wounded and dead.

The freshman, when his work was done,
Wrote home to father for some MON.
"Dear father, I must pay my dues,
Please send me cash in ones and TUES.

Next day this message home he sped,
"I'm dead in love and want to WED.
She has the cutest lisp for 'Sirs,'
The dimpled darling murmurs 'THURS'."

When father read this, he said,
"My,"
And named the place where bad souls, "FRI."

And then he got his coat and hat

And on his son's affairs he "Sat."

Two little boys knelt down to say their evening prayers. When the older boy began, "Give us this day our daily bread," the younger cried out, "Make it pie, Johnny!"

Professor Rodgers: "How dare you swear before me?"
Student in Journalism: "How in thunder was I to know that you wanted to swear first?"

"Hot Dog, Hot Cakes and Hot Coffee," Lad Says

A student who begins each day with breakfast at a downtown cafe, reports the following incident:

Each morning at approximately six-thirty, there is a captain who comes into the cafe for his hot cakes and coffee in preparation for the military duties of the day. Also at this hour there is a small boy about nine years old who stations himself in the cafe in an effort to sell the "Kansas City Times, morning paper." Now it so happens that every morning the captain buys a paper from the newsboy. One morning, however, the newsie was drowsing in the corner and did not notice the captain until he was clear inside of the door. With a bound the boy was on his feet.

"Hot dog, hello captain," he shouted and rushed with a morning paper to the captain. "Hot dog, hot cakes, and coffee."

For it appears that the captain's nickel was all that was necessary to complete the boy's slowly accumulating breakfast fund and he knew from previous experience that the captain was a sure catch.

'Pears to us that the cheapest thing a man could get into today would be a law suit.

Many calls for men to fill important engineering positions have been received the past month by the engineering division. Openings for men in mechanical, civil, and electrical engineering at salaries ranging around $150 per month have been turned down as they are unable to fill them.

If it doesn't rain pretty soon, many shoes on the campus will have developed the "squeaks" so badly that the noise will interfere with class sessions.

A certain lady writer in a New York magazine speaks of woman as "the recreation of man." She may be right but we still hold that woman was only an after thought.

PRIZE MANUSCRIPTS WRITTEN FOR QUILT

Here is a story that won Leroy E. Robinson a place in Quilt club. This story has been cut down slightly in order to run it in the Collegian:

THE LIGHT

The dark clouds which had been silently but quickly gathering in the west had obscured the sun and had cast a shadow over the little village of La Tournai. Out on the water a sailing vessel was hurrying quickly toward the port which was a few miles distant. The white caps were forming on the dark waters. The gulls were flying swiftly in every direction. It seemed that a storm was only a few hours distant.

Suddenly the clouds parted for an instant and a bright ray of sunshine lighted up the dark water. But it was only for an instant; and then it disappeared.

"Look Monsieur," cried Madame Beanchamp, "The light! The light! Did you see it?"

"Yes," replied her husband, "I saw it, but why do you mention it? Now is a poor time to be thinking of every little ray of sunshine."

There was a note of sadness in his voice. It seemed that some weighty matter was oppressing him.

"Oh yes, Monsieur, now is a good time to notice the light for there is a saying among my people that whoever sees a ray of light break through the clouds in the afternoon will have good luck for the rest of the day."

Monsieur Beanchamp laughed softly. "You people of Lorraine have such peculiar superstitions and such queer legends. We of the land of Normandy do not regard the signs as of any significance."

"Your people have superstitions just the same as we do in Lorraine, Monsieur," replied the lady, "but you have given them no heed. You have been so busy with your music that you have forgotten your boyhood days. You think in terms of Mozart and Beethoven. You dream only of great audiences held spellbound by your wonderful performing. But—I have not forgotten, Monsieur, when I am not singing I am studying the beauties of nature."

"That sounds just like you, Marie—always talking about the beautiful things in nature. As for myself I can see nothing but weeds and grasses and dark clouds everywhere. Over my life there is always that black oppressive cloud. I am constantly thinking of our little Pearl, our dear little Pearl."

"Ah yes, Monsieur," answered Madame Beanchamp. "You grieve, but so do I. Not a day passes but that I think of our little darling. It is harder for me than it is for you."

"My dear wife," replied the man gravely, "You and your optimism have been a wonderful help to me. Yet I cannot forget that on these very shores occurred the shipwreck which sent to the bottom of the ocean our only child, our little Pearl. And it was all my fault—all my fault."

His voice broke and tears came to the eyes of his beautiful wife. The two walked on in silence giving no heed to the approaching storm. The white caps were still breaking. The sailing vessel had almost reached the port. The gulls had all disappeared.

Monsieur and Madame Beanchamp, both noted musicians, were strolling along the sand near the little village of Tournai on the northern part of the coast of Belgium. There were no harbors near this place and the little village had witnessed many a shipwreck near its shores. Ten years before had occurred one of the most pathetic wrecks of all. A large steamer bound from London to St. Petersburg had been caught in a storm and grounded upon the shore. More than a thousand persons had lost their lives in that wreck. On the fated ship was the little daughter of the musicians, together with the ward who was caring for her. Both were reported missing after the wreck. The body of the ward was found but no trace of the two year old child could be gained.

The baby Pearl had not been a welcome addition to the Beanchamp household. The man and wife were both entering upon a career of music and they had no time for domestic affairs. The care of the child had been given over to a nurse and the parents had paid but little heed to the baby's welfare. When the child was two years old it was sent to St. Petersburg under the care of the nurse. The parents who had been touring England were soon to make a trip to Russia and in order to avoid any annoyance the child was sent ahead. But the ship on which the little one was sailing, never reached port. It was wrecked near Tournai and the child had gone down with the boat.

Once more the two were walking side by side on the sand talking about their little Pearl. They did not seem to notice that the storm seemed to be drawing nearer. Presently, however, Monsieur Beanchamp suggested that it would be well to turn back to the village and seek shelter. Just as they were turning to retrace their steps, Madame placed her hand upon her husband's shoulder.

"Listen," she said, "Where is that music coming from? Surely you are superstitious enough to wonder that the sweet tones of the violin should be heard away out here a mile from the village. It must be that the tones are coming from that fisherman's hut, let us stroll over that way and find out."

"Why should we waste our time, Marie?" he answered. "We must return to the village before the storm breaks."

But his wife was already on her way toward the little house. She seemed enchanted by the music. To her it was nothing short of a marvel that such sweet music should be heard in this lonely spot.

"Come, Monsieur," she beckoned, "If the rain begins we can remain at this fisherman's hut. I must find out why such rare music is heard in such a lonely spot."

Monsieur Beanchamp followed. When they reached the hut he rapped on the door. The music ceased and an old, sun-burned fisherman appeared at the door.

"Were you playing, my good man?" asked Monsieur Beanchamp. "My wife heard the violin and she desires to know who it is that makes such beautiful music. We are both musicians. Perhaps you have heard of the Beanchamps."

"Yes, Monsieur, I have heard of you," answered the fisherman, "But as for the music, I was not playing. My daughter here was doing the playing. Come in and I will have her show you how she plays."

"Daughter," began the fisherman, "These people are musicians and they would like to hear you play."

The child hung her head. "I cannot play well enough to play for musicians."

"Please do, dear," said the lady. "I love to hear the music of children. Their music is so much different."

The child began to play the soft sweet strains of the rosary. Monsieur bowed his head. Madame was soon weeping openly. The old fisherman's eyes were soon stained with tears. The darkness, the gloom and the cloud blended with the music and turned the thoughts of the musicians, back to their terrible sadness. It seemed that they could not escape it even in a fisherman's hut.

Madame covered her eyes with her handkerchief and wept. Monsieur Beanchamp spoke to the fisherman. "My wife is known to the public as the Lady of Sadness. She grieves for her baby which was lost in a shipwreck. The awful tragedy oppresses both of us. There is nothing in life for me since the little one left us. I sometimes feel that I cannot bear it. I want to hurl myself into the water and end the heartache, the sorrow, the awful oppressive sadness. But each year it grows worse and I live on to endure my punishment. I was responsible and I must suffer."

"Monsieur," said the fisherman, "Your sadness moves me to tell you something that I vowed I would tell none. Above all, the tears of your wife unnerve me. But Monsieur, Monsieur," he cried springing to his feet. "Do you not recognize me? Do you not recognize Pierre who was once your friend? Ah yes, Monsieur," His voice grew bitter. "You remember now. I was in trouble and you would not help me. You could have kept them from sending me to the prison, but you were young and you thought it would make no difference. But I vowed revenge and I have had revenge. I was not in the prison long. I escaped and became a poor fisherman. But revenge; I have had my revenge. For ten years I have watched you labor under a great sadness. I have seen your beautiful wife become marked with the lines of care. I have gloried in my revenge." Then his voice grew softer. "But now, Monsieur, I am becoming an old man. I no longer thirst for revenge. My heart is becoming softer. I must show you."

He hastened into the next room and returned with a little velvet cloak. He held it before the eyes of the astonished musicians. On the lining was embroidered these letters "Pearl Beanchamp."

In the west the sun was shining brightly. The sailing vessel was venturing out into the sea. The gulls were floating lightly in the air. The white caps had disappeared and the storm had broken away.

Electricity— the Master Force in Manufacturing

THE marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made pleasant by his command of this magic power.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical throughout—is a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horsepower of driving energy is brought by three small wires from a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, sifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from scrubbing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous—superhuman—made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electric generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Secondly, through many years of active co-operation with hundreds of manufacturers, it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and other distributing channels, its products are made accessible to all.

Eight Sections Compete

The eight sections of Dr. J. G. Emerson's extemporaneous speech classes, consisting largely of engineering students, are holding a series of elimination try-outs to choose the best speaker from the twenty people enrolled in each section.

These eight people will meet in a final contest to be held during examination week at the close of the semester.

"This final contest will be an exceptional one," says Dr. J. G. Emerson, "for the winners in the semi-finals will have to win over an unusually strong amount of talent. There are 275 students taking extemporaneous speech and among them are many strong speakers."

Have More Express on

"The public speaking department will be able to offer more work in expression next semester," says Dr. J. G. Emerson of the public speaking department.

"There were 275 students enrolled in extemporaneous speaking alone this fall, and it was impossible to pression. But next semester both public speaking I and II will be taught by Mrs. Bowman whose main work has been in that field."

These are elective courses. People desiring work in extemporaneous speech should not enroll in these courses, as they are work in oral interpretation and not in plain, practical public speaking.

ARTICLES WRITTEN FOR THE SCANDALL COLLEGIANPublishes Its Items in the Student Paper for Present

The Scandal Collegian has suspended publication for the present. But in order to keep the news that the people like, the Scandal Collegian will publish its news in the Kansas State Collegian occasionally. Here are some items:

Professor Davis "showed off" at the faculty entertainment in Anderson by doing the shimmy.

We understand that Miss Izil Polson was dancing with Professor Davis a great deal during the evening and today she said, "I had the time of my life last night."

And it's a fact that the faculty people stayed at the dance until 3 a. m.

But then you never can tell what teaching will do to a person's mind. "Yea brother," as Dr. J. R. Macarthur would say in his Bible English class.

Miss Helzer is given credit for the beautiful decorations in the social center room. Wonder how she got those lights all tied up?

Which reminds us that Coach Clevenger, while standing on the mantel to fix some falling decorations, was arrested by his wife with, "Hey, there Clev. Get down there. You don't have enough life insurance to risk your neck that way."

What has become of Germany Schultz? He left for Michigan during the holidays and hasn't returned. Surely, he isn't trying to escape his coming marriage.

Sue Carmody has finally been admitted to the Hamilton Literary society.

Professor Lovejoy has returned from New York. He brought his new cream colored spats with him.

The Pines eat shop has had a run on business since Dean Thompson committed her unforgivable breach of etiquette.

Miss Ima Tattletell says it's time to go to press so watch the next Collegian for more scandal.

Hot Chocolate

Hot Coffee, hot milk. College Canteen. 11

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goble of Riley, announce the birth of a daughter, Margaret Jane, December 25. Both Mr. and Mrs. Goble are graduates of the college.

Alpha Theta Chi Dance

The first fraternity dance to be given in the new student center rooms in Anderson hall was that of the Alpha Theta Chi which was an affair of general social interest on New Year's night. With the beautiful dancing room transformed into a veritable bower of springtime by the use of dainty blossoms, cut ferns and palms, the party will be listed as one of the loveliest of the affairs given on the campus this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. G. Clevenger, Colonel and Mrs. Terrell, and Captain and Mrs. Davidson were the chaperons. E. F. Stalcup, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Spink, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Newman, and Gabe Sellers were the special guests of honor together with representatives from the sororities and fraternities on the hill.

Mr. Shaw, former K. S. A. C. student visited the college last week end.

Paul Beaty, former star track man of the college, will work at the Neale dairy.

Home made pies, cakes, and doughnuts being served at the College Canteen. 11

C. C. Keys of the materials testing laboratory, will go to Pittsburg Friday to test brick for the road work in Reno county.

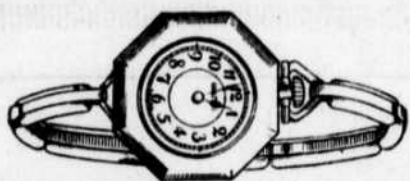

Professor Reid was in Topeka the first of the week attending a hearing before the Public Utilities commission of Kansas.

Several members of the zoology department received cards from Dr. R. K. Nabours, who is in Constantinople, Turkey, studying the wool situation for Funston Brothers Fur company.

Mr. Albert Granshird, graduate in mechanical engineering in '15, has been visiting his parents in Manhattan this week. Mr. Granshird is working in the sales department of the steam turbine division for the Westinghouse Machine company.
